Since coming to the coast deceased had been largely identified with IOOF, and as one of the most familiar figures in the life of the city during the past 20 years he had won golden opinions. For many years he acted as secretary of BC Pioneers' Society. As a pioneer himself he took a keen interest in the society, and his happiest moments were spent in recalling old times with some of his fellow pioneers in the province. Among other tasks in which he engaged while in this city was that of collecting for Christ Church cathedral. Pallbearers: W H Huxtable, P A Babbington, F Davey, A Sherret, R A Anderson, T C Hubbard. Aug 18, 1909 - suggestion to rename Yates to Broadway... James Yates was one of the pioneers of Victoria, having come to this place in 1849, when it was only an HBC post. He was born in Linlithgow, Sct, in 1819. He learned the ship-building trade and came to this country to superintend the bldg of HBC ships. After 18 months' service he asked for a cancellation of his agreement, which was granted, and he thereupon opened a store of his own and engaged in the fur trade in opposition to the great company. He foresaw the future importance of this point, and invested largely in real estate, the street bearing his name being laid out over some of his property, the block at the W end of it belonging to his estate. When representative institutions were granted to BC, he was elected to the 1st legislative council in 1855. He was generally looked upon as a champion of the rights of the settlers so far as they seem antagonistic to the claims of HBC. Mr Yates returned to Sct in 1860 for the purpose of educating his family. Two yrs later he returned to Victoria to settle up his affairs, returning to Sct in 1864, where he died in Feb, 1900, aged 81.

Sep 1, 1909 - For 19 yrs a stranger to the whereabouts of her brother, Mrs Anderson, prop of a rooming house on Johnson st, has again come in touch with him under circumstances which smack of the romantic.

Last wk a man, travel-stained and apparently looking for a homelike abode for himself and his 9-yr-old son applied to Mrs Anderson's premises for lodgings. He was accommodated and as he appeared to the usual tourist no particular attention was paid to him. At the dinner table Mrs Anderson thought she recognized a likeness between the guest and some relatives of whom she had long lost trace of. The resemblance was so marked that she could not refrain from questioning the stranger. Inquiries led to further information and before ½ hr had passed it developed that Dr McAtee, registered from Twin Falls, ID, was her brother, was a former res/o Victoria, who nearly 2 decades ago had departed from the city to seek his fortune in the US.... From the raw lad who left here 19 yrs ago comes a duly graduated medical practitioner who has established a home for himself in the east and won reknown in his chosen profession. Dr

return to the east.

Died Sep 3, 1909 at Victoria, BC, Ewen Macdonald, a retired factor of HBC, being in the employ for 48 yrs. He leaves 3 daughters and 5 sons. Another link in the chain which binds the old and new West is severed. Deceased was one of that little band of gentlemen adventurers of HBC who blazed the trail of civilization from the Atlantic to the Pacific and sowed the seeds of commerce and industry, which fructifying, have transformed a vast wilderness into a land of peace and plenty, the home of millions of prosperous people. His life, like that of every officer and servant of the great company, was fraught with vicissitudes, excitement and adventure, and now, having made his last portage, his work well done, he lies peacefully enjoying his well-earned rest. Although not long a res/o Victoria, Mr Macdonald made many friends who will deeply regret the loss of a genial and interesting

Deceased was born 1838 at Glen Quoich, Invernessshire, Sct, where he spent his boyhood. Entering HBC service in 1857, he sailed from Stromness and was stationed at Norway House for several yrs. He afterwards joined the staff in the Swan Rv Dist where he served until his retirement in 1873. He purchased land nr Portage la Prairie, MB, settled down to farming, but the lure of the wilds was in his blood and he again joined the company in 1875, being assigned to the English Rv dist, with hdqts at Isle a La Crosse, where he remained till 1884, when he returned to Norway House, in charge of the dist. In 1889 he was transferred to Lesser Slave Lk, Peace Rv dist. After some yrs there he was sent to Michipecon, Lk Superior. There he had the misfortune to lose his wife, who, died in 1904. She was d/o late Chief Trader Alexander Murray, who established the 1st HBC post in Yukon, at the junction of the Porcupine and Yukon rivers. Mr Macdonald retired finally from the service in 1905 with the rank of Factor. After his retirement he made his home in Pr Albert, SK, for a short time and came to Victoria in 1906, residing here until his death. Funeral of Ewen Macdonald took place at Victoria, BC, Sep 8. Many old time friends attended, among whom were several prominent HBC officials. Pallbearers: J McDougal, George McKenzie, J H Lawson, R George, Charles Stewart, F I Clarke. O 069 E 49

Died September 27, 1909 at East Sooke, BC, Alexander Dawson Donaldson, 70. Deceased was n/o Stirlingshire, SCT, and came to Victoria in 1864, making his way across the plains of the continent by ox team. He is survived by a widow, 2 sons and a daughter. Mr Donaldson was one of the pioneers of BC prospectors and was a goldseeker of the old school, being both mine seeker and assayer.

He was the original locator of the Nootka marble quarries at Nootka Sound, now being worked, of the Howe Sound mines, and other BC mines, and few prospectors knew the coastline better from Victoria to Skagway than did Mr Donaldson. He made prospecting trips, so many that he lost count of them, and returning with his float and samples he did his own assaying, and could talk with a thoroughness that few could on the riches of the various sections of the coast. After many years of prospecting he settled down to farm life at Sooke about 10 years ago, where he lived with his family.

He came as a young man to the US from Scotland, spending some years in Wisconsin. He travelled across the US in the pre-railroad days with an ox-wagon and had many adventures for the days when he migrated to Wisconsin were ready to attack travellers, and when the buffalo herds ran over the prairies. After spending his younger days in there he came to BC in 1864 with the numbers lured here by the news of the Fraser River and northern gold finds and from the time he reached the province until 10 yrs ago he was engaged in gold mining. V/Oct 12, 1909 - A Sigurdur Breidjford, a Victoria carpenter, was instantly killed and his companion, J Myrdal, also of Victoria, seriously injured while hunting cougar at an old disused mining tunnel about 3 mi SW of Penny's, BC.

As far as can be discovered as yet, there must have been some dynamite left in the old tunnel, and this was exploded by a bullet fired by R Beckwith, who accompanied the others on the hunt. The whole front of the tunnel was blown out, Breidjford receiving the full force of the explosion.

The Victoria men were working on a new hotel being built here...hunting, they saw cougar tracks leading into the old tunnel. Beckwith remained at one side of a gulch to watch for the animal while his companions went to within 15' of the entrance. Beckwith saw the cougar coming out and fired. Immediately the front of the tunnel was blown out and Breidjford's body was blown 100' down the mountain. Myrdal was badly cut about the head.

Beckwith assisted Myrdal to Penny's and he was sent to Kamloops hospital. A rig was sent up for the other man's body and it will be shipped to Victoria today. It is thought that the bullet struck some dynamite in the abandoned mine.

Kamloops papers received here give further particulars of the accident. It appears that the 3 men went on a shooting trip. Some little way out of Penny's stn Briedjford and Myrdal separated from Beckwith to make a detour of a hill. Shortly after they separated Beckwith heard a terrific explosion and hastened to ascertain the cause. He was horrified to find that his companions had met with a terrific accident. He first saw the body of Breidjford and realized that he was beyond human aid. He then went to Myrdal, who appeared to be comparatively slightly injured.

Myrdal gave the following account of the accident. He said they came upon a cave and looked into it. He thought he saw a cougar inside, and knelt down to fire at it. Immediately he pulled the trigger there was a terrific explosion and he was knocked down by a shower of rocks. He could give no explanation beyond the suggestion that possibly he had fired into some dynamite stored there for some purpose. At first he was inclined to think that his rifle had exploded.

It is just possible that the dynamite was stored there by the train robbers who passed in that vicinity some time ago. It is known that they had dynamite with them

The 5th Reg CGA will parade at the drill hall in review order, with caps, for the purpose of attending the funeral of late Cpl Ernest Briedjford. Orders were issued yesterday by Maj A W Currie, officer commanding the 5th Reg CGA, for a military funeral who was a valued member of No 2 Co, and this Co will furnish the firing party.

Deceased was n/o Victoria, BC, aged 21, and he was a mem/o Modern Woodmen of America and mem/o the order are requested to attend the funeral.

Oct 14, 11 - Buried with military honors... under command of Curie...the Reg was drawn up nr the waiting gun carriage...the procession moved off, the firing party, with reversed arms, in the lead, followed by the 5th Reg band under Bandmaster Rogers, played, while the regiment, following the flag-draped gun carriage carrying the coffin and the carriages with the mourners, marched reverently at 'slow march'.

Arrival at Ross Bay, and as the casket was lowered into the grave the firing party drawn up close by, fired 3 volleys over the grave, the bugle notes of 'Last Post' sounded - the regiment had given its dead member all the military rites. The ceremony was a most impressive one. R 081 E WQ about the men who relieved the garrison at Lucknow, I might mention one who practically saved the garrison for them to relieve, late Maj R M Sewell, who joined the Volunteer Cavalry after the mutiny of his Regt at Lucknow. Maj Sewell, under orders, manufactured Enfield ammunition out of anything he could lay his hands on to keep the rifles going when the supply of cartridges for them had run out; otherwise they would have had to discard the rifles and use old muskets, which had not half the range or accuracy. For this service he was mentioned in despatches by Sir J Inglis... Others got most of the credit for this, but those who were in the Old Bailey Guard House know who it was that worked from daylight to dark. J Bracken Sewell.

Poem/Dec 12, 1909 - For Another Year, C L Armstrong [about James Moore, 77, oldest miner in BC, who will hit the trail again in search of gold with photo]

Youngster my hair has long been grey,

Youngster, my sight is dim.

My hand is gnarled with the grip of time

But I seek the rainbow's rim.

I've heard the call of the open trail.
Soft and far, but clear
And, tomorrow I go, as I have to go,
To serve for another year.

Youngster, the longing never dies,
Youngster, the heart lives on E'en when the step is weak and slow
And the bloom of youth is gone.
My cheek is pale, my step is slow,
But the long low call I hear.
And tomorrow I go, as I have to go,
To serve for another year.

Youngster, the smell of the pine is good,
The wild hill torrent's roar
Is the sweetest sound a man can hear
Who has heard it oft before.
I've lingered long in the city's din
But the call has reached my ear.
And today I go, as I have to go,
To serve another year.

News/Died Dec 19, 1909 at Victoria, BC, Edward Cody Johnson, an esteemed pioneer of Victoria where he 1st came close upon 52 yrs ago, aged 81. Deceased was n/o Inistogue, Co Waterford, Ire. In 1858 he 1st arrived here, and shortly afterwards sailed on Seabird for Hope, en route to the mines. His experiences were replete with the vicissitudes attendant on the lot of the hardy adventurers of early days. He made little money through mining but won the esteem and affection of everyone with whom he came in contact. At Victoria he 1st took over the management of the Heathorn tannery. Later he was a partner in the business of Johnson and McGill, and subsequently was an efficient supt until his retirement a short time ago. An incident in the career of the deceased was the fact that he not only was the 1st to have his name enrolled as a subscriber to the Colonist, but he actually received the 1st copy to come off the press.

BkHx/Dec 28, 1909, 5 - 60th wedding anniversary of Mr & Mrs Charles Alexander, of Rockabella Garden... are old pioneers and have seen Victoria grow from a tent-covered field and HBC trading post into a beautiful and important city. When they refer to pioneer days they look back with wonder and admiration while they compare the stump-strewn fields of Victoria in 1858 with the lovely streets and parks of the present time. The old couple were residents of St Louis, Missouri, for a long time, where Mr Alexander built and operated a grist mill which he owned for 16 years. Hearing of the gold discoveries in CA, Mr Alexander decided to leave St Louis and try his luck in the diggings. He started with his wife and 2 children and 4 friends and a guide in 1857. They crossed the plains in a prairie schooner drawn by a 5-yoke bullock team by way of Independent Road, Platte River, Sweet Water River, Pacific Springs, Salt Lake road, Humboldt River and many other points too numerous to mention. Many creeks were crossed by means of rafts. During the long, tedious and dangerous journey many times the party encountered hostile Indians who roved in murderous and thieving bands over the country. Finally, when the cattle the party had taken along were all stolen and when many other pieces of personal property had also fallen into the clutches of the red robbers, one of the party,

Mr Hullenback, started out on the trail with a rifle. He killed 22 Indians and buried them in a single grave.

After reaching CA Mr Alexander took up mining, and was engaged in this work for some time. However, the returns were not what he expected, and dissatisfied he left CA on steamer Oregon, Jul 1, 1858. He had turned his eyes toward Victoria, then an infant town unheard of in the outside world except among those whose feet had trodden northern trails. Arrived here Mr Alexander once again pitted himself against nature in a search for the yellow treasure in the Fraser River diggings. In 1861 he met success. At the end of the season he returned to his wife and family in Victoria and worked at his trade as a carpenter, receiving the wage of $6/day [?].

As the settlement began to develop and new residents came in, the Alexander's took up a farm in South Saanich, and there they remained for 33 years. At the end of that time they returned to Victoria and took up their present home, where they have lived for 17 years.

Mr Alexander is now 85 and his good wife is 75. They have raised 12 children, 6 of whom have passed away [29 grandchildren, 4 great-grandchildren]... guest/gift list...

Poem/Jan 2, 1910, sup pg 2 - The Love Lay of the Conscientious Oysterman, by 'Greasepaint'

In a lonely shack out at Esquimalt

Where the nights are chill and the breeze is salt

There lived on a simple and frugal plan

A loving and lovable oysterman,

He loved his work and he loved his home;

He loved the surf and the breakers foam,

And most of all, it joyed him so

To watch the little oysters grow.

From this description you may guess

That his diadem was faithfulness,

And, mark my words, this gay guffon

Was leal to his wards in the big lagoon.

So faithful he to his dredge and punts
He could scarcely eat in the
'R-less' months,
And from conversation he would bar
All words that lacked the letter
'R!'

A pair of boots, and a bugeye boat,
A dredge, a rake and a broken knife,
And a desperate longing for a wife!
He had seen a girl or two ashore
At the Grand or in David Spencer's store,
And one fine day a face flashed past
That fairly lashed him to the mast.

And after that he'd rise at dawn
And start his work - but his heart was gone,
And so in deep despair he laid His rake aside to seek the Maid.
He searched with the same sharp zeal he gave To the fat bivalves in the ocean wave.
And so - Eureka! One fine day
He found the Girl in Victori-a!
With eager heart and mind aflame
He knelt and asked the charmer's name.
And learned with a sudden,
heartsick jar
'Twas Bess - which doesn't contain an 'R!'
He rose and fled, to fall in a swoon
At the door of his shack by the big lagoon,
And there resumed his lonely

With his boat, his boots and his busted knife.
And yet, amid the toil and strife
There renamed that longing for a wife!

And when the evening and the dawn
Of days and months had come and gone,
Again he gazed on eyes so bright
He could not get to sleep at night.
So he met the maid and pressed his suit Offered himself and his wealth to boot
And learned that this enchancing one
Was named 'Barbara Barrington!'

'Hr, Hr, he chuckled as the roll
Of the R? sound enthralled his soul;
R't searching for thy morning star?'
And coyly the lass replied 'I,
R.'
He clasped her close in his arms and said:
'Barbara darling' - then in dread,
He remembered there isn't an
'R' in wed.

With senses stunned and feelings crushed
He dropped the lady's hand and rushed Across the hills and across the dells
And back to his shack and his oyster shells, You'll ask 'why didn't the mutton head Say 'marry me' to the Girl instead?'
And thus you force me to admit

He didn't seem to think of it.
For oystermen, like you and me
Have lim-i-ted capacity.
His mind was satisfied to climb
To one idea at a time!

But when he saw he'd missed a bet
So strong and real was his regret That he cursed his fate and 'gan to think Of disappearing in the drink,
But lack-a-day, and woe betide;
There isn't an 'R' in suicide.
So he laid his pistol on the shelf
And simply lives to kick himself!

Med/Jan 2, 1910 - To editor - if space permits you to print this letter in your Children's Page, I should like the children of Victoria to know of a very pleasing act I witnessed on Xmas day. I have 2 little nieces who have recently arrived from Kent, Eng, and my only daughter in the Isolation Hosp with scarlet fever. On Xmas day I was lonely so Mrs James came with me to visit her 2 little girls and my daughter. Whilst we were talking to them, the gate bell rang. As soon as it was opened by Mr King, an express wagon drove through.
As I looked and saw what I thought at the distance a white covering, I felt there must be
Victoria.

But when the express wagon drove up to the scarlet fever ward, I was much surprised at what I saw. In the wagon were 8 lovely little Xmas trees, all nicely decorated, with a nice little present for each patient, also a nice little note to the matron, saying the fire cracker when lighted, should be watched, as they sometimes burnt. Now these lovely little Xmas trees were presented by Master Frank and Miss Mary Rattenbury, of Oak Bay, and if those 2 kind children could have seen the pleasure it gave to all in that ward, I don't think they could ever forget the sight Mrs James and I witnessed. One little boy, 3 yrs old, from Esquimalt, who was taken to the hospital on Xmas Eve, had been crying for his dada. Oh, how it did soothe the little sad heart to see he had a real Xmas tree all to himself. My 2 little nieces will never forget the kindness of those loving hearts to them on that 1st Christmas in Canada.

Mrs James and myself thank those 2 ministering angels most sincerely, for it was one of the very kindest acts I had witnessed during my 20 yrs in Canada. Mrs Alice Curtis, Blanchard Av.

Jan 4, 1910, 17 - To the old-time Victorians, those whose history goes back to the very early days, the name of Macaulay's Point calls up a host of memories connected with a rugged and eccentric, albeit a good-hearted, old Shetlander, an HBC employee, who occupied the land now designated by his name.

In those days travellers who followed the trail out of Esquimalt crossed from the city near Macaulay's place portaging canoes over the narrow strip. Macaulay found that such travellers left the gate of his place open and allowed his livestock to roam at large. Therefore he set out a sign warning travellers to shut the gate and this sign was more or less of a wonder to all and sundry.

One day, it is said, the Admiral who was stationed at Esquimalt at the time gave a picnic at Sailor's Bay. Macaulay volunteered his services and helped with the water and the general preparations....

USV/Died Jan 6, 1910 at Victoria, BC, George Frederick Giles, 74, n/o Eng. Deceased had come to N America at an early age with his parents and for some years resided in the eastern US. He was in KY during the progress of the US civil war. For the past 25 years he has lived in Victoria, making his summer residence at Shawnigan. Deceased had no family here, but has relations in Vancouver and New Westminster. He was known as one of the oldest and best known hunters, fisherman and woodsmen in this district. He had been working at carriage trimming in the shop of Mable & Co during the winter months. On his last day at work when he quit to go home he remarked to a friend: 'I'll never see Shawnigan lake again', which proved to be true, for he was taken suddenly ill and died. In the old days the station that is now called Strathcona was known as Gilesville, because of the fact that Giles was probably the 1st man to put up a shack on the shores of the lake. He knew the surrounding country as a scholar knows his books and he was a rare sportsman of the old school. Died Jan 8, 1910 at San aged 68, n/o Belton, Leicester, Eng, of Bella Coola, a pioneer trader and storekeeper of the N coast, well known in Victoria.

Mr Clayton, who had a store at Bella Coola and one at Bella
Bella on the N coast, left Victoria 10 days ago on a trip to CA, accompanied by his son, in search of health, he having suffered from bronchitis and asthma on his arrival here from Bella Coola.
He was examined by a physician and advised to leave for CA.

The late John Clayton was one of the old-timers of the N coast. He has been at Bella Coola for between 35-40 yrs, having gone N in the early days of BC for the HBC. He has been engaged as a general trader and storekeeper, having 2 northern stores, for several decades and has made frequent trips to Victoria to secure his stocks. He was very successful in business and secured considerable wealth.

He leaves sons, 2 daughters
res/at the family res at Bella

Coola. His son, telegraphing the sad news of his father's demise to Simon Leiser, asked that he go to San Diego, but Mr Leiser was unable to do so, and telegraphed to the hotel where the bereaved son is staying asking that the remains of late storekeeper be shipped to Victoria for interment. No pallbearer names given. R 073

V/Jan 22, 1910, 3... 'I speak of the Royal Engrs. Last autumn, 12 survivors of a detachment of RE's which was sent round the Horn in 1858, to protect British interests and assist in establishing law and order, were entertained by the city of New Westminster, of which they laid the foundation. Following are the 14: Thomas Argyle, Samuel Archer, Louis F Bonson, Robert Butler, Henry Bruce, John Cox, Allen Cummins, William Hall, William Haynes, Phillip Jackman, George Turner, Lt-Col Richard Wolfenden, Matthew Hall and John Musselwhite. There are other survivors of these early days equally deserving of honor, but so scattered over the world that it would be impossible to bring them together. The little remnant of the RE represented a band of heroes whose deeds were more glorious than those of a victorious army, for they conquered an empire, and secured it for all time to the use and benefit of the British people, without the shedding of one drop of blood. All honor to those brave pioneers - they built better than they knew. No words of mine can add to the lustre of their achievements...PC [Speaker of the House]

Legal/Feb 3, 1910, 19 - photo, 51 Years in Victoria - James W Bland, Usher of Supreme Court, celebrates. The dawn of today marked the 51st anniversary of the arrival in Victoria of a well-known man who has lived here continuously ever since save for 6 months spent in England on vacation. The citizen in question is James W Bland.

Mr Bland came here in 1859 [1858?] with his father, late James Bland, and his mother, who was 80 on Jan 12 last, but who is still spry and active. Mr Bland was born in Peru, where his father was employed when he made the decision to try his fortune in this part of the world. The family party journeyed here 1st by sailing vessel Stambull, consigned to late Capt Stamp, of this city. The passage from Peru was mighty rough and Mr Bland has recollections of it to this day. Outside San Francisco the vessel ran into a gale that stripped her clear of canvas. She got fresh suits in 'Frisco and carried the party to Pt Gamble, where they boarded steamer Forward for Victoria.

When Bland arrived the old HBC fort was the main feature of Victoria and the Indians were still more or less of a terror in the outlying districts. The family 1st lived in a house belonging to Captain Stamp, at Constance Cove. In 1860 Mr Bland's father built the 1st boat on the site where Bullen's Ways now stand.

Bland was sent to school after the family settled here. He 1st attended school on board HMS Bacchante and later he joined a class in the old Broad street school which stood on the present site of the Colonist. Later still Mr Bland attended the old Jessup school on Fort street on the location where the old Philharmonic Hall afterwards stood. Here he had for classmates such well known citizens as William H Bone, of T N Hibben & Co; Charles Todd, Joseph Sears and Munro Miller.

Bland's 1st position was that of office boy to late Dr Dickson, at the corner of Bastion & Government streets, where the Army & Navy Cigar store stands now. From this position he went to the Victoria brewery, where he learned the trade of brewer. Disliking this he sought other employment and was engaged for 3 years with Thomas Shotbolt, the druggist. After this he became engaged in the fancy goods business on his own account, but was burned out in 1883, when he took the position of assistant wharfinger at the Outer Wharf.

Following this he occupied a similar position at the CPN wharf for 2 years and 21 years ago he was made Usher of the Supreme court, a position he has held ever since.

For 24 years Mr Bland was a member of the old volunteer Hook and Ladder Co, which preceded the present fine fire fighting equipment, and he has many interesting reminiscences to tell of the fires of the early days.

Bland is hale and hearty today. His is one of a good-sized family, among his brothers being H J Bland, Wellington; J J Bland, Ladysmith; Joseph, Victoria, and F W Bland, of the E&N RR. Mrs P B Smith and late Mrs A Borde are sisters....

 Feb 18, 1910 - Sad news awaited J Doran, a passenger of Tees which returned from Quatsino and way ports of WCVI yesterday. His brother, Slim Doran, who, with a coast patrolman named Kennedy had come off from Clo-oose just before daylight yesterday to put him on board Tees was drowned on the way back to shore, and Kennedy saved himself only after a hard struggle. The Doran brothers, res/o Esquimalt, where their father kept the New Inn on Esquimalt rd had been engaged in prospecting and one was returning to Victoria. The brother, with Kennedy went off from Clo-oose with a small canoe, and after embarking the passenger on Tees intended to proceed to Tsusiat. They were off the Klanawah Rv when a large roller struck the canoe and overturned it. The craft was close to shore and the occupants were thrown out among the kelp close to the rocks. The kelp was very thick. Kennedy after a desperate struggle fought his way through it and dragged himself up on the rocks, but Doran failed to gain shore. His body was not recovered. Feb 27 - Body Missing... Mr Logan will make a search for the body which, it is expected, will be washed up on the beach.  Marine/Died suddenly Feb 19, 1910 at Victoria, BC, Capt William Otas Hughes, one of the most popular of the CPR ship-masters and one of the most respected navigators of the Pacific NW. Since being taken with a paralytic stroke when steamer Pr Royal was at Skagway some months ago he has been off duty, but looked forward to treading the bridge of his vessel again in the spring. From the time he had the misfortune to fall over a hatchway into the 'tween decks of steamer Pr Beatrice last summer when he received serious injuries he had been a sick man, and after the strokes which incapacitated him he gradually failed.

For 45 yrs Capt Hughes followed the sea, and for nearly 40 yrs he has been shipmaster. He was one of the senior captains of the CPR coasting service, and when the new Pr Royal left the builder's yards he was given charge of that vessel. He served as master of different vessels on the western ocean, sail and steam, sailing in N and S Atlantic trades. He traded between Europe, S America and the W Indies and for some time ran between the maritime coast ports and Atlantic ports of the US until he came to BC 20 yrs ago to engage in pelagic sealing, an industry which attracted many of the best of the eastern seafarers to this city. He took charge of the pioneer sealer Katherine, later known as Black Diamond, and in 1892 went out as master of the sealing schooner Carmolite to hunt seals off the Copper, or Commanderofskie Islands. He was one of those Victoria sealers who were imprisoned by the Russians after the seizure of their schooners at Petropaviovski, where they were put in to a chicken house and had their effects looted. Their adventures are said to have been the basis of Kipling's interesting story 'The Devil and the Deep Sea.'

Many indeed are the stories of adventure, stories all betraying the manly qualities and splendid nature of the dead sailorman which old-time shipmates in Victoria have to tell. Some of those who cruised after fur seals with him in the chill N waters recall with what strength he used the excellent physique with which he was equipped in his younger days when capsized from a sealing boat off the coast of Attu I. The boat's crew all landed safely, and when his shipmates reached the land they looked about for the Capt. One of his rubber boots floated ashore, and they never expected to see him again, when he was decried up the hillside, drying out his wet clothes.

As a sealer he ever brought a good catch to port, other than for his experience with the Russian cruisers and the mad Capt of the patrol cruiser Zabiaka which resulted in the seizure of his vessel and the imprisonment of all hands, together with Capt Balcom of the Pacific Whaling Co, who commanded schooner Maria, and those of the schooners Rosie Olsen and Vancouver Belle. The Russian government has paid indemnity for the seizure of Carmolite and Vancouver Belle, but Capt Hughes never received any part of that award.

The Russian cruisers had seized Willie McGowan and Ariel and with Carmolite they took the Maria, Rosie Olsen and Vancouver Belle to Petropaviovski. The sealers spent 17 days on the warship and were landed at Petropavlovski where they were turned over to the Russian governor. They were paraded before him, and Capt Hughes, who had an excellent sense of humor, liked to tell of how the Indians who loved gold braid and brass buttons as they loved dried salmon, stepped from the ranks, much to the disgust of the pompous governor to finger his finery. The sealers were forced to standby and see the looting of their vessels; even their rubber boots, sweaters and other possessions, even a jackknife, were carried off.

The sidelights became lanterns to light the path to the governor's verandah, and the signal guns adorned his verandah. The sealers were kept in a roofless hovel - it had formerly been a henhouse, and the governor supplied 15 kopecks, which is 7 ½ cents, per diem for food.

After 5 days of this Capt Hughes and Capt Balcom were taken onboard the Russian cruiser Vihitz and for 25 days they were kept onboard while the vessel called at various stns on the Saghalien coast, and finally they were landed at Vladivostok, and put ashore to subsist on a combined capital of 25 cents as best they could. Capt Hughes never saw his schooner again. She was 'left a rotting contraband on Petropaviovski slip.' From Vladivostok he, Capt Balcom and some others made their way to Nagasaki. There a British consul, different from most of his class, endeavored to force the sealers to sign an agreement to pay over a share of their prospective pay for the passage home. Capt Hughes and those with him made their way to Yokohama where HMS Leander, formerly on the Esquimalt stn, was met with and the sealers reported what had happened at Nagasaki with the result that the consul was reprimanded for failing to assist them. In Nov, 1892, Capt Hughes returned to Victoria on board Empress of Japan.

The majority of the others of the captured crews were brought home by schooner Rosie Olsen and bark Majestic. Capt Copp, now visiting in BC, has told of their experiences.

After his return from his experiences in Russian Asia Capt Hughes went sealing again. The next 2 yrs he engaged in sealing as Master of schooner Mary Ellen, hunting off the Russian and Japanese coast and in Bering sea. In Victoria, BC, 1894, Capt Hughes and some associates bought schooner Ida Etta, and the former sailed as master for 2 seasons.

The Capt has been in the CPR SS services for 10 yrs, having joined the former as chief officer of Willapa, on the WC service. It was while chief officer of this steamer that Capt Hughes lost a splendid chance for salvage. Willapa fell in with the big 6000T iron tramp Commonwealth, Capt Cross, lying off Sydney Inlet, totally abandoned by her crew. Capt Hughes vainly sought to have the Master place him on board to take possession of the vessel, but, the latter, who had come across Capt Cross of the abandoned steamer and his crew on shore, put them back on their vessel and gave the big steamer a tow, the CPN Co being pd $6,000 for towage. Had some member of Willapa's crew been placed on board Commonwealth, the salvage award would probably have been about 5 times that amount.

Co, and for a long time was associated with the west coast route, his popularity on that line being such that the company did not care to transfer him. He went from vessel to vessel, commanding most of the company's steamers at different times, and he earned a well deserved popularity, not only with the travelling public but also those residents along the steamer's route with whom he came in contact.

In every vessel commanded by late Capt his crew admired him and it was a great blow to many a sailorman operating from the port of Victoria when they saw the red and white flag of the CPR half-masted yesterday in honor of his memory.

Last of the Fraser River
Packers - photo, Charlie Holtz
- By the turn of the wheel of fate 2 men who may assuredly be looked upon as the last of the original packers of the early days on the Fraser River are in Victoria at the present time.
One of them, Charlie Holtz, is a member of the little group of old-timers at the Old Man's Home, while the other, Luke Campbell, suffering from a cancerous growth in his neck, is lying at the Jubilee Hospital.
The 2 old fellows were chums on the trail in the days of long ago when the lure of bonny dust was beckoning strong men into the wilderness and tempting weak men to their deaths. Campbell owns a ranch now and is comfortably fixed. Holtz met with hard luck, lost his mules through over speculation, and worked for wages as long as he was able.

Rugged-looking,
bronzed of face, firm of limb and with hair still black, despite his 82 years, Charlie Holtz is easily one of the most interesting of the remaining links between this generation and the generation of more than 50 years ago. The fact that he played a part in the Seattle Massacre and that he was one of the 1st to carry the news of the gold strikes on the Fraser River to 'Frisco, which news started the great rush that ended in the Cariboo, makes his story doubly interesting.

Seated on the little iron bed in the little room which is him home now, Holtz laughingly apologized for sundry evidences of recent industry in the shape of sewing materials which were lying about, and, in the course of a most interesting conversation, told

Charlie Holtz was born in Hamburg, Germany, Nov 29, 1827. He remained there until 1862 [?] when news of the gold to be dug in the deserts of CA touched the nerve in his adventurous nature and bidding goodbyes to that life which he was to know no more he shipped by way of the Isthmus for San Francisco.
Through the stirring times of 1859 he worked with shovel and pick and pan, but without the striking success that attended the similar efforts of more fortunate miners. Then, in 1854, he sought another Argosy, in search, this time for the Golden Fleece of adventure. His new Argosy was the US Revenue cutter Active, in command of Capt James Alden. Active, among other duties, was required to carry on the coast surveys and in 1854, Holtz 1st visited Victoria on board Active. Victoria in those days was marked by an HBC fort and stockade. Active, while on this trip to Victoria explored along the coast of Vancouver Island and discovered what is now Plumper's Pass in 1855. This pass was known at the time by another local name but Active was the 1st naval vessel to sail through it and Captain Alden named it Active Pass. This name was changed afterwards by Captain Richards, RN, in command of HMS Plumper, who called the pass after his ship.

Active was a wooden paddle steamer of 750 tons, mounting 2 guns and it is recorded that she took on coal at Nanaimo as early as Aug 13, 1855. Active prior to her service in the USN, was known as Goldhunter and saw many stirring adventures. She was schooner rigged, strong and a good seaboat when the navy department purchased her in 1853 from the Pacific Mail SS Co. She was refitted and strengthened at Mare Island, and it was in 1865, when she was ready for service that Charlie Holtz joined her.

After the cruise along this coast, during which she passed through Plumper Pass for the 1st time, Active started south and called at the settlement known as Seattle. Holtz recalls it as a dreary place, composed of a few Indian huts and the cabins of white settlers and squatters. But, on this occasion Active had barely dropped her mud-hooks in Elliott Bay when the unusual situation prevailing ashore was brought forcibly to her attention. The Indians, under Chief Lashi, were in open revolt, and the whites were being ruthlessly massacred, while the little body of volunteers was powerless to cover sufficient country to quell the trouble.

Captain Alden, realizing the seriousness of the situation, called for volunteers for a landing party at once, and Charlie Holtz was among the 1st who stepped forward. Under 2nd Lieut Johnson the little party, comprising hardly more than 12 nervy fellows, landed under cover of the fire from the Active's 2 guns, and ran, helter skelter, for a large log hut on shore.

At this point in his reminiscences, if you especially ask him, Charlie Holtz will pull up his coat sleeve to the elbow and taking your finger, will place it upon a hard, round object underneath the skin. This, he will tell you very simply, is a buckshot fired into his shoulder by Lashi's men, as he ran for cover with the rest of the landing party. The shot has worked its way gradually down to a point below his elbow. Another shot, which struck him in the head, has been removed.

In spite of these wounds, Holtz took an active part in the fighting which ensued. The landing party, once ensconced in the log hut began at once to fortify the position as thoroughly as possible. The Indians remained well under cover and beyond some desultory firing, made no attempt to rush the position taken by the naval men. However, among those in the little party, were some experienced Indian fighters and these men knew that the Indians would surely try to rush the hut under cover of darkness. This proved to be correct. A strong guard was posted at nightfall, and those who were relieved sought sleep. As Holtz recalls it, it was about 2am when the guard gave the alarm. Every man sprang to his position. In the blackness outside nothing could be seen, but occasionally at the edge of the clearing a twig would snap or a branch swish, and there was that strange feeling of tension in the air which convinces the listener that danger is lurking unseen in the dark. The naval men had made their preparations in silence, and the period of waiting gave every man a chance to rub the sleep from his eyes and prepare for what was to come. Without any warning a terrific yell split the air, and the night was full of the sound of running feet. The Indians attacked from all sides, firing as they ran. Amid the rain of bullets that beat against their little cabin, the naval men waited for the word of command. When the Indians were within a few yds of the hut and flushed with what they looked upon as an easy victory, the word came, and the cabin spit fire. Every shot told, and told so well that the Indians crumpled like leaves, turned about and scampered in disorder for cover.

Morning broke without a repetition of the attack, and the Indian fighters among the landing party felt sure that the Indians would not attack again until after nightfall. However, the Indians were shrewd, and daylight was flooding the landscape when they suddenly rushed for the cabin again. The naval men were not sleeping, however, and once more, after a hard siege, were the Indians repulsed. What the eventual outcome might have been will never be known, for next day the volunteers came back and with their help the landing party cleared the Indians out.

The next year, in 1858, Active was ordered to represent the US in the survey of the 49th parallel. She proceeded to the Gulf and landed her men at Semiamhoo Bay. The British government was represented by the men from HMS Plumper, who were camped at Point Roberts.

The work of survey was well under way when one morning a man named Macaulay arrived at the American camp in a skiff, accompanied by 2 large barrels of long-range whiskey. Macaulay was welcomed by the men in camp, but his presence was carefully kept secret from the officers. As it happened this visit of Macaulay made history. He disposed of the major portion of 1 barrel of his firewater at the American camp and collected all the loose change there was among the men; then he moved off to Point Roberts, to ply his wares among the English. However, he wasn't so lucky at this camp. He was spotted by the officers, arrested and held for return to Esquimalt, where HMS Plumper lay. To accomplish his return, the British officer turned him over to Active, which conveyed him to the naval base. On the voyage down Macaulay became more or less chummy with some of Active's men, and in a spirit of bravado, he pulled forth an immense purse crammed full of gold dust. The colour set the eyes of the ex-miners in her crew to blinking, and they pressed Macaulay for particulars. The importance he thus gained appealed to Macaulay, and he finally told Active's men that he found the gold dust, of which he had at least $2,000 worth, on the Fraser River.

The excitement among Active's men which followed this story came to the ears of Captain Alden, and, fearing a general desertion, he called the men together and had a talk with them. He pointed out that if they deserted then, they might be caught eventually, and, if caught, they would assuredly be shot. On the other hand, Active would in a few weeks return to San Francisco, and then those who wished to do so might obtain their discharge.

This advice was followed by the men, and when Active reached 'Frisco practically the whole complement obtained their discharges. Holtz was well acquainted in 'Frisco at this time, and he began to make preparations at once for a trip to the Fraser. The others of Active's men went ashore and got drunk and spread the news of the gold on the Fraser through 'Frisco. Excitement ran high and the great rush of 1858 was the result.

However, Charlie Holtz kept his own counsel and sawed wood. Many of his friends who heard the rumours came to him and asked if the reports were true. Holtz told them what he knew and assured them that he would go to the Fraser at the 1st opportunity. The opportunity came in 1858, in the spring, before the big rush began. Holtz and one or 2 friends took passage on the ship Panama for Esquimalt, where a pilot was obtained who steered Panama to Bellingham Bay. Here the gold-hunters landed and began the toilsome, wearying hike through the brush to Sumas Lake. Loaded down with their duffle and tools as they were, the party found this a terrible march, and only the fact that they were strong, husky men kept them up. Arriving at Sumas Lake, the party obtained canoes and pushed on with all speed, knowing that other gold-hunters would be racing to beat them in. From Sumas Lake the party paddled into the Fraser and began prospecting. By hasty stages they worked as far up as Fort Hope. They were the 1st of the rush, and they had the pick of the diggings. Their frantic prospecting was well rewarded, for they finally struck Hill's Bar and staked their claims. One of the biggest aggregate fortunes of the Fraser fields was taken from this bar before it was worked out. After staking Hill's Bar the party went lower and staked claims on Strawberry Island, where more rich dirt was found. Holtz staked his claims with the others and set to work. The allowance in those days was 25 foot frontage, and out of his 25 feet Holtz took $50/day in washings. The party found that it had not got in a day too soon, for right on its heels came the front rank of the rush, and within a week camps sprang up along the river and the woods rang with voices where solitude and silence had reigned before.

Holtz and his partners had the cream of Hill's Bar worked out when the Indians, who had been troublesome for some time, began to evince a tendency to wipe out the whole diggings. Mutilated bodies of miners began to float down the Fraser. Little prospecting parties of 2 or 3 who pressed upriver ahead of the camps were suddenly set upon by Indians and slaughtered. Or, a lonely miner, asleep by his fire, never awoke, stealthy hands slitting his throat from ear to ear, mutilating his corpse and setting it afloat in a current as a warning to the camps below. At first the miners were so engrossed in their search for the gold that they accepted these murders as regrettable necessities along with the 1,000 and other dangers and hazards of the life they led.

But when they became too frequent the camps rose in indignation, formed volunteer committees and set systematically about chastising the Indians. This proved to be no easy task. The Indians, finding the white men openly defiant, began decisive tactics and open warfare. They took up a position on the mountainside across from Fort Yale, where the river swept past a solid wall of rock, and the miners tried fruitlessly to drive them from this point of vantage.

The accepted leader of the miners in this campaign against the savages was a man named Snider, who had seen much Indian fighting on the American plains. The miners were well nigh discouraged when Snider, who was an indefatigable scout, one day returned to camp with the news that he had discovered a secret pass leading up to the top of the mountain. Next day a heavily armed party under Snider took the trail. They made a detour to throw the Indians off guard, and then, making use of the pass Snider had found, they surprised the Indians and drove them from their position.

This put an end to the Indian trouble as an organized campaign, and, although small parties of miners had to be ever on the watch, the mining operations of the Fraser were carried on with renewed energy. Grub was exceedingly scarce at this time, and Holtz recalls having seen sales made where bread flour would be weighed in one side of the scale and gold dust in the other. This at least was one instance where bread was worth its weight in gold. On another occasion, when she was down to hard pan and would have gone nine miles for a handful of flour, Holtz offered an HBC man a fine ivory-handled Colt which cost him $50 in 'Frisco, for a 3/4 sack of mouldy flour, and was indignantly refused.

Obtaining sufficient grub for a stake by one means or another, and depending largely upon fish and game, Holtz, and some companions pushed on up the Fraser in search of new diggings, and went as far as the mouth of the Quesnel River, where they turned and went to the Forks of the Quesnel, and entered, for the 1st time, the famous Cariboo country.

Prior to this Holtz had purchased a train of mules from an Oregonian, who came in with them, and he started packing from the lower camps 80 miles up the Fraser. By this time there was a general exodus upriver, and Holtz found all the work he could handle. He eventually owned 37 mules and horses, and plied a big trade. But Holtz shakes his head and smiles yet when he thinks of those early packing days. There was no trail and the going was awful. The packs were securely slung on arapahos stuffed with straw mixed with branches to make them springy. The arapahoes were securely cinched, and over the packs, set upon these, was thrown the famous diamond hitch. And even this diamond hitch jolted loose sometimes so rough was the trail. Between Yale and Boston Bar there were places where the ordinary man would have said it was impossible for a fly to make headway. But over this trail, day in, day out, Holtz' train followed the bell mare, and Holtz slipped and jumped and climbed over the trail with them. There were other packers at the time, one of whom, a Mexican named Manuel Bateros, lost his whole pack train in a crevasse on a bad part of the trail, which was called afterwards, in honour of the event, Jackass Mountain. Holtz was upriver with his train when he heard of the strike on Keistler's [Keithly?] Creek, the 1st strike of the famous Cariboo. He decided to have a look at the colour on this creek, and, sending his train back, he wintered at the forks of the Quesnel. This was in 1860 and 1861. Soon after the success on Keistler's [Keithley?], Antler Creek was struck, and the fever raged through the Cariboo. Holtz and some of his friends were at Antler when the strike was made, and they decided to do some prospecting. Besides Holtz, the party consisted of Dutch Bill, who afterwards struck William's Creek, and Bob Davis, and some other Germans. The bunch ate noon-day grub at Tom Maloney's Flat, and packing about 150 pounds apiece, besides their picks, pans and shovels, they struck for new country. After leaving Maloney's Flat they separated, Dutch Bill striking off towards the valley of Grouse Creek, while Holtz and Davis headed for Bald Mountain. Holtz and Davis had reached Groundhog Lake, and Holtz was beating through the brush quite a piece in the lead, when he turned and saw no sign of Davis. He called and fired his guns without any response. That was the last he saw of Davis for a long time.

Finding that Davis had strayed away, Holtz decided to camp for the night. At daylight he saw smoke from a campfire some distance away, and believing it to be Davis, he hiked over to it. Instead of finding Davis he found 2 well known characters, Nate Campbell and Billy Farrell, otherwise known as Billy the Blat, by reason of his oratorical powers. Holtz asked these 2 worthies where they were packing to, and was informed that they were hiking in to Antler for grubstakes Holtz then proposed that as he had quite a bit of grub with him, he should grubstake the crowd, and they would 'go cayuse' on whatever they found. This was agreed to and the trio set out.

As a result of this hastily formed partnership Holtz was one of the finders of Lightning Creek, which turned out to be one of the richest in the country. We called it Lightning Creek,' said Holtz, with a laugh, the other day, 'because it made us see lightning getting down to it. Jiminy Crickets! But it was rough and rocky!

Staking out the discovery on Lightning, Holtz and his pals were joined by others, each of whom got 100' frontage on the discovery. In this party were Nate Campbell, Billy the Blat, Charlie Holtz, Jack Adams, Tom O'Brien and Jack Hughes. Holtz worked his claim for a short time to try it out, and turned up $7.50 to the shovelful.

Afterwards however, he found that he had all he could do to run his mules, and he gave his claim to Johnny Burns, who didn't have any. Johnny did well on that claim. Poor old Dutch Bill staked a claim, but it turned out so bad that Dutch couldn't make the price of the wear and tear on his pick out of it, and the boys took up a subscription for him, everybody chucking a little dust into the sack.

After this Holtz packed for many years along the Fraser and in the Cariboo. He packed over trails that are now supplanted by wagon roads, the work of late Governor Douglas, and the old packer pays a high tribute to the man who could make wagon roads over that country. However, the gold fever drew Holtz on, and he did too much prospecting. He got into debt and had to sell his mules. Then he began to work for wages. He packed in the Cassiar and worked in the Crow's Nest Pass at various jobs. And today, passing the evening of life in the Old Men's Home, rugged-looking and strong for all his 82 years, he likes to look back on the stirring incidents that made up his life since he left Hamburg early in the last century. Bldg/Died suddenly Apr 24, 1910 at Courtland, Victoria, BC, Arthur Campbell McCallum, 42, n/o Sct, s/o late Capt A McCallum, of Colwood park. Stricken in the midst of his family so suddenly and unexpectedly that his many friends could not grasp the fact of his death when the news spread, heart disease was the cause and death came with such rapidity that although Dr O M Jones and Dr Leader were hurried to the place at once Mr McCallum was dead when they reached him.

the boys’ said a friend of the family, ‘and when I left, a few moments before his untimely death, he was the picture of health and happiness,’ said a friend.

Mr McCallum, it was stated, had been engaged in a lark with some of his children in the grounds of the family’s new home, Courtland. He had been running a foot race and was on the point of entering the house when he suddenly fell on the steps. Soon after he fell A G Howard Potts, who was at the house at the time, was at Mr McCallum’s side. Mr McCallum had been subject more or less to fainting spells and at first it was thought that he had merely fainted.

Mr McCallum was a comparatively young man, active, inclined to be athletic and a keen business general. Lately he had been actively connected with the real estate firm of A C McCallum & Co, with offices in the Metropolitan bldg and he had intended to go N either this wk or next to attend to personal interests there.

Mr McCallum’s sudden taking off will be deeply regretted by a very large circle of friends and business acquaintances who valued his kindly character and his long established integrity. He had been a res/o Victoria since 1886, with his wife and family. He was born in Sct and received his education there. Trained as a mining engr, he practiced his profession there prior to coming to Canada and after his arrival here his work caused him to become well acquainted with BC. In after yrs he acquired valuable interests and the administration of these and of his business affairs occupied his time. He had erected the fine residence at Foul Bay into which his family recently moved and he was also the owner of the modern business block in course of construction on Douglas st, next to the Merchant’s Bank. It was Mr McCallum who took the initiative in connection with the projected improvements to Douglas st involving a modern system of lighting and pavements. He showed originality a progressive spirit and enterprise in his business undertakings.

Late Mr McCallum was a s/o late Capt A McCallum, of Colwood Park, Esquimalt and Mrs McCallum who survives him [Lampson st]. He leaves a widow, a daughter, Miss G McCallum and 4 sons, Messrs K C, A R, E N and A H. He also leaves a sister, Mrs J H Hawthornthwaite, of Nanaimo. Photo, Apr 26, 2... PC. Died May 12, 1910 at Victoria, BC, Alexander Gilmore, whose residence in the city covered a period of 52 yrs. During a large portion of that time he was actively engaged in business and few of his contemporaries had a more extensive acquaintance in the city and BC.

Mr Gilmore was n/o Co Derry, Ire, coming across to Philadelphia in 1849, at age 25.
In 1852 he travelled to San Francisco by way of Panama, and there remained until 1858,
when he came to Victoria, establishing shortly afterwards the tailoring and clothing business with which his name was so long connected. During the 1870's his store was on Government st, but he removed some 30 yrs ago to Johnson st, where the business is still carried on by his nephews, the brothers McCandless.

In 1881, while construction of the CPR was in progress, Mr Gilmore opened a store at Yale,
the firm's name being Gilmore & Clark. In 1885 this firm removed to Vancouver, being among the business pioneers of the then small city. In 1887 Mr Gilmore took into partnership his nephew A G McCandless, retiring himself at that time from active business. During the last 20 yrs he has spent most of his time in travelling and in attending to his many speculations and property interests.

Besides carrying on the clothing business he always took an active interest in the mining industry, assisting freely in the development of various mines in BC. At one time Mr Gilmore owned much property in Vernon, Vancouver and Victoria, but during the last 10 yrs he had disposed of the greater part of this. He was the owner of the Goldstream hotel ranch for many yrs prior to 1885, when he sold a ½ interest to James Phair, who a few yrs later acquired the whole of the property.

Although 86 Mr Gilmore was vigorous and active up to nr the time of his death. He was a mem/o the Masonic body and of the Victoria Pioneer Soc. Although not well known to the present generation in Victoria, he enjoyed the friendship and esteem of many among the older residents. Surviving relatives are 3 nephews, A G, Vancouver, Henry and George of McCandless Bros, Victoria, and 2 brothers who are now in the US. Ph/May 13, 2.

Died May 13, 1910 at Victoria, BC, William Newbury, one of the oldest and best known of the dwindling group of pioneers. His end was peaceful. N/o Hauslope, Buckinghamshire, Eng, in 1837, coming to Victoria in 1862. Following his trade of harness maker, he opened a store in Yates st and only retired some 15 yrs ago. He has been a familiar figure in the James Bay dist. A mechanical genius, he was ever ready to place his skill at the disposal of his neighbors. Floriculture was his hobby, and his dahlias have long been famous at the shows of cut flowers. He took a keen interest in public affairs though of a retiring nature. He was one of the strong advocates of confederation in the early days of the colony. A fervid Britisher at heart he was a strong Imperialist.

He is survived by 6 children, his wife having died in 1888. The eldest, John C, is the present collector of customs at this port. C W, the 2nd son, was for many yrs connected with the PO. Daughters are: Mrs H J Martin, Mrs K J Middleton, Mrs J A Wilson and Miss Hattie Newbury, all res/o Victoria, except Mrs Middleton. Ph/May 15, 17. Marine/RNV/May 15, 1910 - Robert Winters, of Fairfield Rd, recalls late King Edward, whom, as a boy he saw as a boy, something more than 50 yrs ago. Last Thurs was Mr Winter's 71 birthday. He has just completed 50 yrs in Victoria, but he still likes to look back to his career in the British navy and the days when the Empire was ruled by the loving hand of Qn Victoria, when Edward was a slim little prince full of boyish pranks and Victoria, BC, was yet unborn. 'Many a cold, bleak morning we were saved from torture by Qn Victoria,' Mr Winters recalled. That was back in 1860 when he was serving on the navy training brig Sealark, which used to toss up and down off the I of Wight in full view of Osborne House. A part of the morning drill consisted of manning the yards, bareheaded and barefoot, in those days, as

Mr Winters remarks now, 'the navy was different.' Drill was drill, and the mere fact that a morning was cold and that barefoot boys swaying on the yardarms would soon become chilled and benumbed didn't enter into the calculations of the grizzled old officers at all. Woe betide the lad who whimpered or complained. He would be given 'something to whimper for.' It was on such occasions that Qn Victoria evinced that side of her character which did so much to make her the idol of all her people. Often, when the royal family was at Osborn House, the Queen would command signals to be displayed from the royal yacht directing the officers of Sealark to omit yardarm drill as the wx was too severe. And then would the 'young British sailors' bless their queen in their hearts.

Mr Winters can recall many interesting anecdotes touching the life of late king at Osborne House. He recalls that when word arrived at the I of Wight that the queen was coming the whole island would be on tiptoe. Mr Winters, being only a youngster in the navy at the time, played his part when he helped to man the yards as the royal yacht steamed in. Privileged veterans of the service, such as members of ship's crews, were allowed to go ashore.

When you speak of the British navy of the present day to Mr Winters he shakes his head. 'It's all different, it's all changed,' he will comment.

'Why, if they did some of the things in the navy today...

The recent death of King Edward recalled to Mr Winters the occasion many yrs ago when the news of the death of the Prince Consort was flashed through the world. Mr Winters was then one of the crew of HMS Bacchante, one of the 1st frigates to use steam, which was lying at the time nr Panama.... PC [ph/May 15, 23]

May 29, 1910: Tees, Capt Gillam, returned from Quatsino Snd and way ports of WCVI yesterday, with 65 passengers including W P Marchant, customs inspector, who has been visiting the customs stns at Pt Renfrew, Alberni, Clayoquot and Quatsino, and many miners and workmen from the CPR extension at Alberni. Mike King was not a passenger, but this was not his fault. He is marooned at Tatchu Pnt, where he went with a party of men to begin development work on some rich coal properties. He had arranged with the Capt of Tees to call for him southbound, but the stormy winds did blow and it was impossible for a boat landing to be made.

Consequently Mr King remained at Tatchu and will have to stay for another 2 wks, until Tees calls off the point again.

Jun 5, 1910, 19 - photo Vancouver I's Noted Water Witch.... In the office of Chief of Police Langley sat a little white-bearded old man, who has the distinction of having been born in the same yr as his late Majesty King Edward. He was a man of an unusually interesting type, possessor of an innate power which places him in a category to which few belong. He spoke absorbingly on a mystical art which he has practiced with unvarying success for the past 25 yrs, and while he proved conclusively through a relation of his own experiences that the art in question has passed far beyond the experimental stage, he was unable to explain in any manner whatever, why the power to practice the art was given to such a meagre proportion of the human race.

Joseph Wriglesworth, of 17-Mile Post, the man to whom the foregoing paragraph relates, is VI's waterwitch. With a slender, fragile, pliable fragment of a tree cut into the shape of a chicken's breastbone, he possesses the miraculous gift of being able to discover springs and basins of water which may have their origin over 100' below the surface of the ground. Twenty-five yrs ago he discovered that he possessed the power of water divining and since that time he has located 150 wells on the S ½ of VI. In no single instance has he met with failure.

“How do I account for it? The only reason I can give is that I was born on the stroke of midnight and so have 2 birthdays.”

Not one in 10,000 possesses it to such a degree that failure is impossible. The art of water divining is a precious gift, as inexplicable as it is rare. To Mr Wriglesworth the power has been imparted to an unusual degree. The dictionary definition of waterwitch is a person who can discover springs or basins of water by aid of a hazel divining rod, or a branch of a peach tree. Mr Wriglesworth is able to locate a spring with a witchstick cut from any kind of wood. And his power extends even further. Metallic wires of galvanized iron, copper or brass, twisted into the desired shape, prove equal mystical interpreters to him of the presence of water below the ground on which he stands with the divining rod or wire in his hand.

Mr Wriglesworth explained that he holds the angular fragment of wood or wire by the fingertips of both hands. He then walks over the ground where it is desired to locate water. The presence of the spring is communicated to him by a species of electric shock, an invisible power tightening his grasp on the witchstick which shows a tendency to point downwards. Before he can release the stick he has to walk away from the point where the water is located. The sensation experienced, is different according to whether the water located is a running stream or a stagnant well. In the latter case the witchstick has a tendency to point upwards. By the strength of the shock the approximate depth of the water can be gauged. Mr Wriglesworth has found wells at a distance of 3' below the surface, and others as far down as 103'. Once having found a spring he can follow it to its source, or proceeding in the other direction, he can find the point where it enters a lake, river, or the sea. He can further give an idea of the amount of water which can be obtained by boring. He can tell the width of the stream by measuring the points crosswise over his discovery from the beginning of the sensation up to the time it ceases to exist.

The stream bound by the divining power of VI's waterwitch may be located in solid rock. The galvanism in the lives of peculiarly constituted individuals such as Mr Wriglesworth is of an impenetrably responsive character. The diviner can stand on a housetop and through the solid ground, up through the floors and roof of the building, the sensation is simultaneous with the moment he sets his foot on the point directly beneath which the water is to be found.

An illustration of his art was given to the writer by Mr Wriglesworth. In the centre of the office of the chief of police he experienced the sensation which told him he was standing directly over a spring. As in every instance where boring has proved his assertions, he was absolutely sure the water was located directly beneath that point in the city hall where he felt the mystical signal.

There is little doubt that the power of water divining has been imparted to Mr Wriglesworth in what is apparently a superhuman degree. Everyone whom he has come in contact with, who has practised the art, has met with some failures, whereas he has ever been successful in located wells. He has found several within the city limits in the Cadboro Bay district, at Sooke, Metchosin, 17 Mile Post, Mt Tolmie, Gordon Hd, Cordova Bay, Royal Oak, Colwood and other points within a 40 mile radius of the city.

Some yrs go Mr R F Rithet built a 15,000 gallon tank on his ranch at Royal Oak, and when the tank had been completed the problem of filling it had to be met. The services of Mr Wriglesworth were requisitioned. Strange to say a well was found right beneath one corner of the tank. Had the water diviner been consulted before the erection of the structure it could have been built right over the centre of the well from which it was supplied.

On the University school grounds at Mt Tolmie Mr Wriglesworth found the well which now supplies the requirements of the institution. In this instance water was located at a depth of 43'. Those engaged in the boring, as they proceeded with the work, came to the conclusion that the water diviner was a fakir, and as they left the dried up well one evening practically told him that his alleged art was all moonshine. The following morning when they returned to work the well was ½ full of water. In the course of time that well caved in, and again Mr Wriglesworth was called upon to locate another at a further point on the same spring, which up to date is supplied the needs of the school.

These and numerous other instances could be quoted to illustrate the wonderful power possessed in such measures by VI's waterwitch. The gift is undoubtedly a natural one because it cannot be taught. Joseph Wriglesworth is one of the pioneers of VI. He came here from Yorkshire in 1862 on the same vessel as Mr R P Rithet. For very many yrs he was identified with the life of Victoria. He was one of the 1st members who joined the volunteer band of the city. As a member of the fire dept, finally elevated to the position of chief of that organization, he served for 18 yrs. Upon his career here fortune has distributed her favors and frowns with an impartial hand.

Now in the sunset of his life, the owner of a large cement plant in the 17-Mile Post dist, the one hobby of his days is the locating of wells. He first learned he possessed this power through watching a Cariboo miner experimenting on Vancouver's I 25 yrs ago.

Water divining is probably the only species of what appears to be witchcraft, which has been turned to an eminently practical use. Water is known to be an imperfect conductor of electricity. It is an essential constituent of all animal and vegetable life, and of most minerals and rocks, forming the so-called water of crystallization.

So much is known, but of the mystical art of water divining there is apparently no feasible explanation. The witchstick appears to be a connecting link between a peculiarly constituted disposition of life's electricity and those forces of which water is a conductor. The art of divining water is probably the most potent example of the omnipresence of electricity, or some other subtle, invisible, all pervading force which has its fountainhead in the Unknown, and is as inscrutable as the origin of life itself. Marine/Aug 5, 1910, 14 - Henry Glide of Victoria, BC, celebrated the 57th anniv of his landing in Victoria on board HBC steamer Otter, whose varied hx is excelled in interest only by that of the ancient Beaver. 'Old steamer Otter,' as she was called to distinguish her from the numerous Otters that disported in these water in after yrs, was built at Blackwall, Eng, in 1852, and was a vessel of 220T burden, 122' long, 20' beam, and 12' deep. Her propelling force consisted of 2 direct acting condensing engines, 26x18", were looked upon as marvels of mechanical skill in their day - they would rank poorly with the Yarrow-Sehlich and Tweedy balanced triple expansion machine of Pr Victoria today - and took 1st prize at the great 1851 London Exhibition.

Henry Glide is the only survivor of those who landed in Victoria from Otter. He had begun an apprenticeship with HBC a few yrs before on the old bark Pr of Wales, and was transferred to Otter for the voyage to Ft Camosun. The voyage was an eventful one for Glide. Capt Miller her master was a drinking man, and not only were there incidents arising from the intoxication of the master, but the passage out was a long one, and the majority of the crew were sick with scurvy. When Otter neared the straits she narrowly escaped destruction, being caught in a strong tide and swept in between Tatoosh I and the mainland, but escaped injury, and reached Victoria Aug 4.

Capt Glide was Victoria's 1st pilot. He continued in HBC service after arrival here, and received the 1st pilot's certificate granted by Sir James Douglas and Capt Prevost of HMS Plumper. On Aug 8, 52 yrs ago he sailed 8 barks and schooners into the inner hbr at Victoria from San Francisco, and when they were discharged he sailed them out, for there were no towboats in those days. In 1861 Mr Glide married a d/o late Robert Laing, who had joined her father here in 1854. He left the sea many yrs go, and is now living in retirement close to the outer wharf overlooking the entrance to the hbr into which he sailed, and there is no living Victorian who sailed into it prior to that time.

Aug 14, 1910, 16 - Qn Charlottes 'In 1849', Cyrenus Mulkey, a prospector in his 80s revisits the scene. The discovery of Gold Harbour, Queen Charlotte Islands [QCI], was 1st made by an Indian who was ignorant of its value. A pocket of glittering gold ore, 40' long, 8' wide at the surface and tapering to 2" at 12' in depth, was actually handed over to HBC in 1851 as a ransom for their influence in liberating 3 Haida Indians from captivity, according to Cyrenus Mulkey, and old-time prospector of CA. Mr Mulkey is now in his 79th year and has visited QCI for the 5th time in 58 years. Upon his return here recently a large number of old-time Indians were glad to meet him, remembering him as an old tillicum.

Mr Mulkey starts his story by saying that Fort Simpson was established in 1837 by HBC with James Douglas in charge, who brought the 1st steamship around the Horn, the old Otter, in 1837. Otter went back to the old country the same year with a cargo of fine potatoes from Masset.

SV/Aug 17, 1910, 7 - Mr W Clarke has just purchased the Maywood PO grocery. Mr Clarke has seen many yrs active service, having been attached to the Sudanese portion of the Tokar Field Force operating prior to the fall of Khartoum, and later served with the Imperial Bushmen of Aus throughout the Boer war, taking part in the movement for the relief of Mafeking from the N, through Rhodesia and in the warm work at Elands R and the capture of Delarey's 9 guns and convoy nr Potchefstroom, being shortly after promoted Lt, returning to Aus on peace being proclaimed.

When the native rising took place in Natal during 1906, he was serving with the Transvaal Volunteers and proceeded to the front with Col Barker's Transvaal Mounted Rifles which did such good work in Zululand, at Mome Gorge and Mapamulu Rd. Mr Clarke has achieved considerable success with the rifle, having won a large # of trophies in the colonies including the King's Badge of Aus, and the Grand Aggregate for AB in 1908, and last yr the AB Gold Medal, and took a keen interest in the rifle shooting of the W Canada College Cadet Corps at Calgary.

Mr Clarke states that during his recent trip to Britain he was much impressed with the fine manhood wasting in idleness for lack of opportunities such as are presented in this province which, however, is better known than formerly. The gold find at Stewart made quite a sensation and was the means of attracting the attention of the public and from his personal knowledge will result in several families making their home here...

Marine/Died Sep 1, 1910 at Victoria, BC, James Knight Rebbeck, n/o Wiltshire, Eng. Deceased had a wide reputation as a mechanical engineer and naval architect, and besides he was the surveyor to the British Corp Registry, he was educated at Warminster college, he decided to cast his lot in India and as a young man took up his residence there. There he went into the engineering firm of Jessop and Co of Calcutta, staying with them until he had served his full time and taken out his papers.

In 1870 he received the appointment to the noteworthy position of Chief Engineer to the Rajah of Tirmoor, taking over the Nahun works near Umballa. Seven yrs later, Mr Rebbeck was made the Supt of the municipal workshops at Entally, remaining in that position until 1881, when the Hongkong & Wampaa Doeb Co made him their superintending engineer and head draughtsman.

It was in 1888, while acting for the firm of Fenwick & Co, the engr at Hongkong, that Mr Rebbeck was prominently identified with the construction of the now famous line of RR known as the Peak Tramway, it was he who designed and put into practical use the brakes on this line which now mean so much in the way of safety to the traveling public.

In 1888 he accepted the offer to construct and put into operation a plant for the manufacture of Portland cement on Green I, Macao. This was the 1st venture of its kind to be attempted on the China coast.

But such a strenuous life under such trying climatic conditions was not to last for long and it was found necessary for him to leave India and the Orient to take up his residence in a more favorable climate. He returned to Eng, but in 1892 he decided to come to BC, and for some yrs after his arrival he filled the position of Asst Mgr for the old BC Iron Works of Vancouver. Later he resigned to accept a similar position with Albion Iron Works of Victoria, and 6 yrs ago when this firm became defunct, he established himself in Victoria as a general consulting engr.

Since coming to this city he has taken a very important part in many public issues. He was an ardent Imperialist and became an energetic member of the BC Board of Trade and VP of the local branch of the Navy League. An authority on the screw propeller, marine architecture and marine engineering in general, his advice on these matters was always in demand.

At the time of the visit of the British Assn last yr to the coast, he took great pains to show Sir William White and his associates the advantages which the hbr of Esquimalt possesses as a naval base and as a suitable point for the construction of warships.

Mr Rebbeck was a member of the Natural Hx Soc and before this society he read many interesting papers, dealing chiefly with marine architecture. His manner was quiet and unassuming, but those who came within the realm of his friendship found him a valued friend. He was always held in the greatest respect by all his associates in the societies to which he belonged, and during the time of his enforced confinement his absence has been noticed with regret.

For the last several months he has been suffering, and was for some time a patient at one of the local hospitals. Ph/Sep 4, 11. Strictly private funeral. AV/Sep 10, 1910, 2 - Local aviator's trial flight - Reaching an extreme height of about 20' from terra firma Mr William Wallace Gibson inventor and the 1st aviator of this province on Thurs flew in his 40-hp twinplane for over 200' without descending to the earth. The trial was made over the Dean farm in the vicinity of Mt Tolmie. When he did alight the severe concussion fractured the riding wheels of the twin plane and further flights have been delayed for a day or two.

It has been the desire of the aviator and those interested in his invention during the 2 yrs that Mr Gibson has been perfecting his machine to employ the greatest secrecy possible, and with this in view the twinplane was quietly removed last week to the aviation field at Mt Tolmie at a late hr of the night. Their efforts have not been altogether unnoticed and several res/o the neighborhood of Mt Tolmie witnessed Mr Gibson in his initial trials.
The final trial was the most successful, when the breaking of the wheels occurred. This flight was not witnessed by anyone as far as can be learned.

Further flights will be attempted within a day or so.

A camp has been made to the rear of the Dean residence.
Here with the setting or rising of the sun, Mr Gibson is endeavoring to demonstrate his ability as a pilot of the air and it is stated that when he perfects himself to his liking he will get a public exhibition.

While the aeroplane has been designed and constructed by Mr Gibson himself, the gasoline motor, was specially constructed by the Hutchinson Brothers Motor Co of Victoria.
The motor was delivered by them to the aviator at his Clarence st home about 2 wks ago and installed by Mr Gibson on those premises. Since the delivery of the engine Mr Gibson had been very quiet, although flights were daily anticipated.

The motor originally experimented with by Mr Gibson was constructed under his own personal supervision and was of a 4-cycle type, but proved unsatisfactory. Early last spring an order was placed with Hutchinson Brothers for the construction of a suitable motor. The motor which was designed throughout for the service intended is of the 2-cycle air-cooled type, and develops 48hp at a speed of 800 rpm. With all jettings and attachments the motor weighs 200#, being similar to motors of this type used by all well-known aviators. The crank case has been made of aluminum while the frame has been put up in macadamite.

The motor is fitted with 2 propellers which have a driving force equal to those used by such aviators as Hamilton and the Wrights.
Mr D C Hutchinson stated yesterday that while it is not generally known, there are in this city many people who are taking a deep interest in aeronautics and during the coming winter there will be others who will experiment in the art of flying.

Before he finally decided upon the present model, Mr Gibson had made 3 or 4 others. The latest model was 5' in length and was perfected with a non-collapsible arrangement which had been tested in all wx conditions off Beacon Hill, the model, if upset by main force, always righting itself of its own accord.

In length the twinplane measures 54' with a width of 8', while the planes are positioned lengthwise on the craft and are controlled by a single lever which guides the course of the airship. The planes measure 20' each in length and are 8' wide, supplemented with 100 springs girded with wire which make the machine indestructible.

Died Oct 18, 1910 at Victoria, BC, Henry Purdon Bell, aged 69, n/o Co Antrim, Ire. Deceased was 2nd s/o late Jacob Bell, and was one of the pioneer surveyors and miners of BC, coming here in the early days. At first he resided at Kamloops, and later on the coast. He frequently acted in an advisory capacity to both the provincial and Dominion gvts, regarding engineering projects and on one occasion was assigned by the Liberal authorities to survey a passable route for the bringing of transcontinental RR's to VI, the scheme including the bridging of Seymour Narrows. In connection with the latter project he estimated that the bridging would necessitate 7 spans, costing in the neighborhood of $1,500,000. For a # of yrs he was employed in Victoria and he designed the Pt Ellice bridge to replace the old one, which some 11 yrs ago collapsed with such a heavy loss of life. He was, moreover, the designer of a # of other important works in BC. During his career here he won many friends and was highly respected wherever he went. Of late yrs he has only been an occasional visitor to the city. He leaves a widow, Mrs Agnes Blanchard Bell in Truro, NS. In the death of Mr Bell, Canada loses one of the oldest of her pioneer engineers, as Mr Bell, when he 1st came to Canada was employed on surveys for the Intercolonial RR and later on construction, designing some of the bridges and acting as Govt Engineer on construction. Later he was employed on the original surveys of the CPR, coming to BC in 1874 and locating lines along the Fraser Rv and in the Cariboo country. After the CPR Syndicate was formed he located part of the line through SK and AB and also the line of the GW Central, now part of the CPR. Later again he built, as contractor, part of the main line of the CPR in the Rockies, and later again, in partnership with Mr Paterson (now Lt-Gen)

and Thomas Earle, a section of the E&N RR. He then went to Chile and built part of the govt RR until work was stopped by the outbreak of the Balmaceda revolution. He then returned to Canada and practiced his profession in Victoria, but when surveys were commenced on Georgian Bay Canal he took employment from the Dominion govt and designed many of the locks. He was then instructed to prepare estimates for the Dominion govt of the cost of bridging Seymour Narrows, and subsequently did similar work on the Trent Canal, until this summer, when he returned to Victoria to recuperate his health.

Mr Bell has thus been connected with the most important works which all have for their end the cementing the various provinces of the Dominion into one integral whole.

Born in Ire in 1841, as soon as boyhood was past he began an active career, commencing active work under Mr Lanyon, CE, and on Jun 1, 1863, going to Spain under Mr J F Bateman, Pres of the Inst of Civil Engrs, and George Higgins, CE, where he was employed as asst on important irrigation works for the Compania Iberica de Riegos. Although only 22 he was given sole charge of construction of a heavy weir across the River Henares and of a tunnel 2 ½ miles long. This work was so successfully carried out that Mr Higgins named him as Resident Engineer of another canal, where he had entire charge of the laying out of the line, preparation of plans, sections, etc, after which he was employed in the field in studying new schemes for the making of canals, drainage of marshes, etc. This work being completed in 1866, he subsequently came to Canada, where he has since made his home. He leaves a widow, the eldest d/o late Sheriff Blanchard, of Truro, NS, 2 sons and 2 daughters to mourn his loss. Bldg/Nov 13, 1910, sup pg 2 - In last Sunday's issue I observed a letter over signature of Edgar Fawcett, in which he made some reference to the old salmon house on the waterfront nr Johnson st, but he did not say what it had been used for besides putting up of salmon. Now, sir, I will tell you something about it. When the great rush of miners and others from San Francisco came to Victoria in 1858, there was no accommodation anywhere for eating and sleeping; every person had his tent and cooked for himself. In order to introduce something of civilized life into the place which would benefit the newcomers and themselves as well, 2 enterprising young men from San Francisco rented the old salmon house from HBC, fitted it up and started a restaurant in it, the 1st one in the country, in which a good square meal could be had, or an excellent cup of coffee, at any time of day or night. This restaurant continued doing business for some months until eating houses were established uptown, when the proprietors closed out the business and moved to better quarters on Government st; but the old salmon house has the honor of being the 1st restaurant established in Victoria, 1858. Fire/Died Nov 13, 1910 at Victoria, BC, Henry Mansell, rict/o late Suzanna Mansell, a 59'er, one more of the now dwindling list of pioneers of BC. He was n/o Wailworth Common, Camberwell, London, Eng, aged 77. He left his home in 1854 for NY. He went to San Francisco in 1857 and arrived in this city May 2, 1859. He then embarked in the shoe business in Waddington alley and giving this up returned to NY. Again he turned toward Victoria and arrived here again in 1861, when he opened a shoe store on Government st in a log cabin, the present site of W & J Wilson clothing store. He then moved a little further down the thoroughfare to the store next to BC Market Co. Here, until 1901, Mr Mansell continued business. He was the 1st citizen of this city to use gas on Government st. He was an active mem/o Victoria Fire dept, Tiger engine, Co No 2, in the early days. USV/Dec 9, 1910 - Mrs Waterman, who almost 50 years ago was the 1st white woman to take up residence in Lillooet, returned to that town last week from CA, where latterly she has made her home. It was just 46 years ago that she said goodbye to the district, in order to join her late husband, then serving in the US army in defence of the union. During her present visit Mrs Waterman chanced to mention a 'gold ledge' at Seton Lake which an old Indian friend had shown her half a century ago. By her descriptive account of the 'chickamon stone,' she so impressed her friends that they forthwith determined to pay a visit to the property. They did so - finding all the indications of very rich ore - and staked and recorded several claims. If the property redeems expectations, Mrs Waterman is to receive $15,000 for her 'tip,' and this with her pension, will suffice to maintain her in comfort for the remainder of her days. During her previous residence in Lillooet, Mrs Waterman acted as interpreter for the Indians. She is now 90.

Died Dec 18, 1910 at Victoria, BC, Michael King, 60, n/o Pt Huron, MI. Dec 19, photo. One of the most widely acquainted and generally respected of Victoria's pioneers passed away after an illness of several weeks.

A typical westerner, possessing a passion for the wilds, business acumen which enabled him to turn to commercial advantage the knowledge he secured in his travels, and a heart as expansive as the territory he roamed, 'Mike' King was loved by his intimate friends and held in the highest esteem by his acquaintances. Until the pain which Mr King suffered in his later days made retirement to the hospital and medical treatment absolutely imperative he led his usual active life. The story of what brought about his fatal illness is strikingly characteristic of the man - a woodsman of iron physique and of indomitable will power.

In the spring of this year he took steamer Tees to Tatchu Pnt, nr Nootka Snd, in order to superintend the initiation of the development of some coal measures which he owned there. Having looked after the work he found that the vessel on which he had taken passage out was unable to call for him on its return because of the rough wx and rather than wait, he decided to walk across the island and catch a southbound steamer from the E.

En route Mr King slipped while walking a moss-covered log and fell some 30' down a rocky cliff. He sustained serious injuries. His ankle was twisted and there was a pain in his side besides bruises. The woodsman brushed aside the incident as a mere trifle. Picking himself up he limped over miles of the roughest kind of trail to Buttle Lk.

While attempting to construct a rude raft in order to cross the lake, Mr King was found by 'Lord' Bacon, a trapper who was operating in that vicinity.

Mr Bacon placed the injured man in his canoe and paddled to the lower end of the lake, and then down the turbulent Upper Campbell Rv to a lodge occupied at times by the trapper.

'He was in a sorry plight when he reached my cabin,' said Bacon. 'He was hungry, lame and ill; his clothes were torn, his gun was bent and broken; and altogether he presented a very melancholy appearance.

'I tried to get him to stay in my cabin for a few days until I could get help to take him out. This he refused, saying that he was feeling fine and could easily do the remaining 30 miles to the settlement, so, packing a bit of lunch in his handkerchief and using his heavy, but useless rifle as a cane the poor old fellow hobbled out in the brush alone and made for home.

'The man was certainly in no condition to be in the woods at all, and had it been anybody in the country except 'Mike' King, whose strength, courage and woodcraft were so well known to me, I would never have trusted him outside the door.'

After leaving 'Lord' Bacon, Mr King footed it down the Campbell Rv and Lk to the Quinsum trail landing, where he secured a small canoe, which he paddled to McIvor Lk. The remaining 6 miles to the settlement were covered by foot, the entire journey from Buttle Lk being done in 1 day, a remarkable feat for any man.

In due course Mr King got to Victoria. He told his family and friends of the occurrence, but made light of it and until Aug went about his business here as actively as ever. During the month mentioned he started for the E, visiting Montreal, NY and Chicago. While away he began to suffer and en route home endured much. On his arrival he was sent to the hospital and never left it alive.

The examination to which he was subjected showed that several ribs had been broken as a result of his accident months before and that these had knitted together in a haphazard fashion. But there were other internal hurts which through the want of attention, became fatally serious. The physique which had been rendered impervious to hardships through constant outdoor life was laid low because of neglect of what had seemed but a trifling episode. Not much is known here of his earlier career except that it was spent in the woods for the most part, he occupying a position in connection with one of the prominent lumber concerns in MI. Thirty-five yrs ago the lure of the west attracted, and he came to BC, making his home in Victoria. From that date this city was his headquarters. He was fonder of Victoria than of any other community, but the greater part of his time was spent abroad. Both his business and his inclinations called him away on trips of exploration. How many times he travelled through the valleys of VI, climbed the loftiest of her mountains, and followed her rivers and streams from their outlets to their almost inaccessible sources it would be difficult to say, but of this there can be no contradiction - Mike King ranked among the most thoroughly posted men in the W with regard to the native resources of this section of BC. One of his earliest associates in this district was Louis Casey, with whom he entered into partnership in the timber business soon after his arrival from the E. They secured timber limits on the Salmon and the Campbell rivers, at Comox and on Read I, and for yrs took out logs which were sold to the Sayward and Chemainus mills. Later a firm comprising Messrs Walkley, King and Casey, made a tender and secured the contract from Victoria for the installation of filter beds at Elk Lk.

When the discovery of gold in the Klondyke occurred, Mr King's adventurous spirit would not permit him to keep entirely out of the excitement. Shrewdly calculating that his lumberman's knowledge might be turned to some account in the N in supplying the needs of the thousands who were flocking through this city on their way to the goldfields, Mr King went to the centre of things to investigate. The result of this trip was the establishment on Lk Bennett of a sawmill, which turned out scows for the use of the people en route down the Yukon and which, incidentally, was probably one of the best paying propositions in that country at that time, with the possible exception of a few of the best placer mines.

Returning to Victoria, as he invariably did after a period of wandering, he went S to Mex. For 6 yrs he remained in that turbulent republic, investing in mines, in lands, and other propositions that commended themselves to him. The result was that he accumulated considerable 'legal tender.' Before coming N he took what he had made in the country and put it all back in a ranch, 600,000 acres in extent, several of his friends joining him in the enterprise. This immense tract of land Mr King often used to refer to as something particularly choice. The agricultural sections, he said, had native grass high and thick enough to completely hide the Mexican mule. There were 100,000 acres of splendid timber.

Once more Mr King took passage for his BC home, and he hadn't been here long before he was the centre of activities. He owned property at Campbell Rv, and realizing that the time would soon arrive when the power, which might easily be generated by the falls of that stream, would be useful, he formed a company for the exploitation of that asset. He didn't live to see his scheme perfected. He also owned timber limits and coal measures, to the development of all which he was giving his personal attention, the trip on which he met with his fatal accident being, as stated, in connection with one of these enterprises. Besides being an indefatigable worker, a shrewd though generous business man, and one of the most expert timber cruisers in the NW, Mr King was a prince of entertainers. He had a fund of stories of personal experiences, many of which were demonstrations of the truth of the adage that truth is stranger than fiction. Naturally in his wandering in BC, he had come in personal touch with the Indians, was able to discourse fluently in their patois, and his intimate knowledge of their character enabled him to pilot himself safely through many a tight corner. His favorite exclamation: 'By the Lovely Dove' is a passport to the good fellowship of foresters from Mex to AK. Mr King leaves to mourn his loss a widow and 2 children, a daughter and son. WmHx/Legal/USV/Dec 29, 1910, 5 - Tomorrow the funeral takes place of Mrs Benjamin [Sarah] Evans, [died at Seattle, WA, Dec 27], rlct/o late Benjamin Evans, the constant attendant, companion and friend of late Chief Justice Sir Matthew William Baillie Begbie, and himself one of the very earliest settlers of Cadboro Bay. The late Mrs Evans had for some 3 yrs past been making her home with her daughter, Mrs Harry Bragg, of Seattle, where her death occurred. Mrs Evans was known and loved by many as one of the most kindly and charitable of the 'mothers of Victoria,' to which city she 1st came in the days of her infancy - in later 1860s. N/o Kington, Herefordshire, Eng, she came to Canada during the 1850s, settling in the 1st instance at Ingersoll, ON, from which town she and Mr Evans subsequently removed to MN, going thence down the Mississippi and via Panama to the Pacific coast during the dark days of the US civil war. Upon arrival at Victoria Mr Evans established a comfortable and popular public house on Old Country lines, to which he gave the name of W'ot Cheer Hotel, the house subsequently becoming the well known Dominion, of which Stephen Jones is the present proprietor, Mr Jones having been responsible for its development to its present proportions. Retiring from business life, Mr Evans became court usher and personal attendant upon the then Chief Justice, the famous Sir Begbie, taking up land at Cadboro Bay and devoting himself in his own time to the cultivation of his widely renowned garden and his equally renowned setter kennels. To Mrs Evans was left the dispensing of a generous and always kindly hospitality and countless works of unostentatious charity and benevolence. She removed to Seattle to spend her declining yrs with a daughter and family. She was

Missing
Her decks are white, and her brasswork bright,
And her clean lines part the foam;
She is outward bound from Puget Sound
While the crew sings 'Rolling Home.'
She dips her ensign as she leaves
And shakes her topsails free,
And the tugboats toot a hoarse salute
As the vessel stands to sea.

The cables flash her sailing
And in homes far, far away,
There are those who cheer
when the news they hear
And faithful hearts that pray.
The mother yearns for her boy's return, Though she bows to God's decree
And her longing grows as she prays for those In peril on the sea.
A weary wait brings changes in
And the worlds of men forget,
But the ones that care face grim despair
As they ask, 'Is she spoken yet?'
Month after month drags slowly on]And they learn with blanching lips
Of the fate they feared when the vessel cleared -
She is one of the missing ships.

A sullen coast and a weed-washed shore
Where the thundering breakers din
And the seagulls cry to the naked sky

As the hungry tide comes in.
A splintered spar and a shattered boat
On the jagged rocks are cast.
And the sea clears up the mystery
Of the missing ship at last.

Jan 10, 1911 - Sealing sch Emma H, which was being brought from Halifax to Victoria to engage in the sealing business has returned to the NS port, and reports the loss of Capt Victor Gullin, of Victoria, who was washed overboard during a storm encountered soon after leaving.
A telegram was received by E
B Marvin & Co. The local firm is seeking to learn the identity of the men interested in bringing Emma H to this coast.
It was reported when Capt
vessel that he was going on behalf of Mr C Dawley, of Clayoquot, but in answer to a telegram Mr Dawley says he is not interested in the vessel.

Capt Victor Gullin is a sealer who has been long a res/o Victoria. He and associates last summer bought steamer
Tasmanian for use from Pr Rupert, and after completing the season he left for Halifax.
For some yrs he sailed as hunter, and later as mate and master on various sealing schooners from here, and in 1909 went to Seattle and took command of a bark sailing to Alaskan ports. After completing a season in that

Overlander/Died Jan, 1911 at Kamloops, BC, George C Tunstall, one of the most widely known pioneers of the interior. Upon retiring from the office of gold commissioner here some months ago he accompanied his son to CA, returning about 2 weeks ago. He was n/o
New Jersey, US, Dec 5, 1836.
He was educated at Sparkman's Academy, Sorel and Lower Canada college, Montreal. He travelled across the Canadian plains in company with Messrs Fortune, Mara and others, arriving in BC in 1862. The following year he proceeded to Cariboo, where he engaged in mining for a number of years. He was appointed government agent at Kamloops in 1879, and received the appointment of gold commissioner for the Granite Creek mines in 1885.
He was removed in 1890 to the West Kootenay district, with headquarters at Revelstoke, from which place he was subsequently transferred to Kamloops, holding the position of gold commissioner for the eastern portion of Yale district. He was also for some years an assistant commissioner of lands and works and a stipendiary magistrate.
Deceased leaves 2 sons, his wife having passed away a number of years ago.

WmHx/Died Dec 20, 1910 at Hazelton, BC, Mrs Margaret Loring, n/o Victoria, BC, born in 1852, d/o Donald McAuley (HBC) and his wife. She resided during her childhood at Ft Simpson, being a particularly bright and pretty child, she and her sisters formed a lovely group to contemplate. She resided in Victoria for some time; where she met Mr T Hankin, of the then firm of Cunningham & Hankin, whom she married in 1871, at Ft Simpson, she coming up the coast with Capt/Mrs Lewis, Mr Hankin meeting her there, having come from the firm's place of business at Hazelton. Of this union was born a family of 5 sons, 2 daughters, all living at the present time, the daughters being respectively, Mrs E R Cox and Mrs J C Boyd.

Secondly, Mrs McAuley married Mr R E Loring, Indian agent at Hazelton, who survives her, and by whom she had 1 daughter, 2 sons, all living. Deceased was well known as a kind-hearted and charitable lady. Having a perfect knowledge of the Indian tongue, she was of invaluable service to her husband as interpreter, accompanying him on most of his official trips, he was a good friend to the Indians. She suffered greatly in her last illness, and death came to her as a happy release.

Today Victoria's oldest living pioneer celebrates his 93rd birthday. Not only is William Cook the oldest pioneer of Victoria, but he is also believed to be the oldest resident. Way back in 1848 when he 1st landed here the population was but 30 souls, and since then he has watched it grow through hardships and prosperity. For 63 yrs Mr Cook has lived here, in latter yrs taking up his residence on Carey Rd, where he has resided for 45 yrs.

Six yrs after the war of 1812, when the country was beginning to recover from the effects of it, Mr Cook was born. His father had fought for the British flag at that time, in fact he left his home in Eng for that purpose. On the shores of Lk Champlain Mr Cook was born and until his 14th yr, when his parents moved to Montreal, he resided there. He received his education in Montreal and was later embarked in the meat trade. When 20 he left his employment and anxious and keen to get started for the great W he joined a party bound for the Great Lakes. At Lachine, he spent some time on the journey W and also took a hand at shipping on a schooner for a time at that port, but dissatisfied with this sort of life he joined HBC at the time of the rebellion. So in 1847 he started out for Ft Athabasca. In the spring of the next yr, Mr Cook was commissioned to take the mgr of the company on a tour of inspection to Victoria, and once here, Mr Cook left Victoria on few occasions.

4 daughters, 2 sons. They celebrated their diamond wedding last yr.

Mar 8, 1911 - A telegram was received yesterday from Carstairs, AB, by C W Spring, Victoria, BC, stating that his brother, John William Spring, aged 38, 2nd s/o late Capt William Spring, a pioneer of Victoria, had been the victim of a fatal shooting accident [Mar 7]. No particulars were given, the brief message from Mrs J W Spring stating that her husband had accidentally shot himself dead. Deceased was n/o Victoria, and was connected with the firm of Challoner, Mitchell & Co for some yrs. After leaving the firm he engaged in a jewelry business in Rossland, which he sold out and went to Portland, OR, until last spring, when he took up some land at Carstairs, AB, and engaged in farming there. Mrs Spring was formerly Miss Stephen, d/o David Stephen, of Victoria. Mar 11 - Remains are expected to reach Victoria accompanied by Mrs Spring and her brother, Mr E R Stephens, of Victoria. Mar 12 - From details of the accident received by relatives it appears that late Mr Spring had just taken his gun to proceed from his house to hunt coyotes. While going down the back steps the weapon was accidentally discharged, the bullet passing through the lip and entering the brain of the deceased. May 16, 7 - These are the days of housecleaning at the provincial bldgs, and while the painters and decorators hold autocratic procession of the imposing corridors, the soaring flagpole, which occupies a post of honor in the corner of the grounds is simultaneously receiving its springtime refreshment of white paint. This flagpole, which is one of the tallest in all BC, was erected some 13 or 14 yrs ago, and had been from that time forward the especial care and pride of late Capt Thomas Harmon, who annually engaged to do the painting. Poor old Tom, a few months ago, passed from the scenes of his earthly activities, and for the 1st time the rejuvenation of the lofty pole was committed to other hands. The work is now being performed by William Neil, who has ideas of his own in regard to it, which differ considerably from those of his predecessor. It was 'Old Tom's' practice to hitch himself into a bosun's chair and request any passing teamster to take a running line and haul him to the masthead, leaving it for anyone who might be in the vicinity at the time to make him fast. Upon occasions he waited for upwards of an hr before he could find a teamster who was willing to oblige. The majority 'didn't want to take any chances of accidentally letting him drop and break.' Neil retains his own assistant to haul him laboriously skyward, and then to gradually lower him as the work proceeds. T 034 E 44

Bldg/WmHx/Died Apr 9, 1911 at Victoria, BC, Mrs Martha B Ella, wdw/o late Capt Ella, and one of the early pioneers of Victoria, aged 76. Mrs Ella was widely known in the city, having arrived here when a girl in her 'teens. She had grown up with the city from the time it was an HBC fort until it attained its present state. Mrs Ella was an ardent worker in charitable causes and her name will long be remembered in many homes throughout the city. Over 60 yrs ago Mrs Ella 1st set foot on the then little village of Victoria. She was n/o Huntington, Eng, and in 1850, when an aunt had decided to come to this country, Mrs Ella, then Miss Cheney, persuaded her people to allow her to come here. After 6 months' sailing Miss Cheney arrived at Ft Victoria in the ship Tory in 1850. When Miss Cheney was aged 19 she was married to Capt Ella [1855], the 1st marriage by license in the colony, and the 2nd which Bishop Cridge had performed here. The newly wedded couple's 1st home was at the SE crnr Fort/Broad sts, which was turned into a temporary hospital, which was Victoria's 1st hospital. In 1863 their present home was built on Fort st, and there, until her death, Mrs Ella has resided. Ten yrs later, she was left a widow with 7 children, when Capt Ella lost his life by drowning in Burrard Inlet. Police/May 14, 1911 - Goaler Henry W Sheppard, the oldest mem/o the local police force and the man with the longest service, is today celebrating his 76th birthday. It was in 1864 that he 1st entered the police, the force at that time being under the government. Later he left for the Cariboo and on his return again took up police work. In all he has served 35 yrs. 'Dad' as he is affectionately called by the other mem/o the force is still, in spirit at least, one of the youngest of them all.

May 16, 1911 - The remains of late William Sidney MacDonell, aged 22, n/o Telkwa, BC, s/o Mr R J MacDonell, late of Victoria, BC, but now of Hazelton, arrived in Victoria by SS Pr Rupert, accompanied by the father. Deceased was educated in the local schools. He passed away Apr 6, but owing to the river being still closed, the remains were unable to be shipped until a few days ago, and were sent down to Pr Rupert on the 1st boat on the opening of navigation. Mr MacDonell Sr, sailed from Pr Rupert on May 10, and shortly before the boat pulled out, he received a wire from Hazelton notifying him that his younger son, James Matthew, n/o Victoria, BC, aged 19, had just died. With this additional sad blow thrust upon him, Mr MacDonell sailed for Victoria with the elder boy's body, having 1st wired to have the other's remains embalmed and forwarded at once to this city, and they will arrive tomorrow. The funerals of both young men will take place on Sun next. Pallbearers: Messrs J J Watcher, H Sidenbaum, T Stewart, J Shin, J M Johnson, George W Ward, George Irving, G M Hughes, W R Jackson, John Todd, R Ray, Capt F Cutler.

WmHx/V/Died May 28, 1911 at Victoria, BC, Mrs Ellen Sarah Bell, aged 72, rlct/o Peter Warren Bell, n/o QC. Two daughters, Mrs F B Pemberton and Mrs Ricardo; 3 sons, Messrs W W, J D and C D Bell, and 2 sisters and 2 brothers including Maj Dupont and Miss Dupont of Victoria survive. Pallbearers: Messrs W H Langley, H R Beavan, L Crease, J Musgrave, W Curtis Sampson, J D Pemberton, W P D Pemberton, A Crease. Canada lost another of the pioneer women who, by doing their parts, have helped so much to establish the character of the great Dominion as it is today. Mrs Bell was the wife of one of the HBC's most valued servants. The late Mr Bell, who was among the victims of the awful Islander disaster, was chief factor at a # of E posts for many yrs. During those yrs he became a warm friend of a co-worker in the HBC service who has since become Lord Strathcona, Canada's High Comm in London. Mr/Mrs Bell, following Mr Bell's retirement from active participation in the company's service, resided in Victoria until Mr Bell's death. Mrs Bell continued to make her home here where she has many relatives, but she spent a great deal of her time in travelling.

The late Mrs Bell was one of a family of 13 brothers and sisters. She was born in the old city of Quebec and spent her girlhood there. It was there that she met Mr Bell who was at that time engaged in HBC business. After their marriage at QC she lived with him at various company posts and saw, with him much of the early development of the Dominion. T 062 W 46

SV/Died by suicide Jun 6, 1911 at Victoria, BC, James Warren

Jones, aged 41, n/o Cumberland, MD.

Apparently in a fit of despondency and temporary mental relapse, James Warren Jones, for several yrs a well known mining man and timber cruiser, familiarly known as 'Black' Jones, ended his existence Jun 6, by shooting himself through the body in Beacon Hill park, nr Heywood av. The bullet from the Winchester rifle which he placed against his breast with the intention of shooting himself through the heart, penetrated clear through the body, emerging between the shoulders at the back. The report of the rifle was heard by John Belford, 936 Heywood ave, who saw Jones fall to the ground and watched him in his death throes. Mr Belford rushed to a nearby telephone and notified the city police. The patrol wagon was rushed to the spot. Jones was still alive but he died on the way to the hospital. The suicide did not take the trouble to enter the thick underbrush which at this point covers the park grounds. Where he committed his act was on a small grass plot in full view of residents on Heywood av.

Jones has been a res/o Victoria off and on for several yrs. He was a mem/o 1st Contingent which Canada sent to the S African war. Before and after his return he engaged in mining and lumbering and made frequent trips to the WCVI. Of late he had been staying at the Balmoral hotel, where his strange actions have attracted the attention of the guests.

Yesterday morning he called upon a legal friend and expressed his intention of making his will in favor of his sister, who resides in Seattle. Later he returned to the hotel, but no one saw him leave with the rifle in his possession. He was an unmarried man about 38 and so far as is known had no relatives on this coast other than his sister in Seattle. The body was taken to the Victoria Undertaking parlors. An inquest will be held this afternoon. Remains will be interred in Ross Bay cemetery tomorrow. Deceased was a mem/o local Aerie of Eagles. He was n/o Cumberland, MD, USA. Two sisters survive the deceased, Mrs S A Hoyt and Mrs C H Bestor, of Seattle. He was one of the 1st to reach S Africa during the war there. Pallbearers were all mem/o 1st Cdn contingent to S Africa: Messrs S C Stout, R Leeman, George Neil, A Bayntun, W C Winkel, W C Warren. O 072 W M

Jun 10, 1911 - There are few old timers better known or more generally liked than Steve Tingley, who leaves Victoria after a short but enjoyable visit. He is well known throughout BC as one of the original pioneers of Cariboo, and was one of the 1st drivers of the old Cariboo stagecoach, when one had to be handy with the 'gun' as well as the 'ribbons.' Steve has been up and down many a hill in his time, but has fallen on good ground of recent yrs.

Died Aug 15, 1911 at Victoria, BC, Stephen Allen Spencer, 82, n/o New London, CT, he came to BC in 1858 via Panama. Following his arrival here he was attracted by the excitement in Cariboo and like so many other arrivals on this coast at that time, he was induced to try his luck in the goldfields of the north. For several years he toiled with others to wring gold from the Mother earth but eventually, after many stirring experiences, he returned to Victoria and from that time until the present he had seen a frontier post grow into a populous and orderly city.

For some years he conducted a photographic gallery on Fort street and some years afterwards went into partnership with late Thomas Earle, another pioneer, in operating a cannery at Alert Bay and later still he brought out Mr Earle's interest and carried on the business under his own management, selling out finally to BC Packers. He is survived by a widow and 5 sons... P 104 E F

Nov 11, 1911, 5 - James D Gordon passes away, n/o Goderich, ON. A prominent mem/o the local customs dept, and resident of BC since 1883. Until his 3-week illness he had been in customs service since 1897, when he joined the forces of the borderland at Trail, BC.

He leaves a wide circle of friends and relatives to mourn his death, not only here, but in other parts of BC, where he had resided from time to time in the custom service, and before he entered it. Though one of the most modest and unassuming of men, he was widely read, and greatly esteemed for his uprightness of character and his genuine kindness and goodheartedness.

In 1883 with a brother, M P Gordon, of Victoria, deceased arrived here from Goderich, where he was born 51 years ago. For 1 year he was employed by Weiler Bros, in their furniture house. In the spring of the next year, he went to Kamloops, and there engaged in the furniture business for himself, with his brother as a partner.

Miss Annie McQueen, of Pictou, NS, became his wife in 1889, at St Thomas, ON, where he resided for 4 years. Later he returned to Savonas, BC, and shortly after removed to Kamloops once more. It was there that he received his customs appt, and the 1st post he occupied was at Trail, followed by positions at Gateway, Tobacco Plains, and then Victoria, where he had been engaged for 5 years.

He was s/o late Daniel Gordon, of Goderich, and leaves a mother there to mourn his death, beside his widow, who resides at the family residence, 404 Oswego st, a daughter, Jessie, 2 sons, Eric and Marshall; the latter now at McGill College in Montreal; and 3 brothers - M P, Victoria; J L, Kamloops; William, Sac City, Iowa, and 3 sisters - Mrs Newton, Goderich; Mrs Salton, Moose Jaw, Mrs McLachlan, Toronto. Bldg/Died Nov 24, 1911 at Victoria, BC, Charles

McKeivers Smith, 89, n/o
Windsor, Hants County, NS.
Since 1858 has been closely associated with the life and development of Victoria. At the time of the 1840 dispute between England and US [boundary dispute Maine/NB],
he joined a volunteer company under Colonel Gore and was ready to go to the front. At age 17 he went to Halifax and was engaged in mechanical work. He is reputed to have been the 1st person in British North America to establish a match factory, an establishment which he named North American Light House. On Jan 3, 1854 he started for CA, going by way of Boston and New York. Arriving in San Francisco he remained there 2 or 3 months, after which he joined his brother in Placerville. With his brother he went into mining operations which proved a financial success, but which at times were rather dangerous on account of the road agents and other vagabonds who were met with on the road.
He was one of the original company which put in the Great Cape flume in Feather River, CA, which was 3/4 miles long, 65' wide.
During the great gold rush on the Fraser River in 1858 Mr Smith left CA and arrived in Victoria Jun 1 of the same year. He was the 1st contractor to be employed by HBC in Victoria. He erected the 1st customs house and the 1st Post Office on the ground where the old Post Office building now occupied by the Supreme courthouse building.

He was the general contractor for the government until 1861, when, along with a number of others he went to the Cariboo. In 1863 he was engaged by some of the Wharf street merchants as leader of an exploring expedition to the Queen Charlotte Islands, and prospected the coast from Skidegate to the south end of the Island. In 1864 he was one of the 1st on Leech River after the discovery of gold in that district, and 2 years later found him in the Big Bend Kootenay country.

Deceased was married in Victoria, but his wife died shortly after the birth of their only child, Robert C Smith, who survives him. A brother, Honourable Amor de Cosmos.... PC, 2 with photo... Jan 5, 1912 - estate upwards of $147,000. T 069 W 46 [later moved to A 069 E 32]

Both are n/o Swansea, Eng, he born in 1832, they married in 1851. Mrs Mitchell's maiden name was Margaret Jenkins, b 1837. They came to Can about 10 yrs after their marriage, and chose BC. They set sail on Sylistria, Capt Jenkins, in 1862, and the voyage round the Horn to Esquimalt took 4m, 18d. Mr Mitchell's 1st undertaking was to establish a hotel known as the 'What Cheer' house, and the site of the same was the ground now occupied by the Dominion hotel. Abandoning this he joined in the Cariboo rush, and after undergoing all the vicissitudes he met with a measure of success and after returning to Victoria he conducted a store on John st. His next move was to a farm in Saanich, named Bremour and there they lived for 40 yrs. They gave up the farm 7 yrs ago. Joining the celebration are: son John, mgr at E G Prior Co, Kamloops, George M, who conducts a store at Cowichan str; William, who is still on the old farm and 3 daughters: Mrs Morley, Victoria, Mrs Thomas Smith, Sidney and Mrs A Menagh, Victoria. Bldg/Dec 23, 1911, 11 - John Jardine related an interesting story in connection with the birth of salmon canning industry on this coast. 'While at New Westminster John Graham had in his employ a Mrs James Symes, whose husband was a plasterer by trade. Mr Symes, who was a splendid mechanic, having been taught his trade in Edinburgh, designed the interior ornamentation of

'Borrossa', the home of Mr Graham, on crnr Menzies/Simcoe, Victoria. This was for a long time regarded as one of the most beautiful places in the city, and even now possesses an attraction because of its scheme of ornamentation, both interior and exterior.

'Previous to coming to Victoria and while at New West, Mr Symes conceived the idea of an experimental test for the preservation of salmon for commercial purposes by the use of hermetically sealed tins. After having soldered the tins, he prepared the salmon on Mr Graham's stove by boiling, and, to their great surprise and delight, the experiment proved successful beyond their most sanguine expectations.

'Believing that there was money to be made out of the process, Mr Symes wished to pursue his investigations, and here Mr Graham's characteristic generosity was demonstrated, for he advanced the capital to send Mr Symes' samples to Australia...resulted in failure'. But there is no doubt that the experiments made by Mr Symes laid the foundation for the great industry that has now assumed such importance on the Pacific Coast. [see Jan 15, 1869]

Police/Died Jan 1, 1912 at Victoria, BC, Jailer Henry William Sheppard, 76. The oldest member of the local force, he saw the city grow from the early times when Victoria was a veritable wilderness, to its present proud position. In company with the father of Premier McBride, he took the oath on the local dept 60 years ago, at a time when the police control was under the government. Born in Croydon, London, he came to this country via Australia in the early 1860s at a time when the gold rush called the youth of the world.

It was in 1862 that Mr Sheppard arrived in Victoria and joined the police dept. For 2 years he remained in the city until the excitement of the Cariboo gold discoveries drew the attention of the world to the north. Among the pioneers were Mr Sheppard who spent 2 years there. In 1864 he returned to the city and re-enlisted in the force.

In the following year he resigned and again went to Cariboo where he spent several years. The life of a pioneer and the struggles encountered made the story of the aged jailer and not a member of the present dept but delighted in hearing 'Dad' recount the experiences of the early days in the Gold Rush.

In 1867 Mr Sheppard returned to this city and after a trip to Australia where his family connections were then domiciled, he came here, rejoining the force in 1879 as constable and during the subsequent yrs he worked his way to the position of Chief, during which time he endeared himself to every member of the dept. In Nov 1898 he secured his rank and for the next 11 years he headed the dept in a time when the office meant something. Victoria was then in the creative stage and it required a strong man to rule the police destinies. Without doubt, the careful administration of late Mr Sheppard, during his tenure of office, had much to do with the subsequent good record of the city until today Victoria has achieved a police record unique in the history of the Dominion.

The late Mr Sheppard at an early age left for Australia, where he was apprenticed to the bricklaying trade, and took an active part in the early gold excitement in the Antipodes in the early 1850s. He leaves surviving him, 2 sisters in Australia and a sister in South Africa.

For the past few years late Jailer Sheppard had been residing with his daughter, Mrs King. [photo, Jan 3... PC]

JwHx/Died Jan 8, 1912 at Victoria, BC, Andrew Alfred Aaronson, a pioneer of Victoria. His death removes the figurehead in a business that has grown to be recognized as typically Victorian. No other store in Victoria, probably no other store in the W occupied the same position as did that of Mr Aaronson, who combined with his pawnbroking business, a collection of rare, beautiful Indian curios, old jewelry and precious metals of all kinds, that has probably never been equalled on the

Born in London, Eng, in 1855, he came to BC in 1877, travelling around the Horn. Arriving in Victoria, he started in business right away, his 1st store being on the site now occupied by Salmon's cigar stand on Government st, afterwards moving to the crnr Broad/Johnson sts, while he opened his main office on Government st, where the major part of the business was carried on.

The hx of Mr Aaronson's store is indissolubly bound up with the hx of Victoria, and there is little doubt that if it ever comes to be written it will read like a page out of some fairy tale. In his business capacity he came into contact with all sorts and conditions of men, from those whose names were closely allied with the great ones of the earth to the derelicts drifting from port to port. Tragedies of which the tale will never be told are concealed within the glass cases of the Government st store, embodied in the form of beautiful jewelry, rare old pieces of silver and valuable and beautiful antiques.

Mr Aaronson was a man of sterling worth and ability, and enjoyed the personal esteem and respect of all who knew him. He had an admirable helpmate in his wife, who took no small part in the bldg up of the business, and with whom the greatest sympathy will be felt. Mrs Aaronson was formerly Miss Vandersluin, of Chelsea, they married in London in 1886. Four children, Miss Hannah Aaronson, Bert Aaronson, who owns the drugstore at the crnr Cook/Fort sts, Harry Aaronson, who was connected with his father in his business, and Miss Irene Aaronson. He also leaves a brother, Barnet Aaronson, Victoria.

Deceased was a mem/of one of Victoria's 1st fire brigades, and was connected with Kof P, Woodmen of the World, AOUW. [ph/Jan 9, 2]. Pallbearers: Messrs A Schulanger, F Greensfelder, E Fawcett, E Estace, Max Leiser, Police Chief Langley. Jewish cemetery.

Jun 12, 1 - Blanket Bill
Jarman, 94, died at Ferndale, WA. He had come to the Pacific coast in 1848 on an HBC trading boat. He was the man who heralded the white race to VI and whose early history may be said to represent the foundation stone of the wonderful structure of civilization which this part of the world now represents.

In addition to being one of the 1st to settle on the island, he was the last, or very nearly the last of the pioneers, his great age spanning the 1st century of civilization in this far west.

He was a sailor and it is reported that, together with the crew of his ill-fated shp, he was driven ashore in the Nootka country by eccentric winds. The country was inhabited with Indians and when they detected the 'foreigners' they made a raid upon them. It may be that others were killed but the records of the time indicate that Bill was the only representative of the crew who was captured, the others escaping in their boats or succumbing to the attack. Bill was held captive for a long time, and strange are the stories that are told of his captivity, but one day an account of his condition reached the ears of Governor Douglas, and realizing the precarious condition of the sailor he sent word to the Indians that he would be pleased to treat with them for the release of the prisoner.

After many refusals and many propositions it was decided that Bill should be set free from his uncongenial surroundings and unsought companions on payment of a certain ransom by the Gov. The said ransom was a bunch of blankets, then in great request by the Indians, rising to the height of the sailor himself, some 6'. In time the deal was made and Bill was released, to be re-christened by everyone, and for all time coming 'Blanket Bill.' Since that day Blanket Bill has played many parts in the country, but always he was regarded with more than a slight feeling of awe on account of his early experiences. In addition to his wonderful experiences, however, he had the distinction of living considerably more than the allotted span of life and consequently, as the country drew gradually away from its early conditions his association with its chrysalis stage became the more remarkable, until in later days his name evoked the dreams of the past more like some mysterious symbol than a human being who had lived through the experiences he spoke of.

Blanket Bill, as he grew older, grew more and more reticent about his early days in the country until at last the sight of a writer of any kind rendered him as silent as a sphinx; and in order to glean information about him subterfuges of many kinds had to be resorted to.

Frank,' [Frank Laforcade], n/o
France, aged 84, a Cariboo

the habitations known as the street, near the BC Electric barns. Jan 30 - he had settled all his earthly affairs, paid some small debts owed, and made arrangements for his grave as a monument to mark his last resting place, paying in advance for these also. Then last Fri he called for a priest and later for a doctor from whom he begged poison with which to end his life. His request was, of course, refused. Just how long 'Old Frank' has been a resident of Victoria probably none know. He has been here for many years, had been an old Cariboo miner, a trader, sealer, longshoreman, and has followed other vocations. In early years he had an outfitting emporium on Wharf street and many a sealer who was without funds was outfitted free of expense, Laforcade being content to wait for his customer to pay and very many times he waited in vain. For a considerable number of years he has been in charge of the Harbour Cabins. Of his history prior to coming to Victoria practically nothing is known and he had no relatives so far as can be ascertained. Feb 6, 1912, 7 - That it was late mayor who gave the order for the removal of the bodies in the Catholic portion of RBC where the sea wall work has been under way is the result of the investigation which the cemetery committee of city council has made following the indignant protest of Mr Judge Gregory. Judge Gregory called attention to the fact that of some 300 bodies which had to be moved over 150 had actually been moved to other portions of the cemetery, some being re-interred in pauper ground while in other cases persons who desired that bodies of relatives should be moved were led to believe they would be called upon to pay for such removal.

...a communication from the cemetery keeper who stated that the order for the removal of the graves along the cemetery foreshore was given to him verbally by late Mayor in the presence of ex-Alderman Peden in Dec last... Further that he had for the past 2 or 3 yrs changed graves from the foreshore to other plots when the seas threatened them but always on a general written order. No further changes until he receives written instructions.

Feb 8, 1912, 6 - re: cold wx in 1862, Gilbert Malcolm Sproat was in Alberni at the time. The Alberni canal, for several miles down from its head, was frozen so that he and other sportsmen could traverse the surface for game. The Indians there had no tradition of such hard wx, nor has any such been experienced. The only actual farm in the neighborhood was that of the mill company, which had abundant forage for distribution to the logging camps for their cattle, the only cattle in the dist, which camps were ordered to be kept fully supplied for both men and beast. The 'feeding out' of the contents of 'mattresses' is a bit of logging camp humor. Any foreman who allowed his oxen to miss a meal would get his walking papers instanter for a superbundance of house and stacked hay always existed at the supply farm.

Died Feb, 1912 at S Wls, Gomer Johns, aged 70. He was well and favorably known in Victoria and throughout the Cariboo. Starting out in life as a 'quarter deck apprentice' in the mercantile marine he sailed several voyages to the Antipodes from London, Eng. He came to BC in the early 1860s and entered the lighthouse service on VI, which he served until induced to try his fortune in Cariboo. Always an enthusiastic prospector he worked in, and paid into a large # of claims, but did not meet with the success he deserved. Being a fine singer and actor he was a very popular mem/o the old Barkerville Amateur Dramatic society. He became mgr of late Joseph Mason, and after his death for late S A Rogers. His old-time sweetheart came out from Wls in 1891, they met and were married in Victoria in Sep of that yr, leaving immediately for Barkerville where they resided for several yrs, returning to Victoria to settle down. They bought the 'Willows' and ran it for a short time, then leased and finally sold it, returning to Wls c 8 yrs ago.

Funeral Feb 26, 1912 at Salt Spring Island, BC of Captain Rosman, 88. He came to BC in 1854, and a few years later entered the logging industry. In 1885 he purchased a farm in Metchosin and later on went to live on Salt Spring Island. He is survived by son, Edward, and 3 daughters, Mrs Mahaffey, Ladysmith, Mrs McFadden and Mrs Cotsford, both of Salt Spring Island. He brought the 1st sealskins to Victoria in 1854 from WCVI and induced Capt McKay, a trader, to send Indians after fur seals off the coast. He was one of the 1st navigators on the Fraser River, going up that waterway in 1854. Many were the incidents connected with his early career. He had charge of schooner Alice, when the Indians stole the son of Chief Freezie of the Songhees Indians from the vessel. When the gold miners brought the stories of the finds in the Cassiar to Victoria Capt Rosman rushed to the goldfields. He went to the Cassiar via Wrangel in the 1850s, and returning to Victoria he was one of the 1st miners to rush to Leech River when the placers near Victoria were found.

for the sawmill operated many years ago at Albert Head, and carried the material for the crib work at the E&N station, and the timber for Foster's pier at Esquimalt. During the early days he was arbitrator in many disputes among the Indians and carried mails for the Royal Navy.

The dead sailorman left his work with the navy to join the Franklin polar expedition, but left the exploratory craft. He was a pioneer of the WCVI trade, his 1st voyage being in the long boat the British ship Lord Western, which was rigged as a schooner. This vessel, which was named Snow, was sold to Capt J McKay, a pioneer trader. After leaving the sea Capt Rosman lived in Saanich and Metchosin, and for many years has lived on Salt Spring Island where gt-gt-grandchildren reside.

SV/Mar 22, 1912, 16 - Jack Dickson, who was one of the 1st to respond 'take me' when the call for volunteers to fight for the flag in S Africa was made in the doubtful days of the Boer war, again yesterday proved himself quite as much a hero as when he gallantly faced the bullets of Cronje's butchers behind the trenches of Paardeberg.

It was out on the Dallas rd, nr where the seawall construction has been for some time in progress - a favorite playground for adventurous babyhood... A 2 yr-old tot named Norman tumbled into a small pool left by the ebbing tide... a cry reached the ears of Dickson, who occupies a humble cabin close to the water's edge, and who has just emerged from hospital. He suffered severe injuries to his foot some wks ago while working at the ocean docks... he rushed to the rescue and some little difficulty extricated the child...

At the banquet of the Old Campaigners' assn, ex-comrades of Paardeburg fought that battle o'er, and incidentally stories were told of how Jack Dickson acquitted himself that eventful day when it was 'Canada to the front'...

The reminiscent soldiers were unaware that Dickson at that moment, not a mile from the banqueting hall, was lying sick and suffering, his recent injuries having been accentuated by his success a few hrs before in illustrating just how a man can be a hero in peace as well as war.

Marine/Died Mar 22, 1912 at Victoria, BC, Alexander Aitken Watson, one of the best known shipbuilders on the NW coast, aged 79. Deceased had boarded an Outer Wharf car for the city, and almost immediately fell to the floor. Mr Watson was born in Anstruther, Fifeshire, Sct, and at age 17 was apprenticed to Ines' shipbuilding yard at Leith. After serving his time there he went to sea, making voyages as ship's carpenter to the E coast of Africa, W Indies and S America. On his return to Sct he took passage on barque Rising Sun for Victoria, VI, then a Crown colony, arriving here early in 1863. He had resided in Victoria ever since, in early days being employed at Lang's shipyard, while in 1876 and 1877 he went to Pt Essington on the Skeena Rv for McAllister Bros. He designed and built several sternwheel river steamers for Capt John Irving, and his associates, and was later employed as supt of carpenters for CPN Co.

At the dawn of the Klondike rush in 1897 he went to St Michael, at the mouth of Yukon Rv, and built the historic steamer Yukoner for Capt Irving, and afterwards took that boat to Lk Bennett and built 2 other boats there for the same owner - Reaper and Zealandian.

Recently, until the last 3 yrs, he had been working at his own yard, 668 Montreal st, until his retirement. Deceased is survived by 4 sons, 1 daughter: Alexander Watson, shipbuilder; Thomas Watson, realty agent; James D Watson, foreman of Marine Iron Works; George Watson, of Watson & McGregor and Miss A D Watson, residing at the family home. Mar 24, 1912 - 'George Robert Holmes, died Jul 25, 1842, aged 17.' Words quoted are inscribed in a mourning ring found by one of the chaingang when digging an excavation in the Govt House grounds a few days ago. Can anyone tell the Colonist whom the wearer of the ring may have been? Mar 31, 11 - Mr R T Williams, of govt printing office shows old accounts showing that in early 1870s there was a Robert Holmes employed on road work... Probably the correct theory is advanced by Mrs King, a distant relative of a Mrs (Capt) King, who was a Miss Holmes. The latter lived for some time closely adjacent to the old Govt House and suggests that the ring was worn in memory of her brother, who died in Eng prior to Mrs King coming to this country....

Timothy Collins, who during

many yrs past has ranked junior only to Engineer George Lund among the mem/o Victoria Fire Dept, has placed his resignation in the hands of Chief Davis and retired from the brigade, differences with the hd of the dept prompting his retirement.

Eng Collins who had previously had considerable experience both in the RN and in firefighting in various parts of the world, joined the Victoria dept under Chief Thomas Deasy in 1898, and was for some time in charge of steamer John Grant, bearing a useful and not inconspicuous part in various fires affecting Victoria during his decade of service.

Notable, he was an outstanding figure in the Chatham st fire of about 10 or 11 yrs ago originating in the warehouses of M Baker & Sons, which for a time threatened the obliteration of the Chinese quarters, standing by his engine and driving it to save the district even though the paint was blistered off the apparatus and he himself was burned about the face and arms.

In retiring, Mr Collins desires through the Colonist to express his appreciation of the skill and efficiency of Thomas Deasy as a dept head, and also of his successor, Thomas Watson, as an individual fireman.

‘Tom Watson,’ said the veteran engineer, ‘was not a man of executive ability, but there are no better firemen made. He was a little fire dept in himself and everyone who has worked in the dept with him knows it. I also should like to say how much the boys appreciated the kind thoughtfulness of Mrs Watson, living with him at hqts during his tenure of office, and who never failed to have hot coffee for the men on their return from a run.’

‘Tim’ Collins during his naval service participated in 2 historic and dramatic incidents of life on the China coast, he being at the time attached to HMS Swift, Capt Collings, RN. On the one occasion he was a mem/o the naval forces assigned to the salvation of Hongkong from fire destruction when the old water police steamer caught fire and, dragging her cables, was drifting toward the thousands of huddled junks lining the harbor front. Had fire been communicated to these, with the onshore breeze, the fire would inevitably have swept up the hillside to the Peak, and the city have been laid in waste.

The situation was saved by the use - probably for the 1st time in the hx of firefighting - of torpedoes, the French naval men being entitled to the credit of thinking of this weapon of attack in the emergency and sending the blazing menace to the harbor bottom, with a well directed Whitehead.

Collins was also a mem/o the force despatched to Canton from Hongkong, to rescue the threatened population of the European settlement in the crowded upriver city during the 1st Boxer trouble in 1890. He was, indeed, one of the 1st naval rescue party, which found the entire white community encamped on the beach under the protection of its men folk.

And they came just in time.

The despatch of this expedition was in response to an urgent message to Hongkong from the district viceroy, the last message sent ere the wire was cut by the rebels, stating that immediate action was imperative if the Europeans were to be saved alive. The entire settlement on that occasion was burned with the lone exception of the British consulate.

Died Apr 1, 1912 at Victoria, BC, Andrew Tolmie, 71, a res/o BC since 1873, and of Victoria for an almost similar period, n/o Nairn, Sct. One of the most widely-known old-timers, a res/o BC since 1873 and of Victoria for almost a similar period, though formerly he spent the summer months in the mining districts. ‘Andrew,’ as he was known to the thousands of people acquainted with him in all parts of BC, emigrated to eastern Canada about 1871 and for a time worked in ON. The news of big finds of gold in BC attracted his attention, as it did many others, and in 1873 he decided to come W. On arrival in Victoria he joined a party en route to Cassiar country, and engaged in mining in that dist with considerable success for a # of yrs. The winters were spent in this city.

Having amassed a competency, Mr Tolmie in 1891 acquired all the interests of late John Boyd in the wine merchant's establishment on Yates st, nr crnr Government. Very shortly afterwards he was joined as a partner by Duncan Stewart, and until 1906 the business was conducted under the firm name of Tolmie & Stewart. In that yr Mr Tolmie retired and took up residence on Fernwood Rd, where he lived until his removal to the hospital a fortnight ago.

Mr Tolmie possessed those sterling qualities of mind and heart which have given the sons of Auld Scotia a worldwide reknown. Though blunt of speech and to outward appearance little moved by the softer sentiments, this but served to hide a kind heart which was ever responsive to those to whom fate had been cruel. He had a keen sense of humour, and as his ability as a raconteur was considerable he never lacked an audience. He will be greatly missed.

Deceased is survived by 4 sisters, res/in Sct, and a nephew, Charles Lyon, at present residing at Victoria. Pallbearers: Masons D Cross, J K Angus, W Murray, J A O'Brien, G S Car, E G Wickens. Masonic. H 084 W 21

Apr 7, 1912, 10 - Tomorrow is the 50th anniversary of the arrival at this port from San Francisco of SS Brother Jonathan, bearing as passengers over 200 persons, who had embarked at the Bay City lured north by the stories of the marvelous discoveries of gold in the Cariboo country. As during the continuation of this excitement this steamer was the chief one plying between Victoria and San Francisco, it came about that very many people who afterwards came to be prominently identified with the development of BC fixed the date of their arrival by such and such a trip of Brother Jonathan.

On this beautiful spring morning 50 yrs ago, when Jonathan pulled alongside the dock, among those on board was Mr G B [George Bohun] Martin, one of the pioneer legislators of BC, and probably one of the best known 'old-timers' now living. Contrary to what might be expected, Mr Martin, now a valued mem/o BC service, being employed in the agricultural branch, recalls but few of the other passengers. Indeed, he recollects but 2 persons who happened to be on Jonathan - Milton Edgson, now living at Cowichan, and George Pears, at Metchosin. Mr Martin did, however, consent to tell something about himself, which is of special interest on this 50th anniversary.

'It was a beautiful morning when we arrived, though the wx was not so warm as we have been accustomed to in early Apr in later yrs. The winter of 1862 had been an unusually severe one, and the cold was not yet out of the air. Victoria was then a mere village compared with what it is today.

'About myself. Well, when a mere youth I left my home in Yorkshire, Eng, and took a post in the revenue service in India; and getting tired of that I returned to Eng, arriving in Dec, 1861. I happened to see a letter in the Times from some gentleman praising BC, and a wk after reading it I was at Southampton arranging for my passage across the Atlantic.

'We sailed on La Platte to St Thomas, W Indies, and thence by SS Derwent to Panama. We went across the Isthmus on the RR and by SS St Louis to San Francisco. You will get some idea of the extent of the gold excitement when I tell you that we had no less than 1,200 passengers from the Isthmus to 'Frisco.

'After arrival at Victoria I stayed here until Dec and then left in company with late Mr J W McKay for Kamloops to take positions in the employ of HBC. I stayed at this for 3 yrs and then bought a ranch on the S Thompson Rv. I took an interest in politics and stood as a member for the legislature from Yale, to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Preston Bennett. The late 'Tom' Humphries was my opponent. I sat in the legislature as a private member for 12 yrs and was for 4 yrs Chief Comm of Lands & Works in the administrations of late Theodore Davie and Hon J H Turner. During my term of office the contract was made which resulted in the erection of the parliament bldgs.

In the few yrs prior to 1865 the steamer made a fortune for her owners. She was considered a very fair traveller in her day, when not too deeply loaded; and the general opinion was that had she not been overloaded the terrible fate which overtook her would have been averted. After leaving San Francisco Jul 27, 1865, she struck a sunken rock nr Crescent City, and in a few minutes went to the bottom with nearly 200 people who were powerless to escape from

Capt Samuel De Wolf, in command of SS Brother Jonathan at the time of her loss, was n/o NS [b 1822]. At age 16 he began sailing between NY and Liverpool, leaving this occupation in 1859 to go to steamer Onward. After his arrival he commenced running in the coasting trade as master of brig Fremont. In 1853 he entered the employ of CA Steam Navigation Co and remained almost continuously in their service from that yr until his death. [on file - photo Martin and De Wolf]

WmHx/May 14, 1912, 1, 7 - Died May 13, 1912 at Victoria, BC, Agnes Deans Cameron, aged 49, n/o Victoria, BC. Greatest regret was felt in Victoria yesterday at the news of the death of Miss Agnes Deans Cameron... diagnosed as appendicitis and ordered to St Joseph's hospital, where she underwent an operation that evening... she developed pneumonia, and failed to rally.

It is possible that when the hx of BC comes to be written the name of Agnes Deans Cameron will be inscribed therein as the most remarkable woman citizen of BC, and her story will stand out all the more prominently in as much as her death occurred when she appeared to be at the very zenith of her career, with a brilliant future ahead of her.

Her death will specially be felt by those who were the scholars in the public schools. Brilliant as a teacher, she never forgot the woman in the teacher, and took a warm personal interest in the children under her care, following their progress from the school desk out into that larger school, the world, never forgetting them, as they indeed never forgot her.

Born in Victoria in 1863 deceased was d/o Scottish parents, late Duncan/Jessie Cameron. She loved to remember her father as one of the pioneers of BC who, like so many, came up here from CA and engaged in mining and contracting. He entered into rest some 27 yrs ago, but her mother lived to a ripe old age, dying 6 yrs ago.

Miss Cameron received her education in the public schools of Victoria, afterwards passing into the high school, and was a remarkable pupil in many ways, showing even in those early days the brilliance of intellect and acuteness of judgement that distinguished her in later yrs. While still a girl in her teens she taught the pupils of Angela college.

Her 1st school charge outside her native city was at Comox, and later she had charge of the old Granville st school in Vancouver. On her return to Victoria she taught in the James Bay school, then joined the staff of the Girls' Central school, and in 1890 was transferred to the Boys' school. She was afterwards promoted to the teaching staff of the High school, where she became instructress in what were then known as the 2nd and 3rd divs. After remaining there several yrs she was appointed to the new S Park school of which she remained principal until 6 yrs ago, when she terminated her connection with the teaching staff of the city schools.

It was at that period that the romance of her career really began, in rather a prosaic manner, perhaps, with her election at the head of the poll as a school trustee. For quite a while, however, she had employed her spare moments in writing on the W for different magazines and papers, in which she had been very successful, and finally decided to enter the field of journalism, leaving Victoria for Chicago.

She turned most of her energies to disclosing to the eastern world, through the medium of her pen, the wide resources and opportunities of W Canada, and later became associate editor of the 'Last Best West' magazine, and was also well known in the Cdn Women's Press Assn. Later on she was engaged by the Dominion govt to prepare literature advertising the country for distribution in the States and Europe, and her services received the warm endorsement not only of Hon Frank Oliver, then Min of the Interior, but also of leading educationalists of Canada.

It is 4 yrs since she made her memorable trip to the Arctic Ocean, traveling by way of the Athabasca Rv, Gt Slave Lk and Mackenzie Rv, returning by the Peace Rv and Lwr Slave Lk, covering 10,000 miles in 6 months' time. She gave her experiences to the world in her book, 'The New North,' which has been so widely read on both sides of the Atlantic and is regarded as a standard work of reference on the far N. She published numerous articles of great ability on the same subject.

At the close of her trip she was empowered by the Dominion govt to write a series of articles in the British papers and to deliver a course of lectures in the old country. She carried this through with marked success and gave a # of interesting lectures on her experiences while thus engaged on her return to Victoria last autumn.

One of the most characteristic features of the deceased was her intense love of BC, it was her oft-expressed desire at some future date to be its historian.

A prominent woman worker, she was for some yrs associated with the Women's Chronicle, the ladies of the Maccabees and other women's organizations, also with the executive of the SPCA and the BC Historical Assn. Remains will be forwarded to Seattle, WA for cremation.

May 16, 2 - Funeral of late Miss Cameron... One of the largest funerals that has been seen in Victoria for a long time was that of late Miss Agnes Deans Cameron, which took place yesterday from the res/o her sister, Mrs R A Brown....

May 14, 1912 - Just 50 yrs ago yesterday, steamer Pacific brought from San Francisco a large # of passengers en route to the Cariboo mines, and some of them were destined to afterwards plan an important part in shaping the destiny of this portion of the British Empire. Thus among the arrivals was Hon Robert Beaven, the well known pioneer legislator, who is today an honored res/o Victoria. Other passengers who are still resident in Victoria are Mrs George Lyall, Mr D McCallum and Daniel McLachlan. They made the passage from NY to Panama on steamer Northern Light, and after crossing the Isthmus made the run up to San Francisco on Golden Age. Mr McLachlan went to the mines at once, but Mr Lyall remained here for some time. Later, however, he built a considerable portion of the Cariboo wagon road.

Union/News/May 16, 1912, 4 - funeral of Chambers Dell-Smith, aged 58, n/o Waterford, Ire. The newspaper world throughout BC has suffered a loss in the death at his home of C Dell-Smith. Deceased came to Canada 25 yrs ago, being 1st employed on the editorial staff of the Toronto Globe. In 1888 the Conservatives of ON started a new daily paper called the Empire, under the mgmt of David Crighton, a well-known politician of Owen Sound. Mr Smith joined the reportorial staff of the paper and was afterwards chief proofreader until the paper was amalgamated with the Toronto Daily Mail.

He then came W and after some time on the reportorial staff of the Colonist, was connected with the editorial depts of papers in Nelson, Rossland and Ymir, being mgr of the Mirror in the latter place. Mr Smith was, during the big mining boom in Rossland, 1896-99, editor of the Kootenay Mining Standard, the recognized mining authority of BC at that time, which was under the mgmt of David R Young. Returning to Victoria he joined the staff of the Times as proofreader, remaining there until his death.

Mr Smith was much of a freelance in journalism, contributing much that was interesting to different periodicals and magazines from time to time.

The many excellent qualities and lovable Irish disposition of 'Dell' won him many friends wherever he went, and the news of his death will be heard by them with unfeigned regret. He is survived by a widow, 2 daughters, 2 sons. R 098 W P

Died May 15, 1912 at Sooke, BC, Mrs Annie Muir, rlct/o late John Muir. The country has lost another highly respected pioneer. Her genial spirit, happy smile and most hospitable nature endeared her to all whose good fortune it was to have known her. 'Aunt Annie,' as she was affectionately known will long be missed in the community. Left behind to mourn her are 1 son, Douglas Muir, and 1 daughter, Mrs A T Harvey, both at Sooke. Deceased was only 58, and it is thought that the tragic death of her 2 sons on Dec 29, 1904, shortened her life. She could never forget that morning, when preparing lunch for the boys, one of them said: 'Why Mother, you would think that we were going to be a long time from home.' A few hrs afterwards the runaway occurred and the lifeless bodies of the 2 boys were brought to the house. Mrs Muir came from Ire in 1873. He husband, late John Muir, came out to Canada with his parents and other 3 brothers and a sister. They were among the oldest of VI pioneers. It is now recalled how repeatedly the then Gov, Sir James Douglas, urged them to settle on the site now occupied by much of Victoria, which he could at that time have bought at $5/acre. When the ship bearing the family was sailing up the Straits, the lady now dead, looking at Sooke with its beautiful natural harbors said: 'If ever I settle in this land that is where I would like to live.' This desire was gratified and the family settled nr to what is now known as Muir Ck. Buried at Sooke.

May 19, 1912, sup 5 - Their Golden Wedding - Married May, 1862 at Victoria, VI, Thomas J Burnes to Miss Kate McCloy. This notice appeared in the British Colonist of May 17, 1862 - and on Wed last the principals in the happy event celebrated 50 yrs ago were the recipients of hearty congratulations.

It is but the truth to say that of all the remaining mem/o the little band of pioneer settlers now left in Victoria none are better known or more deservedly popular. They have for over 50 yrs been actively identified with every movement for the advancement of the welfare of Victoria - Mr Burns with that exuberant energy and optimism so characteristic of his countrymen; and Mrs Burnes showing a similar activity in all those organizations where women are at the head in movements for the betterment of the community.

Mrs Burnes... 'We landed at Esquimalt on Sierra Nevada, and there were tents stretched all along the road. Victoria was a 'city of tents' for at that time, 1862, there was a mad rush to the Cariboo mines.

'I left NY, where I was born, on Apr 1, 1862. There was an immense crowd on board the steamer, the name of which I forget, some 1,700 all told. We were 9 days in making the trip to Panama, and we had rather an exciting voyage, for we had to keep out of the way of Sims, the notorious privateer, who afterwards figured largely in the Alabama dispute. So dangerous was the trip considered at that time that the government dispatched a gunboat to accompany us and this was done for a distance of 1,000 miles.

'On reaching San Francisco we took passage for Victoria on Sierra Nevada, and arrived here on May 7. There was a big crowd on board, many of whom afterwards became prominent in the affairs of the country. I recall that old Dr Davie and family were on board. Then there was James Mann, who is still living in Victoria. I cannot remember anybody else, though there must be many still alive'.

Mrs Burnes recalls that the winter previous to her arrival had been an exceptionally severe one, and indeed the climate has grown much milder than was the case 50 yrs ago. In the early days it often happened that there would be large losses of stock owing to the insufficiency of feed.

Mr Burnes, of whom it is hardly necessary to say anything about to anyone who has resided here for any length of time, was born in Dublin nearly 80, but today he is enjoying fairly good health. He is one of the few 'Fifty-Eighters' that are left to tell of the great rush to Cariboo 50 yrs ago. He as a young man located in San Francisco in 1854, where he for some time was employed in the post office. Four yrs later, when the whole world was excited over the marvellous discoveries of gold in BC, he joined in the stampede from San Francisco, CA. He did not, however, go to the mines, but securing good employment decided to locate here and send for his sweetheart in far-off NY.

It was not long, however, before young Burnes, who, because of his cheery disposition, was a general favorite, decided to embark in business for himself, and established the American Hotel, on Yates st. This was a 3-storey wooden structure a little below the crnr Langley st, on the L hand side of Yates. This became one of the landmarks of the city, and also well and favorably known along the whole coast as one of the best hotels in the colony.

In 1887 Mr Burnes decided to build larger premises, and erected the fine 4-storey block in Bastion Sq, just back of the court house, which was then one of the most pretentious structures in the city. This building still stands, and is utilized as a rooming house.

Prior to engaging in the hotel business Mr Burnes was for a time, in Crown colony days, a mem/o the Customs staff, and some 5 yrs ago, on relinquishing his private business, he again entered the Customs service, which position he now holds. In the early days he was very active in the affairs of the fire dept, and indeed in all public enterprises, which had for their motive the upbuilding of the city.

Mrs Burnes, though of a retiring disposition, is widely known, because of her identification with all the women's societies in the city, in a # of which she is a charter member, and is today in attendance at regular meetings.

Eight children were born to Mr/Mrs Burnes, all of them in this city, of which 4 are alive - Thomas S, San Francisco; W J, of the Customs service; R E, of W & J Wilson, and George A, a lineman in the employ of the city.

Died May 22, 1912 at Victoria, BC, John Nicholson, a citizen of long standing who was well known to the old-timers of the 1880s, n/o Liverpool, Eng, aged 73. He spent many yrs of his life travelling in Europe before coming to this country, coming to Canada about 30 yrs ago, living for a while in Montreal and afterwards in Winnipeg. He then went to Portland, OR, and came to Victoria in 1884. He lived for a long time at the Douglas House, on the site of which the new Union Club is being built. He afterwards took up land as a farm which is now a large portion of Ladysmith. After giving up farming for several yrs he made his hdqts in Victoria, going on lengthy visits to CA and WA.

During the latter yrs of his life he kept an office in the 5 Sisters' Bk and was burnt out during the fire. Since then he has spent much of his time at the Pacific Club and at Roccabella, at which place he lived for many yrs. Mrs M Cochrane, a nc/o deceased, arrived from Eng about a month ago, and is at James Bay hotel. Pallbearers: Maj Wilson, Messrs A Campbell Reddie, E E Wootton, TH Laundry, T C Cairns, C C Pemberton. V/Died May 22, 1912 at Victoria, BC, John Frank, one of the best known men in Victoria, n/o Dumfriesshire, Sct, b 1845. When 9 he came to Canada with his parents, who settled on a farm in Kingsbury, QC. After leaving the farm he resided for some yrs in Toronto, and there he married, in 1880, Miss Marion Williamson. In 1885 they came to Victoria where for many yrs Mr Frank was connected with the Mt Royal Rice Mills, on Store st. He took the 1st drove of beef cattle into Dawson when the gold excitement was at its height, and remained there 3 yrs.

Mr Frank was one of the veterans of 1866, and served during the Fenian raid under his uncle, late Maj George Williamson, and was presented with the Dominion govt service medal... He leaves a widow, 1 son, 2 daughters. His son, a veterinarian, is at Nelson, BC. One of his daughters is a teacher in the upper country. Imperial Vets of Canada will attend in a body at funeral. Bldg/Died May 7, 1912 at Coupar Angus, Sct, Thomas Lowe, b/o Miss Cecilia Lowe of the same place. Mr Lowe was the last survivor of the gallant band of pioneers who were present at the founding of Ft Victoria, then known as Camosun, on Jun 4, 1843. Mr Lowe, 6th s/o Dr John Lowe, of Coupar Angus, was born Nov 30, 1824, and in 1841 joined in London as a clerk the service of HBC, leaving there in Sep of that yr on company barque Vancouver, for this coast. He remained in HBC service until 1850, during which time he served at Ft Durham in AK and on the closing of that sea post and also the sea post of Bella Bella, BC by Mr Douglas, was thus, with the officials drawn from those posts, at the founding of Ft Victoria.

While in HBC service and stationed at Ft Vancouver, on the Columbia Rv, then the hdqts of the company on this coast, Mr Lowe made 2 of the annual trips across the continent of N America from Ft Vancouver to York Factory, Hudson's Bay. It was by this route in those early days that retiring servants were sent home from this coast, new servants brought out and express letters and despatches carried each way to and from the old country. The trip took 8 months of hard travel, but it saved the long voyage around Cape Horn.

On resigning from HBC service Mr Lowe, with his brother, James, entered into a general store business on Wharf st, Victoria, in which they were most successful. The firm of Lowe Brothers was well-known here and along the BC coast until 1871, when it was dissolved, and Thomas retired to his ancestral home at Coupar Angus, where he since resided with his 2 sisters. James Lowe died in San Francisco on Feb 2, 1879.

Lowe inlet on the E shore of Grenville Chan was named after Mr Lowe by Capt James Dodd, of HBC's steamer Beaver, on or about 1844. Ph/May 30, 5. Bldg/Jun 2, 7 - In connection with the death of Mr Lowe, Edgar Fawcett furnishes the Colonist with a photograph of the place of business on Wharf st, occupied by Lowe Bros. This was on L side of Wharf st, looking N from Yates, the photograph was taken in 1866. Mr Fawcett writes: 'I read with great interest your obituary of the Lowe Bros. I knew both well, especially James. They took a deal of interest in public affairs, church work, the volunteers, etc. Strange to say I had forgotten the fact that they were such old pioneers, as I was under the impression they were pioneers of 1862, when so many English business houses opened branches here. I have the most pleasing recollections of James Lowe, and I enclose a photograph showing both brothers in front of their business, together with J J Southgate, J W Trutch, George Harvey, A H Maynard, Messrs Castleton and John Stevenson. Mr Southgate built the brick bldg on NW crnr Fort/Government, and also the dwelling house on the crnr of what was then called 'Marvin's Hill,' where they are now doing a deal of excavating work. PC.

Jul 5, 1912, 1, 3 - In the death of Very Rev Augustus Joseph Brabant, which occurred yesterday, BC loses one of the most devoted missionary priests who ever set foot on western soil. Born in Courtray, W Flanders, 67 years ago, deceased received his education there, completing his studies at the famous U of Louvain. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1868 and in the following year came out to this coast. In 1874, in compliance with the wishes of Bishop Seghers, he established the mission at Hesquoit, on WCVI, with which his name will always be identified.

He remained there for 34 years, travelling about from one tribe to another, familiarizing himself with their daily lives and habits. In this manner he gained a thorough knowledge of the Indian language, studying it until he was able to compile a valuable and complete dictionary of the Nootka language and also a book of prayers.

The story of his voyage in the trading schooner Surprise to found the mission at Hesquoit, of his perilous trips in the open Pacific in Indian canoes, of his tramps over unblazed trails and missions to the various tribes, some of which received him with blessings and some with curses, is an interesting one that of his life at Hesquoit, teaching the way of the Cross and the way of the white man to the Indian is more interesting. It was on sloop Thornton, which in after years was seized with the fleet of sealers gathered in by US revenue cutters in Bering Sea during the seizures of 1886, that Father Brabant left civilization to make his home on WCVI, with headqts at Hesquoit.

It was from the cargo of a wrecked American bark, Edwin, Capt Hughes, lost at Hesquoit, when bound to Aus with lumber, that the 1st mission on WCVI, was built. The wreck was found, broken, on the beach. The Capt's wife, buried by the Indians, had been crushed between the heavy timbers of the deckload, and the 2 little boys and the Chinese cook, had been washed overboard. Chief Matlahaw, of the Hesquoits, who, with his tribesmen, watched the wreck drifting shoreward, saw a raft on which the sailors were seeking to escape, and the Indians put off in their canoes through the breakers, all the men being taken off, and Chief Matlahaw was given a uniform and medal from the Canadian govt, and a silver medal, money and provisions from the US govt. The wrecked bark was found useful by the missionary. It had been intended to put up a church of 60' x 26', but all the lumber the priest needed was obtainable, and work was begun soon after landing. It was not pleasant, this work. First a small shed was built, and here all were housed, including a NF dog and some calves which had been given to the missionary, and which slept beside the stove.

Rev Father Rondeault and Noel Leclair, a carpenter, had helped to build the church, and when it was completed the 1st mass was said on Jul 1, all the Hesquoits being present, the chief and many of the Muchalats, and several other tribesmen. The Indians understood little then, and it was slow work to teach them. There was no interpreter, and Fr Brabant set to work to study the language, which he successfully did.

Many adventures were had by the pioneer missionary on his travels, mostly by canoes manned by Indians to the villages of the coast people, where slavery, witchcraft and many superstitious practices were still common. Marriage by capture was by no means uncommon, and murders because of superstition, frequent. Because of the superstition of the Hesquoits, Rev Fr Brabant was shot twice when the smallpox came [see Nov 6, 1875].

In 1908 upon the resignation of Archbishop Orth, Fr Brabant was appointed apostolic administrator of the diocese. He, therefore, left Hesquoit and came down to Victoria, making his home at the palace, until the arrival of Bishop Macdonald 1 yr later, when he took up his residence at St Joseph's hospital as resident chaplain. Meanwhile the mission at Hesquoit passed into the hands of the Benedictine Fathers from Mt Angel, OR.

His death removes almost the last of the pioneer missionary priests, who, belonging to different churches, but all united in their common desire to save souls, came out to the west in the early days, blazing the trail for the lofty churches and cathedrals of the future.

It was 6 mos before he recovered and returned to the WC village. His welcome back was a unique one. The tribe held a potlatch in honor of his homecoming. In the big dance house of the village, biggest of all the unplumbed cedar-planked lodges, the Indians gathered about a great driftwood fire. He sat like a Chief while the tribal singers and dancers sprang about, their faces daubed and painted and wearing mantles of skins and feathers and masks. As the singers sang improvised songs in honor of his return, the audience chorusing the words beat a rhythmic time with pieces of wood on planks set before them and drummers beat taut shallow skin drums. For 2 hrs, nearly blind by the curling smoke of the driftwood fire on which eager tenders heaved logs, the priest sat, impatient, longing for a breath of fresh air - but he did not stir until the ceremonies were over. It was his homecoming feast...

Fr Brabant introduced trousers to the WC tribes. He made a rule that no men should come to his house unless they wore them. 'This was hard on the Indians,' he said, 'for they had always considered this covering of the lower limbs as superfluous - a real bother. But I was inexorable. Trousers or remain outside. The 1st visitors were careful in carrying out the rule. A young chief, a boy of abt 10, came with his aunt. The boy was in his shirttails and had a blanket on his shoulders and a small bundle under his arm. When 10 steps from the door he sat on a driftwood log and opened the bundle. It proved to be his trousers. He put them on and solemnly walked into the house. When he left he sat down outside, drew off the bothersome garment and handed them over to his aunt.' The missionary also induced the Indians to become seal hunters, an industry with which they had not previously bothered. They 1st hunted seals for their pelts offshore; it not being for some yrs afterward that the sealing schooners came to take crews of Indian hunters to Bering sea.

Many indeed were the incidents that were crowed in the veteran missionary's res/o 33 yrs at Hesquoit, not the least harrowing being the burial of the victims washed ashore from the wreck of bark Malleville, Freeport, MN, which drove ashore in 1882. Jul 6, 4 - PC - [written by Edgar Fawcett] One Sun afternoon in the spring of about 1870, I was on my way to Beacon Hill for my usual Sun afternoon walk. In passing the old Catholic church, then situated in the grounds of St Joseph's hospital, and now to the rear of St Ann's convent, I was struck with the strains of sweet music coming from the church. To my mind it was perfect, it was Father Brabant's baritone solo I heard... Jul 7, 4 - Requiem Mass...; Jul 9, Last rites today [Brabant]. U 051 E 51

Died Aug 4, 1912 at Victoria, BC, Oregon Columbus Hastings, 66, n/o Pontoosuc, IL. As long ago as 1852, when aged 6, he sailed into Victoria harbour on his father's [Loren Hastings] schooner, in the days when Victoria was only an HBC post. He could also claim the distinction of being the 1st white child to cross the Oregon trail, for when only 1 year old his parents trekked across the plains in a prairie schooner drawn by oxen, reaching Portland.

Soon afterwards, Loren Hastings, father of deceased, hearing of the California gold discoveries, moved South and spent some time mining, later on taking up storekeeping and supplying the gold miners, hauling his goods from Sacramento and Stockton by oxen.

It was in 1851 that, while hunting his oxen one day, Loren Hastings found a prospector's hole, which had been abandoned, and digging with his rifle the ground broke away, revealing 4 chunks of gold, over $1,000 worth being in the hole. Later on the family moved to Port Townsend, where they settled down, and the father became a well known public man and a member of WA legislature, part of Pt Townsend having been built on the Hastings domain.

Deceased worked on his father's farm near Pt Townsend for some time and later moved to Victoria and started business as a photographer, having his business on Fort st. In 1889 he sold out and became US collector of customs at St Michael's, AK. This only occupied the summer months however, and left him free to devote the winter to scientific studies of which he was very fond.

He possessed the 1st astronomical telescope made in BC, built an observatory at his home here and also made a special study of microscopic work. He was a member of the British Astronomical Assn and one of the original members of the Natural History Society of BC.

Deceased is survived by a widow and 3 children, Oregon A Hastings, Mrs Mina Causten, both of Pt Townsend, and Miss Juanita Hastings, Victoria, 2 brothers, Frank and Loren, Pt Townsend, and a sister Mrs Craig, Portland, OR. V/Aug 14, 1912, 2 - Mr J Lyon, Victoria, BC, was surprised yesterday by a visit from his brother, J W Lyon, with whom he parted 33 yrs ago at S Africa, and had not heard from since 1894, when he was prospecting in Br New Guinea. W J Lyon has pinned to his waistcoat the medal for the Zulu campaign of 1879. He was among the few survivors of the great massacre of Isandhiwana and was one of those who fought at the gallant struggle at Rorke's Drift, and returned to that stricken field to recover the colors of the Royal Warwicks from the bodies of the color bearers who were left among the dead.

'Mr Lyon, who is a prospector, was engaged in seeking for minerals in S Africa when the fighting began in Zululand and enlisted in the Natal Horse. He served in the column under Col Durnford, which was in the force under Lord Chelmsford, then Col thesegar.

'See that medal,' said Mr Lyon, throwing open his coat and exhibiting a worn medal and ribbon with clasp for Rorke's Drift. 'That's what HM gave me after we fought the Zulus in '79. I was one of the few - only 18 there were - of that army not wiped out. We few who escaped were on picket duty and managed to fight our way through. Yes, we had adventures, but we got through. It's good for us we were in the pickets, for the others died when they fired their last cartridges, born down by thousands of spearmen.

'I was at Rorke's Drift too. I was under Lts Bloomfield and Chard in that fight. Yes, it was a hard one, and we were hard put to it to hold that Drift.

'What was it the poet wrote about it? Yes: 'Then biscuit tins they gathered and piled a hollow wall.' Biscuit tins came nearer being useful that night than I have ever found them. It was a frail wall, but we fought hard behind it, and help up our end as well we might under the odds we had to face.

'The Royal Warwicks suffered worst that night. Their color bearers, Melville and Cogwell, were killed and were left lying with the colors still clutched tight in their dead hands. I was one of the party which fought our way to their bodies and recovered the colors. We got the rags back all right, and the Royal Warwicks have them still.

'I remained in Africa for some time and saw my brother the last time before I met him today at Pietermaritzburg. Afterward I went to Aus and NZ and made several trips into New Guinea. There's gold in New Guinea- placer - that's one of the nuggets I have got there in my tie. We had some adventures there too - affrays with the blacks. You see, the n/o N Guinea are headhunters and they make raids whenever they know there are any heads around worth getting.

'Afterward I went to N Queensland, still hunting for gold, and my partner was struck by lightning there. It was when in N Queensland that I last heard from my brother here in Victoria. That was in 1894 and from that time I didn't know anything about him. Now we're going to talk over old times until Makura sails for Aus next month.'

It was at Isandlwana that Col Wilson, a b/o late sanitary inspector who died in Victoria a few yrs ago, was killed.

Marine/Sep 18, 1912 - Charles E Redfern, who is returning after a trip lasting nearly 1 yr in UK, returns from his absence on the 50th anniversary of his arrival in Victoria. Of his voyage out 5 decades ago, on the 1st passenger steamer to run to this port from Liverpool, Mr Redfern says:

‘On the evening of Sep 17, 1862, Tynemouth, with about 300 passengers on board, anchored in Esquimalt hbr, after an eventful voyage from Eng. She was a vessel of 1,500T, which was considered a large steamer in those days. She left London Jun 5, had a pleasant run down the English Channel to Dartmouth, where I joined her, left that port early in the evening of Jun 9, and the 1st night out ran into a terrible storm. Some pigs that were on deck were washed overboard, the cow that was to provide fresh milk for the cabin passengers was killed, and nearly all the passengers were down with seasickness. The storm continued during the whole of the next day, after which time the wx was pleasant and everything harmonious, till one morning at breakfast time we were all startled by an unusual commotion on deck. We rushed up the gangway and found that some of the crew had mutinied and were fighting with the officers. The cook, a big negro, had his arms round the Capt, who was a small man, and had him close to the rail and was trying to throw him overboard, but was prevented by passengers who went to the Capt's assistance.

'With their aid, order was soon restored, but a # of the crew were put in irons. A few days after that on a fine Sun morning in mid-Atlantic, we were becalmed, and the steamer, although her engines were in perfect working order and had plenty of coal on board, was as helpless as a sailing vessel, and was rolling steadily on the swell of an ocean which had the appearance of a sea of glass. We were at a loss to understand the cause of the inactivity, and were indignant at the delay, till we heard that the coal passers had struck. They refused to supply the engines with coal on the grounds that they were overworked on account of the ship being undermanned, which was, I believe, a fact. They could not be induced to go to work and were consequently put in irons and placed in confinement with the other members of the crew who had mutinied a few days before.

'The Capt then called for volunteers from the passengers to coal the vessel, as unless the engines were supplied with coal, we should have had to remain lying idle till a wind sprang up and enabled the sails to be used. The passengers were all so exasperated at the delay and so anxious to get to the end of the journey that a number, including myself, volunteered to do the work, which consisted of going to the lower deck where the coal was stowed, shovelling it into barrows and wheeling them to the bunkers and dumping the coal down to the stokehole for the stokers to supply the furnaces. As the time was midsummer and the wx hot, the task we had undertaken was not a pleasant one, as what with perspiration and coal dust, we were a nice lot of scarecrows when our daily shift was over, and we received our reward - in the shape of as much fresh water as we wanted to wash ourselves with. I can imagine your readers smiling at that, but let any of them try the experiment of having nothing but sea water to wash with for a few wks and they will realize what having fresh water to wash meant to us.

There may have been fresh water for the few 1st class passengers, but there was none for the others except for drinking and cooking purposes, and the latter was a limited quantity. There were no baths on board, and those of us who wanted one used to get up about 5am when the decks were being washed and the men would turn the hose on us. But our greatest treat was, on 1 or 2 dark tropical nights, when the rain was coming down in torrents, to jump out of our berths, throw off our nightdress, rush up on deck and revel in the warm, fresh, soft water from the skies, no shower bath has ever given me such exquisite pleasure as those few we had from nature. We continued our labors as coal passers for about 1 month, till we reached the Falkland Islands, about 300 miles NE of Cape Horn, where we remained 13 days, taking in coal and water, the former having been sent out from Eng for Tynemouth.

'While there, the men under arrest were taken before the magistrate; some who promised to return to their work for the remainder of the voyage were released, but about 6 who refused to return to work were sentenced to 6 months' hard labor, which they said was preferable to returning to work on a vessel such as they had left. While in the hbr more trouble occurred with the men, but, fortunately HMS Tribune was there and our Capt signalled for assistance; a boat's crew from the warship came alongside and the trouble was soon settled. The wx during the time we were there was very stormy, it being the latter part of winter.

'Sometimes, although, Stanley Hbr is landlocked, the water was so rough that the Capt would not allow a boat to go ashore, but whenever practicable, the passengers went ashore and amused themselves as best they could, principally by shooting sea birds, which are very good eating, especially after the salt and canned food we had been living on for 5 wks. The islands are very flat and dreary, there are no trees, there are only shrubs a few ft high and we were glad to get away, as the resources of the islands as a place of amusement were soon exhausted. The wx became less rough after we had been there 10 days and when we left it was bright but very cold.

‘We rounded Cape Horn the 2nd day and passed quite close, the sea being quite calm, but extremely cold. When we left the islands, nearly every cabin had more or less birds in it, on which we feasted for the next day or two, when an order was issued that all birds left were to be thrown overboard, and not before it was necessary.

‘Soon after we entered the S Pacific there was more trouble as the Capt, not having been able to secure men to replace those left at the islands, had to go to sea shorthanded, which resulted in some of the sailors refusing to work. They were placed under arrest; fortunately there were some sailors among the passengers, and the Capt was able to secure their services for the remainder of the voyage, which was uneventful till the day before we reached San Francisco, when the coal was nearly exhausted and all the spare spars and wood on board were cut up and used as fuel to take us into San Francisco hbr, which naturally caused considerable excitement among the passengers. The seamen under arrest were there sentenced to short terms of imprisonment.

‘We stayed in San Francisco hbr 2 days and having ascertained the time the steamer would leave, nearly all the passengers went ashore, but the Capt, finding that some of the crew were trying to desert (I believe 1 or 2 succeeded in so doing), decided to leave 3 hrs earlier than the time appointed, consequently some of the passengers were left behind. We arrived at Esquimalt 5 days later after a very pleasant passage and dropped anchor on the evening of Sep 17, 1862, after a voyage of 17,000 miles, which was accomplished in 90 days from Dartmouth, 84 of which were spent at sea, 13 at Pt Stanley and 2 at San Francisco. The passengers who were left behind came on by the next steamer from San Francisco and recovered from the Capt the amount of expense they had been put to through the vessel leaving earlier than the time appointed. Tynemouth was the 1st passenger steamer to make the long journey from Eng round Cape Horn to Victoria, and the carrying such a large # of passengers by steamer such a long journey was quite an event in those days.

‘Of the 300 who were on Tynemouth when she arrived 50 yrs ago, there are very few living in Victoria. I can only think of Mrs Mallandaine, her sister Mrs Townsend, Mrs James Lawson, Mr Muldoon, who was at one time a bailiff in Victoria, and myself. There may be some others living in our city and in other parts of the province, but there are not many.

V/Sep 29, 1912, 7 - photos: Veterans inspected by Duke of Connaught...; Beaumont Boggs, Maj John Wilson, late of Black Watch, who fought in Crimean and Mutiny campaigns; Mr P C Fernie, who was mem/o Royal Horse Artillery, was at Sebastopol, Inkerman and Balaklava, and also took part with his regiment in many stirring scenes during the Indian Mutiny, wore the medals for those campaigns with many clasps and also the Turkish Order of the Medijieh, given by the Sultan for bravery in the field in the Ottoman Empire; Francis Duck, who was a mem/o 1st Battalion of the Royal Artillery, wore the Crimean medal with clasps for Sebastopol and other engagements of that campaign; Dr Rolston, RN, who was fleet surgeon of the fleet which fought in the Baltic during the Crimea, wore the medal for that campaign and also the NZ medal; John Williams, who was on HMS Nile in the Battle; George Kelly, another naval veteran of Crimea; George E Smith, RN, who wore a # of medals, including that for the Baltic, Crimean land service, Turkish, and one for service in the 1st China war of 1857, shortly after the Mutiny, was there. Several other Crimean veterans were unable to attend owing to illness, including Capt Curtis, RN, who served in the Baltic and wears the Order of the Medijieh and Mr B Robinson, who was at Alma and Inkerman; one of the wearers of Crimean medal, John Davy, who served in the Baltic and came to Esquimalt 40 yrs ago in the frigate Endymion, wore also the bronze medal of the Royal Humane Soc for saving life at sea. HRH spoke to Mr Davy, complimenting him on having taken part in the Crimea, and also as being the proud wearer of a medal for saving life. Mr Davy showed HRH the parchment which told of a 2nd act of bravery he had performed to save life.

There were also present several who had seen many episodes in the dark days of the mutiny in India, including George Millett, who was mem/o Northumberland Fusiliers, and wore the medal for the mutiny with the clasp for the relief of Lucknow when he was a mem/o Gen Havelock's brigade, which relieved the garrison which stood such a gallant and lengthy siege. Coming to Mr C F Moore, who wore the Chinese order of the Double Dragon and another given him by a former Emperor of China, HRH was informed that Mr Moore had served as paymaster with late Gen Gordon's 'Ever-Victorious

Army,' having been attached to the staff of the hero of Khartoum when that gallant officer was loaned to China in the troublous times of the Taiping rebellion.

Another interesting veteran was one with the Afghan medal, with the star for the long march from Kabul to Kandahar led by Field-Marshal Lord Roberts. There were at least 20 present with the medals for the earlier Egyptian campaigns from 1882 with the Khedive's bronze star. Also many of later Egyptian campaigns were presented by men who fought in the struggles in Egypt, and they also wore the medal given by the Khedive, some having bars for the relief of Khartoum - a relief which came all too late to save that gallant soldier, Gen Gordon.

HRH was especially interested in the wearers of the medals for the wars in Canada in which he himself had taken part. Capt F I Clarke recalled to his memory the occasion of being present with HRH in Montreal just previous to the Red River expedition, and HRH the Duke of Connaught said he remembered those days.

Many wore the medals for more than one of the Cdn campaigns, the Fenian raid, and the NW rebellions. There were men who had fought for the Dominion with the 66th Regt from Halifax, the 63rd, of which Beaumont Boggs, was a member, and from other units further West. The secretary, Mr W J Edwardes, acted as marshal in the parade, and Beaumont Boggs, Lt H A Treen, of No 24 Co, Imperial Veterans, accompanied HRH in the inspection... 200 campaigners 'formed fours' and headed by the pipers, marched away.

Marine/Bldg/Dec 14, 1912, 15 - Edgar Fawcett, whose interest in everything connected with former days not only in Victoria, but along the Pacific Coast is well known:

'I lately gave an account of the loss of SS Pacific, 37 yrs ago last month. I do not remember to have seen this account before, but remember Jennie Mandeville, the actress, who took an important part in certain theatricals at the old Theatre Royal, a wooden structure which was modelled out of one of the HBC's big barns, within the Fort; but which when the Fort was demolished, faced on Government st. I also remember Capt Otis Parsons, a fine looking fellow, and who was owner of several steamers on Fraser Rv. He married Miss Mandeville, as she was known on the stage, who was a widow. They were both lost on the ill-fated Pacific.'

The cutting from Pearson's Weekly is as follows:

'On Nov 15, 1875, a coastguard picked up a sealed bottle on the beach nr Cape Flattery. It contained a letter addressed to 'Mrs Minnie

Bowdish, San Francisco, CA.'

The letter was sent to its destination, and the lady who received it found that it was from her mother, who had been a passenger in a lost liner.

'The letter, which was dated Nov 1, described the awful peril of the ship. The writer told how she had given a list of her property to 6 men who could swim. It appears that she was going to write a 7th list, but suddenly the lights began to go out. The letter ended in a hurried scrawl: 'I hereby write my last will and testament, giving you, Minnie Bowdish, everything belonging to me. This is from your loving mother, Jennie Parsons.' Unhappily, Mrs Bowdish knew nothing of her mother's property. Her lawyer hunted in vain. Nothing could be found.

'Twenty-five yrs later Mrs Bowdish saw in a newspaper that L1,400 deposited in the Hibernia Savings Bank, in 1875, by Mrs Jennie Mandeville, was still unclaimed. 'Mandeville' was the maiden name of her mother. She went to claim the money, and found that a nephew and niece of the dead woman were after it. But the bottled will, produced in court, was the means of declaring her sole heiress of her mother's money.

Dec 22, 1912 - Xmas in Victoria in 1860s, by Edgar Fawcett - 'At Xmas there was the usual influx of miners from faraway Cariboo down to spend the winter in Victoria, with pockets well lined with nuggets. It was easy come, easy go with them, and liberal were the purchases they made for their relations and friends. A great feature of Xmas time was shooting for turkeys and geese at several outlying places, and raffles for turkeys at several of the principal saloons and hotels. The place I best remember was the Brown Jug, kept by Tommy Golden.

A special feature of the saloons on Xmas Eve was 'eggnog' and all we young fellows dropped in for a glass on our way to midnight mass at the Catholic church on Humboldt st. It was one of the attractions of Xmas Eve, and the church was filled to overflowing, and later on there was standing room only. We went to hear the singing, which was the best obtainable, Mlle La Charme, Mrs A Fellows (d/o Sir Rowland Hill), Charles Lombard, Mr Wolff and Mr Schmidt. These were assisted by the Sisters, many of whom had nice voices. Amongst the well-dressed city people were many Cariboo miners - trousers tucked in their boots, said trousers held in position with a belt, and maybe no coat or vest on. When the time came for the collection all hands dug down in their pockets, and a generous collection was the result. My old friend, Tom Burnes, was one of the collectors on one occasion. There were not sufficient collecting plates and Mr Burnes took his hat and went amongst the crowd who were standing up in the rear of the church. As he passed through a group of miners, friend Tom was heard to say, 'Now boys, be liberal,' and the response was all that could be desired; for, as I said before, it was 'easy come, easy go.'

Marine/Dec 25, 1912 - The honor of being the oldest living navigator of the Pacific Ocean at the present day belongs to Capt George Brown, Victoria, BC, who yesterday celebrated his 80th birthday. He was born in Liverpool, Eng, Dec 24, 1832, his father being engaged in the coasting trade in the British waters. At age 13 he took to the sea himself, becoming Capt's boy in the Cunard Line, between his home port and NY. After some yrs of this he sailed on clipper ships, and as an apprentice on Adam Lodge he rounded the Horn on a voyage to San Francisco, about 1850.

In 1852 he again sailed to this coast, on board barkentine Annie Moore. The vessel originally sailed to San Francisco, but business offering in this direction, she was brought to Victoria. Capt Brown remained with the barkentine for 6 mos after her arrival here, when he left her and determined to make his home in this city.

Going into the service of Joseph Boscowitz, Capt Brown did a great deal of coasting and trading with the Indians of WCVI. For 4 yrs he was in command of Annie Beck, a well known schooner of those days. Later he was placed in charge of trading stns, 1st at Nootka and afterwards at Kyuquot.

In the early days of the sealing industry he took out the 1st schooner for Mr Boscowitz [Annie Beck], the only other schooner then operating being Capt Spring's Alert, which was in charge of Capt Christiansen.

In more recent yrs Capt Brown was in the service of CPN Co and continued in the service with the BC Coast Service of CPR. For a time he was master of Maude on WCVI run, and was an officer on Pr Louise and other steamers on the N run. He also spent 6 mos in the n in charge of the Boscowitz boat, which was chartered by the Dominion government to take the survey party which was headed by late William Ogilvie. Five yrs ago Capt Brown decided to retire, although he felt - and looks - like many yrs yet of active seamanship.

Capt Brown has had many experiences at sea but he has never been shipwrecked. On his 1st voyage round the Horn, however, he came nr it. On a ship carrying coal from Cardiff to Belicia, had put into the Falkland Islands to endeavor to stop a leak which could not be located at sea, and the Capt had gone to Pt Stanley in search of 2 sailors, who had deserted on the ship's arrival. A hurricane sprung up and for some time the ship was in great danger, but she weathered it safely.

As a trader Capt Brown was a great success, and he had the confidence of the Indians. He believed in treating them firmly but fairly, and always pursued the policy of absolute truthfulness with them. He declares that as an ordinary matter of business this paid, as the Indians sooner or later found out if statements made were not according to the book, and fought shy of the traders whom they found to deceive them. He was very scrupulous in the matter of liquor with the Indians, and so well were his opinions on the point known that only once did he detect the natives drinking and very seldom did he see any of those about his stns under the influence. He confesses that it required an awful lot of patience to deal with them, though, and that success was only achieved by constant watchfulness.

Capt Brown boasts that he bought a copy of the 1st issue of the British Colonist and that he has been a subscriber to this paper ever since. He is as proud of this fact as he is of being the oldest mariner. His 60 yrs of life in Victoria and on VI cover the entire period since the city was laid out. He has seen the port grow from the smallest beginnings to be the Cdn port with the largest tonnage of deep sea and coasting shipping calling at its wharves, and he is looking forward to beholding the greater development which will follow the completion of the hbr improvements and the opening of the Panama Canal.

Capt Brown had a host of callers to wish him good fortune and good health at the home of his son, Mr J Brown. [ph/Dec 25, 15]

News/Jan 3, 1913, 7 - Col William A Farish revisits Victoria - 'I was here in 1858, the yr The Colonist was born, and I well remember the 1st issue of your paper. It was a striking production in those days of long distances and difficult communications... cost of living... 'flour was worth its weight in gold; milk was an unknown quantity save at rare intervals; and fresh meat was a luxury, to be used only as a treat when we got tired of a fish diet. I recall the arrival of a clipper ship from San Francisco with a load of cattle and their being auctioned off on the square where the courthouse now stands. The prices obtained were phenomenal, and I am afraid that a good deal of the meat was stolen during the night after its purchase... Indians - 'there was a peacemaker in the person of Gov Douglas. When the Indians got to the verge of combat their chiefs were summoned to the Fort and they were told by him to keep the peace, and keep the peace they did, as a rule. He was a wonderful man, that Douglas. Here he had to administer a community which was suddenly transformed from a quiet, sleepy HBC post into the Mecca of thousands of gold seekers. There was no accommodation for their shelter; there was little food for them, save that which they brought, and that was soon exhausted; and there was, of course, constant friction, as is natural when such a conglomerate crowd of people get together. But, through it all, Gov Douglas preserved peace and evolved order out of chaos. Within a few days of the arrival of the 1st part of miners bound for the Cariboo, he had things so systematized that they worked smoothly and in marked distinction to the conditions which prevailed in San Francisco a few yrs before. Personal liberty was not interfered with, but license was prohibited, and the result was that the Argonauts soon recognized that under the British flag the law had to be obeyed, and obeyed it was.

'I recall a Queen's birthday celebration here in 1859, when there were 7 British warships in the hbr, and a very beautiful sight they made with their white sails and their grand display of bunting. We had horse races, boating contests between the sailors and the Indians and the miners, and there was a big dinner at which Gov Douglas presided and at which, for the 1st time in my life I saw the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes entwined. Bldg/Died Dec 19, 1912 at Alert Bay, BC, Olden Westley Huson, 81, better known as 'West', n/o NY, and came to BC from CA in 1858, going 1st to the Fraser River mines and then to the Cariboo diggings. In the early 1860s he came back to the coast and ran a pack train up the Bella Coola far into the interior. Then he operated a trading schooner from Nanaimo up the east coast Vancouver Island for a few years. He afterwards started a store at Socwash, near where the mining operations were being carried on. From there he came to Alert Bay, where he purchased a store. In 1881 he went into partnership with late T Earle and S A Spencer and established a valuable cannery there, which he sold in 1883. Shortly afterwards deceased purchased Haddington Island and in partnership with Rudge & Gray opened the quarry from which the stone for the Legislative and other public buildings was obtained. He also staked part of Hardy Bay and McNeill Harbour. G 032 E 08

Marine/Died Jan 13, 1913 at Victoria, BC, Capt James Gaudin, n/o Jersey, Channel I, aged 75. He entered the mercantile marine service as an apprentice, and during those yrs and in his younger manhood he was in vessels in the E India and the Aus trade chiefly. Having secured his papers as Master Mariner he was engaged for several yrs after 1865 in the trans-Atlantic service, and also in service between London and Victoria for HBC. He 1st came to this coast as 1st officer of HBC ship Prince of Wales.

Possessed of great professional skill and being a careful navigator, Capt Gaudin quickly rose in the estimation of the company, and after several voyages he was prompted to the command of Lady Lampson and brought her to Victoria in 1869. A few yrs later he practically made his home here, although he was away for months at a time on the long voyage to and from Eng, but in 1884 he finally gave up the service in which he spent so many yrs and settled down with his family here.

...In 1873 Capt Gaudin married Miss Agnes, 2nd d/o late Alexander C Anderson, who survives him. There is also 1 son, James, Yukon, and 4 daughters - Mrs Wilby, Victoria; Mrs Harvey, Knapp I; Mrs Bond, Vancouver; and Miss Kate Gaudin. Marine/Mar 8, 1913, 15 - Walbran may command Estevan... came here in 1888 with SS Islander, n/o Yorkshire, Eng, b 1848. Educated at Ripon Grammar and served on British training frigate Conway, served in merchant marine for 11 yrs, and secured his master's certificate at age 22. First ship commanded by Walbran was sailing vessel British Consul, bound from London to Bombay. He stated that it was the proudest moment of his life when he mounted the bridge of Consul at the E India docks. In 1888 he joined CPN Co and had charge of SS Danube. On arriving on the Pacific coast with Islander, he remained in the employ of CPN Co until 1891, and then entered service of Cdn govt as commander to superintend bldg of DGS Quadra at Paisley, Sct. When she was completed, he brought her here and, with the exception of 7 mos in 1892, from 1891 to 1903, was engaged in the lighthouse, buoy and fishery service of BC. Walbran has made a study of early marine hx of the Cdn Pacific coast, and navigators are indebted to him for many valuable documents dealing with BC waters.

Mar 18, 1913 - When Supreme Court sits today a somewhat peculiar case will be brought up for adjudication. The parties are Misses O'Connor and another [McGeohegan] vs City of Victoria, and the point at issue relates to the removal of a body from its repository in Ross Bay cemetery following improvements involving the bldg of the sea wall. When it was discovered that it would be necessary to remove a # of bodies in order to prosecute the work, the one referred to was among the # so treated, despite the protests of the relatives, who are now bringing suit for damages. [Mar 19, 3]PC

RNV/Died Mar 23, 1913 at Victoria, BC, Sgt William Henry Clayards, one of the best known and most competent mem/o Victoria Police dept. He came to Victoria 20 yrs ago as a mem/o HMS Satellite, attached to this stn. He belonged to the Royal Marine Light Infantry and had seen service in the navy for nearly 10 yrs in many portions of the world. Shortly after securing his discharge from the navy he joined the local police force in Mar, 1895. He served as patrolman for 14 yrs, and for 2 yrs acted as detective, later rejoining the uniform staff as Sgt, succeeding Sgt Handley (now Oak Bay chief).

Since the force took up 1st aid work under the direction of Dr Donald, Sgt Clayards took a very keen interest in this most important branch of police work. He was a mem/o the police team which, on the occasion of the visit of Their Royal Highnesses the Duke/Duchess of Connaught, last yr won in open competition the trophies presented by Lieut-Governor and Premier.

Marine/Died Mar 31, 1913 at Victoria, BC, Capt John Thomas Walbran, aged 64, n/o Ripon, Yorkshire, Eng. Apr 1, 16 - Capt John T Walbran, one of the pioneer shipping men of the Pacific Coast, and who for the past 22 yrs was prominently identified with the Marine & Fisheries service at Victoria, passed away yesterday after a short illness. Active right up to the last, Capt Walbran remained at his duties until about 2 wks ago. [see Mar 8, 1913 for cv]

in book form. Some isolated notes respecting places of special interest, their hx, etc, were published in BC papers or submitted for the information of the Geographic Board. Several papers, read at Victoria in 1899 before the Natural Hx Soc, dealt with the same theme. Later the author was asked to extend this useful and interesting work, and was promised by the then Min of mare & Fisheries that the book should be printed as supplementary to the publications of the Geographic Board of Canada, issued by his dept, in spite of his long yrs at sea Capt Walbran retained much of the disposition of a student and he soon became greatly engrossed in his research work, and secured copies of all the old records of voyages to the BC coast, the contents of which he perused with much interest. As commander of DGS Quadra his duties took him to every portion of the BC coast, which included a great many waters that were practically unsurveyed. In the way he acquired a thorough knowledge not only of the charts in existence but also the unwritten lore of Indians and traders experienced in the intricacies of the coast. With a view to securing accuracy in fact, names and dates, he corresponded with old residents of BC in all parts of the world, with the result that the book, when it appeared, was as complete as was possible.

When acting as fishery officer aboard whaling steamer Sebastian, when that vessel, together with Germania, was sent out 2 yrs ago in the fisheries protection service, Capt Walbran was hurled against the bulwarks during a heavy sea, causing serious injury to his R side. But a few wks prior to his death, Capt Walbran, when riding in an automobile, owned by his son, was thrown out of the car and badly shaken up.

Few men knew the rocky coast of BC as did Capt Walbran, and had he survived his recent illness it is altogether probable that the Dominion govt would have offered him the position of Wreck Commissioner, with hdqts at Victoria. Capt Walbran but recently admitted that he had been offered the command of the new DGS tender Estevan. He declined it, however, feeling that the responsibility and anxiety attached to the position would be too heavy a burden at his age.

Capt Walbran leaves to mourn his loss two daughters, Mrs Napier Denison and Miss Walbran, Victoria. [ph included]. Apr 5 - Funeral - pallbearers: Capt Robertson, Agent of Marine; Capt Nicholson, mgr of Grand Trunk Pacific; Capt Newby, one of Victoria's well-known pilots; Mr Vincent, one of the oldest mem/CPN; Capt John Irving, Commodore of CPN, Capt Gould, supt of Esquimalt dockyard. Died Apr 4, 1913 at Victoria, BC, William Healy, 71, one of the best known residents of Sooke, n/o Athlone, Ireland, coming out to Canada, a farmer by occupation, 55 years ago, and had lived for the past 20 years at Sooke Lake, where his ranch was the rendezvous of the sportsmen of Victoria visiting that district. About 1 year ago he entered into proceedings with the city, which wanted part of his property at Sooke for the installation of water works, and after considerable negotiations sold the land for a settlement of about $40,000. Apr 5 - Mr Healy's residence in BC dated from the historic days of 1859, when he joined the Fraser River gold rush. When only a lad he accompanied an elder brother to NY; thence to CA, where he passed some years in mining and other avocations. Following an overland journey to Oregon, he was employed for some time as a teamster for US troops who were then operating against the Indians. The gold rush invited him across the line, and in this province he remained. He took the old familiar route of the Argonauts - up the Fraser to the Cariboo country, holding at different times claims on Antler and William Creeks. He had further mining experience in Cassiar and on Leech River, where the discovery of gold excited Victoria in 1864. He also lived for a time at New Westminster, then called Queensborough.

For some years Mr Healy resided in Victoria, serving a term in connection with the police force. He also worked at road and bridge building, taking part in the construction of the old James Bay bridge. About 1887 he took up the land at Sooke Lake, on which he lived until the city purchased a portion for waterworks purposes. His dispute with the Corporation over this purchase is a matter of recent history. Many sportsmen have a lively remembrance of the pleasant days spent on and around 'Healy's Ranch.' Until very lately the old gentleman enjoyed good health, and was always noted for the keen interest he took in public questions, on which he was unusually well informed. Pallbearers: H Cathcart, W N Lenfesty, J R Phillips, R R Watson, C J Savage, S Hatherly. U 069 E 46

Died Apr 1, 1913 at Victoria, BC, Miss Matilda Mary Miles, 39, one of the most accomplished musicians in Victoria. She was n/o Trinidad, BWI, born 1873, and was youngest d/o William Miles, MA, Headmaster of Queen's College, Trinidad. She received her education at Cheltenham Ladies' college, Eng, and studied music under E Power and Daurenther at the Royal College, London, where she was a contemporary of Clara Butt and Coleridge Taylor. The talented girl chose the profession of music as her life's work and for 7 years before leaving Eng, was head of the musical staff at Middleboro high school. Coming to Victoria in 1904, Miss Miles engaged in teaching and solo work.

In the field of chamber music she had great experience and ability and her greatest delight was to engage in it. For many years Miss Miles acted as accompanist to the Arion Club and the Victoria Choral Society and was an active member of the Ladies Musical club from its inception. During a long and painful illness Miss Miles preserved to the last the sweetness of disposition that endeared her to all who knew her. Died Apr 8, 1913 at Victoria, BC, Christopher Morley, one of the best known pioneer citizens of Victoria. Mr Morley, who was a soda water mfg, resided at 1317 Waddington Alley, aged 72, n/o W Deeping, Lincolnshire, Eng. He came to this country in 1862. A yr later he went into the Cariboo country, visiting Williams Ck, Lightning Ck and other well known cks, but he did not mine and returned to Victoria in the same summer. The following spring he went to the Leech Rv mines where he became interested in several claims. There he spent 2 yrs at work, but the occupation was not profitable and he returned to Victoria almost penniless. Nothing daunted, however, he started next yr for the Big Bend where there was considerable excitement over recent discoveries. He got as far as Shuswap Lk where he spent the summer prospecting, returning to Victoria in the autumn. In the following yr he went on a prospecting trip to Comox where he spent several yrs ranching on Saanichton and Sidney I.

It was in 1872 that he established the business with which his name was associated for so many yrs. He opened a store 1st on Yates st, later removing to Wharf st, and formed a partnership with Mr J K Greenwood, which was continued until 1881, when the connection was dissolved and Mr Morley assumed complete ownership of the business. He removed to the Waddington Alley premises in 1883 where he both resided and did business until his demise. He was mem/o st George's Soc and also of French Benevolent Soc.

Mr Morley was unmarried, and leaves no immediate relatives in this country, though it is understood that several survive him in Eng and in Melbourne, Aus. [ph included]. Pallbearers: Messrs Thomas Shotbolt, James Ure, John Smith, Charles Bosustow, George Chadwick, John Laird. T 075 E 44

V/Apr 12, 1913, 7 - the govt grant of $100 to each survivor of the Fenian Raids was celebrated in Victoria last night by the local veterans of the 47th and 60th Companies, under the chairmanship of Capt H Treen. The celebration took the form of a smoking concert and 'sing-song.' The evening was spent with reminiscences from the old warriors, and songs from the younger ones. Mr J Knight, one of the 'Old Greens,' spoke upon conscription and said the day would never dawn when it would be necessary for Gt Britain or her colonies to adopt such a policy. The # of Fenian veterans was swelled by those who had seen service in Egypt, China and India.

Died Apr 11, 1913 at Victoria, BC, Thomas G Moody. He enjoyed a very large circle of acquaintances, was a '58'er', having sailed from NY in 1858 on SS Northern Light; and it is interesting to mention that he had as fellow passengers on the voyage, late Capt William Irving and the latter's son, Capt John Irving.

Crossing the Isthmus of Panama, Mr Moody and his companions embarked upon SS Gussie Telfer, en route to Victoria, which they reached in Jan, 1859. Shortly afterwards Mr Moody became identified with the lumbering industry which was at that time operated on a large scale at Burrard Inlet, nr the site of Vancouver, his father late Joshua Moody, and S P Moody having preceded him and locating at that point - hence the name Moodyville, which stands to this day. It will be recalled by old-timers that Mr S P Moody was drowned on SS Pacific, which was wrecked with great loss of life in 1874. Since that date Mr Moody has resided almost continuously in Victoria.

Deceased leaves a large family, his surviving children being Dr F G Moody, Victoria; Dr T Glendon Moody and Dr H P Moody, Vancouver. Dr William Moody, another son, died only a few months ago. Deceased was n/o Hartland, ME, aged 70. Pallbearers: Messrs Silver, McGregor, Goodacre, Stewart, Curry, Hiscocks. Buried in family plot at RBC. R 093b094 W O

V/Apr 13, 1913, 7 - Robert Butler, of the government printing office celebrated the 54th anniversary of his arrival at Victoria, BC. He will have completed 50 years service in the employ of the government next Oct.

Mr Butler came here as a member of Royal Engineers under late Colonel Wolfenden, for many years King's Printer, on Thames City, which landed here Apr 12, 1859...

When Thames City landed here he went with Lieut Palmer, RE, on the old SS Eliza Anderson, to Sapperton. Fearing that they could not secure a supply of bread there they took 2,000 loaves from here.

He remained on the Fraser working with that corps of Engineer's which built road and generally pioneered the way in BC, until the then Crown Colony of Vancouver Island became part of BC. In 1868 he arrived with Colonel Wolfenden and the other RE's, and with them came the old flat press, which, together with an old Washington press, formed the plant then used in the government service - the old flat press standing as a curio today in the corridor of the government printing office. He was stationed at Douglas, which was then the outfitting place for Cariboo - Yale had not been founded - and saw many stirring scenes there. It was the height of the gold mining excitement, and there was much lawlessness. The late Chief Justice Sir Matthew Baillie Begbie then established his reputation as a terror to evildoers, and there were busy days for the officials. Murders were not infrequent.

He recalls one incident in which he figured, the capture of an Indian who made of business of hiring himself as a packer to miners and killing them for the gold they carried. A Frenchman who had 50 pounds of gold wrapped in a blanket had hired the native, and when the miner stopped at a brook by the side of the trail to drink, he shot at him, the bullet grazing his shoulder. Mr Butler and two others came over the trail just then, and hearing the shot, they ran up. The Indian took to the bush, and 'Tom' Humphrey, who later became Provincial Secretary, then a constable, went after him. Near Lillooet he found that the fugitive had sheltered with some Indians, and an Indian boy disclosed his whereabouts. Mr Humphrey went to the tent where he was hidden, and the murderer rushed out, and shot him in the arm. The constable fired, wounding the Indian on the head, and he was captured and hanged on Christmas Eve at Douglas. It developed that he had killed 8 miners and dragged their bodies into the woods.

Another time a pack train was held up, and several desperadoes who stole some gold tried to swim the Thompson River with their booty. The swift current and the weight of their loot proved too much for them and they were drowned.

Many are the stories of those stirring times which Mr Butler could tell when he became reminiscent. He recalls the exciting times that occurred nearly every day in a saloon which occupied the site of Copas & Young's grocery. The place was run by a mulatto, and one day Billy Barker, a miner who had just come in from the Fraser River, swept a number of glasses from the counter, and then took a handful of $20 gold pieces and threw them against a big mirror, with the remark: 'If you pick them up they'll pay for the damage.'

Money came easy, went easy then. There was plenty of gambling. One day when late Bill Moore came in with a load of freight he went to a bar where some Spaniards were running a Monte game. He didn't know how to play the game. He put down a $20 piece, and the man behind the table gave him another one, and before he left he had $1,740.

Mr Butler is a pioneer in the military services of this city. With late Colonel Wolfenden, late Judge Crease, Captain

Pritchard and others, he was a member of the Rifle Corps formed at New Westminster in 1864. They got some red cloth and arranged the pieces of their jackets to make a uniform, and came to Victoria at times to shoot against some rifles later formed in Victoria. In 1868 he joined the Rifle Corps formed here by Captain Lang, of which Messrs Shotbolt, Thompson and Newbury were members. He was a Sergeant. They sent to London for the uniforms for that corps and they were distributed at a small store on the site of the burned area where Spencer's store stood. When the 5th Regiment was formed he joined the artillery and in 1874 he was beaten by one point by Colonel Wolfenden in the competitions to select representatives for Wimbledon, and in 1876 he was himself sent to Wimbledon. When HRH the Marquis of Lorne came here a practise was held by the artillerymen with the 64 pounder muzzle-loaders which then were mounted in the gunpits at Finlayson Point, and he won many compliments when, as the gunlayer, he sighted a round which broke the flag placed on a barrel in the Straits.

Mr Butler has a large family. His eldest son, Mr R, of Vancouver, has been 30 years in the employ of the post office there. Mrs J D McNiven and Mrs Frank Findlay, of Vancouver are his daughters.

Marine/Died Apr 4, 1913 at Halifax, NS, Capt J W Peppitt, for many yrs prominently connected with the pelagic sealing industry. He was owner of sealing schooners Pescawha and Umbrina. He resided in Victoria for over 20 yrs. He was engaged in business at Halifax when Capt Charles Hackett and Mr Moore became associated with him in sending schooner Carmelite to Victoria, which hunted from Victoria until seized many yrs ago together with Rosie Olsen, Vancouver Belle and Maria by the Russian cruiser off the Copper Islands.

He afterwards brought Umbrina here, Capt Campbell, now master of Princess Sophia, bringing out the vessel, and the fast sailer Agnes McDonald, which was lost off the coast of Japan followed, the last to arrive being Pescawha, now a fishing vessel out of Vancouver.

Capt Peppitt was one of the best known of the owners of sealing schooners and those who followed the pelagic sealing business recall many interesting episodes of his life here. Some yrs ago when the competition for Indian hunters was strong between the different owners and they went each yr to west coast VI to sign crews Capt Peppitt worked many a scheme to secure a crew.

On one occasion he found the Ucluelets diffident about going to sea. He took his schooner Umbrina there and anchored in the Inlet, but none of the Indians would sign. Capt Peppitt then secured a # of almost gold watches, and putting one of them on his chain he called one of the Indians aside and in a secluded spot he said to him:

'Bob I know you're one of the best hunters on the coast, and I want you to go on Umbrina, I'll give you my own gold watch if you'll sign.' Capt Peppitt took the watch from his chain and fingered it fondly.

'Cultus potlatch?' asked the hunter.

'Cultus potlatch,' said Capt Peppitt.

'I'll sign,' said Bob, and he did. One after another the Indians were called away quietly, and to each the Capt gave his gold watch. He put new ones on his chain ready for each occasion, and each hunter thought he had the only gold watch until they compared notes at sea. When the voyage was over each wanted to get some gold paint to put on the watch.

Capt Peppitt was a great believer in the Cocos I treasure and more than once during his life in Victoria spoke of his desire to take part in an expedition to search for the fabled millions.

Pallbearers: Judge Harrison, Messrs W H Langley, J C Newbery, R Boyns, W G Cameron, J H Johnstone.

It was 51 yrs ago that she left her home in London, ON, to join her husband, who was then stationed at Esquimalt, where he enjoyed the distinction of being the 1st man to obtain the contract for supplying bread to the navy. Mrs Smith came here by way of Panama, and on her arrival she and her husband took up their residence in Victoria proper.

The biscuit factory with which Mrs Smith's name is inseparably connected was the 1st one to be established in BC, and was originally located at Esquimalt. It was not until later that the site which it occupied on Niagara st was purchased. That the deceased lady, who from earliest days was noted for her benevolence and kindness, was not more prominent in the society of the city was probably due to the fact that she was essentially a home-lover and devoted her spare time to her family and her household. Apr 29, 1913 - a letter of no little historic interest was sent by C C Gardiner from CA to the Charlottetown Islander and published by that paper in Dec, 1858. It was a detailed account of a journey made from San Francisco to the placer gold diggings on the Fraser River in BC...

The news of a big gold strike on the Fraser and Thompson rivers reached CA in May. At that time Mr Gardiner and a partner were mining in the neighbourhood of Michigan Bluffs in Placer County. Immediately they betook themselves to San Francisco, and thence with other excited treasure hunters took ship for Portland, Oregon. The main trail north was beset with hostile Indians, so a roundabout route was chosen, passing Seattle, which at that time was an Indian village. A canoe was secured, and after sailing across the Straits of Georgia and Semihamoo Bay they reached the mouth of the Fraser, which was in flood. By dint of great expeditions they made Fort Langley, 30 miles up and the most important HBC post on the Pacific coast. The route followed the Harrison River to Harrison Lake and thence against the swift waters of the Lillooet River, 25 miles long. The party had to drag the canoe upstream with ropes and altogether they were 23 days at the task. Besides, they lost all their stores save a few sacks of flour and all firearms save one revolver. During the whole trip the men's clothes were soaking wet, and at their camps they were forced to establish a sentry system to keep marauding Indians away. More days of trouble and hardship brought them to the Indian trail over the Cascade Mountains, a rocky track in the complete control of thieving Indians of utter barbarity. They were continually in danger of death. The only reason the Indians did not take their flour was that they did not understand its use. At last after a journey of 40 days they reached the Fraser at a point perhaps 400 miles from its mouth, and began washing the sands for gold. They made from $3 to $5 a day for several weeks. When their supplies were almost exhausted they succeeded in buying a sack of flour for $60 in gold dust. That night it was stolen by an Indian who knew its value. Discouraged, Gardiner and his companion worked down stream to Fort Hope and Fort Yale and thence to the coast, returning to CA no richer save an experience. They called at Victoria, a town of about 1,000 inhabitants, and saw two British men-of-war, Satellite and Plumper. Mr Gardiner earnestly advised his PEI friends not to go to BC with the intention of gaining a fortune by mining, or with any other intention, as the trip was very labourious and expensive.

May 8, 1913, 17 - photo leaves on a visit to childhood scenes - Michael J Finnerty, after absence of 61 yrs... accompanied by his son, William F Finnerty, of Spence & Dougherty... Mr Finnerty is one of the pioneer farmers of VI, having come to Victoria in 1862 by way of Panama. He landed in NY at age 18 and very soon the strong lad with the frank, open countenance obtained employment in a sugar refinery. As might have been anticipated the confinement of the factory did not suit the young country-bred man. As soon as possible

he was at work in the open, and before long was foreman of a gang of 50 men employed on the fortifications at Sandy Hook. Soon after the outbreak of the Civil War, Mr Finnerty was in Virginia and while there witnessed the historic conflict of Monitor and Merrimac.

News of the gold discoveries in BC having reached him Mr Finnerty set out for Victoria, landing here in the fall of 1862 he went on to Cariboo early the next yr and obtained employment as foreman for Mr Wright on the old Cariboo rd. But hard times came and Mr Finnerty returned to Victoria and he and his brother bought land on the Fernwood estate, where they were soon operating a very large market garden and feed business, supplying not only the city but the settlements of Ft Moody and Hastings.

Their farm covered the site of the Jubilee hosp. From time to time more farms were added till in the vicinity of Victoria the Finnertys owned 400 acres of land. In the course of time and the march of progress, most of this land was purchased to make city streets and homes, but still Mr Finnerty retains a farm in the neighborhood of Uplands, the beautiful and fashionable suburb of Victoria.

About 32 yrs ago Mr Finnerty married in San Francisco a countrywoman of his own. Two of his sons are in business and his daughter has taken, in the home, the place her mother left vacant 2 yrs ago.

Mr Finnerty has been a very successful man, but his heart is still in his farm work and he looks upon the growing of the largest potatoes ever produced as one of his greatest achievements and refers in terms of pride to samples from his fields weighing 4lb, 7oz.

Through all the changes of his 79 yrs he has kept unchanged the faith he brought from his boyhood's home in Ballina, Co Mayo, Ire. Many friends wished him Godspeed and safe return.

Auto/May 17, 1913 - Mr J R Anderson re: new vehicle [50 yrs ago] - The vehicle in question was invented and constructed by 2 partners by name of Downes and Ohlson, a Yorkshireman and a Swede. These 2 men, amidst the jeers of the thousands of goldseekers who were wending their way to Cariboo, started from Yale with their new conveyance loaded with more grub and other necessaries than the average mule could pack, and in spite of the almost impassable trails, with the dogged determination which characterized them, reached Cariboo with a full supply of necessaries, the transportation of which cost only their labor.

‘After a few yrs, having struck it rich, they wisely invested their pile in a ranch nr Alexandria, which was, and is still, known as the Australian Ranch, one of the best on the Cariboo rd. It was there, in 1892, that I again made their acquaintance and where I again saw the memorable vehicle which they treasured as the means of their having acquired a comfortable competency.

‘I asked them about their curious co-partnership and the hx related was briefly as follows: They fell in with each other in Aus and after mining there for some yrs - although they were doing fairly well - on account of the bad and insufficient quantity of water, the lack of firewood and the immense cost of timber for mining purposes, rendering the tunnels insecure and dangerous, they determined to try NZ, where, again, they met with moderate success. Then the news of the new Eldorado reached them and they came to BC.

‘They were a curious couple: old Downes invariably sat straddle of a chair and always put his hat on for meals or during the evening. I believe he has gone to his long rest. Ohlson, I think, eventually returned to his native land.

‘I wonder what has become of the ‘new vehicle.’ [Colonist - May 6, 1863 - An ingenious invention for carrying provisions, etc, up to the mines, was put aboard Gov Douglas yesterday. It consists of a wooden truck with 4 handles, one at each end and a single wheel in the centre; the freight goes on the outside of the wheel, and secured with bands of iron hoopings, attached to the framework. Two men guide it, one on the front and one behind. Although there is some originality to the idea, we are afraid that it will not be found to answer when put in practical service.’]

They had gravel trains from the mtns filling up the swamps. The last time that Mr Glide was in Vancouver, WT, was on a visit to HBC in Mar, 1858. SS Otter always went over the bar without a pilot in and out. His last trip was on the occasion of the closing out of the HBC post. They brought away part of the library and likewise the 2 large guns that stood on the bank of the river to protect the fort. In 1860 the guns were shipped home to London with the 2 guns belonging to Otter.

News/Died May 19, 1913 at Victoria, BC, Mrs Sarah McDowall, aged 83, who came to Victoria with her husband in 1864. She was n/o Cork, Ire, and retained to the last the love of Ire. Three yrs ago, with her daughters, she visited her old home and went to the convent she attended as a girl and the house to which she came as a bride. A touching incident was the meeting with the venerable nun who had been her teacher and who still remembered her pupil of long ago.

Mrs McDowall was a devoted wife. It is 13 yrs since her husband passed away, the yr after the affectionate couple had celebrated their golden wedding.

Although Mrs McDowall loved her own family with the strong, impulsive love of an Irishwoman, she had room in her heart for the stranger and those in trouble of whatever creed and race.

With the passing away of Mrs McDowall another vacant place is made in the little group who remain of the worshippers in the 1st RC church in Victoria. She is survived by 3 sons, Thomas, George and Harry, and 2 daughters, Mary and Sarah, all of whom live at the home. Another son, Mr W J McDowell, was formerly night editor of Colonist. WmHx/May 29, 1913, 11 - A Reminiscence - Sir - twice lately I have seen interesting articles in your paper telling of the old-time Western Union telegraph line that was abandoned when the Atlantic cable was laid successfully in 1866. I felt particularly interested in the account, for I myself have seen that line. In Apr, 1880, I, with my brother and 2 Indian packers, was making a journey from the hd of navigation on the Naas to a mission about 20 miles W of Hazelton. We took what is usually known as the 'grease trail,' and walked across the country about 120 miles on snowshoes most of the way. The snow was deep, very deep, in the mountains, but as we neared our journey's end on our last day we came to long stretches where the snow was thawed away. I remember well on the morning of Apr 17 we came to a hilltop quite clear of snow. The ground was covered with deep moss, and sitting down to rest, I put my hand on the ground, but jumped up quickly, thinking I had felt a snake move under my hand. My brother and the Indians asked me what was the matter, and laughed at me when I said I had felt a snake. They told me it was the telegraph line, and I thought they were only joking, and would not believe them. Stooping down and moving the moss, one of the Indians showed me it was a telegraph line lying on the ground and quite hidden by moss and roots. My brother then took me aside about 20' and told me to look back towards the W, and there we could see quite clearly a cutting-like avenue through the trees, a surveyor's line that had been cut for the work. He then explained to me about the line, and how it had been abandoned about 20 yrs previously. Later on, when we reached the Kishpiox village we saw quantities of the wire used for clotheslines, for hand rails on their primitive bridges, for pot and kettle handles, and for many other things. I was told that before the line was abandoned that telegraph messages were actually sent from Quesnell to the Kishpiox village, the operators wishing each other a happy Xmas over the line on Xmas day, 1865. V/May 29, 1913, 3 - photo, died May 28, 1913 at Victoria, BC, George Stelly Sr, 88, born at Pettlach, Canton of Solothorn, Switzerland. He is survived by a son, George. He was possessed of large property interests, there are numerous handsome buildings here which stand as a monument to his faith in the future of the town when faith was somewhat at a discount. Notable is the Clarence hotel block.

Mr Stelly was born in 1825 and in 1851 he heard of the wonderful gold discoveries in CA and determined to seek his fortune in that country. At this time there were no railroads in Switzerland and consequently few of the villagers ever traveled more than a few miles from home. Therefore, when in company with a few comrades he left his native land a great crowd assembled to bid him bon voyage, as it was thought the expedition was a wonderful one. Mr Stelly and his companions made most of the journey to the sea coast on foot. Thence they crossed over to England and embarked for America on a sailing vessel at Liverpool.

journeyed up the Mississippi to St Louis, where he found his 1st employment in America. This job consisted of driving a team of 12 oxen and ploughing, for Stelly showing himself an excellent workman, however, he was given a 'raise' to $15/month. Finding this employment irksome, he journeyed on to Iowa, where, on Apr 1, 1854, a party was organized to go to CA in search of gold.

This party consisted of 20 people, of whom 3 were women. They experienced great trouble with the Indians on the plains. Each night 4 men had to stand guard against attack. On the south side of the River Platte they had many skirmishes with the Indians, and one morning at daybreak they were attacked. The women lay flat in the bottom of the wagons, behind and under which were the members of the white party working their rifles. The party was well armed, and after considerable firing drove the Indians back and followed them over a high ridge in the hope of recovering some of their oxen which the Indians had managed to get away with. As the party of pursuing whites reached the ridge they beheld a beautiful valley, where the Indians had their encampment, and here were thousands of cattle and horses, which presumably the Indians had from time to time filched from white travelers whom they had murdered while they were crossing the plains.

When the party, proceeding on their journey, reached the spot where the splendid city of Omaha, Nebraska, now stands, they had to build rafts to get the wagons across the Missouri River and swim the cattle over. After 6 months journey they reached Placerville, CA. Mr Stelly spent 4 years in different parts of the state and with some success.

Then the Fraser River excitement broke out and he joined in the rush to BC. Mr Stelly remembered that a tax of $2.50 was imposed on all leaving the state, and that the fare was $40. The trip to Victoria took 12 days. They arrived on SS Oregon at Esquimalt in May 1858, and Mr Stelly used to relate that he carried his blankets over the old Esquimalt road to this city. Here 4 of the newcomers (3 being Irish) built a small rowboat and started for the Fraser River. In crossing the Gulf a storm arose and the tiny craft was almost swamped. They managed, however, to reach Point Roberts, where they found shelter. They did not know exactly where the Fraser River was, but met many Indians who directed them on their course. These Indians would say: 'Gold illay siyah' - meaning in Chinook, 'gold land far away.' Stelly's party finally reached Lytton. Here, however, they met with a serious mishap, the boat upsetting and causing the loss of all their effects and provisions. After prospecting the benches at Lytton thoroughly they found but little gold and made an effort to get out of the country. They had delayed their departure too long, however, and found they would have of necessity to winter on the Fraser. They experienced many hardships, as to buy provisions was out of the question. Beans was the principal article of diet for months, and the party, even with those, were on short rations.

In the spring of 1859, Stelly and party returned to Fort Victoria 'dead broke.' Stelly himself wanted to go back to CA, but, like many more, had no money to pay his passage. He finally found work here at various occupations, and after saving some money he bought a mule and 2 wheels. On the latter he placed a barrel, and then started selling water to the people of Victoria. In those days he became known as 'George, the Waterman.' Later he embarked in the contracting and general teaming business, which he carried on successfully until a few years ago, when, owing to advancing years, he was forced to retire.

It was only a few years ago that with his son and the latter's wife, he made an extended tour of Europe, visiting his home in Switzerland after an absence of 57 years.

As a young man Stelly served in the war of 1847-48 in Switzerland, and on his return home had the great pleasure of meeting 2 comrades who served in the same regiment with himself. As a young man he listened to the call of BC, then very insistent, owing to the discoveries of gold. He arrived here in 1862, having made the journey from the Old Country via Isthmus of Panama. Shortly after arriving, as was the case with most of the newcomers, he made his way to the Cariboo goldfields, but there very indifferent success attended his search for fortune. Returning to Victoria, he formed a partnership with

James Muirhead, establishing the business known for over 30 yrs as Muirhead & Mann, sash and door mfgs and general carpenter jobbers. Died Aug 21, 1913 at Lake Hill Farm, Victoria, BC, Robert Gregory, s/o late Kenneth MacKenzie, aged 56. Born at Craigflower, BC. He was the last surviving s/o Kenneth MacKenzie, who came to this city in 1853, and had lived here practically all his life, being well-known throughout the whole of the Island, particularly by the old-timers. The family at first lived in the HBC fort, when there was but 1 house outside the palisades, and later removed to Craigflower where deceased was born. Later they moved to the Lake Hill farm, which has formed the family hdqts ever since. Mr MacKenzie had been suffering from poor health for more than 1 yr and spent some months in CA last winter in the hope of improving. He returned home, however, little benefitted by the change. He was the youngest of 4 sons, his 3 brothers having predeceased him. He leaves 2 sisters, the Misses Agnes and Wilhelmina, living at the family res, also his wife, 2 nieces, Mrs Craft, of CA and Mrs Herbert Keith, of Victoria, BC, and a grandnephew, Mr Craft, Victoria. Deceased gentleman had many friends, who will extend their sympathy to the bereaved family in their loss. Aug 29, 1913 - Mrs Stephen Kendall and Mrs Frank Davis, of Ker av, aired their differences before Magistrate Jay the other day, the former being prosecuted by the latter for assault. There were many witnesses and the effect of the testimony was that there have been differences between the 2 parties for some time which culminated in a more open dispute, the finale of which was the throwing of a stone, rock or boulder. He advised the women to return to their homes and endeavor to live as neighbors more amicably.

Bldg/Died Sep, 1913 at Montreal, QC, Mr J P Burgess, a leader of the ever-thinning band of Victoria pioneers of 1862, while on a return trip from Europe.

After coming to the city he spent several yrs prospecting in Cariboo and Omenica districts, eventually settling down in Victoria in 1872 as a general contractor, a profession which he actively followed until abt 1 yr ago... Mechanics' library... He married Miss Sarah Bayley in 1886, and the widow and the 2 children of the marriage predeceased him. The loss of his eldest son several yrs ago proved a great blow, and those who knew him best say that Mr Burgess never quite recovered from it.

WmHx/Sep 9, 1913, 3 - to meet old comrades - Mr W M Gee arrived in Victoria from Eng... Over 50 yrs ago, in 1861, Mr Gee's sister, Mrs Collins, was a res in Victoria, and from this city set out with her husband on a most venturesome trip across the continent, via the old-style wagon method. They sailed to San Francisco, and thence travelled E by wagon through the Rockies and via Salt Lk City, the great overland route in those days, to the Mississippi and on to Toronto. While at Salt Lk City Mr/Mrs Collins called upon Brigham Young. This trip, in those days once surrounded by perils and hardships, was safely negotiated, and Mrs Collins thus figures among the band of brave women who risked their lives in crossing the continent yrs before the RR afforded the safer and much more comfortable means of transportation.

Died September, 1913 at Victoria, BC, Mrs Elizabeth Coffey. Funeral Sep 12. Pallbearers: Messrs Pike Smith, C Johns, A Johns, Baker, Perry.

Deceased enjoyed the distinction of being one of the oldest residents of BC. She also formed an interesting link with the past, for her great-grandfather was McNeilly, chieftain of the Isle of Barra, Scotland, who lived about 1745. For his loyalty to the young Pretender, the chieftain was compelled to leave his estates, and flee to County Down, Ireland, where he spent the remainder of his days, far from the light of that sun which set so ignominiously in later days.

Deceased, who was 97, was born at Mourne, County Down, daughter of George McNeilly. She married late William Coffee, of Cranfield, Kilkeel, County Down, who predeceased her 29 years ago at Port Elgin, Bruce County, Ontario.

The family came out to Canada in 1847, when they settled in Wentworth County, near Hamilton, Ontario. Three years later they moved to Owen Sound, where they remained for several years before taking up farming in Arran Township, Bruce County, where they remained for 25 years. In 1878 Mr & Mrs Coffey retired from farm life, and took up their residence at Port Elgin. In 1891 the widow came to Victoria with several of her children, and had made this her home ever since. The many admirable qualities possessed by the deceased - qualities which have made the women of British stock respected all over the world both as wives and mothers - won her many warm admirers and friends. Her life was characterized by her devotion to her family, her strong personality and wonderful physique being worthy of the splendid stock from which she sprang. Of her, it may well be said, as has been said of so many other devoted wives and mothers, 'Her children rise up and call her blessed.'

Survived by 2 sons, William Coffey, Arran Twp; George Coffee, San Francisco. Also by 3 daughters in BC, Miss Coffee and Mrs Stewart, of Victoria, and Miss Sarah Coffee, Vancouver, a 4th, Mrs Campbell, resides in Pt Elgin. Four grandchildren live in Victoria. R 097 E M

WmHx/Sep 14, 1913, 17 - photo Fifty yrs ago today, Mrs R B McMicking, then a little girl, arrived with her mother, Mrs Leighton, and 3 brothers from CA on SS Sierra Nevada. The trip was made by way of Portland, and the boat docked at Esquimalt. The passengers were brought to Victoria in an omnibus, and Mrs Leighton and her children went to the St Nicholas hotel, where they awaited the arrival of her brother, Thomas R Buie, who was to come down from Cariboo to meet his widowed sister.

As Mrs McMicking recalls Victoria of 50 yrs ago, it was a busy little city. The St Nicholas hotel, on Govt st, nr the present site of the Empress Theatre, was comfortable, and some of its rooms were handsomely furnished. The only one of her fellow-passengers beside her own family who made much impressions on the little girl's mind was Julia Deane Hayes, the star of a dramatic company, who came to fill an engagement in the Theatre Royal, which, so far as Mrs McMicking's memory serves her, was better than any we have today. It stood where the new Hibben Bk is now.

Mr Leighton, Mrs McMicking's father, was one of the original Pacific Mail SS Co, but was soon, like most Californians, engaged in mining, and the family lived in one of the interior towns of the state.

The water had an attraction not only for the children, but for the sad and lonely mother, and on sunny Sep afternoons that followed their arrival the family often sat on the bank nr a sawmill that occupied the site of the PO.

The uncle soon came down from Cariboo, and the family were settled in a new brick cottage on Rae st, next door to one occupied by Mr Galley. The children were sent to school. The young girl went to Angela College, and Mrs

McMicking recalls the names of many of her old schoolmates, some of whom are still living in Victoria. The teachers, Mrs Penrice, Mrs Archdeacon Reece and Miss Penrice, have long since passed away. The boys went to the Collegiate School.

Looking back over the yrs that followed, when the schoolgirl had grown to be a young lady, the memory of many merry gatherings comes to the good woman, who has never lost her sympathy with youthful pleasures.

The balls at the Legislative Chamber, where Gov Douglas presided, and attended by officers from Esquimalt and the US ships stationed at San Juan, were the great events in the life of the young ladies of those days.

It is with regret that, in common with many old-timers, Mrs McMicking looks back on the days when few strange faces were to be met with in Victoria, and when a universal spirit of friendliness prevailed.

Speaking of the interest which many people take in the '50 Yrs Ago' crnr of the Colonist, Mrs McMicking speaks almost affectionately of the paper which has been a constant visitor all these yrs.

Those who know Mrs McMicking as one foremost in charitable and philanthropic work can scarcely realize that it is 50 yrs since she came to the city, in which the memory of her many kindly words and acts will long linger. Her spirits are as buoyant and her mid as active in Sep 1913, as when the little girl stepped off Sierra Nevada Sep 14, 1862.

Sep 28, 1913, 5 - Through the collapse of a feed pipe of the tank forming a part of the new fire protection service recently installed at the plant of BAP Works, William Joseph Pendray, a pioneer and highly-esteemed res/o Victoria, was instantly killed...; 16 - n/o Cornwall, Eng, b Aug 15, 1848. In 1868 he emigrated to CA by way of Isthmus of Panama. He went to the mines of Grass Valley, and worked there for 8 mos at $3/day. In the early part of the next yr he went to the Cariboo, to the mines on Mosquito Ck, and there became one of the lucky owners of the Willow and Minnehaha mines. The Willow turned out to be one of the richest diggings in the country, and Mr Pendray did so well that after a time he returned to Eng.

He remained there but 3 yrs, and then returned to N America, this time located at Virginia City, NV, where are located the famous Comstock lodes that made San Francisco rich. He was there when the CA Bank failed, bringing hundreds to ruin, but he was fortunate in getting out all his money. In 1876, Mr Pendray came to Victoria with the intention of engaging in some line of business that would prove profitable. His uncle, Mr W J Jeffries, in the city, was in the clothing business, but Mr Pendray had no knowledge of this line, and it did not appeal to him. One day while walking about town, he saw a soap factory that had been closed down since the death of its owner. He considered this an opportunity, and after counselling with his uncle and Mr T Earle, a prominent merchant, he rented the vacant shop and with one man to help him he started in the soap mfg business. He was full of ambition and energy, and pushed the enterprise so well forward that it rapidly expanded in capacity and production. Mr Pendray also established the BAP Works, and the 2 plants were eventually removed to Laurel Pnt. So, from the small beginnings of 1875, the business has grown until today it has an annual output of over $1 million and a staff of 150 employees...

Probably the chief and only hobby which deceased possessed was that of gardening, and his res on Belleville st, not far from his business plant, exemplified his love, the strange and grotesque shapes into which he had trimmed the trees being an object of interest to every passerby. Early in the morning Mr Pendray might be seen with garden shears in his hand, pursuing his favorite pastime of trimming his yew and cedar trees.

WmHx/News/JwHx/Oct 12, 1913, 3 - photo Last Fri was the 92nd birthday of Mrs David Hart, who for the last 7 yrs has been living at the Aged Ladies' home.

With the exception of a weak heart, the old lady is exceptionally hale and hearty. Her memory is excellent, and she can tell you of the dates of the many events that have occurred in her most eventful life. Her eyesight is equal to, if not better, than that of the average middle-aged man or woman of the present generation, and she reads her paper every day.

Mrs Hart has been a great traveller. She was born in London, Eng, but left there in 1847 for Boston, US, and since that date has twice been round the world, and visited many of the cities in NZ and the northern USA. She came to Victoria 30 yrs ago, from Astoria.

Mrs Hart has been married twice; 1st in 1843, and again in 1855, her husband, David Hart, who was well known in the newspaper world in Astoria, having died 7 yrs ago, but she has had no children, and is the last of her generation. Mrs Hart has seen a great deal of the world, and when asked what was the secret of keeping young for so long, she sagely remarked that not only did girls take care of themselves when she was young, but that 90 yrs ago the mothers knew how to look after their babies, and taking Mrs Hart as evidence, there must certainly be some truth in the remark. Bldg/Oct 18, 1913, 7 - Pioneer residents of Victoria will learn with special interest that 1 of the 1st 4 houses built in Nanaimo and the last of the 4 to be demolished, was taken down only the other day. This was the house adjoining the Windsor hotel, and in the rear of the Opera house on Front st. For yrs this house remained as one of the oldest landmarks in Nanaimo. It was erected in 1862 by Leon Labine, a man who constructed nearly all of the 1st houses in Nanaimo. For nearly 62 yrs this house has withstood the elements. Built of hewn logs. The late John Meakin, who was killed in the big explosion, was among the 1st who lived in the place, the house being at that time considered among the best houses in the city.

Died Oct, 1913 at Merritt, BC, John Clapperton, a pioneer of BC and a res/o Victoria for the past 10 yrs. Two wks ago he left, accompanied by his wife, on a trip to Nicola country. Mrs Clapperton will bring the body of her husband back to Victoria. Deceased came to BC in the days of the Cariboo gold excitement, and he was one of the hardy pioneers who joined in the rush to that famous camp. For many yrs he resided in the Nicola dist, and was one of its most important citizens. As a JP and prominent in all matters affecting that dist he had for yrs been widely and favorably known. Many old-time Victorians knew him for his many sterling qualities. Aged 78 he leaves his widow and 3 nephews residing in Victoria. Funeral took place at Nicola, interment there. Deceased was one of the 1st white men who bought land and settled there, and there was a very large attendance of friends at the service. N/o Sct, Mr Clapperton spent many yrs in Ire prior to his coming to Canada. About 27 yrs ago he married Miss Rose Kendall, of Eng, who survives him. At one time Edwin Dalley, of Victoria, was a ranching partner of deceased, though Mr Clapperton retired from active ranching some yrs ago. He was aged 77.

V/Died Nov 2, 1913 at Victoria, BC, Harry Nesbitt, aged 38, n/o Victoria, BC, s/o late Samuel Nesbitt. The younger circle of Victoria pioneers has lost one of its most respected and valued members. He was a mem/o 5th Reg for 18 yrs, lacking only 2 yrs to qualify for his long service medal, and was a mem/o the business staff of Colonist Printing Co for 7 yrs.

He was the youngest of 7 and was born at Carberry house, Fort st. His father was among the 1st to establish a business in this city and Harry and his brothers may be said to have been actively connected with the laying of the commercial foundation of the community. Six yrs ago he married Miss O'Keefe, 2nd d/o Capt/Mrs M L O'Keefe, of Victoria. In addition to his widow and his aunt, Miss Saunders, as well as relatives living in the E, he leaves a young family of 1 boy, 2 girls. Just 1 wk ago death took his little daughter, Frances, aged 2, and it is believed that this trial hastened his end. [p/h/Nov 4, 1]... 2... Died Nov 4, 1913 at Victoria, BC, George Beverley Lyall, who was one of the few remaining pioneers of 1862, aged 72, n/o Sutton W [nr Barrie], ON. In 1862, in company with Hon Robert Beaven, Daniel MacLachlan and Daniel McCallum, he started, via NY, Isthmus of Panama and San Francisco, for Victoria, arriving here in May, 1862 on the ill-fated Pacific. Of this quartette Mr Lyall was the 1st to pass to the Great Beyond. After his arrival, Mr Lyall entered the govt service and under ex-Lt-Gov Trutch, who then was a govt engr, he superintended the construction of roads and other govt works. Like the more adventurous men of the early days he mined in Cariboo, and afterwards operated stages and freighted on the old Cariboo Trail. Returning to Victoria, he was employed by the city on construction work, and of late yrs had been in the service of Dominion Public works dept. V/Nov 9, 1913, 7 - After an interval of over 50 yrs, Mrs Newall, eldest d/o late Col Moody, Royal Engineer officer to whom BC owes the famous Cariboo trail and many of the engineering works which contributed so greatly to the development of the country, is revisiting Victoria. Mrs Newall came out recently by Panama Isthmus route by which she had travelled out in 1858 on her visit to BC; and on the way up the Pacific Coast had the opportunity of seeing many of the Mexican and American ports and comparing them with her recollections of them in the 1850s.... Mrs Newall has vivid recollections of her 1st arrival here, of the scarcity of houses at Esquimalt, which necessitated the family living on board HMS Satellite, then under command of Capt Prevost. Her recollections of Victoria recall exploring the trails that penetrated the timber to the sea at Dallas rd, the grassy banks around the Inner hbr between James Bay and the church which stood on the site of the present cathedral; Gov Douglas' house on what is now Elliot st and Victoria's one st - Fort st - with its one plank sidewalk. And one of her 1st walks during the present visit was directed to where the Gov's old house stood. Mrs Newall expressed a hope that it may yet be possible to mark this spot, now occupied by other houses with a tablet as has been done in the case of the HBC fort. Other memories recalled the choosing of the site of the present New Westminster... Col Moody returned with his family to Eng in 1863, but ever afterwards retained, said Mrs Newall his deep interest in BC and his belief in its future greatness, and to see so much of his dreams of the future become facts has been one of the most pleasant incidents of his daughter's visit. Mrs Newall has already renewed her acquaintance with several soldiers who serviced out here under Col Moody, including William Butler, who has just completed 50 yrs in BC govt service, and hopes to meet other ex-mem/o Royal Engrs. Nov 14, 1913, 1 - Edward Stout steps out of the misty past... Ed Stout, of Yale, 88 yrs young, prospector and Indian fighter, who crossed the plains in a prairie schooner in the rush of the 'forty-niners' to CA, and one of the last survivors of the Fraser River stampede of 1858, is a visitor to Victoria today on his 1st trip here in 32 years.

One of 5 survivors of a party of 26, who fought a running battle with hostile Indians near China Bar in 1858, wounded 9 times by poisoned arrows and bullets, to be rescued when hope was almost abandoned, this maker of history has crowded into a long life more stirring incidents and more dramatic events than fall to the usual lot of even the most venturesome pioneers.

Mr Stout is a miner by choice and by profession. He is a miner who washed tons of gold-bearing sand on the banks of the Fraser, Thompson and in Cariboo, before the textbooks on metallurgy were written. He has had a miner's certificate for 55 consecutive years and he retains the simple directness of action and speech...

'Give me a room on the 1st floor, where I won't have to ride in that bucket arrangement, and I don't want to walk up to the roof.' So spoke Mr Stout to a clerk at the Empress on his arrival. And, later in the day, when he went to the Parliament Buildings to pay his respect to Sir Richard McBride, whom he has known since the Premier's knickerbocker days, he stood for many minutes watching the workmen erecting the imposing structure which is being added to the present building.

'I have never seen a building like this,' he kept repeating, while the intricacies of the typewriter and telephone seemed sources of increasing wonder...

Mr Stout was born in South Germany in 1825 and he emigrated to Milwaukee in 1843. His flight from the hometown with 200 gold pieces sewn in his shirt; how he bribed and cajoled officials until he got to a seaport; his short sea voyage of 44 days, which was almost a record in those times; his adventures at Milwaukee - all these sound like a chapter in the early history of a wandering cavalier.

From Milwaukee to Council Bluffs, Iowa, which was then the 'jumping-off spot' into the unknown, was the adventurer's next journey, and here again he had experiences that would stimulate the imagination of a writer of romance.

At Council Bluffs at that time, there were 3 Mormon missionaries, a blacksmith who shod the passing oxen, and a baker who produced the biscuits that were the staple article of diet in that frontier town. A passing prairie schooner whispered of the El Dorado in CA, and this again fired the wanderlust; and, after an escapade which, sad to relate, involved the theft of a ham from the smokehouse and some of the baker's famous biscuits, the pioneer was off again, though not in safety, until he had been chased for several miles by an irate Mormon.

Eight months of tedious travel by ox wagon over the old Southern immigrant trail proved not altogether devoid of exciting incident. Many a night, with a buffalo robe and a rifle, he wandered out on his pony to round up stampeded stock. And as the aged pioneer retold the history of that trip, with its hardships from hunger and thirst and cold, little human touches were again brought from the storehouse of memory and spoken with a simplicity that added dignity to the telling.

CA and the early days of the greatest gold rush the world has ever known form a separate chapter in these reminiscences, but the cry was 'Northward Ho!' and after building 2 flat-bottomed boats at Bellingham, on May 2, 1858, a party of 26 daring travellers started from the mouth of the Fraser, near Langley, bent on wresting from the sands of the rivers some of that gold which prospectors said only awaited the pan.

'It was no easy task to get these clumsy, flat-bottomed boats up the river,' said Mr Stout, in recalling this part of his wanderings, 'I have heard young men complain of the task of bringing the lightest canoe up the river, and this is a very different matter from propelling a craft built without the least nautical knowledge, which is crowded with passengers and loaded down with supplies.'

It took just 18 days before the party reached Yale, and then the task of washing for the gold began. The stories of rich placer finds proved true, and quite a quantity found its way into the miners' pokes. But the will-of-the-wisp of fabulous strikes and rich pockets beckons the party further, and on June 2, the party started again in its search for the Golden Fleece. Pan after pan was washed in the Nicola, and for many miles up and down stream, but the results were discouraging. The rich placer which later parties were to uncover remained hidden.

The Thompson River was sampled, and while the party was at work there came the dread rumour that 'the Indians have broken out and massacred every man in the low country.' The retreat of the 26 who had stuck so loyally together began, and the little band passed down the Thompson, fighting every inch of the way. First one succumbed and then another, and it seemed certain that the whole party would be annihilated. Twenty-one men of that party were left unburied on the river banks, and when Captain Snyder came with his relieving force from Yale, only 5 were alive. Mr Stout, with 8 serious wounds from poisoned arrows and a gunshot that was miraculously deflected from a vital point by a small copper ring, was not expected to recover. And yet, the following year finds him working at Yankee Bar with the varying success that is the charm of the prospector's existence.

In 1860 Mr Stout again started out up the Fraser to Quesnel, and was one of the party to stake a claim familiar to old mining men as Keithly Creek, so called after the famous old Doc Keithly, whose name is still a household word in that country. And better things were still to come, for the next party of which Ed became a member found the famous discovery claim of William's Creek and Stout's Gulch, which was named after him.

The stories of his travels in Cariboo country, the rich strikes and the washings 'without a trace,' would mean a recapitulation of the mining annals of BC. To Mr Scholefield, provincial archivist, Mr Stout yesterday recounted many of these finds and the dates of his now memorable journeys.

The simple record of these days, valuable from the remarkable memory for dates and places which this prospector possesses, formed a thrilling narrative. The story will be preserved in the official records of BC history, but the human interest of the story, the sparkle of the clear eyes, the flashes of dry humour - these are the features that will leave an ineffaceable impression on those who listened to the telling yesterday. Bldg/Nov 15, 1913, 5 - Edgar Fawcett writes: 'Those of your readers who feel an interest in Victoria's early hx, should take a glance at the demolition of the Windsor Hotel. This bldg, until within the last few yrs, was the Victoria hotel, built and owned by George Richardson, who arrived in Victoria in 1851. In writing, a few yrs ago, an article on the early bldgs of this city, I stated that the Royal Hotel on Wharf st, was the 1st brick bldg. This caused a discussion in the papers. The late Mr Mallandaine, who was a '58'er' stated that he saw the bldg of the Victoria Hotel, and that the bricks were slightly larger than those now used, and were made at Porter's yards, and the Royal was acknowledged to be 2nd. This settled the question. So the early landmarks of old Victoria are disappearing to make way for more modern structures in new Victoria.'

V/Nov, 1913 - There is in Victoria a coterie of men, some now in the Autumn of life, who have played a gallant part in many stirring war dramas - the ranks of the British Campaigners' Assn hold them, men who have followed the flag on many a field, in many a clime, and each one can tell of deeds such as those which won the Empire. Honored among them are the men who wear on their breasts the medals which betoken their part in the Crimean and Indian Mutiny campaigns.

The accompanying photographs portrays these veterans of the veterans - Maj John Wilson, 42nd Highlanders, who fought at Alma, Inkerman, Balaclava, Sevastopol, Kertsch, Yenikale, in the Crimea; Lucknow, Kudygunge, Shumsabad, the Martiniere, Rooya Fort, Allygunge and Barlelly, as well as many a minor engagement; Sgt Peter Fernie, Royal Horse Artillery, who was with his battery at Alma, Inkerman, Balaclava and Sevastopol, in the Crimea, and on many a field in the Mutiny; Francis Dunn, Royal Artillery, who was at all 4 battles in the Crimea and was wounded at Inkerman; Brinkley Robinson, 82nd Reg, who fought at Sevastopol and in the Mutiny, including Lucknow and the defence of Shahjahanpore; Lt Gordon, of the 63rd Regiment, who was at every engagement in the Crimea; Capt J D Curtis, RN, who was at the capture of Kertsch and Yenikale and reduction of Kinburn, and who had command of the launches of the battleship Nile in the Sea of Azov; John Williams, seaman, who served with him on Nile in the Crimean campaign; George Edward Smith, seaman, who served throughout the Crimean campaign, the China campaign and the bombardment of Shimontoseki, Japan; James Lewis, seaman, who served in the Baltic and took part in the siege of Sevastopol with the Naval Brigade; and John Bartlett, seaman, who served in the Baltic and was at the bombardment of Svoborg. In addition, Mr Bury, now at St Joseph's hospital, fought in the Crimean campaign, and G B Martin, of Dept of Agriculture, also has the medal for the Crimea.

Maj John Wilson - who, if he could be induced to allow a biographer to tell the tale of his stirring career, would be able to narrate a story replete with incident, served for 28 yrs in that well-known fighting regiment, the Gallant Forty-Twa - the Black Watch - and was with his regiment when it stormed the heights of the Alma, when it fought in the mist at Inkerman and on the ridges of Balaclava. He was with the Highlanders in the capture of Kertsch and Yenikale, and in the trenches before Sevastopol. Then, ordered to China to be sent back to Calcutta, he marched with Sir Colin Campbell's force which relieved Cawnpore and Lucknow, and then, moving northward, took part in the more important struggles which smashed the rebellion. He remained in India after the Mutiny, and while there made 3 trips into Thibet, penetrating far into the forbidden land and meeting with many adventures, of which he refuses to tell.

It was as a Pte in the ranks of the 42nd Highlanders that Maj Wilson began his career in 1844, and, after 10 yrs in the ranks, he was promoted to his 1st commissioned rank, as Ensign, in 1854, and 1 yr later, became a Lt. He attained his captaincy in the Mutiny in 1858, and in 1872 the rank of brevet-Maj. He left the service, after 28 yrs with the colors, in 1873, and went to KS, where for 6 yrs he engaged in cattle ranching, and when the mining excitement in CO took place, in 1879, he went to Leadville, where he engaged in mining until 1883, when he removed to San Francisco and engaged in business as a commission agent until 1885, when he came to Victoria and has since resided here.

It was in Sep 1854, that the heights of Alma were attacked, the 42nd Highlanders being pushed forward to engage the flank of the Russians, and supported by the 79th and 903rd, they charged up the hill. The British forces had to cross the Alma in the face of the Russian guns and massed infantry on the hills, but the vehemence of the assault carried the heights and the Russian redoubt; and the path lay open to Sevastopol.

When the Heavy Brigade charged, at Balaclava, Maj Wilson was marching with his regiment to take up a position. Tennyson has written in spirited verse of the disastrous charge of the Light Brigade, that gallant mistake which Gen Bosquet epigrammatically described, as 'Magnificent, but not war'; but poets and painters have not paid the same attention to the gallant, and with more result than that of the Light Brigade, of the charge of the heavy Brigade. The 300 horsemen pierced the centre of the 2,000 or more Russians to their front, seeming from where the Highlanders were to be engulfed, but the cavalry hacked their way through the Russian masses, and, considering the enormous disparity of the forces, with singularly small loss. The Light Brigade, 500 yds away, saw the Heavy Brigade in danger of being overwhelmed, but was not permitted to move to its assistance.

The Highlanders went down and took up the ground amongst the dead and wounded. Maj Wilson did not see the charge of the Light Brigade, but he saw the gallant force start on its heroic mistake and the return of the survivors. They started off at a walk, and some time afterwards, as he was standing to the colors, some horsemen began to come from the valley. Wombwell, the officer who died a few wks ago in Eng; was the 1st of the cavalymen to come from 'the Valley of Death.' He had no sword, was bareheaded and much excited, and, as he rolled off his horse, close to where Ensign Wilson stood at the colors of the 42nd, he said: 'Thank God, I'm back. The Light Brigade's gone.'

Maj Wilson said, recalling the scene, that soon a few others rode slowly in, and the survivors began to re-form on the height. He asked Lt Wombwell what went on, saying that the Highlanders had heard the awful racket and wondered what was going on. He said that they had lost everything. The Light Brigade's gone, he kept repeating. Then he told of his experiences, how his horse had been killed under him, and of how he had been taken prisoner. When other cavalry had ridden up, though, from a flank, the Russians who were guarding him had scuttled away and left him. He had then started to make his way back, found a riderless horse and rode in. The Russians had handled him very roughly, tearing his uniform and the cap lines from his jacket. Slowly the remains of the 600 - there were 197 of them - drew up on the left of the Highlanders, some mounted, others on foot - 'all that was left of them, left of 600.' One man, a cornet, whose horse had been killed, walked in with his saddle on his head.

The Light Brigade charge - albeit the Russian battery was wrecked, the Russian cavalry driven off the field and the infantry induced to fall back in squares - was nevertheless a glorious failure, the Russians being left in charge of the 3 redoubts and the 12-pounder guns they had taken. But the terrible loss incurred by the squadrons, and the glamor thrown over their wild ride by the impressive verses of Lord Tennyson, blinded the general public to the material military value of the 2 charges - that of the Heavy Brigade and of the Light Brigade - with the result that the determined gallantry shown in the attack of the 3 leading squadrons of the Heavy Brigade has been comparatively unappreciated.

After the fall of Sevastopol, where he fought through the long months in the various assaults with the Highlanders, Maj Wilson, then a Lt, went to Singapore on an auxiliary steamer, his regiment being part of the force ordered to Canton to campaign against China. Meanwhile, during the 4 months the transport was at sea, going by way of Cape of Good Hope, the Indian Mutiny had broken out, and the troops were ordered to India. They reached Calcutta in Aug, 1857, and took up quarters at Ft William to await the arrival of the transports with the other regiments. Lord Clyde met them there. Delhi had fallen, and the Highlanders were eager to get into the field. 'Never mind, you'll get lots of fighting, I'll see to that,' said Lord Clyde, and he proved right. With the other regiments of the Highland Brigade the 42nd was part of Sir Colin Campbell's force which moved to the relief of Lucknow and then drove the rebels N into Nepal. The massacre of Cawnpore had taken place a few months before and that place was held by Col Windham, who with 500 men was in an entrenchment at the river, beleaguered by the Gwalior rebels. The force, leaving Windham to hold Cawnpore, moved to the relief of Lucknow, which was relieved, the garrison brought out, and the force then moved back to relieve Cawnpore, where the rebels had seized the station, burned the bungalows and the clothing and stores for the army, and forced Windham and his party into the entrenchment at the river, when they were stoutly defending.

After pushing forward with his convoy of women and children from Lucknow, Sir Colin Campbell went back to attack the 25,000 rebels based on Cawnpore, their centre resting on the town, their left on the Ganges. The women and children had been sent on to Allahabad. The 42nd Highlanders were in the 4th division under Adrian Hope, and they were directed to turn the rebel right, driving them from mound to mound with the bayonet, and the Gwalior rebels were soon in flight, their camp, stores and materials being taken. The muniteers were then driven N, being attacked and defeated in several places.

The city of Lucknow stretches 5 miles on the R bank of the Gumti Rv, with width from 1 to 1 ½ mile, a canal enclosing the place on the E and S sides, and bearing away SW, leaving that side open, intersected by ravines. The rebels in possession after the siege was lifted held the Kalsarbagh Palace and its range of buildings, originally a fort, 400 yds sq, the Residency and other places to the Martiniere beyond the canal on the E of the city. They had 3 lines of defence, the 3rd covering the Kalsarbag, and included 100 guns.

All the main streets were barricaded, buildings were loopholed and outer works protected the entrances, but they had neglected the N side, and Sir Colin, while advancing his main force across the Gumti, sent Outram to make an attack on the N. The Highlanders attacked and carried the Mariniere at the point of the bayonet, and then stormed Bank's house. Then they advanced on the Begum Kothi, strongly held, and their assault, though opposed with a fury and discipline almost equal to that of the assailants, was successful. As Sir Colin Campbell wrote 'it was the sternest struggle which occurred during the siege.' 600 corpses testified to the unerring force of the Highland bayonets. The Sappers then worked at the approaches, brought up guns, and the walls of the little Imanbarah were breached, and it was stormed. Much street fighting followed, and defence after defence carried until the irresistible stormers drove the rebels from one court to another, and those who failed to make good their escape, and they ...

Capt Wilson - he had attained his captaincy during the Mutiny - remained in India for 10 yrs, and while there he made 3 trips into Thibet. With his regiment he had been transferred from garrison to garrison until he reached the N frontier, where he took part in one of the frontier campaigns, and, as a vacation, he made a trip into Thibet. It was in 1860 that he made his 1st journey into the forbidden land, going through the Himalayas by the Nainetal Pass, on a shooting expedition, and on this trip he narrowly escaped with his life.

He was in disguise, being attired as a native, and was about 12 marches from the Indian frontier when, one night as he slept, one of the natives noticed the white skin on his arms where his robe had slipped up as he slept. The Thibetans were notified, and when he was at a fair - a wonderful assemblage of Orientals from many parts at Gartek - his camp was taken. When he found his camp in possession of the Thibetans he made his way back over the mountains to his post.

On another occasion, accompanied by Capt Baird, of the 42nd, he went on a shooting expedition into Thibet. The previous yr, when he made a trip into the country forbidden to Europeans, he had been stopped and escorted back to the passes. This time, when the 2 officers went over the pass into Thibet, they were met by a troop of Thibetan cavalry, word having been sent forward of their coming by natives, and they were told they could not enter Thibet. They parlayed with the leader, and started to move forward. The Thibetans then started to throw the loads from their pack bullocks. Capt Baird and he decided that they must take sharp measures, and when the man threw the load from the bullock he stepped forward and struck him across the back with a stick. The Thibetan leader then started to parlay, and said that they did not want to kill him or want him to kill them, and asked if he would wait while a cavalryman was sent back to the nearest official. To this they agreed, and the rider returned with permission for them to spend a month. They enjoyed a month's shooting and returned.

Brinkley Robinson - who served with the 28th Reg of the line in the Crimea and throughout the Indian Mutiny, has many a stirring tale to tell of those days. He was at the Siege of Sevastopol, and when the war ended with Russia went with his regiment en route to Canton to engage against China, but owing to the mutiny in India the transport was ordered from Singapore to Calcutta, and with the brigade under Sir Colin Campbell, which relieved Lucknow and drove the mutineers N with many fights en route, Mr Robinson served until peace ruled in Hind. For 10 yrs, 207 days he served with his regiment, and on getting his discharge he went to the US where he spent 7 yrs, and then came to Canada. He has lived here for 22 yrs.

From the time he went in the packet boat with the 82nd Reg to the Crimean Peninsula to assist in the siege of Sevastopol, Mr Robinson remained constantly in service. When the war with Russia ended, his regiment formed part of the force which Lord Elgin despatched to China, and had reached Singapore when the orders were received sending the regiment, with other troops, to India. Mr Robinson remembers that voyage well.

He said a gunboat had been sent to stop the transport and give the Capt orders to sail for Calcutta, but the Capt missed the warship, and on reaching Singapore all hands had to coal ship. He was engaged in this work when the port authorities brought orders to proceed with all speed to India. They burned the bunks and forms, with a lot of other woodwork, to make steam that voyage, and the Capt of the steamer put in a bill against the regiment for burning things, but the commander of his force, Mr Robinson said, put in a counter bill for the labor rendered by the Tommies in coaling ship at Singapore. The Capt demurred, but the Col asked him if he considered his men soldiers or sailors, and wouldn't pay.

Some time was spent at Calcutta awaiting the arrival of the other ships, then the brigade under Sir Colin Campbell moved forward. As they went up the Ganges the conditions they saw were horrible. The people had been badly stricken by the troubles and a great deal of destitution prevailed. They reached Cawnpore, several months after the massacre, and from there, after driving away the rebels, Sir Colin Campbell moved to the 2nd relief of Lucknow, Havelock and his force having remained to assist in the defence.

The bravery of Thomas Henry Kavanagh, who won the VC by breaking through the rebels besieging the town disguised as a Badmas, or native swashbuckler, a journey hazardous in the extreme and full of adventure, informed the General of the straits of the garrison, and, seizing several forts on the way, Sir Colin advanced with the brigade of which Mr Robinson's regiment formed part of the relief. The story of that heroic march is history. Mr Robinson, in his advancing yrs does not remember much of the incident, but he says - and his eyes sparkle as he recalls this - 'we had some good fighting then.' His regiment, part of the 5th Brigade, took part in the seizure of Banks' house and the bungalows nearby, the move which made the retirement from Lucknow possible. Col Hale, of the 82nd, then succeeded to the command of the brigade, Russell being wounded and Biddulph killed.

From Lucknow Mr Robinson's regiment had a hurried forced march back to Cawnpore, where the Gwalior rebels had defeated the force of 500 men under Col Windham. The 82nd Reg in the 5th Brigade, under Col Inlis, and, with the 6th Brigade, the Highland force, they took a long sweep around to the land charged the rebel R, the rebels having a force of 25,000 men resting with the centre on the town. There was some desperate fighting there, the rebels being driven from mound to mound with the bayonet, and under a fierce artillery fire concentrated upon them by the rebels, they rushed the bridge across the Ganges Canal, and soon the Gwalior rebels, routed, were in flight, and the infantrymen following them up, and, Mr Robinson recalls, bayonetting them as they ran.

Next he took part with his regiment in that hard fighting which was part of the storming and capture of Lucknow, and then they moved N, driving the rebels through Oudh. Mr Robinson recalls one part of that struggle in which he played his part - the defence of Shahjahanpore. Col Hale, with a small force, had been left there while the main force moved to the attack on Barielly. Four companies of the 82nd had been left at Shajahanpore, and the rebels, swinging around the invaders, resolved to surprise Hale at Shahjahanpore. Had it not been for the alarm given by a loyal villager the British would have been surprised. Col Hale gave up the town and took up a defensive position in the gaol, where for 9 days and nights, without much food, they fought hard.

‘We were short of ammunition, having lost our stores and kit,’ said Mr Robinson, ‘and we picked 2 men of each company to act as sharpshooters. I was a good shot and was one of the 2 men of my company who took up our positions in an outlying trench. Owing to the shortness of ammunition none but the sharpshooters were allowed to fire. One night there was a rainstorm, and I had several misfires, and when I came off after the relief came, I had a bullet in my rifle. I poked the muzzle through a hole in the wall and brought down a man. Just then my Capt came along and asked me if I fired the shot. I said I did, and he put me under arrest. I was taken before Col Hale, who was lying on the ground - he had been wounded in the leg - and he heard the evidence. Then he looked up and asked me if I had killed a man with the shot. I said I had and hoped he was the fellow who wounded the Col. ‘Well,’ he said, ‘I’ll have to stop your grog for 3 days.’ But I got my grog - the Capt saw to that. It was on May 2 that we went into the gaol at Shahjahanpore and on May 11 we were relieved.’ Mr Robinson took part in many an encounter in the guerilla fighting which took place until the mutiny was over, and he considers that his narrowest escape was when his regiment was ordered to bathe in the Ganges. They had stripped and gone in when there was a hurried scramble up the bank, men clambering over each other’s shoulders. The buglers were blowing the ‘retire.’ ‘What is it,’ yelled the 1st men up the bank - rebels?’ [No, crocodiles - and sure there were crocodiles, lots of them. That was one of the quickest retreats the 82nd ever took part in. [N 049 W K]

Sgt Peter Creeke Fernie - now in his 84th yr, whose name was given to the prominent Crow’s Nest coal city of Fernie, wears the Crimean medal with 4 clasps - Inkerman, Alma, Balaclava and Sevastopol - and the Turkish medal for that campaign, together with the Indian Mutiny medal. He enlisted in the famous I Battery of the Royal Horse Artillery - the battery with which Col Bull in yrs before won such success at Leipsic - at Dover in 1848.

In those days the RHA had 12-pounders and 24-pounders of brass, muzzle loaders, with a range of a few hundred yds in comparison with the ranges today. ‘In our day’, says Mr Fernie, ‘we expected to look the gunners of the opposing battery in the face almost before we opened fire, for our old Black Besses were not much good when the range was over 1 or 200 yds.

With C Battery of the RHA he went in a sailing ship to the Crimea. First they landed at Constantinople, and later at Kalamita Bay, a short distance N of the point at which the river Alma runs into the sea. Sevastopol lies 30 miles S. With his fellow gunners, Sgt Fernie crossed the river in the face of the Russian batteries armed with heavy guns on the highest points of the hills or bluffs, of scattered artillery and dense masses of infantry which covered the hills. The river was crossed in the face of desperate Russian resistance, the heights were climbed and the redoubt of the Russians carried, the Russians being driven from the field.

In his 84th yr Sgt Fernie recalls less of the struggle up the heights than he does of the way he augmented the poor rations of the day because of his good fortune in having a brother on a mail steamer which called at Sevastopol later. He remembers how they worked their guns to the heights and fired on the retiring Russians. He recalls the unpopularity of the war correspondent, whose beginning he saw in this campaign. Bull Run Russel came in for especial mark of disapproval, and many a gunner of C Battery would have liked to punch him. Had Lord Raglan not been prone to overestimate the Russian strength, Mr Fernie believes a dash could have then been made on Sevastopol with good results. However, 3 days after their defeat at the Alma, the Russians sank ships and barred the entrance to the harbor there, and the troops had to fight again at Balaclava, S of the city on the other side of a promontory, with a port that could be utilized for communication between the warships and the armies.

Balaclava was fought Oct 25. It was mainly a cavalry action, but, says Mr - no, Sgt - Fernie, history doesn't give all the cavalry credit. Everyone knows about the charge of the Light Brigade, that gallant mistake in which 607 riders charged what has been rightly described as 'the Russian army in position' and 198 came back 'from the Valley of Death.' Tennyson wrote the epitaph of the Light Brigade, or most of it, in spirited verses. Sgt Fernie was on the hilltop when the charge took place, and from the same hill he saw the Heavy Brigade go to the charge, an event which he ranks equally with that daring affair of the Six Hundred. If your war correspondent had done his duty then, says Mr Fernie, you would have had poems about the Heavy Brigade.

'The charge was the outcome of a row between Gens Lucan and Cardigan. We all knew that. Lucan sent Cardigan in with his cavalry, and he knew they had no chance. Nolan brought the order to Cardigan, but Nolan didn't live to tell anything about it afterward. He was one of the 1st killed. We saw them form and ride into the valley. There were guns in front of them and on the hills at both sides, guns wherever they went. They hadn't a chance. There weren't many of them who rode back, with their uniforms torn and dilapidated. They were a bedraggled lot as they came past us. If you read the American papers there must have been a good many more of them than I say then, for more than 600 veterans of the charge of the Light Brigade must have died in the US, according to these newspapers.'

The Russian attack on Balaclava was repulsed, and next day they moved out of Sevastopol and were again repulsed. On Nov 5 they made another attack, this time on the plateau of Inkerman. This was a soldier's battle, almost all Infantry business. Sgt Fernie says he stood with his battery that day watching the Russian cavalry. There must have been 5 or 6,000 of them drawn up ready to fall on our fellows if their attack had been driven home; but it wasn't. We watched them all day and fired a few rounds. It was an infantryman's battle, though, and there was little work for gunners or cavalry that day. It was really a series of hand-to-hand fights, and the Russians were driven off.

Mr Fernie says he does not remember many hardships - he chooses to forget them. The sickness, bad weather and bad management. The loss of clothing, winter stores, provisions and hospital necessities when the transports were wrecked in the Black Sea storms is a matter of history. Meanwhile the Siege of Sevastopol had dragged along. Mr Fernie says rations were different in those days, hard tack and salthorse - 3 days rations dumped into the palms of your hands at a time. 'But, he adds with a laugh, 'I had a brother on one of the mail steamers which ran in, and I did better than some of the officers. He remembers best the muddy roads, the dead horses by the wayside, but he is not eloquent regarding any sufferings during that long siege when sickness weakened the armies. He has forgotten anything of that kind, remembering only that he had a brother who was good to him.

'There was lots of fighting, especially around the Malakoff Tower and Mamelon Battery. We had to get our guns up to 3 or 400 yds. Our old Brown Bess was not good for much distance. We had almost to look into the faces of the Russians when we started to shoot. But we did our share. After the fights at the Malakoff, at the Redan and other redoubts, the Russians withdrew across a bridge of boats and they left Sevastopol in flames for the invaders. This siege, which lasted about 1 yr, ended the war. Only the heroic siege of Kars, which finally had to surrender with famine and the heroes who defended it marched out with all the honors of war, remained.'

Sgt Fernie went back to Eng with his battery and was transferred to E Battery of the RHA, with which he went to India in the sailing ship Marlborough to take part in the suppression of the mutiny. Many of the gunners had preceded him, and he was left for a time at Calcutta with the guns and ammunition wagons of E and F Batteries, which he afterward went with the Allahabad, where the guns were placed in the forts. The refugees from Lucknow were coming into Allahabad when he arrived there. He was with Sir Hope Grant's division and they had considerable fighting, mostly small affairs with a lot of hand-to-hand fighting, but he had no adventures that he can remember, he says; in fact they were all adventures, but he didn't think any worth recalling. The histories tell the tale better than I could, he says.

Mr Fernie comes from a family of soldiers. His grandfather was a Sgt of the Black Watch with Wellington in the Peninsular wars. After the Mutiny he left the service, retiring in 1861. He got his discharge in that yr at Woolwich, after serving 12 yrs, 280 days, and in 1862 he came to Canada, where he engaged in mining and assaying, in Cariboo and the Kootenays, where he and his brother discovered coal, and the town of Fernie was named after them in honor of their find. [RBC - P 106 W U]

George Millett - One of the men who so valiantly held Lucknow, and kept the old flag flying in those grim days of the Great Mutiny, is George Millet. He was born to the army. His father was serving in the 5th Northumberland Fusiliers, and his mother had her residence with him at Shorncliffe Barracks. When Mr Millet was 12, his father and mother both serving then in the Crimea, his father with his regiment and his mother as a nurse under Florence Nightingale, the 3 children being left to play in the barrack yard, he was claimed by the regiment, and 2 yrs later, when the Fusiliers came back with their depleted ranks from the Crimea, was sworn on the strength at Burr, Ire, and moved with the regiment to Athlone, where it was quartered for 7 months, and then in Currah for 1 yr, from where it was sent to Mauritius. From there the Northumberlands embarked on the troopship Simeon for China, and while they were on the way the Indian Mutiny broke out. When the ship reached Singapore the regiment was ordered to India, and went straight to Allahabad.

It was on May 10, 1857, that the sepoys of Meerut mutinied, overthrew the British garrison and marched to Delhi. From 80,000 to 90,000 native horse and foot were in revolt, having in many cases murdered their officers, and sometimes the European families also. They were cantoned over many stations in the provinces, held forts, arsenals and treasuries; were armed with British weapons, and had been organized with British discipline, and possessed much artillery, and a great # of cavalry and transport, and vast sums of treasure. In Hindustan, in Oudh, in parts of Malway, the British throughout the summer were isolated at certain posts, the camp before Delhi, the cantonment at Meerut, forts at Agra and Allahabad, and the weak fortifications at Lucknow. Elsewhere the European magistracy with their families had been killed or hunted away - the disaster extending over 100,000 sq miles, with a population of 40 millions - just 1 century after Clive had founded British dominion at Plassey.

Before Mr Millett, with his comrades landed, the disasters at Cawnpore and elsewhere in Hindustan had been retrieved by Henry Havelock. A force, largely composed of Europeans - there were 40,000 white troops in the country - had marched against Delhi, and, after a siege of 4 months, captured the capital by assault. The Punjab remained loyal, and communications were maintained through that state by John Lawrence. The Northumberlands, in which Mr Millett served, on landing, disarmed the 5th Native Infantry, and made a dash for Lucknow. The forced march of 70 miles occupied 5 days.

With the Northumberlands under Havelock were in all about 3,000 men, several guns, and volunteer cavalry of 109 British and 59 native horsemen. With this force, leaving Col Wilson and 400 men, mostly convalescents, to hold Cawnpore, Havelock crossed the Ganges. Mr Millett remembers how they drove the rebels from Mangalwar, halted for a mouthful of food at Unae, and pushed on to Bashiratganj, where they bivouacked in the rain. When the baggage came up, and they dried out and got some dinner, they felt better, however, and at daylight they pushed on, marching 16 miles to the Bridge of Banni, where they expected to meet the rebels. They had not held or destroyed the bridge, though, believing the narrow streets of Lucknow offered greater capabilities for fighting; nor did they man the 2 half-moon batteries they had constructed on the further side of the river Sai.

The bridge was crossed and they bivouacked on its further bank, firing a salute to warn the defenders they were approaching. After breakfast they moved forward to attack the rebels at Lucknow, and the Northumberlands distinguished themselves in the attack. The rebels had been hampered by the guns brought up, and were holding the Alumbach fort and 2 batteries nearby. The Northumberlands, with gallantry, stormed these, scrambling over the wall, bayonet in hand, and with the Madras Fusiliers and 78th hurrying to their assistance, they cleared out the rebels from these works in 10 minutes. The rebels then massed nr the Charbagh Bridge, where the relief force waited for food to come up, the rebels meanwhile keeping up a heavy fire. Meanwhile a despatch came that Delhi had been stormed, and the cheers of the Northumberlands must have been heard by the defenders at Lucknow. The sick and the wounded were left at the Alumbach fort, and while the other units advanced, the Northumberlands were sent to clear the Charbagh Gardens and bring a flanking fire to bear upon the rebels holding the bridge.

This bridge was strongly held, there being an earthwork about 7' high across the end, and an opening through which 1 man only could pass at a time, and 6 guns were mounted on the parapet. To the R were several enclosures held by the rebels. The rushing of this bridge, in which young Havelock distinguished himself, won the way to Lucknow gate. The Northumberlands in the gardens were meanwhile fighting desperately, and long after dark they worked their way in the face of heavy musketry fire, 1st through the Khas Bazaar, crowded with rebels, and then into the streets, finally making their way to the Residency, where the gallant defenders welcomed them with continuous cheering. It was a stirring time.

Having fought their way in, the force of Havelock and Outram, unable to convey the women and children safely away, augmented the defence, and the siege of Lucknow continued for 162 days, Mr Millett playing his part with his regiment in the defence. The 1st weeks were more like a blockade than a siege. The attacks came more from the defenders, in the shape of sorties, countermining and extending their borders. To write a history of these would fill a volume; suffice to say they were frequent and successful. It was during one of these sorties that the brave Kavanagh, disguised as a native, worked through the native lines and carried Outram's despatch to Sir Colin Campbell. The story of the hardships, the heroism and pathetic struggle of the garrison until Jessie Brown heard the skirl of the Highland pipes when Sir Colin came to the relief on Nov 17, 1857, is well known. Col Guy, of the Northumberlands, was killed during the siege, and Col Masters took command of the regiment.

The Northumberlands continued to operate in the vicinity of Lucknow for 1 yr, and Mr Millett was severely wounded in the back of the neck by a splinter from a shell outside Lucknow. The wound made him deaf and paralyzed the L side of his face. This kept him in the hospital for 2 months. As a bugler of the Northumberland, Mr Millett sounded the commence fire when 300 mutineers were shot after being tried by Court Martial. They were shot down by C Battery of the RHA, and those who escaped the fire were picked off by the infantry with rifles. In a fight outside Lucknow he was wounded with a lance when a rallying square was being formed against an attack by native lancers. The lancer who stabbed him was shot down by his chum. In another action he was hit in the calf of the R leg and had to go into hospital.

He went home with the regiment and landed at Anglesey Barracks. Of the Northumberland, but 500 of the original strength reached home, they lost 1,150 men. During the Trent affair with the US they were on duty night and day, each man being allowed but 3 night's sleep a week. Owing to his wounds he was compelled to remain at home, and after 16 yrs' service with the good old regiment he was born in, he retired, received a pension of 10p a day.

Mr Millett came to Canada 26 yrs ago, and after spending 1 yr in ON moved to Victoria. He was one of those who were in the Pt Ellice Bridge disaster on May 26, 1896, and rendered splendid service after his escape. He rescued himself and boy, Canon Paton, Mrs Jackson, Mrs Provost and another. For 12 yrs he served as gardener to Bishop Perrin, and since he has been gardener at the Prov Royal Jubilee Hospital, where he is now employed.

Gunner Francis Dunn - of the Royal Artillery, who served the Queen in Crimea, was born in Sct 82 yrs ago. When he was 20 he joined the 1st Co of the 1st Battery of RA at Co Derry, Ire, and went with his battery to the Crimea on one of the sailing ships which were used as transports in those days. They were crowded ships, what with horses, guns and munitions, and as many troops as could be crowded in the 'tween decks, and trooping was far from pleasant in the old days. The battery landed in the Crimea at the beginning of the war in 1853, and Gunner Dunn remained with his guns until the war ended in 1856. He was at the Battle of Inkerman, being discharged owing to his wounds at the close of the war in 1856. At Inkerman he was severely wounded in the leg.

When fighting at Inkerman he was bayoneted in the upper hip during one of the many hand-to-hand encounters for which that 'soldier's battle' was noted. When the Russian lunged and stabbed him with the bayonet he came to grips with his assailant and succeeded in killing him. At Inkerman the Russians came up under cover of darkness and mist by no more effort than driving in an outlying picket, and planted powerful artillery on Shell Hill. The Russians, 15,000 strong, were then thrown against Gen Pennefather's line, a column being sent to turn his L flank by way of a ravine. The Russians gained an initial advantage on the R, took 3 guns, and drove away a bewildered force of 400 foot. Meanwhile the flanking column was close to the British tents. The mist hid the Russian strength, and with the aid of some batteries, Gen Pennefather, with 3,300 men, gave battle to the 15,000 Russians and routed them. Lord Raglan reinforced the British to 7,464 infantry, 200 cavalry and 38 guns. The Russian losses were 10,729 killed, wounded and prisoners; the British losses, 2,357 killed and wounded, of whom 597 were killed. For a while the battle was fought in the dark, hardly an attempt being made to direct the Allies by any principles of scientific warfare; it was, in fact, a series of bitter hand-to-hand fights, in which the stubbornness of the British won the day.

SV/Capt J D Curtis, RN - 'I cannot allow the launches of the line-of-battleships to return to their ships without requesting to bring to your notice the zeal and intelligence of the officers in command, and the excellent conduct and discipline of all employed in them, which has enabled them to render such important service in the Sea of Azov, and which - if I may be permitted to say so without presumption - reflects so much credit on the ships they belong to. 'Royal Albert, 1st launch, Lt J D Curtis.

naval veterans of the Crimea enrolled in the British Campaigners' of Victoria. He is now in his 89th yr. His father, Comm Thomas Curtis, of King's Lynn, served his country from 1793 to 1815, being a contemporary of Nelson. When he left the Bluecoat school Capt Curtis made a trip on a brig laden with apples from Lynn to Sunderland, and he recalls how, as they neared Sunderland, in a gale, he was washed from his station at the main topgallant halliards by a high following sea, which pooped the brig and landed him under the windlass. This only whetted his desire for the sea, and in 1842 he became a 1st-class volunteer in HM Navy, on Queen, a sailing line-of-battleship carrying 116 guns, and sailed in her to the Mediterranean. The 3-decker reached Malta in 10 days, crossing the Bay of Biscay under a reefed foresail and close-reefed main-topsail. After this, he served as a draughtsman with the Xanthian Expedition, sent to collect marbles in Asia Minor for the British Museum, and passed his examination for midshipman on the paddle sloop Virago, lying off the River Xanthus. He rejoined Queen as midshipman, and was later transferred to Formidable, 84 guns, built on the lines of the Fr ship Canopus, captured by Nelson at the Nile, and then went to Calypso, an 18-gun corvette, and sailed in her to the Pacific.

having 5 million dollars in bullion on board. When she was at Mansanillo an epidemic of malarial fever broke out. Thirty of the crew died, and when on the homeward voyage, Capt Worth also succumbed. On the return of Calypso he passed as a Lt. His 1st commission was on Harlequin brig, 12 guns, Comm A P Eardley Wilmot, and 2 yrs later he went to the brig Waterwitch. Both vessels were engaged in the suppression of the slave trade on the W coast of Africa.

Among his possessions brought from there was a relic in the shape of a skull, that of a victim of a savage chief, which he had taken from a stake - the birds had eaten the body of the victim - and marked on it, according to Chambers' Phrenology, what he considered was the character of the one-time owner. He presented the skull to the museum of his hometown at King's Lynn.

He was on the brig Harlequin then, in 1852, and assisted the master to survey the inland waters nr Lagos, then a savage stronghold, now the capital of S Nigeria. Previous to being taken by the British, under Commodore Bruce, of the African West Coast Squadron, the native chief, Kaseko, in an appeal to his fetish for victory over the British, sacrificed two young lovers. He had them impaled alive on a small island opposite his so-called palace - the surveying party named it Sacrifice I - and when he landed there Lt Curtis took the skull of the man, one of the victims of the fiendish cruelty. Capt Curtis remembers meeting the son of one of these Africans he knew in 1852 in 1901 in London, a medical student at St Bartholomew's hospital, dressed in the height of fashion.

In Jun, 1854, Capt Curtis joined the screw line-of-battleship Royal Albert, flagship of Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart, GCB. He was a Sr Lt on the large 3-decker - she was 3,726 tons, and carried 121 guns - and he was actively engaged against the Russians in the Sea of Azov. He commanded one of the launches, and prizes the testimonial printed above, which tells of his good service. He was present at the capture of Kerich and Yenikale, and the reduction of Kinburn, at the mouth of the Dnieper. In his capacity as commander of the launch, Capt Curtis saw much of the naval side of the war, and one Dec morning in 1855, when Royal Albert was steaming through the Aegean Sea on her way to Malta from the Black Sea, she nearly foundered. Capt Curtis rendering good service in assisting to save the vessel. He prizes the following letter from her commander, Capt Mends: 'Dated in the Bosphorus - this is to certify that Lt Curtis during the period he has served under my command (Feb 15, 1855 to Mar 16, 1867), has conducted himself with sobriety and to my entire satisfaction. The service the ship has had to perform in the Black Sea called for the zeal, ability and energy of all officers, and they were conspicuous in Lt Curtis, who afforded me efficient support when HM ship was in danger of foundering. He was employed in the Sea of Azov in charge of the boats of this ship, acting against the enemy in successful operations.'

It was about 2am when Royal Albert was endangered. The metal collar, which makes watertight the hole in the sternpost through which the propeller shaft passes, broke into several pieces, and, falling out, allowed the water to freely enter the stern tube and thus into the ship, which, with the great inrush of water, was soon in danger of foundering. This would doubtless have happened, had it not been for the ready resource of the Capt and his officers in keeping the ship under way the remainder of the night, steaming up and down nr the I of Zea, thus keeping the large bilge injection pumps at work on the leak, which pumps, in conjunction with the chain and other pumps, managed to keep the flow of water into the ship in check till daylight enabled the navigator to find a suitable beach. This was noticed in Pt Nicole, on Aea I, where the ship was beached and the leak stopped by a watertight bulkhead being constructed in the afterhold. The ship was then convoyed to Malta by Princess Royal and Sphinx. When repairs were completed she went to Constantinople, and for 9 months was anchored at Buyukdere, in the Bosphorus, and the officers had a halcyon time with shooting parties in the country and entertainments at Constantinople. The last duty of Royal Albert before she paid off in 1858 was to escort Qn Victoria to Cherbourg when she visited the Emperor and Empress of the French.

When he left Royal Albert he became Sr Lt of the screw line of battleship Brunswick, 81 guns, and served a commission on her in the Channel and Mediterranean, and in 1860 went to Majestic, guard ship in the Mersey for 2 yrs. His next ship was the depot ship Hibernia at Malta, an old line-of-battleship of Nelson's time, carrying 104 guns, the last flagship of Earl St Vincent, who was on board the vessel in the blockade of Brest. Owing to the illness of the commander of gunboat Growler, Lt Curtis went from Malta in command of this vessel, and made a cruise in her to Tripoli and Bongazi in connection with the overland telegraph line to India. Growler was one of the little gunboats built for the Crimean War, with 2 guns, the large gun carried forward being a 68-pounder, the heaviest gun carried afloat in those days. His next ship was London, 90 guns, in the Mediterranean, and then he went to Egmont, depot ship at Rio de Janeiro, being promoted to commander when in this vessel. On return to Eng, he went into the Coast Guard, and took charge of Carn Div of Ire, making his home at Merville until he retired from active service, in 1871.

He has lived in Victoria since 1904, having come to BC to visit his son, an architect at Vancouver. He has 8 children, 4 sons, 2 of whom, the eldest and youngest, served in the S African War, James, the elder, being in Paget's Horse, and Thomas, the younger, in Baden-Powell's Police, being severely wounded during the war.

John Williams, Able Seaman - John Williams, now 81, was a powder monkey on the line-of-battleship Nile in the Crimea. When he went to the Baltic on Nile he was a civil servant, and was enrolled as a 1st class boy. When the fleet anchored off Reval and parties were landed from the large ships, young Williams was, to his disappointment, unable to get ashore, being powder monkey on the forward gun. While he was on Nile one of the marines had his head blown off as a result of an accident. The Capt, when showing some ladies over the ship, accidentally fired a gun which was always kept loaded, and the marine, who was coming up a hatchway, had his head blown away. His 1st yr in the Baltic was spent on Nile, and the 2nd yr on the Duke of Wellington, another 2-decker, which carried 91 guns. After peace came in the Crimea he served a commission on HMS Boscawen at the Cape, being on that station 3 ½ yrs. During this time the Indian mutiny broke out, and he promptly volunteered, but was not accepted.

Mr Williams was on HMS Jason in his 3rd commission on the W Indian station, and when at Tampico, where the warship loaded 70T of bullion, yellow fever broke out on board. The ship was ordered to Bermuda, where the sick were landed. The fever played havoc with the doctors, and he volunteered to nurse the sick, especially his bunkmate. He was not allowed to go on board, though, until more nurses were sent. Of the crew of 270 on Jason, only 70 went home; the remainder died. He later joined his ship at Halifax.

With his medals Mr Williams should be wearing the bronze of the Royal Humane Soc also. When his ship was at Devonport being stripped, the commander, Capt Munday, fell overboard. He jumped over from the bow and saved him. Capt Munday gave him a 5L note, but he was not anxious to have much said of the accident, and, presumably, this was why the deed was not brought to the attention of the Humane Soc. There were long accounts of the episode in the Devonport papers.

After spending 2 yrs on the Coast Guard ship St George at Falmouth, he volunteered for service on the line-of-battleship Rodney, flagship of Admiral Keppel, on the China station. He took part in the Chinese War, going up the Yangtze-Kiang, where a party of 300 men were landed, and they marched to the Chinese capital. Afterwards Rodney went to Swatow, and he was in the landing party which took and destroyed the Chinese walled city.

After 15 yrs' service, he took his discharge, at his own request, on the China Coast, and went to Aus to engage in the pearling trade. For 3 yrs he sailed from the pearling ports of W Aus in a lugger commanded by Capt Francis Cadie, being mate of the pearler. They had a crew of Malays, and they dived for pearl oysters on the grounds in the S ocean. Then, tiring of the life on the pearling grounds, he joined a coasting steamer, and after some time in that service, thought he would like to see Eng again. He shipped on the bark Glengowan, of Greenock, bound to Portland, to load grain for the UK. The bark ran into heavy wx when off the N Pacific coast, and was abandoned in a waterlogged condition, afterwards foundering off Cape Flattery. With his shipmates, Williams rowed into Barkley Sound, arriving there on Xmas Day. It wasn't a very merry Xmas. They camped on a small island for a few wks, having a very hard time, and then made their way to the Cape Beale lighthouse, going later to the Indian village at Dodger's Cv, on Village I, from where the shipwrecked company was brought to Victoria.

Mr Williams decided then to make Victoria his home, but the sea lured him again, and he joined the US revenue cutter Oliver Walker. He did not remain long, however, and, returning to Victoria, he went to work for the Albion Iron Works. He was married then, his bride being Miss Mary Woods, whose father was an engineer there. Two yrs later Mrs Williams died. Then he went to sea again, and worked on many of the CPR steamers, lastly on Otter. Leaving that vessel, he went to Lakelse, where for 14 yrs he was employed at the Dominion government's fish hatchery. Now, in the autumn of his life, he is an inmate of the Old Men's Home.

George Edward Smith, Seaman - Now in his 77th yr, George Edward Smith, seaman, who since he took his discharge in 1869 as a 1st class Petty Officer at Esquimalt has been a res/Victoria, joined the RN at age 14 as a boy, being sent to HMS Ocean at Sheerness in 1851, and in 1853 he went to the Baltic on HMS Tribune. He served in the campaign in the Baltic, and was in every action there and of the Crimea, taking part with the British seamen in the attack on Sevastopol. At the close of the Crimean War he was transferred to HMS Camilla, on which vessel he served in 1856-7-8, and from 1860 to 1863 was on HMS Tartar, returning to his old vessel, HMS Camilla, from which he took his discharge in 1869 at Esquimalt.

Mr Smith wears the Crimean and Baltic medals, and has a clasp for the Siege of Sevastopol, and the medal given by the Sultan of Turkey for that campaign; also the medal for the China campaign of 1856-7-8, when the attack on Canton, Swatow and other cities took place, and he had his part in many stirring events. He was on the coast of Mexico in Tartar in 1864 and 1865, and when the Bombardment of Shimonoseki took place, in 1867, he was one of the crew of Tartar.

The Siege of Sevastopol lasted nearly 1 yr, and sometimes it was not quite certain which ought to have been called the besieged, the Russians in the city or the Allies in front of it. During some months the armies did little or nothing. The commissariat and the land transport systems were bad, and the armies suffered much from sickness; cholera raged. The roads were only deep irregular ruts filled with mud; the camp a marsh. On Aug 16, 1855, the Russians tried vainly to raise the siege, after the winter and spring had been spent in beleaguering the place, and there were great struggles in front of the Malakoff and Mamelon Batteries, the naval forces often being landed to take part, and here Mr Smith won his clasp for the Siege of Sevastopol. In Sep the Malakoff was captured and the Redan stormed, and the Russians withdrew over a bridge of boats leaving a burning city for the victors to enter. [RBC M 053 E E]

John Bartlett, Able Seaman - John Bartlett, another of the naval veterans of the Crimean campaigners of Victoria, is aged 75. He was born at Shipton Gorge, in Dorsetshire, Eng, Dec 27, 1838, and at age 15 joined HMS Victoria as a boy. He served on HMS Geyser in the Baltic during the war with Russia in 1854, and was at the Bombardment of Sveborg. He also served on HMS Blenheim, St Jean d'Arc, Phantom, Scout, Sutlej and Malacca, and was discharged on his 28th birthday when Capt of the main top.

John Bartlett recalls the Bombardment of Sveborg in the Baltic very well. It was an affair of small gunboats, of the type of HMS Boxer, which afterward came to Esquimalt, and mortar boats, and the firing took place at a range of from 700 to 800 yds away from the city. The gunboats were in front, the mortar boats behind. They circled around, and as they came on, fired their bow gun and when leaving fired the stern gun. They only carried the 2 big guns fore and aft. They bombarded all day, and in the evening the large ships sent off boats and rockets were fired into the town in the darkness.

Mr Bartlett trained as a boy in Nelson's flagship, Victory, and prizes the parchment issued from that historic vessel. It was as a 2nd-class boy that he joined Geyser and went to the Baltic when the war with Russia was on.

He cruised in Blenheim, off the Cape of Good Hope, in Phaeton when the naval demonstration was made off Mexico at the time of Maximillian, and in 1866 he took his discharge as a 1st-class Petty Officer from HMS Scout at Esquimalt, completing his time in the harbor there on HMS Sutlej and HMS Malacca. After leaving the navy he mined in the Cariboo for 8 or 9 yrs, and has since resided here.

James Lewis, Able Seaman - who is now a res/o Nanaimo, BC, wears both the Baltic and Crimean medals. He joined the RN in 1853 going to St Jean d'Arc, then commanded by Lord Keppel, and was on that vessel during the battle of the Baltic, and later took part in the Siege of Sevastopol.

Lt William Gordon - of the 63rd Reg is another of those who saw service in the Crimea. He was educated at Sandhurst Military school, and when he received his commission in the 63rd Regiment was ordered with it to the Crimea. He came to Halifax many yrs ago, still serving with the colors, and later went to Montreal, where he resigned and returned to Eng. In 1861 he came to Canada. His kit was being sent out to him on steamer Indian, which went ashore at Sable I, and his medals and all his possessions were lost with that vessel.

Died Dec 1, 1913 at Victoria, BC, Watson Clark, aged 68, n/o Clawthorpe, Burton, Westmoreland. He had been a res/o Victoria for 27 yrs, having come to Victoria direct from Eng. He was for many yrs one of the most successful farmers in the dist, retiring only a few yrs ago. He is survived here by his widow, 4 sons - George, Watson A,

Died Dec 1, 1913 at Victoria, BC, James Moss, 74, Victoria's veteran gardener and landscape artist. He leaves a widow and 6 children, Henry and George, who live in Seattle; Mrs Frank Partridge, Miss Nellie, Mrs R Stephens and James, all residents of this city, 2 sisters in England, and 5 grandchildren. Mr Moss was born in Ashton-under-Lyme, England. His father was a prosperous cotton miller, but suffered in common with others in the business from the consequences of the US Civil war, which played havoc with the great Lancashire mills. His son and wife determined to try their fortunes in the far-off Canadian West, and in 1862 took passage on the ship Silistra. Among other well-known citizens who came out on the same vessel were William Wilson, George Wynn, late T J Partridge and son Frank. The voyage consumed 4 months.

Mr Moss, on arrival at Victoria, took up gardening and established the 1st nursery in the city, and, perhaps in BC, [Dec 4, 10 - In the obituary of late James Moss you say that he started the 1st nursery... this is incorrect, as in 1860 there was a nursery on Cadboro Bay road, just East of Oak Bay junction and was run by a stalwart German, Charles Cechent, a very popular gentleman who was leader and teacher of the German Turn Verten. The property afterwards passed into the hands of late J P Davies and was long known as the Red Barn. No doubt many of your readers remember the fruit trees that stood there for many years after. Signed H E Levy, at the Willows, subsequently moving to James Bay. He laid out gardens for all the old-timers, and did much to establish the reputation which this city has long enjoyed all over the world. He laid out the Douglas estate for late Governor, and the splendid trees which still stand were planted by him. Flowers and plants were his ruling passion up to the time of his death. He sought no civic offices, and cared for no other distractions, except to exchange reminiscences of the early days, with survivors of the old guard, who genuinely deplore his death. Dec 6, 1913 - Workmen engaged in excavating at the site of the Ogden Point breakwater came across the remains of a human skeleton. The skull is in a fair state of preservation, but the lower jaw is missing. When excavations were being made for the sheds near the Montreal street entrance some time ago, a skeleton was found, belonging to a person of somewhat larger frame. In the early days Indians used to camp on Ogden Point.

Dec 24, 1913, 1, 17 - Many gallons of water have flowed down the Willow River since the pioneer band, that struck gold on Keithly & Grouse Creeks, crossed the divide and uncovered the golden riches of Williams Creek. Today there is a survivor of this small party living in Victoria, whose memory of these early days, the rich finds, the toil and the hardship, is as green as if it was yesterday.

Michael Costin Brown, 73, was born near Dungarvin, County Waterford, Ireland and like many other pioneers of Cariboo the lust of adventure and the stories of rich strikes, lured him 1st to CA and later to the hinterland of BC.

In these days, when there is so much speculation with regard to the immigration that will flow into BC with the opening of the Panama Canal, the fact that visitors have come to this country for more than 50 years, travelling by rail across the Isthmus, is sometimes forgotten, yet it is more than 50 years ago since Mr Brown, who 6 years previously had settled in Cleveland, Ohio, journeying by way of the Panama Railroad, took ship from the Pacific end of the Isthmus for San Francisco.

Accompanying him on his trip was Mr O'Rear, the owner of a hotel, at Marysville, CA, of which Mr Brown was to assume control. These 2 pioneers reached San Francisco in 1858, at the height of the Fraser River gold excitement. People were pouring into the Gold Gate city on their way north and so great was the excitement that the steamship company had to employ men to keep the crowds from rushing the steamers. The gold fever was denuding CA of some of the miners who had streamed into that state in the rush of 'Forty-nine,' and Mr O'Rear decided not to open the hotel. After a month's stay in San Francisco the lure of the new gold fields proved too strong for Mr Brown, and he left on his way to the new El Dorado by way of Portland, OR.

It was in March, 1859, that Mr Brown left the Rose City, which was then a small place with but 3 good streets, on board SS Brother Jonathan. After a few weeks' stay in Walla Walla the news that gold had been discovered on Similkameen River proved a magnet too strong to resist. Brown and a Mr Costello, whom he had met in Portland, with John and Samuel O'Donnell, made up their minds to try their luck on the Similkameen River. They bought pack horses from the old Indian Chief Yellowhawk, and started in April for the new grounds. Crossing the Columbia at the mouth of Okanagan River, they travelled to the old HBC fort and thence followed the left bank and by way of Okanagan Lake, to the mouth of the Similkameen. Not finding prospects as good as they had expected, they decided to go on to the Thompson River. At this point the 2 O'Donnells, becoming discouraged, decided to leave the party and return home, and Murty Collins and Johnnie Metz, who had found their way to the Similkameen by way of the Skagit, asked permission to join forces with the prospectors. They offered to throw in their supplies of flour, bacon, beans, tea, coffee and sugar, and the 4 men left the Similkameen towards the end of April. They made their way along the west shore of the Okanagan Lake to the Thompson River, in the neighborhood of the place now called Ducks, about 18 miles north of Kamloops, and thence to the old HBC fort at the forks of the Kamloops River. Here they found Mr J W McKay in charge, and Judge Coxe, who was overjoyed to see a fellow Irishman in that remote spot. After spending a couple of days at Kamloops they followed the Thompson River to Savona, and from there took the old HBC brigade trail for Quesnel River, arriving at the forks of the Quesnel early in June. Here the party prospected, with varying fortune, all summer, the average yield ranged from $10 to $12 per man, which was considered satisfactory.

About Christmas time came the word that certain adventurers had found rich ground in Antler Creek, a tributary of the Willow River. This party, it was reported, had determined to keep their discovery dark, so they could enter with their friends in the spring to locate the richest ground on the creek. Mr Brown's party at Quesnel was among the 1st to get wind of the news. It was Christmas time and the snow was deep on the ground and this naturally suggested to Mr Brown that it would be possible to follow the tracks of the discoverers of Antler Creek.

'My partner thought the idea a good one,' said Brown in recalling his experiences, 'and without further delay we made up our pack of provisions and left on snowshoes, which, by the way, were purchased at $14 a pair from the Fort George Indians, proceeding by the way of the north fork of Quesnel River, thence over Bald Mountain, eventually finding the track of the discoverers, which we followed until we came to the claims located by the party. We prospected here for several days, but without striking any very rich ground. While we were at Antler Creek, 2 men came into our camp, William Dietz, familiarly known as 'Dutch Bill,' and Mike Burns. They had been prospecting the neighboring country across the divide and Burns was discouraged and wished to leave that wild country, being short of grub and tired of goldhunting. On the other hand, 'Dutch Bill' seemed anxious to continue prospecting and offered to join us. This offer we accepted, and we crossed the Divide, eventually making the headwaters of the creek, after some tiresome travelling, in which we travelled to a place near a little gulch or canyon, where we camped for the night, building a brush shelter. On the following morning we separated to prospect the stream agreeing to meet again at night to report progress. The story of that day's prospecting, which we recalled over the campfire, has become a matter of mining history in BC. 'Dutch Bill' made the best prospect, striking pay dirt going $1.25/pan. I and Costello had also done pretty well, finding dirt worth $1 or so a pan. You can well imagine we were well pleased with our day's exertions and each man in his heart felt that we had at last discovered very rich ground. 'I shan't readily forget', said Brown, and his eyes glowed as the memory of the old familiar scenes was again brought up, 'the discussion that took place as the name to be given to the creek, 'Dutch Bill' was for having it called Billy Creek, because he had found the best prospects of the 3. I was quite agreeable, but I stipulated that William Dietz should buy the 1st basket of champagne that reached the creek. This appealed to Costello, and so the creek was then and there named, not Billy Creek, but William's Creek. This was the most celebrated stream of Cariboo, called after William Dietz, who at least had an equal share with his partners in the discovery.' Brown tells, with some pride, mingled with a strong vein of humour the recording of the newly discovered creek. The 1st thing to do was to journey to Antler Creek, to procure pen and ink with which to write to Judge Nind, at Williams Lake, claiming the right of discovery. Pens were not so numerous at that time and ink was scarcer still; so that Mr Brown felt himself lucky when he discovered both necessaries at the cabin of a friend, William Hazeltine. The letter to Judge Nind was duly written, setting forth the facts of the discovery and declaring the name of the creek, which was described as fully as possible. The letter was sent in charge of two Indians, who were going out to procure provisions for a storekeeper at the forks of the Quesnel. Brown eventually took up 4 claims at the head of the canyon for himself, Costello, and his 2 partners, taking 100 extra feet as the discovery claim. As a proof of the uncertainty of communication between one district and another in those days, Brown records that the little party of pioneers on Williams's Creek did not get their papers from Judge Nind until 2 months later. 'The 1st thing to do,' said Mr Brown, 'was to notify the 2 partners at the Forks and to haul in provisions. Consequently, I started out once again, and making the Forks in 4 or 5 days, I told Metz and Collins of my success on William's Creek, whereupon they prepared to leave for the new diggings at once. Meanwhile Costello had worked at getting out timber for our cabin, for it was our intention to spend the summer of 1861 on the creek. The cabin, of course was the usual rough, one-roomed affair, with the time-honored fireplace at one end, standing close to the claim at the head of the canyon. We at once went to work to flume the creek, whipsawing the lumber. Some idea of the magnitude of such an undertaking can be gained from the fact that all of the timber for the flume had to be cut by hand and without the aid of proper tools. The building of the flume and the dam consumed about 3 weeks, and then we went to work in earnest with sluice boxes, the usual day being from 7am till 6pm, with about 1 hour for the noon meal. The dirt was shovelled directly into the sluice boxes and we made from $25 to $40 per day per man, leaving the creek at the end of the season with about $40,000 each.

The Discovery claim, which was owned by Brown, had a ridge of rock, which the owner took to be a solid bed; whereas it was, in reality, a thin ridge, which divided the real channel from the false channel. Towards the end of the summer a man named Cunningham who owned a good claim just above the Discovery claim, went to Brown and asked him if he would sell for $2,000. When he told his partner that Mr Cunningham had offered to buy him out, and that he had offered to sell at the price named, his partner advised Mr Born to hold on, feeling sure that the claim would prove its worth later.

'I had roughed it pretty hard for 2 or 3 years and I was longing for a change, and being afraid that my claim might work out altogether, as the pay was getting less as we reached the head of the canyon, I thought it wisest to get the best price I could and, after a long consultation, I accepted $2,500 for Discovery Claim.'

How many thousand dollars have since been sweated in this creek; how many fortunes have been made by miners who have had faith in its future, are recorded in the annals of the Provincial Mining Dept. To Mr Brown belongs the honour of discovery, the privilege of having played no small part in the development of the mining industry of BC, and above all, the green memories of obstacles battled with and conquered, of hardships met and overcome. With Brown rests the joy of husbanding life's taper to the close happy in the memories which the line of his ploughshare has wrought. [photo 1]

WmHx/Jan 18, 1914, by Mrs Murray Thain - ... Reading of all this good work done made me think of the days passed when, in this city, there was no need of a Lady Bountiful or hampers, but a real need of heart to heart sympathy. I think little is known of what was done by some of our pioneer women, and I will recall some of their deeds. I will begin with Lady Douglas, who did not let her L hand know what her R hand did. This was also the case with her daughter, beloved wife of Hon Dr Helmcken. It was not till she had laid down her loving work and gone to her reward that it was known how her heart and hands went out to cheer and brighten many homes.

Next to these came Mrs Cridge, the true helpmate to one of the 1st missionaries. Her home was always open to all, and especially to young men who came to this new country to devote their lives to mission work. She always met them with a mother's smile and an extended hand, none ever leaving without good cheer from her basket and her store.

Mrs Harris, wife of our 1st mayor was a noble woman. Her friend and adviser, Mrs S T Pidwell, had a good store of common sense. They, with Mrs Wood, Mrs Alex Monroe and many more good-hearted women, seeing the need of a place for many young women who had come from Eng to take positions in homes, when they were ill, talked the matter over and made up their minds that a hospital must be built.

They called a committee consisting of Mrs Peeve, then wife of Surgeon-Gen, Mesdames Sparks, Elliott, J R Anderson, William Charles, George Morrison, James Langley, and decided to hold a sale of work, an innovation in those times, to be ready when the Flying Squadron would be in Esquimalt, so as to have the patronage of Admirals, Commanders and officers.

The sale was well patronized, and enough was realized to build what was called a female infirmary at the top of Pandora st. At the laying of the cornerstone were Admiral and Lady Denman, Bishop and Mrs Hills, the ladies I have already mentioned and a large assemblage of citizens. The hospital was soon opened. Miss Lord was the matron, and to the rejoicing of many there was a home of rest and cure for all homeless girls.

Mrs D W Higgins, although younger than many of the workers, never let an opportunity pass her of doing a kindness. She was ready and equal for anything, and no home ever needed help which she could give. Her happy smile shed sunshine wherever she went. Even when she was stricken with an incurable illness she in moments of ease from pain would remember to send help where it was needed.

I cannot take up too much space in your paper so will conclude with a loving tribute to Mrs W J Macdonald, who, in every move of life acted as a Good Samaritan.

I have said that there was not any real poverty in our city 50 yrs ago, but a need of hearts that bind. Mrs Macdonald knew how to find the needs of many a mother who had no relatives to assist in her busy home. She would go anywhere at any time to help where she was most needed, even to taking a half-cared-for baby, wrapping it up, carrying it home and caring for it until it was strong and the mother had had a rest.

Even when her own family was small she took in orphans and cared for them until they were able to earn for themselves. Her carriage was always ready to take out those who were suffering from infirmity and give them ease and cheer they could not have had otherwise. I am only too happy to say she is among the few we still have with us, and has a family of sons and daughters to call her blessed.

Marine/Jan 27, 1914, 10 - In connection with the accident to Princess Sophia, it is interesting to recall that Blinkinsop Bay, Johnstone Strait, where she went ashore, was named after George Blinkinsop, n/o Cornwall, born 1822.

On Aug 24, 1840, he joined

HBC as an apprentice to the sea service, and the next day sailed in bark Cowlitz, Capt William Mitchell, from London for this coast, arriving at Fort Vancouver, Columbia River, Feb 7, 1841.

He went with Sir George Simpson on Cowlitz to California, sailing in November, 1841, and thence to the Sandwich Islands, leaving there in March, 1842, for Sitka. At the request of Capt Dodd, he was left with him as his assistant, having received a good education, when Dodd was appointed to take charge of Fort Stikene, later called Fort Wrangell.

Blinkinsop stayed there for 7 yrs, and in 1850 he was made 2nd in command to Captain McNeil at Fort Rupert, and was there in charge during the temporary absences of Captain McNeill, when the deserters from ship England were killed by the Nahwitti Indians in July of that year.

In 1857 Blinkinsop succeeded Angus Macdonald, as chief trader in charge of Fort Colville and remained there until 1859. Afterwards he was again, at Fort Rupert as 2nd in command, with Hamilton Moffat in charge. In May, 1881, he was appointed Indian agent on west coast of Vancouver Island, and the next year transferred to Fort Rupert, where he remained until 1886, when he retired from the Indian department. Blinkinsop made his home at Fort Rupert afterwards and died there in 1894.

Blinkinsop Bay was named by Captain Richards, of HMS Plumper, in 1860.

Died Feb 13, 1914 at Victoria, BC, Henry Wain, aged 88 [at res/o his daughter, Mrs Bull]. N/o Wellington, Kent, Eng, and came to Victoria in 1850 on Norman Morison, on the occasion of the 1st attempt by HBC to colonize the Island under its grant from the Crown, the medical officer of the ship being Dr J D Helmcken, and the commander Capt Wishart.

When Mr Wain landed, with about 80 other immigrants, chiefly miners who had been engaged to work in the company's mines, there was little real settlement, for the majority of the colonists had left their lands to try the goldfields, and for many yrs he remained in the employment of the company.

When the Saanich dist, however, was thrown open for settlement, he took a holding on the West rd, in N Saanich.

He has lived for several yrs, ever since his retirement, with his daughter. He is also survived by 2 sons, Alexander and William, of Cumberland, and 4 other daughters, Mrs Rufus Horth, Saanich; Mrs Charles Horth, Mrs J Newbigging, Victoria and Mrs Simpson. Pallbearers: Messrs William Armstrong, Alex McDonald, T Harrison, Chris Moses, A Downey, J Johns. Buried at family plot Holy Trinity church.

Feb 15, 1914, 5 - photo, William Cook - in a pretty bungalow on Fifth st, there lives with his daughter, Mrs David Baker, an old gentleman who has seen W Canada in the making.

Yesterday he reached age 96. He is still hale and active, and except that he has partially lost the sight of 1 eye, is in possession of all his faculties. Mr Cook remembers the incidents of his long life well, and has forgotten few of the names of his old-time associates.

It was in 1818 that Mr Cook was born, on the N shore of Lk Champlain, but his earliest recollections are of Montreal, where he went when a little boy. There were many log houses in the city in those days, and it was far from being the great and wealthy city it has since become.

Mr Cook still recalls the terrible visitation of cholera when men and women were stricken down without a moment's warning, and it was a hard matter to make coffins enough to bury the dead. A terrible fire in Montreal also made a great impression on the lad.

Not so with the rebellion of 1837, which broke out, when, as a youth of 19, Mr Cook was Asst to Dr Anderson, of Lachine. He appears to have thought the disturbance was confined chiefly to the Fr of the villages and that most people were going about their ordinary business. The Iroquois Indians were on the side of the British, and a band of them captured some of the rebels above Lachine and brought them to Montreal in canoes. Mr Cook recalls the great steamboat owner, Charles Molson, whom he speaks of as a little, active, bowlegged man.

Like many men in Montreal in those days, young Cook joined HBC in 1847. By canoe and barge he made his way to Ft Athabasca, where he served under Mr Ermatinger, commander of the N post. Disliking the extreme cold, he determined to seek the Pacific coast. He obtained leave and, going back to Norway House, was soon on his way to Edmonton. Sir George Simpson accompanied this party on one of the last of his many journeys. Stopping a while after their long and dangerous journey, at a little fort at the foot of the Rocky Mtns, where a factor named Fraser was in charge, Mr Cook and his companions took pack horses and made their way over the mountains and down the Columbia to Ft Vancouver. There he met Factor Ogden, of whom the company's people had many stories to tell. After a short stay, Mr Cook was sent to the new Ft Victoria, then in charge of Mr Finlayson. It was early days indeed. The Indians were still on both sides of the Arm, and the place was full of dogs which the natives used to shear like sheep, using the hair to make clothing.

Joseph McKay was chief trader, and George Simpson was at the fort. There were farms where James Bay now is and up Fort st. Mr Work was still in the N, and his family, of whom Mr Cook speaks in high praise, had not come to Victoria. About that time he met Capt McNeill. The company's doctor was Mr

Benson. There was no clergyman, for Rev Mr Staines had not come. Dr Helmcken and Sen McDonald were later arrivals.

Money, there was none, nor was there any use for it. On a trip which he made on Beaver, to Sitka, Mr Cook met Enterprise, which went in search of Sir John Franklin. Asked as to the value of furs in those days the old gentleman took out a blue cotton handkerchief and said that a marten skin could be bought for one of these, while a pipe was given in exchange for a mink skin.

When his time was up, Mr Cook hired with the company as a farmer at N Dairy farm. He married a Miss Grey, and eventually was surrounded by a family. He has been a hardworking man all his life and though he has seen Victoria grow to a beautiful city, has not made a fortune.

Gov Douglas was a good man, Mr Cook says, and a just one. He never broke his word, and though he did not always agree with him, he had the highest respect for him.

This old resident has little patience with those who talk of hard times. 'Why', he said, 'a man can go down to the beach and dig clams or catch crabs. Or he can take a hook and go out and catch fish. No one need go hungry here. I've seen the day when I was glad to earn $1/day to send home to my wife and 9 children.'

The old man's voice trembled as he spoke of the wife who had lived with him for 65 yrs and who, 3 months' ago, had left him for the other world.

He felt lost without her, he said, and one could see that the love and care of the kindest of daughters could not make up for a wife's love and companionship.

Yet, the old gentleman is cheerful and busy. He has done his part in the bldg up of Victoria.

Mar 6, 1914 - It is possible that there are, among the early pioneers still living, some who remember Thomas Cantrill, who was res/Victoria from 1862 to 1869. The following interesting reminiscences of his are taken from the Batley News, Yorkshire, Eng:

'The contingent set out from Gravesend in a sailing vessel, and went round Cape Horn, the voyage to BC occupying 147 days - a stupendously long time compared with these days of fast liners.

'I celebrated my 21st birthday as we passed Juan Fernadez (Robinson Crusoe's I),' Mr Cantrill observed.

When asked how he spent his time in BC, 'Oh, we had a very rough time. I was largely engaged in goldmining, but turned my hand to other work as well.'

'There was more than a tinge of sadness in Mr Cantrill's voice when he related how his brother passed away in that far-off clime. The immediate cause of death was lockjaw, but Henry Cantrill suffered seriously from the rigors of the climate.

With the exception of Henry Cantrill, the party of 8 all returned to Eng, the subject of the interview being the last to leave the Far West.

Discussing the conditions in BC at that time, Mr Cantrill explained that the gold rush had just begun, and many emigrants left Eng to settle there. The colony was in a raw state, the great fruit-growing industry which marks the colony out for distinction today being then unknown.

The present Vancouver city was then nothing but a logging camp. 'I was generally situated in Victoria, where there was lovely weather almost all the yr round. It is indeed, one of the most charming spots I have known.'

Mr Cantill lived an arduous life in BC for 7 yrs, and then decided to return home.

'I had lost my brother, and my other companions had returned home, and I think it was homesickness that made me return to Eng. I came back in 1869 by San Francisco, and across the Isthmus of Panama, journeying then to NY for Eng'.

Poem/Mar 8, 1914, 7 - photo, Cariboo Pioneer visits coast - Mr T P Reid -

'When Germansen 1st made his strike, On this h__ roaring river,

Old Hog'um sold his stock of goods,

At quite a high old figure;
But now, alas!

Old Hog'um gone, We sit around our camp fires,

And muse on those once happy days,

For now we've got the vampires.'

'Not as long as I live will I forget those lines, observed Mr T P Reid, known by all his fellow BC pioneers, as 'Tom Reid, of Lillooet.' Reid, one of those typical old-timers, who, in their rambles through the forests and along the creeks of the great Interior, seems to have discovered the secret of eternal youth, was in a reminiscent mood when he rattled off the rhyme quoted. 'You know,' he went on, 'every mining camp in late 1850s and early 1860s had its poet. Mr Germansen, the discoverer of Germansen Creek diggings in the Omineca country, was dubbed 'Old Hog'um,' because he charged us $45 for a sack of flour - 'blue mud' we called it, because it was ground at Williams Lake from frozen wheat - and all other goods in proportion. But Germansen left, and others came who put it on even more, and so our poet was driven to protest.'

Reid, when 1st tackled, said that he was only making a little trip to the coast after 17 years of uninterrupted residence away from the madding crowds, and that he could say nothing interesting. His stay was to be a short one and he would 'sooner see a show.'

'It was in 1859 that I left London,' Reid started, finally having given up hope of persuading his partner to 'see a show..' 'I shipped in a 3-masted sailing vessel, Eliza, one of those blunt-bowed, slow-moving hulks - but a good ship as ships went in those days. It took us 7 ½ months to reach San Francisco. Equinoxal storms drove us back in rounding the Horn. Thirteen of the crew were laid up with scurvy, but, by being tied to the wheel, they could keep Eliza on her course. The Captain and I were the only 2 who did not suffer. We had a cargo of ale. 'How are you feeling Tom?' the Captain would say every morning. 'Nothing like a bracer to keep up the health', he would continue, and we got along fine. There was never any fear of our running short of refreshment, and so the trip wasn't so bad after all.

'I never saw such hospitable people as the San Franciscans of those days. It was in Feb, 1860 that we sailed into the Golden Gate, and for 2 weeks I was given a fine time. I was taken to one of the swell saloons and was introduced to Judge So-and-so and Judge somebody else. After what I'd been used to in the Old Country, it seemed strange to meet the city's dignitaries in such free and easy fashion, but everything went and we had a good time. All the talk was of the Fraser River gold discoveries. There was a rush north, and I took passage, with a large crowd, on the old paddle-wheel steamer Panama. It took us 2 weeks to come up. We ran on a sand bar in trying to reach Portland up the Columbia River and had very rough weather in the Sound, but we got to Victoria finally about the beginning of March. A few days later I took the old Eliza Anderson to New Westminster, where I spent the summer.'

Reid dismissed the stirring experiences through which he went in the following years with comparative brevity. This was before the Yale Road was opened and prior to the Cariboo placer discoveries. The miners then were sifting the sands of the Fraser for 'colours' and he joined the general travel until reaching Douglas, situated at the head of Harrison Lake. There he was employed by the government, and in 1861, when the finding of gold in the Cariboo excited the adventurous throughout the western world, he became a member of the gold escort, which was established by Captain Gassett, and made a trying trip to Antler Creek. They met with trouble from the miners. 'Was the government insuring their gold?' they asked. 'No,' the captain of the escort replied. 'Well, I guess we can guard our gold better than any guard', was the almost invariable answer. The result was that only $80,000 was brought down on the 1st trip, and then the owner came with the party. The next of the escort's journeys, which extended as far as Williams Creek, was an absolute fizzle. None would let their dust out of their sight unless its safe delivery was guaranteed, and so the expedition returned empty handed and was disbanded.

'In Feb of 1862,' Reid continued, 'I walked from New Westminster to Harrison River on the ice - the river being frozen over completely in that year. There I got the Billy Billou express. I embarked on Harrison Lake in Indian canoes. Usually the water is quiet, but my luck was not good. It became rough, and I was 3 nights on the lake with nothing more to eat than a meagre stock of salmon and potatoes which the Indians had brought. I crossed the Douglas Portage, walked the Lillooet Lake to Pemberton, footed it 24 miles over the Pemberton Portage, as well as over the Seton and Anderson Lakes to Lillooet. Here I had a stroke of good fortune, for I was given $2 each for a package of 30 or 40 letters that I carried in. During 1862 and 1863 I was in the government service at Lillooet under Judge Elliot.'

Williams Creek, Cariboo, again attracted Reid in 1863. He settled down at Soda Creek, finally, for some years being in the employ of the pioneer trader, Peter C Dunlevy, until 1871. Then came the news of the gold discoveries in the Quesnelle, and Reid put his kit together and went with the rest in search of the alluring dust. With toboggans the party snowshoed into the new diggings on Germansen Creek. It was there that he had the experience as to prices which resulted in the outburst quoted by the camp's poet.

Finding the gold still very elusive, Reid returned to Soda Creek and for 20 years remained with Mr Dunlevy. His headquarters since have been the Lillooet. In that district he has many mining claims, and he continues to prospect. Every year his miner's license is renewed, it being Reid's conviction that a country as rich in natural resources as BC must yield up handsome returns to the man who is sufficiently persevering.

Marine/Mar 18, 1914, 3 - Died Mar 17, 1914 at Victoria, BC, a highly respected pioneer res/o Victoria, and one who, up to the time of his death, had the honor of being the oldest living navigator on the Pacific coast, Capt George Brown, n/o Liverpool, Eng, b Dec 24, 1832, aged 82.

Capt Brown came of seafaring stock, his father being engaged in the coasting trade in British waters. At age 13 he took to the sea himself, becoming Capt's boy in the service of Cunard Line between Liverpool and NY. After some yrs of this he sailed on clipper ships, and as an apprentice on the ship Adam Lodge he rounded the Horn on a voyage to San Francisco. This was about 1850.

In 1852 he again sailed to this Coast, this time on board barkentine Annie Moore. The vessel originally sailed to San Francisco, but, business offering in this direction, she was brought to Victoria. Capt Brown remained with the barkentine for 6 months after her arrival here, when he left her and determined to make his home in this city, with which he was greatly taken.

Going into the service of Joseph Boscowitz, Capt Brown did a great deal of coasting and trading with the Indians on the WCVI. For 4 yrs he was in command of Annie Beck, a well-known schooner of those days. Later he was placed in charge of trading stns, 1st at Nootka and afterwards at Kyuquot.

In the early days of the sealing industry he took out the 1st schooner for Mr Boscowitz, Annie Beck, the only other schooner then operating being Capt Spring's Alert, which was in charge of Capt Christiansen.

In more recent yrs Capt Brown was in the service of CPN Co and continued in the service with BC Coast Service of CPR. For a time he was master of Maude on the WCVI run, and was an officer on Pr Louise and other steamers on the N run. He also spent 6 months in the N in charge of the Boscowitz boat, which was chartered by late William Ogilvie. Seven yrs ago Capt Brown decided to retire.

Capt Brown had many experiences at sea but was never shipwrecked. On his 1st voyage around the Horn, however, he came near it.

As a trader Capt Brown was a great success, and he had the confidence of the Indians. He believed in treating them firmly and fairly, and always pursued the policy of absolute truthfulness.

Died Mar 21, 1914 at Elko, BC, Dr Hugh Watt, 76. A prominent figure in the public life of BC's interior, he was one of BC's pioneer medical practitioners and as a Westerner who took a leading part in the affairs of this country in the early days. He was father of Dr Alfred Tennyson Watt, formerly medical superintendent of the William Hd Quarantine Stn, who passed away last year. His other son, late Hubert L Watt, died about the same time.

Deceased was one of the earliest settlers in the West. He was a Liberal in politics, and represented the Cariboo district in the Legislature from 1892 to 1894, and during this time was a strong advocate of forest preservation, which was carried into effect nearly 20 yrs later. In 1882 he unsuccessfully contested a seat in House of Commons. He took up residence in Ft Steele in 1896, and continued to practice his profession for 17 years. During this time he was one of the chief movers in promoting the Kootenay Central RR, now under construction from Elko to Golden, and was the company's 1st president, and also interested himself in making one of the biggest collections of minerals from BC, which was presented to Lord Strathcona and is now to be seen in the Imperial Institute.

Deceased was also the original staker of the land where Wattsburg now is. A year ago he took up his practice in Elko and married his second wife, Mrs Alice Nicholson, who survives. Interred at Fort Steele, with Masonic honors.

Died Apr 1, 1914 at Spring Farm, Cedar Hill Rd, Saanich, BC, James Todd, aged 55. His body, bearing a gunshot wound in the L breast, just below the heart, was found in the granary at the rear of his home. He was born on the homestead, and acquired his education at the Cedar Hill school, later attending the City High school, from which he graduated with excellent standing. Afterwards he remained upon his farm and spent his time developing it. During the Yukon gold excitement he left for the N, being one of the 1st to join in the rush. After a yr, in which he profited little, he returned home. He married, Dec 31, 1907, Mrs Annie Grace Wallis. Two stepsons, by a former marriage, and his widow survive him. Six brothers, 1 sister are also living.

Deceased was eldest of 18 children of James Todd, a pioneer HBC employee. The latter lived to an old age, and passed away 5 yrs ago. His mother was, before her marriage, Miss Macaulay, of a well-known pioneer family.

His grandfather was John Todd, celebrated in the early annals of BC, who came here in 1823 [?] and for yrs was one of the HBC's officials at Ft Kamloops, where, in 1846, by his knowledge of the Indian character and his resourcefulness, he frustrated a plot formed by the tribe of Shuswap Indians for the purpose of wiping out the small body of men employed by the great company. Marine/Apr 12, 1914, 10 - Funeral of late Capt Samuel A Williams - pallbearers: Capt J D Warren and Messrs B Madigan, W Turpel, G E Munroe, J S Toreman, L Conyers.

Deceased a pioneer shipping man of the Pacific coast, died Apr 9. N/o Norwich, Eng, aged 79. At the early age of 14 Capt Williams became imbued with a spirit of adventure and decided to go to sea. His travels on the high seas brought him to the N Pacific, and for over 60 yrs he navigated the waters of this coast.

As early as 1860 he entered the employ of the Alaska Commercial Co and traded to the Siberian coast and the sealing islands of the Behring Straits. Ten yrs later found him at San Francisco, and while at the Golden Gate port he met Capt James D Warren, of Victoria, another pioneer of the sealing business, who traded to the Far N in the early 1860s.

Capt Williams came to Victoria in 1871, and for some time afterwards he was in command of steamer Annie Beck. In 1886 he was given command of the steam schooner Barbara Boscowitz, which vessel was built by Capt Warren at this port in 1883.

He retained command of that ship in the northern service until some 15 yrs ago, when he retired from the sea. It was always his proud boast that throughout his long experience in sailing the northern seas he never met with an accident.

Following his retirement, Capt Williams visited San Francisco, where he married, and returned shortly afterwards to make Victoria his permanent home. He is survived by his widow and distant relatives in Eng. P 111 W U

WmHx/Died Apr 22, 1914 at Victoria, BC, Catherine Balfour, beloved wife of Senator Macdonald. Around her are blossoming trees and the flowers she loved and tended, all telling of the renewed life of spring, while the soft sighing of the pine trees and the splash of waves soothe the mourners after their long watching.

Victoria was but a fur-trading post when, in 1852, Mrs Macdonald came to Victoria. Her father was James Murray Reid, of London, Eng, who brought his family to the far-away post in the sailing vessel Vancouver, of which he was

His daughters were a welcome addition to the little company who gathered in the fort on Sundays for service, for they had sweet voices and became mem/o the little choir.

Among the officers in HBC service when the Reids arrived in Victoria was Mr W J Macdonald, who had come out the previous yr. In 1857 they were married by Rev E Cridge. From that time the families were the closest friends.

In those early days and afterwards, the young wife and mother found many besides her own large family who needed the help which only a woman could give.

Little children, motherless or worse, were taken to her home and her heart. Overburdened mothers found her ready to lend a helping hand in time of need, and neighbors never lacked the help, which often involved sacrifice.

As the little community grew, this practical woman saw the need of co-operation. It was she, with Mrs Cridge, who founded the 1st Orphans' Home, a little house, in which Miss Todd cared for the homeless little ones. As time went on, this charity grew, but not faster than the pity and goodwill which these 2 good women were the 1st to manifest.

Mrs Macdonald, was one of those who, with Mrs Cridge, Mrs Wood, her sister, Miss

Reid, and others, worked for and founded the 1st hospital, which, under the name of the Female Infirmary, was built nr the top of Pandora st. This, like the orphanage, has grown, and soon a new bldg will take the place of what is now the old Jubilee hospital. But never again will women work as hard or as faithfully that the sick may be cared for and sheltered as old Mrs Macdonald and her friends in the old days when needs were great and hands were few. SV/Died Apr 26, 1914 at Victoria, BC, Capt Hugh Salusbury Lloyd. Deceased came to Canada from Eng in 1913. He was eldest s/o Col E Lloyd, late Punjab Cavalry, born 1879 at Sydenham, Eng. He was gazetted to the Royal Marine Light Infantry in 1897 and served with that corps till Jan, 1913, when he resigned to come to BC.

He saw service in Central Africa, attached to the King's African Rifles; also on the W and E coasts of Africa. As an officer of the Royal Marines he served for some yrs in the navy, including 2 yrs under Capt the Hon V A Stanley, on HMS Royal Arthur when on this stn. He was ADC to the Gov of Uganda, and as such was specially attached as Asst to Winston Churchill, then Secretary of State for the Colonies, during his tour of inspection to that province.

Capt Lloyd was a very distinguished shot and won the coveted Prince of Wales' Cup at Bisley and many other trophies. He came to Victoria with the intention of qualifying for and becoming a surveyor in BC, taking a very keen interest in this work, in which he previously had had some experience through being in charge of the Imperial government survey of the Uganda boundary line. After passing his preliminary examination here he became articled to Col W T H Holmes and worked under him last summer in the Strathcona Park survey.

Capt Lloyd, while continuing on the reserve of RMLI, joined the 50th Gordon Highlanders, of this city, as

Capt, on its recent formation, and showed himself to be a very valuable and capable officer.

In all that he undertook he showed a keen interest and his enthusiasm was unbounded. He had made a large circle of friends, and all predicted an undoubted success for him in his new venture in this country.

Mrs Lloyd came to Victoria a few months after her husband. She was married to him in 1903, and was Miss Hilda Squire, of Thurleston, Devonshire. Three children, survive him, also his parents, and 2 sisters and brothers. Capt Lloyd's brothers are Capt Raymond Lloyd, Adj of 2nd Battalion Inniskilling Fusiliers, and Comm Robin Lloyd, RN, of HMS Skylark, China Stn. Combined military and Masonic funeral. Apr 29 - 30 non-comm officers and men of 5th Reg, CGA, will form the firing party at the funeral of late Capt Lloyd. They will parade in dress tunics, with forage caps. Apr 30 - The funeral of Capt Lloyd yesterday was the 1st occasion in which the 5th Reg have horsed a gun carriage at a funeral service, and it says much for the drivers that the raw horses were managed so skillfully. Much adverse criticism was excited by the mannerless driving of a motor car which threatened to throw the procession into confusion on its way to the cemetery. Freemasons and soldiers of BC united yesterday in paying the last honors due to a brother, who though only a few months in this city, had won the hearts of all who were fortunate enough to know him.

The ceremony throughout, from the marching to a slow dirge to the pipes to the cathedral to the last rites at the graveside, was most impressive.

The procession was led by the Masons, followed by a firing party of the 5th RCA, the pipers, the band of the 5th Reg, and a carriage containing the wreaths. Then came the horsed gun carriage bearing the coffin, covered with the Union Jack, on which were placed late officer's helmet and sword and 2 beautiful wreaths, one from 'the Babies,' and the other from Col and Mrs E Lloyd (parents). Following the gun carriage came the pallbearers, the 88th Fusiliers and the 50th Gordon Highlanders and the RN and Marine Old Comrades' Assn and British Campaigners.

The pallbearers were officers in full uniform: Capt J F Foulkes, Maj Angus, 5th; Capt G E Godson-Godson, Seaforth Highlanders (Vancouver); Capt R P Clarke, 5th; Capt Robert Valentine Harvey, 88th Fusiliers; Capt F Longstaff, Corps of Guides, and the Masons holding military rank: Col W J H Holmes, Lt-Col W H Coy, Maj L Ross, Major Garnet Burk Hughes, Maj P T Riddell, Lt A Agar. Immediately following the pallbearers were: Capt B H Tyrwhitt Drake, F J O'Reilly, W H Bullock-Webster, T E Pooley and Capt Curtis. Capt Wollison, Lts F A Robertson and Birth were in command of the firing party, and Capt Moorhead, Lts Bromley and Boggs in command of the escort.

Lt-Col Currie, the commanding officer of the Gordon Highlanders, was in charge of the military, and with him was Comm Hose, RN, representing the RN. Among the representatives of the RN and Marine Old Comrades' Assn were: Fleet Surgeon Dr Home, RN; Maj Barnes, RMA, and Messrs Nunn, late RMA; Lloyd, late RMA, and Key, Ireland and F Hackett, all late of RMLA, and W J Edwards.

Service... 'Nearer, My God, to Thee,' in impressive unison by the whole military congregation... the cortege slowly filed out and started on its long march to continue the last rites at the graveside, the band of the 5th Reg playing as the procession moved slowly down Burdett ave...

Then came the last military honors, the firing of 3 volleys by the firing party and the sounding of the Last Post. One wreath was lowered with the coffin into the grave, the wreath from 'The Babies'. Thus were the last rites completed for a splendid man, soldier and comrade. [list of wreaths Apr 30, 7] T 020 W 45

RNV/Died May 4, 1914 at Victoria, BC, John Bartlett, aged 75, n/o Eng, mem/o Campaigners' Assn. Survived by a widow, 3 sons, Albert G, Frederick J, Walter O and one daughter, Miss Annie Bartlett.

Deceased was one of the oldest mem/o the British Campaigners in the city, he had seen service in the RN as far back as the Baltic Campaign. He was born at Shipton Gorge, in Dorsetshire, Dec 27, 1838. He joined HMS Victoria as a boy of 15 on Jul 13, 1853, and served on HMS Geyser in the Baltic during the war with Russia in the succeeding yr, being present at the bombardment of Sveborg. He also subsequently served on HMS Blenheim, St Jean d'Arc, Phantom, Scout, Sutlej and Malacca and rose to be captain of the main-top before he left the service on his 28th birthday in 1866.

Mr Bartlett's memory was stored with interesting reminiscences of a stirring career. As a boy he had been trained on the old Victory, Nelson's flagship, and prized greatly the parchment certificate issued him from her. He joined HMS Geyser as a 2nd-class boy and went with her to the Baltic, where, as Comm Hose brought out very clearly at the British Campaigners' dinner this winter, though no big engagements were fought, the seamen in small gunboats were constantly engaged in scouting, and individual attacks on the forts and harbors blockaded.

On HMS Blenheim Mr Bartlett remembered cruising off the Cape of Good Hope. Later he served off the Phaeton when the naval demonstration was made off Mex at the time of the Emperor Maximilian. His later service was made on HMS Sutlej and Malacca on the Esquimalt stn, and his last ship was HMS Scout, in which he served as a 1st-class PO until he took his discharge.

Mr Bartlett then followed the gold rush to the Cariboo where he mined for the next 8 or 9 yrs. Returning to the coast, he made his home in Victoria.

At the last annual dinner of the British Campaigners, held in Nov, 1913, portraits of 11 of the Campaigners who had seen service prior to 1858 were presented by the Assn to the Premier to be placed in the library at the Legislative buildings. These portraits, in which much interest was aroused at the time, included the photograph of Mr Bartlett. The funeral will be carried out by the British Campaigners Assn with all the honors due to a veteran sailor. By the kind permission of Lt-Col W N Winsby, a gun carriage will be available. Funeral of John Bartlett, at one time of RN, and for many yrs a res/o Victoria - a large muster of British Campaigners assembled to follow the gun carriage which bore the coffin, including the pres of the assn, Maj John Wilson; Beaumont Boggs, Dr W Bapty, Major Albert E Christie, DSO, A H Robinson and Dr Home. A detachment of sailors from HMCS Rainbow supplied the pallbearers: PO E F Overy, Leading Stoker E Woodward, Stokers A Coombs, F Fry, F Matthews and A B J Lane, and the gun carriage was lent by the 5th Regt.

Relatives included the widow, a son and daughter-in-law, and Vivian Lowe, besides many friends, and among the Campaigners who had served in the Baltic campaign with Mr Bartlett were Mr G E Smith and John Williams, both of the RN. The coffin was covered with the Union Jack and many wreaths, sent by, among others, Capt D Curtis, late RN, the British Campaigners, and the IODE. G 047 W 18

WmHx/May 7, 1914 - An interesting account of good accomplished, as well as evil prevented, during the last 6 mos, was given by Miss Macdonald, of the Victoria police force. Capability, broad-minded tolerance, tact, and a keen sense of humor are only a few of the attributes this little policewoman brings to her task, and each time one meets her one is struck anew with the enthusiasm and energy that she radiates.

The work accomplished by Miss Macdonald and her colleague, Mrs Clayard, is, in the nature of things, mainly preventative, and their roll of good deeds is inscribed upon the hearts of many a mother in the city, and will never be made known. But wise admonitions to erring daughters are only a small part of a policewoman's duties. Eight hrs a day are occupied in the supervision of sts and parks, and private cases are investigated, while if any long or complicated cases concerning women or children are being tried in the police courts, either Miss Macdonald or Mrs Clayard makes a point of being present.

Three young girls have been sent from Victoria since the beginning of the yr to the Prov Industrial Home, Vancouver, for terms varying from 2 to 5 yrs. Miss Macdonald said she could not speak highly enough of this home, which has only quite recently been opened and which provides a wholesome home atmosphere to temper its necessary discipline and restrictions. The girls are trained in sewing, cooking and domestic service, and are educated up to the 3rd reader when necessary. The lack of sufficient outdoor exercise is the chief disadvantage, for which a gymnasium might partly compensate, while a library of suitable books would be another welcome addition.

Recalcitrant boys up to the age of 14 also come under the policewomen's jurisdiction, being tried in the Juvenile Courts, and when convicted, sent for terms of varying length to the Boy's Industrial Home at New Westminster.

The wide extent of her work, however, has no terrors for Miss Macdonald. Her great regret is that, not being authorized as sanitary inspector, she and Mrs Clayard have not been able to enforce the Shops Regulations Act, which in the course of their work they find continually contravened. This and the enforcement of hygienic conditions in stores, where food is only too often left uncovered to the contamination of flies and dust and unwholesome air, are matters which are entirely neglected in Victoria because of the absence of an authorized woman sanitary inspector. Although it might not always be possible, as the city grows larger, to combine these with the manifold duties of policewomen, Miss Macdonald avers that, at present, the 2 missions might be effectively combined.

With regard to the moral question, which constitutes such a grave evil, even among young children, Miss Macdonald is strongly in favor of the teaching of sex hygiene in schools as the only adequate means of coping with a great national danger. May 9, 1914 - Mr J J Sollitt is at Victoria again after an interval of 30 yrs. Born of Yorkshire, Eng parentage in Chicago, IL, he was attracted to this country by the stories of Cariboo gold, and made his way down the E coast to the Panama Isthmus, where, with many others, he took a passage on a vessel which brought him to Victoria in 1862. A fellow passenger on the boat was William Smith [Amor de Cosmos], who was afterwards premier of BC. With him Mr Sollitt roomed, on his 1st arrival in Victoria, at a house at the cnr Johnson/Government sts.

Victoria in those days was for the most part bounded by Broughton, Douglas and Johnson sts, anything beyond these being considered in the country. The principal hotel (Mr Sollitt could not remember its name) stood on Broad st, close to the present site of The Colonist office, this paper being then owned by Mr Amor de Cosmos.

So discouraging were the accounts brought down by many of the miners from the Cariboo that Mr Sollitt made up his mind to go farming instead. He formed one of a numerous band who located in the Somenos dist. They settled down and made many of the ranches that today are changing hands at prices undreamt of by their original owners. Among the ranchers at that time was late Dr Davie, but Mr Sollitt has found very few left in the Duncan dist whose fathers he knew in the early days.

Jim Sollitt's shack was a well-known landmark of the Somenos dist until last yr, when it was burned down to make way for modern farm buildings.

The journey from Victoria in those days was made by water up the coast to Maple Bay. There was a trail, but only one man Mr Sollitt knew had ever traversed it. On his recent visit to Somenos and Duncan, Mr Sollitt gathered the impression that little advance had been made in the farming and clearing of the dist since his day. He stayed there until 1874, when he left Canada and returned to US, where he has made his home ever since.

May, 1914 - Vancouver Island [VI] has suffered an irreparable loss and Victoria is deprived of one of its foremost pioneer citizens by the death May 9, 1914 at Ucluelet, BC of William John Sutton, 55, eldest s/o late Sheriff Sutton, of Walkerton, ON, who succumbed to a stroke. A pioneer in Island development, admittedly the greatest authority respecting the resources of this section of BC, a mineralogist of large practical experience, and one of the most energetic works for all that had to do with the advancement of Victoria and the Island.

A Colonist correspondent wired from Ucluelet: 'W J Sutton dropped dead at 9am, while running a survey line for a road in process of construction. He and his party were at work at a point 1 ½ miles back in the bush. On news reaching here a party, consisting of 16 men, including the lifesaving crew, hurried to the scene, and the body was later conveyed here. An inquest was held at noon, and a verdict of death from apoplexy returned. The body will be conveyed to Victoria tomorrow morning by special boat. Mr Sutton had extensive holdings in this dist and was universally esteemed.'

N/o Kincardine, Bruce Co, Ontario, born Jan 19, 1859, Mr Sutton, after being educated in the public schools, took courses in mining and geology in Trinity College, Cornell, Columbia School of Mines, NY and the Michigan School of Mines. Coming to Victoria in 1877, he was for several years assayer in BC Dept of Mines and held other posts in government service.

On leaving public service Mr Sutton joined the staff of the Dunsmuir, who, besides owning great coal mining interests on VI, had large possessions of land in the belt granted them at the time of construction of E&N Railway. It was while at this task that Mr Sutton developed an interest in the resources of VI which remained with him up to his death. It is but the bare truth to say that his personal knowledge of VI was greater than that of any other man. He had visited practically every section of it from Cape Scott to Victoria. His services were always at the disposal of those advancing plans for the further development of the Island by railway or otherwise, and on innumerable occasions he delivered lectures illustrated by specially drawn maps and lantern slides on the topographical features of the country and its mineral resources. He was ever extremely optimistic about the future of VI, and especially was he firm in the belief that there would be great development on the WCVI. He possessed one of the finest and most comprehensive private mineral collections in the West.

On the coal mining interests of the Dunsmuir's passing to the Canadian Collieries Ltd, Mr Sutton was induced to retain his position, and this he held at the time of his death. Mr Sutton's reputation as a mineralogist was by no means local. He was known all over the continent and in Europe as an authority in respect to the mineral resources of Western Canada. He was a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, VP of Canadian Mining Institute and chairman of the W branch, a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society.

While never seeking anything in the nature of public honours, Mr Sutton's strenuous duties in the field permitted him to give time to congenial tasks in the interests of the country. Thus he was a very active member of the Board of Trade and the VI Development league; and it was only a few weeks ago that he spent much time in assisting in the work of re-organizing the latter body. He was one of the foremost members of the Natural History Society, of which he for some time held the office of president.

Some 8 years ago Mr Sutton made an extensive tour of the world, keeping away from the beaten track and visiting such points as the interior of China and India and Egypt. He was constantly seeking to enrich his store of knowledge, and being of a very observant turn of mind, his experiences proved very profitable. Of a most attractive and winning personality, he was a delightful raconteur, and he will be greatly missed by a circle of close friends who spent many happy hours in his company.

For a number of years Mr Sutton's residence has been on Discovery street. In 1902 he married Miss Helen A Fox, eldest d/o late George Fox, one of the earliest businessmen of the city, and the sister of George T Fox, the well-known cutlery dealer, of Broad street. In addition to his widow he is survived by 3 sisters, residing here, Miss Sutton, Mrs F H Fatt and Mrs Gray; 2 brothers, Mr J E Sutton, in CA, and Mr R Sutton, Walkerton, ON. As many members of Royal Astronomical Society as can find it possible are requested to attend the funeral. The remains arrived from Ucluelet on Sunday on the tug Olive, which was specially chartered to go up and bring the body home.[photo - May 10, 1; 4 - editorial; May 13, 4 - poem dedicated to W J Sutton - The Trail Breakers, by F M Kelly]; Jun 6, 7 - letter of condolence from W branch of Canadian Mining Institute. T 090 W 41

May 17, 1914, 11 - phs/Golden Wedding - A unique and delightful entertainment took place at the home of James Parfitt yesterday. It was the 50th anniversary of his parents, who with their family of 7 sons and 4 daughters, are all living and well. Of this large family 8 are residing in Victoria, and they all gathered with their families at the home of their eldest brother to celebrate at once the golden wedding of their parents and the marriage of the youngest brother, Albert.

The old people are today giving thanks in the church of the little village of Carlingcut, nr Bath, Eng, in whose choir their boys have all sung. Tomorrow a public entertainment will be given in their honor to congratulate the couple and share their pleasure and pride in the many mementoes of love and duty which have reached them from family in far-away Victoria.

On May 16, 1864, Aaron Parfitt, aged 20, the youngest s/o Isaac Parfitt, married Martha Bishop, d/o James Bishop of Bath, Somerset.

It is almost 25 yrs since James,

Aaron and Fred Parfitt came to Victoria. They were young and strong, full of hope and ambition and had learned to work. They had little of this world's goods, but that did not prevent the eldest of the young mechanics from marrying. Through good times and dull times the Parfitts worked away, and a few yrs ago 2 more brothers came from Eng and joined the firm. Today they have a reputation 2nd to none as master builders. They have a staff of 100 men and property and interests in many parts of Victoria. They furnish to all an example of what can be done in our city by men without the advantages of money or extensive education by men of character who work together with energy, intelligence and perseverance... Marine/Died May 21, 1914 at Victoria, BC, Capt John Joseph Barry, a res/Victoria for 27 yrs, after a sailor's career which had been spent on both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

Capt Barry was n/o Tranmore, Co Waterford, Ire, born 1838, aged 76. He came out as a boy of 10 or 12, to NF, beginning his seafaring life as cabin boy and gradually working up the ladder as apprentice and AB seaman till, in 1877, he attained the rank of Master Mariner. He took part in the 1st Alert expedition sent by the Dominion govt from Halifax to Hudson Bay in the 1880s, and the silver watch presented to him on his return, as well as a telescope given him at the conclusion of the Alert's 2nd voyage into those waters, were among his most treasured possessions.

Capt Barry married in 1874, and 10 yrs later came out to this coast, where he has been a well-known personality in sailors' circles for many yrs. He spent some yrs on Ajax under Capt Newcombe, but for some time before his death had retired from active work. Mrs Barry, his widow, alone survives him.

A friend of late Capt Barry, speaking of his personality yesterday said that though he ever kept a warm spot in his heart for the land of his birth, there was no more ardent Canadian in the Dominion, and none with a firmer belief in the future that lies before her. B 012 W 32 possession of a copy of the British Colonist of Dec 11, 1859, he has a copy of the 1st newspaper published in BC, is in error.

The 1st Victoria newspaper was a weekly and was printed in French. It was called The Courier, and only 1 or 2 numbers were issued. A 2nd paper came out about May, 1858. It was printed by Whitton & Co, who came from San Francisco during the 1st gold rush. A 3rd newspaper, called the VI Gazette, was brought out in Jul of the same yr by an Englishman named Marriott. The 2 Gazettes were very short lived. Both expired when The Colonist entered the field on Dec 11 following. The Colonist was, therefore, the 4th, not the 1st newspaper in BC. Signed, D W Higgins.

News/Died Jun 1, 1914 at Victoria, BC, Edmund James Parsons, aged 77, n/o Thatcham, Berkshire, Eng. He came to BC in 1873, and for some yrs held the post of jailer at the Provincial Jail. He came to America as a youth, his 1st home being in Rochester, NY, from where he went to Bruce Co, ON, where he married. After a comparatively short residence in ON, he decided to come W, and, as a result, he became identified with the early life of Victoria.

In Victoria he 1st was given employment by late Thomas Trounce, then deputy sheriff with late Sheriff Harris. From that position he went into the police force, from which he resigned to go to Cassiar, the gold excitement having broken out and the rush to the Interior being general. He stayed in that district only 6 months, returning again to the Provincial Police under Supt Bowden. He left the service to take charge of the circulation dept of The Colonist, Mr D W Higgins at that time being the editor and Mr A G Sargison in control of the business dept. After 9 yrs of continuous work, during which period he did not miss a single 4am appearance, thus assuring that the newspaper should be received by subscribers on time, he once more took a place with the Prov Police... Died Jun 2, 1914 at Victoria, BC, Robert Porter Sr, a prominent citizen of Victoria for upwards of 60 yrs, the greater part of which was occupied in the prosecution of a business which grew to substantial proportions, both here and in Vancouver. It was as head of Messrs R Porter & Sons, butchers in a large way, that Mr Porter was best known to res/o BC. He made his start in this commercial enterprise 38 yrs ago by the establishment of a comparatively modest store at the crnr Douglas/Johnson sts. As the population increased the facilities necessary were provided to meet the expanding trade. A farm close to Victoria was acquired, and he got in touch with adequate sources of supply on the adjacent Islands, the mainland and elsewhere. The 1st store was added to and modernized, and new quarters of an up-to-date character were opened at the corner of Government & Broughton sts.

Through the judicious combination of progressiveness and conservation in its mgmt Mr Porter's business continued to flourish until it was known throughout the Cdn West. In 1907 it was formed into a stock co as Messrs R Porter & Sons Ltd. Two stores also were opened in Vancouver, and by bringing to bear the same principles in their conduct, they, too, were a pronounced success. In these later yrs Mrs Porter had associated with him his sons Robert J (now Alderman Porter), Henry, George, Charles and Frederick. The 1st 3 confined their attention to the Victoria business while the 2 latter took up Vancouver residences.

Some time before the firm which had taken root in Victoria became merged with P Burns & Co, Mr Porter Sr, had retired from active participation in its affairs. The change took place Apr 1, 1909. He then had his home at the old Porter homestead on Burnside rd, from which he moved to a city residence 3 yrs ago.

N/o Sturminster, Newton, Dorsetshire, Eng, almost 80 yrs ago, Mr Porter sailed for VI when he was 16, being under articles for 5 yrs with HBC. He took passage on Tory, the journey around the Horn occupying about 6 mos. On the same ship were many whose names are on the list of BC's earliest pioneers, and of whom those of the survivors are Sen Macdonald and Messrs George Cook, of Metchosin and Robert Fish. One of the 1st forms of employment which Mr Porter had here as a lad was on a farm in James Bay. He was engaged, also, with late Mr J D Pemberton in laying out of Victoria. Brickmaking for HBC, the works being nr the N end of Beacon Hill park, was another task at which he was set. Later he assisted George Mason, who was the company's head brickmaker at the time.

Besides 5 sons, Mr Porter leaves a widow, who was Miss Alice Kerr, and 2 daughters, Mrs James W [Alice] Sangster and Mrs W Veitch. Ph/Jun 3, 2. Bldg/Died June 5, 1914 at Victoria, BC, John Bernard Sere, 86, n/o Ancizun, Hautes Pyrenees, France. Deceased lived in Victoria 56 years [1858]. He leaves 1 son, Frank, of this city. Born Nov 18, 1827, Sere early in life developed a taste for moving round the world, which led him 1st to South America, where he saw a great deal before travelling to the Isthmus of Panama and Central America. He was at Panama when the 'golden' era began in CA, and, attracted, like many others, by the dreams of wealth, he then moved north and was in San Francisco on the date of the fall of Sevastopol, and could remember the day when the vigilante committee stormed the jail and dragged Casey out to meet his doom by hanging at the hands of the representatives of the populace.

While in CA Sere married a compatriot in Mrs Stewart, of New Orleans (nee Anne Catherine Paris), who died here some 12 years ago. Of this marriage was born Frank Sere, the only member of the family in Victoria.

Then came the days of the gold excitement in the Cariboo. Setting out in SS Republic from San Francisco, Sere, in company with Henry Gribble, still living on Pandora street, arrived in Victoria June 11, 1858, and went on to the Fraser River valley. He returned from there some years later, and for the last 50 years had been resident of the city, not altogether from choice, for the spirit of travel was still strong in him, but because his interests here necessitated his presence. The 1st home of the family was built on View street, at the back of where the Institute Hall now stands. Soon Sere, in partnership with Mr Manciet, built and operated the Hotel de France on Government street. In 1862 the hotel was given up and the present house and ranch bought on Richmond road, which was run as a hotel under the name of Richmond House. This was one of the favourite places for those desiring to dine out of town, and many a meeting of Cabinet ministers and other dignitaries took place there, all the old-timers knowing and appreciating the good cooking. The ranch, which at 1st consisted of some 100 acres, was originally owned by Bishop Demers. When subdivided, 13 acres passed into the possession of Sere, who later added another 10 acres to it, including the site on which the Isolation Hospital now stands.

Richmond House was run as a hotel until sometime in the 1880s, when it was closed to the public, and Sere opened a feed store, which he conducted for the next 15 years.

The accompanying photo [June 7, 7] was taken at the request of Mr Gosnell in 1908 for his collection of old-timers' photographs, which is now in the Legislative Buildings. P 121b122 W K *

Jun 7, 1914, 7 - Many of the pioneer res/o Victoria, BC, will be interested in learning that Mr H F Jelly, the sole survivor of the famous SS Pacific, which foundered in Nov, 1875, with the loss of 200+ souls, while enroute to San Francisco, is alive and well. It had long been supposed that he had passed away; indeed, Lewis and Dryden's Marine Hx of the NW (1895), records that Jelly died prior to that date.

Mr Jelly is at present residing at Ft Stanley, ON, and a few days ago forwarded a letter to an old friend, Mr A H Cameron, who, hearing of his address, had written to him.... 'After returning home from the wreck I went to Ire and got married there and came back to Pt Stanley and settled down on my farm. A short time ago I gave up the farm and am at present mgr of the Erie Amusement Co and Pt Stanley Elevator Co.'

Mr Cameron explains that he met Jelly for the 1st time in Chicago, and the two came across the plains together to San Francisco. Here they parted company, Mr Jelly going to Victoria. When the latter was at Lytton he received the photograph of his friend [Jun 7, 7]. Four yrs after the loss of Pacific, it was reported that Mr Jelly had died in E Canada....

Neil Henley, quartermaster on Pacific, and Mr Jelly, a passenger, were the sole survivors. Henley was rescued by revenue cutter Oliver Wolcott, after floating for nearly 80 hrs on a piece of wreckage, and Jelly was picked up by bark Messenger, the 2nd day after the accident.

Jun 11, 1914 - James F Mahar, n/o Boston, MA, is paying a visit to Victoria, and through the courtesy of Munro Miller has been enabled to trace the burying place of his grandfather, Major Mahar, about whose death in 1859 the family had only a vague knowledge.

Major Mahar who originally came out from Ireland to Boston, and whose name a street there still bears that name, went to CA in 1849 and settled in French Gulch, Shasta County. Attracted by the reports of gold in the Fraser River district he came up here and went on to the Cariboo in late 1850s. He was in constant communication with his family until 1859, but it was not until some years later that his partner in the Cariboo, Mr Welch, who had made a fortune in the mines, returned to Boston bringing with him family photographs and the news of his death. Even then it was understood that this occurred in the Cariboo, but Mr Miller who is compiling a memoir of the pioneers of those early days has discovered in the registers of the Roman Catholic church here [Victoria] an entry recording the burial on Mar 26, 1859, of Major Mahar, aged 52, from Boston in the presence of William Seely and Francois Cabena, by P Rondeault, priest. The cause of death is not mentioned, but it appears likely to have been scurvy.

Mahar is survived in Boston at the present day by 3 sons, 1 daughter, one son is an RC priest of that city, and the eldest, James M Mahar, is father of Mr Mahar who is now here.

Died Jun 9, 1914 at Victoria, BC, John Marks, 83. Mr Marks had passed the last ½ century at Victoria [1862], coming here from Pt Glasgow, Sct and was connected with many mining enterprises on the coast. He was one of the daring spirits who journeyed to the Yukon so long ago as 1892, and his advice and experience were invaluable to many who took part several yrs later in the celebrated 'gold rush.'

His adventurous career made him an interesting companion and he had a large # of friends in this city as well as in various parts of BC, while his death will be sad news to many old friends and comrades in the Far N.

James Moore, a lifelong friend of John Marks, gives some interesting details of the deceased.

While of late yrs Mr Marks' name was usually connected with mining, his 1st work on the Pacific coast was as a sailor. Born in 1831, Mr Marks came to the coast in 1853, and from that yr until 1859 was an officer of Pacific Coast SS Co, plying from San Francisco to Panama. In 1856, attracted by the news of the finding of gold in Cariboo, Mr Marks came to BC and prospected on the Horsefly Rv and on the N fork of the Quesnel Rv. In 1861 he located a claim on Cunningham Ck. His next venture was on Williams Ck, and he was one of the locators of the Star claims in 1862. He remained on Williams Ck until 1866, occasionally visiting Victoria in the winter. In 1875 Mr Marks tried his luck in the Cassiar dist, and in 1882 visited AK. He remained on 40-Mile Ck until the discovery of the Klondyke in 1896, when he made a considerable amount of money. After this time he lost his health, but made a trip to Sct for the purpose of tracing his nr relatives. This he was unable to do. Later Mr Marks tried several other climates for the benefit of his health, going to the hot springs of CA and to the Sandwich I. He finally settled down in Victoria, where he resided until his death. Jun 27, 1914, 7 - Rev John Reid Sr, one of Victoria's earliest and most respected pioneers, celebrates his 84th birthday today.

During his active ministry in Victoria, and since he has retired, he has popularized himself by the prominent part he has taken in philanthropic and charitable works.

N/o Kilmarnock (Jun 27, 1830), he received his early training and preparatory education on the schools of that town, prior to going to Glasgow, where he was trained for the ministry. He was ordained in 1849 at Cambuslang, and ministered in the Congregational church where the f/o Dr David Livingstone was a mem/o the congregation.

From Cambuslang he went to Avon Bridge, where he remained over 2 yrs. From there he was called to Jedburgh. A call was received from Dumbarton, thence to Cathrine, Ayshire, his native county, where he spent 5 very successful yrs. In 1860 he was called to Windemere.

During his ministry there he was brought into touch with the brightest minds of both Europe and America, the Lake Dist of Eng being a favorite resort for professional men seeking rest and recreation.

In 1867 he received a call to Burnley, Lancashire, at place he was 12 yrs in all, when failing health necessitated his resignation, and at the suggestion of his friends he came to the Pacific coast, commencing his ministry in reorganizing the First Presbyterian church, Victoria, where he remain for nearly 6 yrs.

In 1880 he spent 6 mos in San Francisco and 1881 he returned to Burnley, Eng. On his return to BC he became asst to Bishop Cridge.

Mr Reid has 3 sons, 1 daughter living. Rev John Reid Jr, is Presb minister at Evanston, WA, Rev David Reid is engaged in missionary work in WA, and Mr S N Reid is the immigration officer at Seattle. [Includes photo of 3 generations.]

Drowned Jun 30, 1914 at Ucluelet, BC, Weston, elder and beloved s/o Mr/Mrs Edwin Lee, aged 12y, 6m, n/o Victoria, BC.

While riding in a motor launch in Ucluelet Hbr, with his cousin Alma Lyche, aged 15, the lad, who was steering and whose accident is attributed to the breaking of the tiller rope, fell into the water. Miss Lyche displayed marked heroism. She immediately plunged in but could not get near him, the high wind and comparatively heavy sea making her efforts hopeless. The boy disappeared, and by the time a rescue party arrived, nothing could be done to save his life.

Grappling irons were secured and, after working for 4 hrs in 40' of water, the body was secured and brought to Victoria on last night's E&N train. Master Lee was popular both at day and Sunday school, and will be much missed by his young friends. Besides his mother and father, he is survived by a brother and sister.

Funeral - there were many friends present and the casket was covered with flowers, among them being a large wreath from the Ucluelet Arm and Ucluelet Sabbath school. Pallbearers: Masters Henry Johnson, John McDonald, Willie Simons, Harvey Johnson, Harold Tait, Ted Pellow. R 082b083 E O

V/Died Jul 9, 1914 at Victoria, BC, George Newport Sutton, s/o late William Sutton and of Mrs Sutton. Since the organization of 88th Fusiliers he had taken an active interest in its welfare, being a Pte in the corps and an enthusiastic supporter of the regiment. Born at Wye, Kent, Eng, aged 33, he came to BC about 12 yrs ago, at first being engaged in newspaper work at Comox and at Nanaimo. Coming to Victoria he became identified 1st with the Plimley Motor Co and next with the Western Motor Co. Funeral - gun carriage will be supplied by 5th Reg, which will parade at Drill hall. The 50th Highlanders are sending a detachment of 50 men under the command of Capt Asser, and 88th Fusiliers parade as a battalion at the Drill Hall. Maj Byng Hall, the officer commanding the regiment in Victoria, expresses the hope that a very full parade will be made possibly by everyone who can turn out to honour the memory of a fellow soldier.

Detachments of officers and men from 88th Fusiliers, 5th Reg CGA, and 50th Highlanders, each company attending in full uniform, followed the remains of their late comrade to the graveside, adding greatly to the impressive last rites. The 88th Fusiliers led the mournful cavalcade, followed by the 50th Highlanders, with mem/o CG and officers of all the regiments bringing up the rear. At the conclusion of this service the companies reformed, and, with the regimental band playing the cortege slowly wended its way to Ross Bay cemetery. The firing party consisted of 13 of the deceased's late company, and 3 volleys were fired over the grave, while 'Last Post' was sounded by Bugler Sanford as the casket was being lowered into the grave. Pallbearers were: Cpl D Michelin and Privates F J Webb, R F Ely, A H C Jones, J Graffick, J Robinson, all mem/o 88th Fusiliers. T 080 E 45

Died Jul 8, 1914 at Victoria, BC, Joseph John, n/o Wls, aged 66. Survived by his widow, son David, and 4 step-children, all residing in Victoria.

Deceased was res/Saanich dist, where he operated a large farm for over 40 yrs, and, therefore, witnessed much of the growth of the peninsula and city. He followed the mining boom in Cariboo for a time, but mainly his life was devoted to farming pursuits.

Some few yrs ago he retired from active work on the farm and was living at Victoria. Mr John was 25 when he decided to emigrate from Wls; and lured W on reaching America by the news of the mining excitement, he became so enamored of BC that he never left it.

He was an excellent type of citizen, and universally respected. To mem/o the pioneer families of the city he was very well remembered. T 055 E 41

Died Jul 14, 1914 at Victoria, BC, William Stephen Newman, aged 68, n/o Gloucestershire, Eng, a pioneer RR official and one occupying a highly respected place among those who came to BC when steel 1st surmounted the Rockies. He was connected with CPR service since 1886 and had been road master with E&N since 1905. Aged 68, he came to Canada in 1884 with experience in RR work in the Old Country at his back, Mr Newman immediately was given employment on CPR construction, his location being along the N shore of Lk Superior. In 1886 he was transferred to BC, and for 11 yrs his hdqtrs were at Donald, which then was a divisional point on the 1st transcontinental RR. In 1897 he was moved to Revelstoke, from which centre he exercised the authority of road master over a large and important section of the main line. He continued to perform these onerous duties for 8 yrs. When CPR took over E&N RR in 1905 Mr Newman was brought to the Island to supervise the task of bringing the roadbed up to standard. For several yrs he held the joint position of road master and bridge and bldg master. When the 2 were separated, he continued as road master.

Mr Newman will be remembered for his untiring energy, his never failing resource in times of emergency and his splendid loyalty to the company. To the younger RR men his name always will recall the wealth of thrilling narratives which he was able to relate of incidents of work in the 1880s and '90s on the mountain sections. When he was in the mood he could tell most interesting stories of life in BC interior of those days and in late yrs nothing has pleased his friends more than to induce him to recount these tales. In all these episodes, according to his version, he was little more than an onlooker. This, however, according to Mr Marpole, Mr Beasley, and others on the ground, was not the case. Died Jul 15, 1914 at Chemainus, BC, William Jack, a well known Indian and a former res/o the old Songhees reserve. Jack was a nphw/o the famous Skoomiaex, and was heir to the chieftainship, according to tribal rights.

Some yrs ago he became a convert of the Methodist church. At the time of the transfer of the reserve to the BC government, William Jack disagreed with the remainder of the tribe as to the wisdom of the move, and, as a result, had lived at Chemainus for the past few yrs. He was aged 40 and leaves a widow. The impressive funeral took place from the home of his father-in-law Thomas James, Fraser st, Esquimalt. At the Metropolitan Methodist church, to which the long procession of 40 carriages proceeded, services were conducted by various ministers, concluding with an address by Chief Lewis Good, of Nanaimo tribe. Testimony was borne to the generosity of Mr Jack both to the poor and to the church.

At the graveside at Ross Bay pallbearers were: Chester Wanderhard, William Mahone, Joseph Butler, Gallic Cheeks, Johnson Colfax, Lewis James. K 024 W 5

Marine/Jul 18, 1914 - Much interest was taken in the evidence given yesterday by Capt Charles Spring before the Sealing Comm. Capt Spring's memory enables him to go back to 1869. He is the s/o one of the pioneer sealers on this coast, Capt William Spring, owner of Surprise. Capt Spring is also an authority on Indian life and ways, and has acted as interpreter in a # of Indian claims placed before this commission.

Capt Charles Spring, who was born at Queensboro' (now New Westminster), the sealing industry BC, when his father sent the schooner Surprise off on her 1st trip in 1869. He stated that his father had been the 1st owner to place white men on sealing ships in order to institute a comparison of their success with that of the Indians. He died while Mary Ellen was away on her 1st cruise with white hunters in 1884.

Capt Charles Spring soon afterwards bought out his father's partner, Theodore Lubb, and again sent out Capt McLean in Mary Ellen with white hunters, and Capt Alexander McLean in Favorite with Indians. The white hunters used guns for the 1st time in the Bering Sea, against the spears of the Indians, and brought home the largest catch. Previous of this Capt Dan McLean's crew on San Diego had used guns on the CA coast in 1882.

In 1892 Capt Spring's 4 vessels cleared for the Bering Sea, but 2 were warned out by HMS Satellite and Nymph, and 2 others, Henriette and Winifred were seized by the American patrol boats. On these 2 he afterwards received compensation, but meantime he had been compelled to close down his sealing business.

Capt Spring had no doubt as to the superiority of guns over spears, though he admitted that at first the reckless use of firearms wounded a # of seals that were never recovered. The Indians, he said, strongly protested against the use of firearms, as they said they frightened the seals away.

At 1st $7 or $8 per skin was a good price for skins. Out of this, $2 would be paid to the Indian canoe which caught them. The employment of white hunters soon ran the cost up as they demanded higher 'lays' and superior accommodation and food onboard.

WmHx/Jul 21, 1914, 7 - The accompanying illustration shows a Victorian lady about to make her 1st descent in a diving suit off the site of the new Metchosin. Mrs Marks, d/o Diver A McDonald, went down under the instructions of Diver Thomas Wither in several fathoms of water, and remained under for ½ hr, picking up a swatch and shells. Mr Wither is very proud of his pupil, and especially of the fact that at no time during the performance did she show the slightest signs of nervousness, a most unusual thing in the case of a 1st descent. The screwing on of the front of the helmet and the feeling of being absolutely cut off from the outer air, as a rule is found to have a very trying effect on the tyro. He states that this is the 1st descent made by a lady on this coast.

Messrs McDonald & Wither are engaged in bldg the new wharf in the Whitty lagoon and have been for many yrs engaged in divers' work in and around this port.

Mrs Marks leaves tomorrow with her parents on a visit to the East. [ph/PC]

Jul 23, 1914, 12 - One of the most interesting of the many overseas visitors recently in London was Hon Simon Fraser, of Melbourne, who was until recently a senator for Victoria. He will celebrate his 82nd birthday next month.

Mr Fraser was born in Pictou, NS, and he began his active career as a schoolmaster. But the news of the great gold discoveries in CA, and Aus penetrated to the NS in 1850s and he determined to seek his fortune elsewhere.

'There was no indication in those days of the great development which was to take place in the Cdn W. Indeed, when I crossed the Rockies some 30 yrs ago there was still little sign of what Canada was to become.' Mr Fraser originally intended to go to CA, but the accounts of numerous murders which were committed there in the gold rush days so alarmed his mother that she persuaded him not to do so, and he turned to Aus instead. At the age of 21 he had saved enough to pay his fare, and he left Halifax in a bark of 310T, which was built at his native town of Pictou. At that time the wooden shipbuilding industry was still an important one in the Maritime Provinces.... PC

V/Died Aug 7, 1914 at Shawnigan Lake, BC, Colonel Henry C Rogers, a fine Canadian citizen, an ardent Imperialist, and one of the most widely known military men in the Dominion. He was resident Victoria for over 3 years. One of his last acts was to bid goodbye to a son who sailed on Empress of Russia to join his Regiment in India.

Rogers was born in Grafton, ON, Jul 16, 1839. When quite a young man he went to Peterborough... He had a very interesting military career. He 1st joined the Militia in 1885, in the Peterborough Rifle Co, and in 1886, as Lieut, was one of the force in the field at the time of the Fenian Raid.

After the raid, when the 57th Batt of Infantry was organized, he took the post of Capt of No 1 Co, which commission he held until 1872, when he retired with the rank of Maj. Then he organized C troop, 3rd Cdn Dragoons, of which troop he was Capt. He was Lt-Col and 2nd in command of 3rd Dragoons for 23 yrs, and in 1895 took command of the regiment, retiring in 1899, on reaching the age limit. He possessed Fenian raid and long service medals.

Upon his relinquishing the postmastership of Peterborough in 1909, Rogers removed to Victoria to join his children, his wife accompanying him. The latter predeceased him about 1 yr ago.... Died Aug, 1914 at Wilmer, BC, John McKay, 96, of Victoria, BC. One of the foremost pioneers of the W, with a host of warm friends, he passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs Lionel Peake.

Born at Cavendish, PEI, where he married Miss Johnson, of Long Rv, New London. For many yrs they kept a temperance hotel in Summerside, PEI, where their large family was educated.

In the early days of prairie settlement, Mr McKay removed to Brandon, MB, and was among the founders of that city.

Mr McKay and his sturdy sons decided to embark in business in the Columbia Valley, BC, crossing the mountains before the CPR was built. They established themselves not far from the present town of Athelmer, and the McKay ranch became well-known to every pioneer of E Kootenay.

Here there was a welcome for every stranger.

It was c 15 yrs since Mr/Mrs McKay retired from their farm, and came with their daughter, now Mrs Peake, to live in Victoria. Mr J L McKay was left in the old homestead, where he still resides.

In 1900, Mr/Mrs McKay suffered the great affliction of losing in the Islander disaster their daughter, Barbara, wife of Hon J Ross, Gov of Yukon, and her baby, with the daughter of their son, David McKay, then of Dawson.

During the term of Mr Ross' governorship, his motherless children lived with their grandparents, going to their father's home, in London, ON, when he became Senator. At the beginning of the summer, Mrs Peake persuaded her parents, who were growing very infirm, to visit her in Athelmer, where her husband, is in business. It was there that he died.

He was an upright, God-fearing man of a very benevolent disposition. He was very intelligent and well-informed, and to the last took an interest in the affairs of the world and the community... photo Aug 30, 7. Bldg/Died Aug 27, 1914 at Esquimalt, BC, James Muirhead, aged 78. A res/o Victoria for over 50 yrs, and one of the most prominent business men.

To all the old-timers of the city, the sash and door factory of Muirhead & Mann, on lower Store st, was one of the landmarks of the city, and for many yrs the firm was identified with nearly all the important bldg projects in the city and lower mainland.

Mr Muirhead, being of a retiring disposition, never sought public honors, but he enjoyed great popularity, for he was one of those rare souls who are privileged to make close friendships based upon the merits of unflinching sympathetic consideration for the feelings of others. Of a most jovial disposition, no gathering of his acquaintances was complete without the presence of James Muirhead.

He leaves a widow, 2 sons, John, and James, an acct in City Hall, 2 daughters, the Misses Agnes and Bertha Muirhead, both of whom live at the family home.

Deceased was long identified with Victoria's industrial interests as a mfg'r. He was n/o Sterlingshire, Sct [Nov 20, 1837] and was a desc/o an old and honored Scotch family, of which country his parents, John/Agnes [McClern] Muirhead, were also natives. In his youth the father went to Halifax, there learning the carpenter trade, and after spending some yrs in that city, he returned to Sct and the remainder of his life was spent there.

In 1857, deceased left Sct and located in ON, where he remained for 2 yrs, afterwards proceeding to NY, thence to New Orleans. For 2 yrs he was a res/o Peru. In 1862 he came to Victoria, this journey being due to the many thrilling stories he had heard concerning the Cariboo gold discoveries, but in place of going to the diggings he decided to embark in the lumber mfg business here. He built the penitentiary, New Westminster, among other large contracts.

In 1870 the firm of Muirhead & Mann was formed, and they embarked in the mfg of sashes, doors, and all kinds of woodwork for bldg purposes. James Mann died some 3 yrs ago. The firm established what became one of the most successful enterprises of the kind on the Coast, and each member amassed a competency. H 057 W 27

Marine/Sep 1, 1914 - Under the heading of 'An Old Sea Dog,' Mr R E Gosnell has written an appreciative article relative to the career of Capt J Christensen, who has for 50 yrs sailed the local coast and who is still healthy and well.

In the 'Fifty Yrs Ago Today' there appeared the following: 'From Liverpool - Norwegian bark Kong Casker arrived from Liverpool last evening. Capt Mullen is in charge of the vessel. She left Liverpool on Jan 14, making the passage in about 206 days, having experienced many calms.'

As a matter of fact there was a slight mistake in the name of the vessel. It was the Kong Oscar, which means, of course, King Oscar. On board that vessel as 'bosun' was an old-time BC man, Capt J Christensen, who has resided continuously here. Kong Oscar tied up at Dixon Campbell's wharf, now no more, and boatswain Christensen became Capt Christensen. He sailed for Capt Spring and was for a long time engaged in trading with the Indians along WCVI and BC. Incidentally, he was a pioneer in the sealing business, which later on assumed such large proportions and became one of the leading industries of Victoria.

In 1876 he became a pilot in BC waters and until 1889 acted in that capacity. When piloting was slack he mastered vessels, the old SS Beaver and Alexandria being among his charges. In 1889 he became Capt of tug Lorne and in 1891, when he was appointed a pilot for Nanaimo pilotage dist, he was succeeded on Lorne by his son, who was lost in Feb, 1894, all hands going down.

Capt Christensen feels a pardonable pride in having been for 50 yrs in continuous service on the BC coast, with every nook and corner of which he is familiar, and without serious accident or loss of ship, to have lived to his 74th yr to tell the tale. He is still an 'able-bodied' seaman, a worthy descendant of the Viking race, whose exploits centuries ago are embalmed in the hx of his native land.

Died suddenly Sep 3, 1914 at Victoria, BC, Mr A J C Galletly. One of the outstanding figures in the hx of development of BC, and particularly of his adopted city, Victoria, where he resided for 25 yrs, and enjoying a wide friendship based upon those sterling qualities of character which ennobled his whole career, his sudden death leaves a blank in the community.

The descendant of an old Scottish family, Mr Galletly was n/o Corfu, his father, late Col Galletly, being stationed there in command of a regiment of the line. He was aged 66.

On Col Galletly being transferred to Montreal, the family came to Canada, and at an early age, deceased became identified with the banking business, joining the Bank of Montreal, and holding important posts successively at Montreal, Brockville, Brantford, Pt Hope and Halifax.

He came to Victoria in 1889, and had practically made this city his home ever since. His career with the bank extended over a period of upwards of 50 yrs.

Mr Galletly was twice married, his 1st wife (nee Miss Surrier) and his only child, a daughter, Jessie, were numbered among the victims of Clallam disaster 10 yrs ago. Mrs Galletly, who survives him, was formerly Miss Cox, of Aus. [ph/Sep 4, 1, editorial, 4]. Marine/Died Aug, 1914 at Vancouver, BC, Capt Alexander McLean, more widely known as 'Sea Wolf' McLean. Deceased was found in the water in False Ck, having been there about 1 wk. Whether the well-known skipper met his death by foul play or by losing his balance in attempting to board a tug at the ft of Union st, is not known. He leaves a widow, who is in hospital in Victoria, and 1 daughter living in Vancouver.

The untoward end which has befallen him recalls once more one of the most remarkable seafaring men on the entire Pacific coast, and one of the most singular and adventurous careers.

Capt McLean was the original of Wolf Larsen, the principal character in Jack London's famous novel 'Sea Wolf,' though it is only fair to state that no one attributed to him all the brutal actions which the novelist made that strange skipper responsible for. He was a Canadian, n/o Sydney, NS, and, taking to the sea as a boy, he sailed the Atlantic for 9 yrs.

In 1879 he sailed from NY for the Pacific coast as 2nd mate of Santa Clara, and in 1880 he came to Victoria and went into the steamboat business, at one time commanding the historic Beaver. This was in 1884. He took the 1st vessel that ever went out of Victoria to the Bering Sea fisheries and earned much fame as a sealer. He mined in the Yukon and in 1881 superintended and materially assisted in laying the cable from VI to Point Grey. At that time he was chief officer aboard DGS Sir James Douglas.

V/Oct 2, 1914 - An interesting personality taking part last month in the Veterans parade before HRH Duke of Connaught at Toronto, was Capt G A McMicking, noted soldier and CE of that city, and b/o Alderman R B McMicking, of Victoria.

Capt McMicking is one of the few survivors of the guard of honor which attended the Duke in autumn of 1869, when HRH was visiting Toronto, and on this latter occasion was personally complimented by the Duke on his medals and record of service to the Empire. One distinction of which Capt McMicking is deservedly proud is that of being best Cdn shot up to the time of 1891...

In 1913 Capt McMicking was the author of the idea for the erection of the Centenary Peace bridge, commemorating 100 yrs' peace... The connection of the McMicking family with the district dates back to 1781, when the grandfather of the present generation began farming on the W side of the river, and got his patent from the crown. The old home has since then sheltered 3 generations.

Died Oct 30, 1914 at Victoria, BC, Mrs Caroline E B Purdy, 90. Less than 3 yrs ago made a journey into the Peace Rv country, which was so full of hardships that many younger in yrs would have had their strength tested to the utmost. The party went from Edmonton by train to Edson, the far most N point on the line, bound for the Peace Rv with the idea of pre-empting land. Thence they proceeded by wagon over to Wolf Ck, where 2 grandsons, who accompanied Mrs Purdy, built scows to carry the family and household effects as far along the course of the river as they could go. At the lower end of Lesser Slave Lk, leaving a little steamer which carried them across that waterway, they drove another 90 miles in wagons, and after another trip by boats on Peace Rv, they finally reached their destination, just 8 wks after leaving Edmonton.

Arriving in Jul, Mrs Purdy remained with her daughter and grandsons until the following Aug, when, with but one companion, she started the long return journey to Edmonton. It was nearly 1 yr after her return that she decided to come and see her daughter in Victoria [Mrs McPherson]. Remains to Emerson, MB for interment.

Died Nov 3, 1914 at Victoria, BC, Mrs Lucy Moffatt. Deceased, 2nd d/o late Capt McNeill, of HBC service, was personally known throughout BC, at various places in which she resided from time to time, to most of the early residents and to many who have since arrived in BC.

Deceased married Hamilton Moffatt at Victoria, who for yrs was a factor of HBC and later asst to the Indian Supt for BC some 60 yrs ago. Of a most kindly and gentle nature and one who never forgot a friendly word or deed, she had by her unostentatious manner, throughout a life of more than 80 yrs, endeared herself to the many with whom she had in that long period been associated. She is survived by 3 sisters, Mrs Jesse, Victoria, Mrs Baker, Savona, Mrs Jones, Kamloops.

Her life spanned almost the whole hx of VI. She was a little girl when Victoria was founded. With her father she lived in many of the HBC posts on the mainland, as well as in Ft Rupert. VL/Nov 12, 1914, 7 - Pte Minnis' diary on Canadians' voyage. Private Gerald Minnis, who is with 3rd Brigade, writes to his mother: 'We had a splendid trip, but very slow. It took us 18 days to get to Plymouth, where we are at the time of writing [October 14]. Some of the boats were very slow, not making more than 9 knots/hour, and we had all to stick together. It was a fine sight. There were 33 transports and 3 battleships, 4 cruisers, all in 3 straight lines. Perhaps I had better give you a sort of diary from the time we left Quebec until we arrived at Plymouth.

September 28 - we left Valcartier and arrived at Quebec by train and went straight onboard SS Andania.

September 29 - we pulled out from Quebec and anchored in the stream and remained at anchor all day on the 30th.

October 4 - Steaming along south shore of Newfoundland.

October 5 - Cold wind, and a sailor fell overboard from the Royal Edward, and was picked up by the Canada. We never heard how he got on, in fact, we got hardly any news at all. I was sick all day, missing all meals.

October 6 - weather a little better. Sick. Had all meals.

October 7 boat rolled terribly. Quite a lot sick; not as many as were expected.

October 8 sea as calm as a lake, but a heavy swell, causing boat to roll. Saw 2 or 3 small whales. A 3-funnelled cruiser passed us quite close. It proved to be a French one, escorting us over.

October 9 Breeze and swell. OIC announced grub running short. We happened to have a cargo of wheat onboard, so we had to start grinding it in a small coffee grinder. We worked day and night, each man doing an hour, and about the end of that time we were about all in, believe me! Then they said butter was running short, so they gave us bread and cheese. When dinner came they gave us some fish they must have been able to smell at Quebec. Nobody could eat it, so we sat at the table and refused to move until we got something to eat. Then the doctor came down and condemned it and we got a good feed of corned beef

October 11 - Breeze and rain. Only one parade and church service.

October 12 - we had sports in the afternoon. Large 3-funnelled cruiser joined us.

October 14 entered calm water about noon. Sighted land. Came to anchor outside Plymouth about 6pm. Destroyers all around us and a large fishing fleet just going out. Lovely weather, fairly warm.'

After observing that the food, generally, had been good, and that he was feeling in fine condition, Private Minnis gave an outline of the daily routine of the troops. 'There are 3 parades a day. Get up at 5am, breakfast at 6; physical drill at 9:15am, muster parade at 10; dinner at noon; physical drill again at 1:30pm, supper at 6, and then we are through for the day.

Died Nov 16, 1914 at Victoria, BC, Michael Costin Brown, aged 76, he played a prominent part in the development of BC, through his participation in the famous rush to the goldfields of Caribou. Mrs Brown survives, as well as 1 daughter, Mrs W A Robins, and 2 sons, Frederick and Austin.'For many yrs, subsequent to his career in the mines, Mr Brown was one of the best known figures in Victoria, he having, in partnership with late Patrick Murphy, conducted what was known as Adelphi Hotel, on crnr Yates/Government sts, adjoining which was 'Campbell's corner', where in the days when telegraphic wires were non-existent, all the news of the world used to be chronicled. Here would congregate everybody who wanted to know what was going on or wished to partake of the hospitality dispensed by the 2 jovial Irishmen. It is some 15 yrs since the death of Mr Murphy, who, previously had taken up his residence in San Francisco.

Tall and well proportioned, Mr Brown, in his younger days, would have been a striking figure in any assemblage, and possessed of all that abundant fund of humor and jovial disposition which characterize his countrymen, he was immensely popular wherever he went.

N/o Dungarvin, Co Waterford, Ire, he emigrated to US at an early age and was soon attracted to CA, and made the journey to San Francisco via Panama. On arrival he found the whole country in a state of excitement over the discoveries of gold in Cariboo, and he decided to throw in his lot with those coming N. It was in Mar, 1859, that he left there by steamer Brother Jonathan. The party with which he traveled, after reaching Victoria, decided to do some prospecting in the Similkameen and Okanagan countries, but they got little to reward them for their pains.

Proceeding to the Thompson Rv, Mr Brown's party fell in with late Mr J W Mackay and Judge Coxe, the latter also an Irishman, who was overjoyed to meet a fellow countryman. They joined forces, and on reaching Quesnel, their destination, they were in time to take advantage of the big strike on Antler ck, by dint of hard labor securing, at the end of the season an amount of gold dust which ran about $40,000 each, a neat fortune. Discovery claim, which Mr Brown owned, in company with another miner, was sold for $2,500 and very shortly afterwards he gave up mining and took up his residence in Victoria and entered into partnership with Mr Murphy.

On leaving Victoria some 15 yrs ago, on the outbreak of the Klondike excitement, Mr Brown, notwithstanding his advanced age, went into the Yukon country and for a time conducted hotels there, with success. Latterly he had come to take up his permanent residence in Victoria. Ph/Nov 17, 7. Pallbearers: Messrs R Porter, John Cochrane, C E Redfern, J T McIlmoyl, A Casanave, T P West. U 073 W 51

V/Died suddenly Dec 27, 1914 at Paso Robles, CA, John Stevens. He left Victoria 10 days ago for his health. He was one of the few remaining pioneers of Victoria's earliest days. He leaves a widow, 3 daughters: Mrs R Wilkinson, Mrs J Holms, Miss Josie Stevens, 1 son, Mr D Stevens, Portland, OR. N/o Kent Eng, aged 79. Deceased was s/o Phillip Stevens, of HM Revenue Service, Eng. As a youth he was apprenticed to the well known shipping firm of Messrs Green & Co. While in their service he was at Constantinople at the outbreak of the Crimean War, and had several interesting experiences. He left the Co when a lad at Cape Town, SA, and from there came to BC in the early 1850s. Sometimes he could be induced to recite thrilling tales about the Indians nr Ft Colville. He had several narrow escapes, as they were then on the warpath.

After a time he returned to the Coast and resumed his seafaring life as owner of schooners engaged in trading between Victoria, Puget Snd and Portland, OR. One vessel he captained himself and had no serious accident. When one remembers that the coast was not then lighted as now, this fact is a tribute to his skill as a navigator. He and one other were the only independent traders outside of HBC in those early days, and that company offered him a good position, but he preferred to remain in independent trade.

Finally he gave up the sea and bought considerable tracts of land nr Victoria, to which he added to from time to time, until he had about 1,000 ac. BC Electric RR now traverses a considerable portion of the property, the greater part of which, however, he had sold before the line was begun. He retired from active farming about 20 yrs ago, but continued to live in the Lake dist until some 8 yrs ago, when he took up his res in James Bay. VX/Jan 6, 1915, 1 - phs/Lt Ronald D Gillespie, 2nd Bn, Gordon Highlanders, aged 24, now in Fra; [Jan 9, 5 - reported MIA, believed to be POW; Sholto Gillespie, aged 22, enroute to Eng to join Gordon Highlanders, and Capt J Hebden Gillespie, F Co, 50th Highlanders... all s/o Mr/Mrs George Gillespie, a prominent Victoria pioneer family... There are 7 sons, and, while there are duties which at present bind the others to Victoria, there is not one but would be delighted to follow in their brothers' footsteps... Lt Ronald Gillespie volunteered, but after a short wait his patience broke down, and he paid his fare to Eng to place himself at his country's disposal. Sholto Gillespie stayed longer, but finally, he found the suspense too much for his spirit. Like his brother, he defrayed his transportation expenses and now is hastening to hdqts of Gordon Highlanders to see whether, with the experience gained in months of training, he cannot pass the rigorous tests, obtain a commission, and get to the scene of action... There was a large crowd of friends at the boat to give Sholto Gillespie a hearty sendoff. It was a repetition of the scene enacted 2 mos before, when Lt Ronald Gillespie left on the same mission. No 2 young Victorians are more widely known and more generally popular. For yrs their stalwart figures have been seen wearing the uniform of the Victoria representative rugby team. For just as long a period they have been found almost equally active in cricket.... Naturally, George Gillespie f/o the young volunteers, is exceedingly proud of the loyal response of his boys. The same applies to Mrs Gillespie...

RNV/Died Jan 21, 1915 at Saanichton, BC, John Furze. Deceased was one of the pioneers of the early 1860s, having rounded the Horn in one of HM warships. He was aged 84. Shady Ck cemetery - Pallbearers: Messrs W Richardson, A Patterson, W Braden, J Brethour, John Brethour, T Brethour.

Having come to Victoria in early 1860s deceased was one of the real old-timers... Sidney Review: Mr Furze came to this country on British ship of war Forward. He was a marine on that ship and came with her on her 1st visit to Esquimalt. He took part in the bombardment of the Indian villages on Kuper I following the massacre of whites at that place and evidently remained on the Forward's crew for some yrs after her arrival at the Pacific base.

'After he left the RN he lived at Craigflower for a while and worked for late Henry Cogan at that place. Later he worked at Burnside Farm with f/o William Veitch, of Sidney, who has a longer recollection of him than probably any man in Saanich. Mr Veitch was only a small boy when he first knew 'Jack'.

Mr Furze came to S Saanich with late Xavier Marcotte, who had the 1st threshing machine on the Island. Mr Furze used to work the tread power machine and accompanied it all the way from Sooke to the end of N Saanich. It was the custom to take about ½ of the grain in payment for the threshing. He was with Mr Marcotte for a few yrs and then went to work as a hand on various farms. He worked for William Thomson; Mr P Imrie; Mr S Sandover, and many others oldtimers. He worked also as porter for Mr H Simpson, 1st proprietor of Prairie Hotel... PC, Jan 30, 7.

Jan 24, 1915, 7 - phs/Dr/Mrs I W Powell celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary - text/phs. During their whole married life they have lived in Victoria, BC. He, n/o Simcoe, ON, b 1837. His ancestors emigrated from Wls to NY in 1610, and his grandfather was one of the devoted band of UEL who preferred to sacrifice his property to denying his flag. After attaining his medical degrees of MD, CM at McGill, in 1862, Dr Powell came by Panama to Victoria. Here he has practised medicine until his retirement into private life in 1906. From 1863 to 1866 he was mem/o Old Legislative Council and it was during those days that he married Miss Jennie Branks, d/o late Robert Branks, of Sct. He speaks of her as 'a wonderful woman and the better partner.' A close personal friend of Sir John A Macdonald, it is not surprising that Dr Powell should have been a sturdy, supporter of Confederation, and it is a tribute to his modesty that after the union of BC and Colony in 1871 he declined the offered reward of a senatorship. However, he was persuaded to become the 1st Indian Commissioner in 1872, which office he held with honor and sometimes with personal risk, for 19 yrs. In 1884 he purchased the townsite of Granville. He had 2 partners in the adventure, Maj Dupont and David Oppenheimer, the latter, a one-time popular Mayor of Vancouver. It was through the persuasion of these 3 men that CPR decided to change its Pacific terminal from Pt Moody, to what is now Vancouver.

Mrs Powell has not only been a wonderful wife and mother, she has also been active in all phases of social life in Victoria. She was one of the founders of Alexandra Club. In common with her husband, she conveys an impression of old-world courtesy and grace that gives such charm to age.

The marriage has been blessed with 9 children, 4 daughters, 5 sons. Mrs Langworthy, Mrs Bridgewater, Mrs David Doig and Robert B Powell are all in Victoria. Mrs Fordham and George live in Vancouver, Bertram farms in Cowichan and Ernest is a barrister in Eng. Jan 26, 3.

Title/Died Feb 1, 1915 at Victoria, BC, Archibald Dods, aged 75, n/o Kinghorn, Sct. He was a boy of 10 when his parents went to Aus, where he grew up. He was still a young man when the news of the great gold discoveries in BC led him to take the long sea voyage to Victoria. He arrived at the time of the Cariboo excitement in 1862, and was soon on his way to the N goldfields. Like many others, he failed to gain the treasure he sought, but, eager and adventurous, he visited E Kootenay, hoping that the Columbia would prove richer than the Fraser.

On his return to Victoria Mr Dods married Miss Williams, and in the then new dist of Cowichan, took up the farm now owned by Mr F Maitland-Dougall. The life he led there was one full of the hardships and difficulties of pioneering in a new and very sparsely settled country, very different from the rich and prosperous dist it has since become.

In his Aus home, Mr Dods had received a good education, which had been greatly improved by travel and study. As settlement increased and the demand for teachers grew, he turned his attention to the opening which the good salary offered by Dept of Education afforded. He easily passed the examinations and took a school in Maple Bay, later finding better situations in Esquimalt and Victoria, where he taught in the boys' school for some yrs.

Still ambitious, Mr Dods sought in the Hawaiian Islands a new opening. There he took a position in a large industrial school, and soon became prominent in the life of Honolulu. He was friendly with the unfortunate Qn Liliuokalani, and to the last retained a souvenir autograph of her. He visited the Samoan and Fiji Islands, but returned to Victoria and VI, which he declared surpassed all countries. No one ever thought him an old man, for his interest in all that went on in the world, his fondness for music, and his warm sympathy for youth and all forms of innocent enjoyment, kept him young. His stories of his travels and experiences formed a fund of entertainment for all who knew him. He loved a game of chess, and was, when in town, a regular visitor to the city library. Genial, intelligent, and high-minded, Mr Dods was a splendid type of the Victoria pioneer. He is survived by 2 daughters, Mrs T E Wood, Victoria, and Mrs F E Bellmaine, Aus, also 5 sons: H T Dods, Otter Point; A J, W A and A W of Victoria, R G of Honolulu. Also 2 brothers: John Dods, Lavuka, Fiji, and Hon Mark Dods, Aus. [Ph/Feb 3, 7] Pallbearers: Messrs Kelly, W A Robertson, Munro Miller, R Lettice, R T Williams, A C Kennedy. U 078 E H

town when 40 yrs ago Mr W Watson came here with his young wife and her 2 little children from Marysville, KS.
On Jan 26 the couple celebrated their 50th anniversary in the comfortable house they have lived almost ever since Mr Watson built his 1st home in the woods which then covered Victoria W and Rock Bay.

...Mr Watson was an employee of Albion Iron Works for 27 yrs, but most of his fellow workmen are gone now.

Married in Rockford, IL [nee Miss Melinda Travelute], not long after the young couple, with Mrs Watson's parents, trekked in a covered wagon to Marysville, KS. No journey she has ever taken was so enjoyable as this, Mrs Watson said. Not even the dread of the Indians, against whom they were forced to make a barricade each night, robbed the nights spent under the sky spent in the sweet air of their delight.

In 10 yrs, however, the fame of the pretty seaside town brought by a sister to the KS town drew the Watson's to Victoria. This time they came to the coast by Southern Pacific RR, but Mr Watson still jokes about the slow progress they made.
From there the journey N was made on SS Pacific, her last trip, for she was wrecked on her return journey.

Two of their 14 grandchildren have enlisted. One of these is in QC and the other at Willows in 88th Fusiliers. It is with mingled pride and regret that their grandmother showed the picture of the 2 lads...

Feb 14, 1915, 5 - photo Tomorrow William Cook will reach the great age of 97. Considering his yrs, he is still hale and active and in possession of all his faculties.

He was born in 1818 on the N shores of Lk Champlain, but his earliest recollections are of Montreal, where he went as a little boy. Like many men in Montreal in those days, young Cook joined HBC in 1847, and served for a time at Ft Athabasca. Disliking the extreme cold, he determined to seek the Pacific coast, and came, via Norway House and Edmonton, to Ft Victoria, then in charge of Mr Finlayson.

The Indians were then on both sides of the Arm, and there were farms where James Bay is and up Fort st. When his time was up, Cook hired with the company as a farmer at N Dairy farm. Marine/WmHx/Died Feb 18, 1915 at Victoria, BC, Capt Thomas Bebbington. For 20 yrs Capt Bebbington was one of the pilots acting under the Victoria & Esquimalt Pilotage Brd, and it was in the capacity of pilot that he was more popularly known.

Deceased had been a res/o Victoria for 29 yrs. N/o Liverpool, Eng, b Aug 12, 1846, he was hardly in his teens when he evinced a liking for the seafaring life. At age 28 he possessed his Master's certificate, it being 1874 then he secured his 1st command, bark Inca. After being with this vessel for 4 yrs he was transferred to Comadre. It was during this period that he gained the reputation of being a most skillful sailing-ship master. At various periods of his long sea career late Capt sailed and commanded some of the most famous clipper ships, which for many yrs were well to the fore in ocean commerce.

From 1880 to 1885, when Capt Bebbington decided to give up the sea, Mrs Bebbington sailed the high seas with her husband, plying in the wool trade between Aus and UK.

It was following his arrival in Portland, OR, in 1885, when they decided to settle in BC, and after taking his ship home he resigned the command. They arrived in Victoria in Oct, 1886, and in 1888 he received the appt as pilot for Dist of Vancouver and Fraser Rv.

Owing to Mrs Bebbington's preference for Victoria, he secured a transfer to V&E pilotage, and acted in the capacity of pilot here until 1908, when he was superannuated.

Deceased is survived by his widow, 2 married daughters, Mrs Hastings, Victoria and Mrs Elizabeth Cheshire, and 3 brothers. One of the brothers, George, resides at Victoria. Pallbearers: Capts M Cutler, E Kelly, J Gosse, W Whiteley, W Owens, J C Foote. P 091 E G [I?]

Died Feb 25, 1915 at Victoria, BC, Dr Israel Wood Powell. Deceased had a distinguished career, and had been very closely associated with BC since his arrival in Victoria in 1862. He was n/o Simcoe, ON, b 1837. His ancestors emigrated from WIs to NY in 1640, and his grandfather was one of the devoted band of UEL, who preferred sacrificing his property to denying his flag. After attaining his medical degree of MD, CM, at McGill Univ, in 1862, he came by Panama to Victoria, and he practiced medicine here until his retirement in 1905.

His medical practice being fairly well established by 1865, he began to take a personal interest in the public affairs of the country. In that yr he became an MLA. One of the 1st things he did was to draft and present a bill providing for the establishment of public schools. The bill was carried and Dr became the 1st pres of the Brd of Education. His interest in educational matters never failed. He was also one of the 1st to realize that the separate colonies of VI and BC should be united.... PC [Ph/Feb 26, 1]

Over 50 yrs ago he was married to Miss Jennie Branks, who survives him. Funeral - Mar 2, 7. Masons took charge of the ceremony when the service at the church was concluded. At the graveside, the Grand Master, accompanied by the deacons, performed the ritual with masked wands. The jewelled apron gave place to the lambskin apron, and, after the reading of the burial order and the dropping of the sprig of acacia on the grave, the ceremony came to a close. RNV/Died Feb 26, 1915 at Victoria, BC, James Ure, aged 75, res/o this city for over 50 yrs. He aided bywords and actions to develop Victoria from a mere village into a flourishing city, and also made a very wide circle of acquaintances.

As mgr of C Morley Soda

Water Mfg Co, he filled his position most capably during the 30 yrs which he spent at his post, and in that time he gained for himself and his firm an enviable reputation and distinction in the business world of Victoria. His untiring efforts as hd of the company came to an end in 1913, when he retired. He was n/o Edinburgh, Sct, b 1840, eldest s/o late Mr C D Ure, who was, in his day, a surgeon of considerable eminence.

It was as 3rd officer of ship Success that Mr Ure 1st came here. That was in 1862, and so impressed was he with Victoria that he left his ship and went into business at Ft Victoria. Ever since these early days he has been a res. As a Scot, he soon adapted himself to the prevalent conditions of the country, and was enabled to watch the growth of the colony. V/WmHx/Mar 7, 1915, 6 - Miss Kathleen Dunsmuir, ch/o

Hon James Dunsmuir, is now at the front, not far from the firing line, as she is attached to the Army Service Corps.

Miss Dunsmuir left shortly after the outbreak of war for Eng, where she was resolved to do something that would benefit the soldiers on active service. She obtained from Gen Bruce Williams permission to be met at Havre by a special guard with a motor kitchen, which she at first intended to operate between the firing line and Havre, the latter place to be used as a base. She is operating this at her own expense, and it will probably cost her $200/wk, an expenditure which friends in Eng and Canada will endeavor to defray by subscriptions. The cost of fitting out the motor kitchen was met by Miss Dunsmuir herself.

The soup kitchen is the 1st one to be sent from Eng to the Continent to supplement those being used by the French govt, and Miss Dunsmuir is to be especially congratulated upon the way in which her arrangements were made in starting the project which is supplying food and comfort to probably over 1,000 soldiers daily.

The machine that is being used is fitted out with boilers capable of supplying 200 pints of hot soup per hr.

Those assisting Miss Dunsmuir are Mrs Scott and Miss Scott, of London. Raymond Scott, s/o Mrs Scott, formerly lived in Vancouver, but is now at the front. [w/ph]. Apr 22, 5 - Miss Kathleen Dunsmuir writes an interesting

WmHx/Died Mar 6, 1915 at Victoria, BC, Mrs Mary [Adam] Watson, a pioneer of Victoria who had made this city her home for 55 yrs, rlct/o late Adam Watson.

Deceased was mem/o the passenger list of SS Panama when in 1860 it made its historic trip to Victoria, bringing so many who subsequently made this city their home.

She was n/o Bel-Na-Hule, Argyllshire, Sct, aged 84. In 1848 she accompanied her husband W, sailing for NY from Greenock, Sct. After a short res/o 3 yrs in E US, Mr

Watson was attracted to CA at the time of the gold rush. Shortly after he had established himself on the Pacific coast he was followed by Mrs Watson. Her trip W was a memorable one. Accompanied by a small party, including 9 ladies, the journey to Colon at the Atlantic side of Panama Isthmus, was made by steamer, and upon arrival at that point the passage across the Isthmus was accomplished on mule back. On this trip Mrs Watson carried all her worldly possessions, one of which, an old iron pot, she retained as a memento of the past until her last days.

In 1858 a great many miners of CA and elsewhere were drawn N by the discovery of gold in the Cariboo. Mr Watson was one of the 1st to leave, his wife remaining behind until more definite knowledge of the possibilities could be ascertained. A short time afterward, Mr Watson returned to Victoria from Cariboo, and established a foundry. In 1860 he was joined by Mrs Watson, who made the N trip by SS Panama.

For some time the foundry was operated, being one of the 1st on the Pacific Coast. Mr/Mrs Watson lived on Store st at 1st, from where they removed to Langley st. In 1864 the family resided on Johnson st, where they remained until 1885. From here they moved to 1055 Foul Bay rd, which has been the home ever since.

In 1880 Mr Watson died. He died after a stay of 3 yrs in the Cariboo. Deceased lady leaves 4 children, 3 daughters, Mrs Mary Nason, Mrs Elizabeth Bowron, and Miss Margaret

Watson, 1 son, Mr W H Watson. [Ph/Mar 7, 7]. F 037 E 19

WmHx/Bldg/Mar 10, 1915, 7 - photo, 50 yrs ago today Mrs H K Andrews, then a girl of 11, arrived in Victoria. She has made her home here ever since, only leaving it for occasional short trips to N parts of BC.

It was in 1860 that her parents, Mr/Mrs Richard Woods, emigrated from Co King [Kerry?], Ire, bringing with them their 2 eldest daughters and their only son. Being uncertain of their future movements, they left in Ire 2 of their girls, of whom Mrs Andrews was one, the other being Miss Emily, who has also lived in the city for just 50 yrs. Mr Woods obtained a position as registrar of Supreme Court and made his home just nr where the Cameron Lumber mill now stands at ft of Garbally rd. The old homestead of about 12 ac has now been cut up into lots, some of which are occupied by the lumber mill, and the house is used as a dept of the mill. The name 'Garbally' was given by Mr Woods in memory of his native land; it is the Irish for 'the village on the hill.'

When the parents had made up their minds that they liked the country they decided to bring out their other 2 daughters, and Bishop Hills, who had just been married in Eng, was asked to chaperone them. They came by way of Panama, a large party of them, as the Bishop, besides his bride, was accompanied by several servants. After a journey of nearly 8 wks they landed in Esquimalt on Mar 10, 1865. There was 9 or 10" of snow on the ground. The children did not recognize their father in gum boots and miner's hat, telling the bishop that that man was not their father.

The family lived for many yrs on Garbally rd. The property was divided amongst the children on the death of the parents and has gradually passed into other hands. The 5 children are all living, and in some part of BC. Emily and Lily have never married and live together nr the Willows; Edward is ranching at Grand Prairie. The remaining sister, Mrs Tomlinson, married a missionary at 17 and, till his death a couple of yrs ago spent her life helping him in his work in the Naas and Skeena dists. She now lives in Victoria.

In 1882 Mrs Andrews married an accountant in HBC. He died in 1894, just 2 months before their youngest child was born, leaving his widow with the hard task of bringing up and providing for 5 young children. All the children are living today, Patrick, at Calgary; Richard, Kathleen, Winnifred and Emilene at Victoria.

USV/Died Mar, 1915 at New Westminster, BC, Peter Cogley, 90, n/o Ireland, and served for some time in the British army. He came to Victoria in 1858, and later engaged in mining in the Cariboo district [1861], afterwards locating in New Westminster, where he took up his permanent residence. He was member of the famous Custer's regiment in US, and narrowly escaped being in the thick of Custer's last fight by breaking an ankle 2 weeks before the massacre. Cogley fought through the whole of the Indian wars in the western states and was personally acquainted with a great many Indian fighters, including Buffalo Bill. It was during these wars that he received a bullet wound in the chest, which troubled him to the day of his death. Shortly after his arrival in Victoria in 1858, the Indians in BC became very troublesome, and the very 1st venture which he undertook after arrival was to join a posse of volunteers from this city, which went up to Bute Inlet following the massacre of whites at that point. There he attended the wounded and fought the Indians, returning to Victoria in time to get in with the 1st men on the great Fraser River rush to Cariboo in 1861.

WmHx/Died Mar 13, 1915 at Victoria, BC, Mary Johnstone, r/c/o late John McKay, aged 79, n/o Long Rv, PEI. Two daughters: Mrs L J Peake, Mrs Pierson survive, as well as 2 sons, W D and J L McKay. Her father was David Johnstone, a prosperous miller and farmer. After her marriage she went to live at Kildare, coming afterwards to Summerside, where many yrs were spent, and where the family was well known. When the prairie country promised riches to the pioneer, Mr

McKay took a homestead on present site of Brandon, but later removed to Moose Jaw. Mrs McKay gained much influence among her dangerous neighbours by her fearlessness, even the dreaded Sioux standing in awe of the brave white woman. Crop failures and the lure of the W caused the adventurous family to cross the mtns into the Columbia Valley. Here they took a ranch in Windermere Valley, where Mrs McKay was the 1st white woman to make her home. The McKay ranch was a stopping place for many travellers and tourists who visited the valley, and there was scarcely a res from Golden to Cranbrook, who had not enjoyed Mrs McKay's hospitality, and many were the favors received from her by lonely, homesick wayfarers. Feeling that the time had come for a less strenuous life they came with their daughter to Victoria in 1899. Soon after, they were called upon to bear a terrible sorrow in the death of their daughter, Mrs Ross, wife of commissioner of Yukon, now Senator Ross, and her baby, with another grandchild, a beautiful young girl, only d/o David McKay, in the wreck of Islander. This loss, as well as the death of her son, Mr C McKay, was borne with great fortitude... Pallbearers: Messrs J L T Meyers, F Bray, W Lawson, H W E Canavan, Alfred Hood, Alderman McMicking. V/Title/Mar 21, 1915 - Henry Seton Tower Henderson, who died Jan 26, 1915 at ?, was a res at Victoria for many yrs. He was 2nd surviving s/o late James Henderson, MICE, of Dalvenie, Truro, Cornwall, Eng, grand s/o late Col George Henderson, RE, of Southampton - a Peninsular veteran - and gt-grand s/o Capt William Henderson, of Newton Co, Aberdeen, by his marriage with one of the co-heiress of Seton of Mourrie.

Mr Henderson studied engineering with his father, and subsequently went to the Danish W Indies, where he was employed on the family estates until they were sold in 1885. He afterwards went to San Francisco, and from there to Victoria, where he remained until his death, except for 2 short visits to Eng. He was a man of most kindly and generous disposition, but very retiring. He had 3 brothers, all officers in the army, and most of his male relations served either in the navy, army or Indian civil service. M 049 W G

Mar 21, 1915, 7 - photo Anniversary of the arrival of 1st settlers on VI Mar 17, 1860 was celebrated last wk. Out of the 80 emigrants there are but 3 surviving, all of whom have been closely associated with this city since their arrival.

Walter Sims, one of the 3 survivors, is close to 83. He has been married for nearly 66 yrs, his wife coming out from Eng in 1863. She has, unfortunately been an invalid for 18 mos, and he himself finds that rheumatism prevents his absolute freedom, but they are both mentally alert, and can easily recall dates and events in their long lives.

Coming out to this country on a 5-yr contract with HBC, Mr Sims 1st of all started farming for the company. Then there were rumors of gold in Qn Charlotte I, and in 1852 the company fitted out brig Recovery, with Capt Mitchell as its commander, to go on an exploration trip to the Islands. The crew, of which Mr Sims was a member, were to share in the profits after the expenses had been paid, but, as it turned out, there was very little profit. Recovery sprung a leak and had to obtain services of HMS Thetis for the repairs.

With 2 associates Mr Sims next leased the James Bay dist, 800 ac, from HBC for farming purposes. He named the land the Beckley Farm, and that is the legal description of property in James Bay to this day. The name was given after a farm in Kent, Eng. HBC leased the land to them for 50 cents/ac/yr and also stocked it, on the understanding that at the expiration of the lease stock of like age and breed must be returned with the farm. HBC agreed to buy all the wheat the farmers produced at $3/bu, which puts present war prices in the shade.

In 1860 HBC started subdividing Beckley Farm and Mr Sims went into other lines of work, till he obtained employment with the city, for whom he worked for nearly 40 yrs. For over 30 yrs he was associated with the waterworks dept.

Jack was so well known here and so popular that the news of his death has caused widespread grief. Mr Milligan left here in Jan with Sholto Gillespie.

He was a BCLS, aged 28, n/o Victoria, BC. He had just completed survey work for the season in the N interior [Francois Lk], after which he left for Eng for active service, and became attached to the same company as his brother. Pte Milligan was a mem/o 5th Reg for 4 yrs. In his keenness to see service for his country he paid his own expenses to Eng to volunteer.

Mr G H Dawson, Surveyor-Gen, is specially well qualified to speak of Milligan's sterling qualities... Milligan was anxious to get a place w/1st Contingent so as to be with his friends. Knowing him to be an excellent man, late Lt-Col Hart McHarg interested himself in the matter and succeeded in getting him on. [photo]; Jul 10, 4 - Mr Milligan received news that his son Jack, was unofficially reported as POW at Lager #1, Munster, Westphalia. Pte Mulligan was reported as KIA, then MIA. Mr Milligan has also received word that his son, Alec, who was WIA some months ago, underwent no less than 3 operations. He has now returned to the firing line, and has been offered a commission.

Honorary pallbearers: His Honour Lieut-Governor, Colonel the Honourable E G Prior, Honourable Edgar Dewdney, Honourable D M Eberts, Messrs J A Mara, Frank Little, Fitzherbert Bullen, P R Brown, Lindley Crease, Richard Jones. Mar 30 - letter to editor by E G Prior - May 1, as one who has known late John Bryden intimately for very many years, be allowed space to say a few words in regard to him. It is now a little over 41 years since I 1st saw John Bryden, when he met me early one winter morning as I landed in Nanaimo, a young man straight out from Eng, to take up my position of mining engineer and surveyor under him, he then being joint mgr of Nanaimo Collieries with Mark Bate.

Well do I remember my 1st impressions of him as he cordially welcomed me. Standing well over 6', straight as an arrow, w/magnificent chest and shoulders, hair and closely cropped beard as black as a raven, and w/eyes of piercing brightness but kindly withal, I thought here indeed is, and he was, a born leader of strong men. For 5 yrs and more I was with him every day underground in the mines and around the works, and the longer I knew him the more I came to see what a splendid character he was.

Utterly fearless where duty called, he never asked a man to go where he would not himself lead, and no one who has not lived underground in a colliery can have an conception of the daily risks to life and limb that such a life entails. He was an efficient, just and kind manager and held the respect and esteem of every man working under him... From the day I left Nanaimo, and he went to manage the Wellington Collieries for his f-i-l, Hon Robert Dunsmuir, to the day of his death it was my privilege to be counted as one of his friends, and I always found that advancing yrs only mellowed his good qualities... SV/Died Mar 29, 1915 at

McLellan, aged 58, n/o
London, Eng, an army veteran and pensioner, found dead in bed at Panama Hotel.
Deceased, who was popularly known as 'Jerry,' had been living in the city for 7 or 8 yrs, aged 52, n/o Ire [?], and had spent 25 yrs in the army. He had fought under the British flag in no less than 3 continents. He was in the Garrison Artillery, and 1st saw active service in Egypt in the Sudan War under Sir Gerald Graham in 1882. In that yr a force of 11,000 British soldiers was defeated and almost annihilated by the Dervishes, which resulted in the decision of Gt Britain to withdraw the garrisons from Egypt. Gen Gordon was sent to effect this, only to meet his death at Khartoum. McLellan fought throughout the campaign, and it is understood that he was one of the relieving force that arrived at Khartoum 2 days after the death of Gordon.

For a # of yrs McLellan was on duty in India, and took part in many of the small campaigns for punitive purposes that were so frequent in that country 20 yrs ago on account of the dislike of the hillmen to authority. In the last Boer War, 1899 to 1902, deceased served throughout the whole campaign. He was under Gen Sir Redvers Buller in Natal, and after Lord Roberts assumed command, fought in the battle of Modder Rv and later in the battle of Paardeberg, which resulted in the surrender of Cronje.

His service to the empire could be seen by the wounds on McLellan's body, which was covered with scars. It is possible that last honors may be paid to him in the shape of a military funeral. In view of the services deceased had seen in British army, certain military honors were paid to him.
Delegations of Campaigners' Assn and veterans' Assn attended. A gun carriage with 6 horses drew the body to Ross Bay cemetery, and the coffin was draped with a Union Jack.
Pallbearers: Charles Lamont,
William Johnson, John Eva, W
Swan, F Kerby, W Donmont.
There was no firing party, but the Last Post was sounded by a

He leaves a widow and 3 daughters.

N/o London, Eng, b Jan 5, 1855, educated at Tunbridge. He came to Canada while a young man, and for a short period after his arrival was employed in the civil service at Ottawa. He had had military experience in Eng as a Lt in the London Rifle Volunteers, and after his arrival in Canada he joined the Cdn permanent force as Lt in 1883, promoted to his captaincy in 1888, Maj 1895, Lt-Col 1889, Col 1910. He served in the NW Rebellion in 1885 and was present at the relief of Battleford, at the action of Cut Knife Hill and took part in the operations against Chief Big Bear's band. He gained the Rebellion medal with clasp. He formed one of Qn Victoria's escort at the opening of the Imperial Institute, London, Eng, in 1893. In 1909 he commanded the troops sent to protect life and property during the Cape Breton mining strike, his excellent service on that occasion being highly commended. He was successively commandant at St John's, QC, Fredericton, NB, Halifax, NS and Victoria. Shortly after the outbreak of the war he was appointed military censor. He was married Apr 18, 1882, to the eldest d/o late Sen James Skead, Ottawa. Ph/Apr 3, 2. Owing to the fact that late Col Wadmore was, at one time, dist commanding officer, the rites were invested with full military honors. Apr 11, 1915, 7 Ph/A very interesting old couple is to be found in Mr/Mrs Edmund Williams, who arrived here by SS Norman Morison, Jan 16, 1853. Today is the 91st birthday of Mr Williams, but his wife [Amelia Rebecca] runs him a good 2nd as she will be the same age May 17. Apart from deafness, they are both in good health and surprisingly active. Mrs Williams does her housework and does it well, to judge by the state of her home, while her husband does such chores as chopping wood, though he admits it makes him a little short of breath.

Both are n/o Eng, they were married shortly before coming out here on a 5-yr contract with HBC, in common with many other pioneers of Victoria. Norman Morison, travelling by Cape Horn, took 6 mos to the day to make the trip. When their service was completed, the company presented them with 25 ac of land at Cadboro Bay, which they farmed for a time before selling out to buy another farm at Royal Oak. For the past 27 yrs they have been living at their present address. Mr Williams has been employed in a # of different spheres, working for some time in Gowen's brewery, which was situated at the crnr Yates/Blanshard sts.

Not only have they accumulated sufficient means to own their own home and to insure a comfortable old-age, but they have been successful in bringing up a large family of 10, the following are still living: Mrs Morley, Mrs Moore, Alfred Williams, all in Victoria; Mrs Richards, Salmon Arm, Thomas Williams, Nicola. [H 085 E 22]

VL/News/May 1, 1915 - #77645: Pte John Sanderson Dee, 25, 30th Battalion, cables father William Dee, of Dominion Telegraph service, that he was leaving for France immediately. This news apparently indicates that the force did not leave its base at Shorncliffe as a body after the recent engagement in which Canadians figured prominently. VL/Jun 24, 7 - 'the poor Canadian in the next bed had his leg off, and it was at 1st feared that John would also, but the X-ray found the trouble and all is going well. The hospital is really the university and they have fully equipped it for the comfort and convenience of the patients... It might have been so much worse, as one poor fellow lost both eyes, a leg and an arm, and he was quite cheerful... V/News/Jun 3, 5 - photo, Lance/Cpl John Sanderson Dee, 16th Battalion, WIA, has been transferred from 30th Battalion. Enlisted in 50th Gordon Highlanders, November 9, 1914, Victoria. N/o Victoria, eldest s/o William Dee, district superintendent of Dominion Telegraph Co. Educated here, graduating from high school, where he served 2 years in the cadets. He then continued with McGill work, and completed the 2nd year in arts under private tuition. For some time he was on the circulation dept of Victoria Daily Times, nephew of managing editor, Robert Dunn. After leaving the paper, he joined the Canadian Northern engineering staff. VL/Jun 8 - "In a charge on a German trench I tried to stop a German bullet, instead it stopped me. This is the manner in which L/Cpl John S Dee, a s/o William & Anne M Sanderson Dee, describes the manner in which he was WIA. He is now at Red Cross hospital at Boulogne, France, where, he says, he is being splendidly treated. He writes his family under date May 23. He states that his mischance was the culminating feature, from his viewpoint, of a week's trying trench work. In place of gruelling shell and infantry fire to which he and all the other Canadians had been subjected the comfort and the attention received in hospital was a satisfying rest. Compared to meals of the trenches, those we get here are swell.' In spite of the attractiveness of his present quarters he is looking forward to an early recovery. He says that he cannot give any information as to his 'chums,' who are a # of well known Victorians, because he knows nothing of what happened to them after he was hit. As none of their names has appeared in the casualty lists they, no doubt, escaped unscathed at the time he fell. VL/Sep 28, 5 - L/Cpl John S Dee, who left Victoria with 30th Batt and is now in Eng recovering from wounds, says he was able to locate 3 or 4 of his chums who were WIA at Festubert at the same time he was hit... WmHx/Died May 5, 1915 at Victoria, BC, Mrs Catherine Williams, aged 80. Having come here 60 yrs ago she had seen the community grow from a small HBC post. She was resident during the Cariboo gold excitement and all the other events which are identified with the hx of the community. At one time a somewhat prominent figure in the social life of Victoria, she had many friends among the old-timers.

N/o Cornwall, Eng, and emigrated to IL, USA with her parents when a young girl. In 1852 she married Frederick Williams in NY, and after a short time they went to CA. After residing there for a yr or so Mr Williams was attracted to VI. They arrived in Victoria c 1855, and shortly after Mr Williams established a club for the naval forces at Esquimalt. That stn at the time was an important RN base and there always were a few ships of 1st class type in port.

Mr Williams took a keen interest in the affairs of his adopted country, representing the Esquimalt constituency in BC legislature from 1876 to 1882. In 1878 he succeeded late Dr Trimble as Speaker of House, which position he occupied throughout the 2nd administration of late Hon Walkem and that of Hon Beaven. He died 15 yrs ago and since then his widow lived in Victoria. A Stewart, Mayor. May 11, 2 - Ad - In view of the recent demonstrations of violence, we wish to inform the public that this business is, and has for several yrs been owned and operated entirely by British capital. Our local record in public matters and upon all questions of loyalty, should make unnecessary any public statement upon the subject, but to emphasize the position, we would point out that Mr W P Geoghegan, of Dublin, Ire - our chief shareholder - is at present time providing accommodation, medical and nursing attention for wounded British soldiers entirely at his own expense, and letters received from him at recent dates contain expressions of the most earnest loyalty and desires for the success of the just cause of the Allies. VX/May 15, 1915, 1 - Pte John Lavender, WIA, b/o Pte Bert Lavender. He enlisted for active service in E Canada and left Salisbury Plain with 1st Battalion, 1st Brigade. Aged 18, was a chauffeur by occupation.

Family sent 5 members to the Front [photos of all] - Mr T Lavender, is proud of the fact that his 5 sons have shown themselves ready to do their duty. The sad news of the death of Pte Bert Lavender marks the passing of the eldest of the brothers. He was in the firing line for several weeks and the deafening roar of the artillery rendered him deaf. Deprived of his hearing, he was taken to a place supposed to be one of safety, the village post office. The Germans advanced and the last heard of him was when he wrote, saying that the shells were bursting on all sides. The building probably collapsed while he was inside it, but the details of how he met his death have not yet been received. He died just 10 years after the day upon which he 1st set foot on Canadian soil.

Pte John Lavender, the 2nd son, has also been in the thickest fighting. As a member of 1st Battalion, 1st Brigade, he was with company of 120 men detailed to drive a detachment of Germans out of their trenches. Only 60 returned, among them being John, who was WIA. May 20 - admitted to London hospital at Whitechapel. Suffered from sprained back caused by shrapnel explosion.

Harry, the 3rd son, leaves with the next Canadian contingent and is now in training. William and Sylvanus are both with 48th Battalion at the Willows, and both are looking forward to the day when they get into action.

Died May 14, 1915 at Vancouver, BC, Walter Moberly, one of BC's most prominent pioneers. He had done more probably, than any other man to explore BC and blaze the trail for succeeding generations. He was one of the pioneers who were attracted to this coast by the Cariboo gold discoveries, and who joined in the great rush in 1857/58. Moberly's great work was done in locating the route of the Pacific railway between 1871 and 1878, during which time some 47,000 miles of route were surveyed, a difficult work, which cost the lives of 38 prospecting engineers. Moberly had charge of the section between Great Shuswap Lake and House and Eagle Passes. It was in Sep, 1872, that he reached the Yellowhead Pass and discovered the source of the Fraser River. It was on this trip that he collected data which eventually led to the selection of the Kicking Horse Pass as the route for the trans-mountain line of CPR in preference to the Yellowhead Pass.

N/o Oxfordshire, England, born Aug, 1832, s/o a retired Captain of RN, who on his retirement was awarded a grant of land in Simcoe County, Ontario. His mother, member of a Polish family, where his father had been temporarily stationed. Walter was 10 when his parents migrated to Canada and purchased a home on the old military reserve of Penetanguishene, where many military and naval officers had settled...

He sailed from NY for Victoria via the Horn, arriving at Victoria in 1858. For some time he remained at the diggings, but his stay there resulted in little profit. He settled at Vancouver long before there was anything there but a mere settlement... May 20, 5 - Given Public funeral...; Jul 2, 6 - Memorial proposed...

V/May 23, 1915 - Sir - I am a native son, having been born in Victoria in 1886, and am a Canadian citizen. My wife was born in London, Eng, of British parents. My father and mother were both born in Uesslingen, Canton Thurgan, Switzerland, and as far back as can be traced their ancestors were natives of Swz.

After serving his time in the Swz army, my father came to Victoria in 1882, followed 2 years later by my mother, and both have resided in Victoria since that time.

We have no German connections or sympathies, and I trust you will find the space for this correction of a great injustice done to a loyal Canadian citizen. J H Hasenfratz.

Died Jun 17, 1915 at Victoria, BC, Margaret, beloved wife of William Rockett, n/o Caithness, Sct, aged 64. She had been a res/o this city for 40 yrs, and being the possessor of a winning personality, she created a wide circle of friends throughout BC. Born Mar 7, 1851, she lived with her parents until 1871, when the lure of the W attracted her brother, Henry McAdie, to Canada. She accompanied him across the Atlantic and for 4 yrs made her residence at Hamilton, ON, where her brother found occupation. At the end of this period they decided to come further W, and travelled across the continent by way of the Union Pacific to San Francisco, where they boarded a boat for Nanaimo. Nanaimo was then passing through its early stages and besides the coal mines there was little attraction in the place.

They returned by steamer to Victoria a little over 1 yr later, and she was married here in 1878. Shortly after her arrival, Mr Rockett secured a house on Johnson st, which ever since remained the family residence. While Mrs Rockett had been in ill-health for the past few yrs, her condition did not become serious until quite recently. She was always a devoted church woman, and for yrs was a prominent mem/o the congregation of the First Presbyterian church.

Besides her husband, she is survived by 2 brothers, Henry McAdie, Nanaimo; Alexander McAdie, Buffalo, NY, 3 sisters, still living at Caithness, Sct, as well as a # of nieces and nephews. Title/Bldg/RN/Jun 20, 1915, 12 - Jun, 1865 - Farewell to Capt Hon Horace Lascelles, RN - Yesterday this popular gentleman left for Eng, from Esquimalt, by SS Sierra Nevada. Stmr Fideliter took a large party of friends to see him off. Fideliter steamed around the war vessels in the hbr, Sutlej, Chameleon and Forward, and then conveyed Sierra Nevada as far as Race Rocks. Charley Wallace, previous to taking final leave, and voicing the sentiments of the company present, made a short speech, and Capt Lascelles health was drunk in bumpers of champagne, and 3 cheers given. He was kind-hearted, hospitable and generous to a fault, even with the large means at his disposal. I might say that I remember this gentleman well. He was commander of gunboat Forward, a brother of Earl of Harewood, and a wealthy man. He was a true sportsman, and no celebration at Beacon Hill was complete without his presence, together with His Worship the Mayor Harris, as they both were in all the horse races that usually celebrated the Qn's birthday in these days. Title/Jun 29, 1915, 7 - Jun 28, 1869 a wedding took place at Lytton, BC, on that day Miss Margaret B Leighton became bride/o Robert Burns McMicking. The ceremony was performed by Rev Canon Good, now res/o Pasadena, CA. In 1869 Mr McMicking was a telegraph operator in the Western Union Co office at Yale. Later, when the govt bought the line he became supt of the line, a post he occupied for some yrs. Mrs McMicking's uncle, Thomas Buie, was one of the big merchants of the upper country at that time and it was from his house that the wedding took place. Mr Buie was one of the pioneers of the interior of BC, and it was he who built the 1st telegraph line in that section of the country.

Mrs McMicking and her mother, Mrs Margaret Leighton, came to Victoria as early as 1863. Her father was the founder of the Pacific Steamship Co, and was csn/o Lord Leighton. Mr McMicking, who was n/o ON, at Niagara, was for many yrs mgr of BC Telephone Co, in Victoria.

Died Jun 28, 1915 at Victoria, BC, James McDougall, for the past 10 yrs Res/Victoria. He was another of the giant figures who strode through all the historic march of events which commenced w/operations of HBC on this continent and who witnessed the birth of W Canada. He was known the length and breadth of the NW amongst pioneers.

Deceased was n/o Sct, aged 72. To many, his was a familiar figure on the sts of Victoria, as living a retired life, and being of a sociable disposition. He had a circle of intimates with whom he was ever a boon companion. For some considerable time he had been quartered at the Dallas Hotel, but it was his custom to come into the city each day, being a mem/o the leading clubs.

His life hx is practically the hx of the Cdn NW, in the development of which few men took a more prominent part. At a very early age he was apprenticed in the Old Country in the service of HBC, taking the post of clerk. He entered the gates of the Dominion by way of the great waterway which bears the name of the ancient and honorable trading co. He was 1st stationed at Norway House, where he served under late Mr J A Grahame, one of the pioneers of Victoria, and for so long identified w/HBC as chief commissioner.

The earnestness which characterized all his work, his marked strength of character, and the rapid manner in which he acquired an ability for successfully dealing w/Indians, speedily won him deserved promotion, and one step upward on the ladder of success followed another until he soon became chief factor, and he is survived by only 1 or 2 who held similar posts. After a long service at Norway House, he was transferred to the Lwr Mackenzie, and subsequently to old Ft Yukon. This latter post he held doing all the work which comes under the jurisdiction of chief factor, until the acquisition of the territory by the UC compelled the withdrawal of HBC from that field.

Mr McDougall's next mission was to proceed to take charge of the post in the Peace Rv Dist, and here he remained for some time, achieving the same success which had characterized the whole of his early career and doing noble service for the company. His next charge was at Edmonton, the country of this period being possessed by bands of Indians, and few whites being numbered among the remote settlements. Later, he was transferred to the post at Athabaska dist.

After some yrs there, he was appointed inspector of all the post in the NW, w/hdqs at Winnipeg, and this called for trips many thousands of miles over a very wide area of country. He was known personally to the many hundreds of employees of the company in the entire NW and as a result of his extensive travelling, acquired a knowledge of the country which was possessed by few men in the whole country. It

Save in the company of his intimate associates, he was reserved and did not talk freely of his remarkable career. He enjoyed a very close companionship in the early days w/late Lord Strathcona, and the other commanding figures who guided the destinies of HBC. In stature he was a man whom nature had well fitted for a sturdy task, as he stood, when in his prime, 6' and of Herculean build. During his long res/in Victoria, which dated back to the yrs when Victoria was a trading post and Indian village he had many friends, some at his funeral - Senator Macdonald, ex-Alderman Graham, whose father had acted as chief factor previous to Mr McDougall's term; William Wilson, Mr J H Lawson. Pallbearers: Hon W R Ross and Messrs M P Gordon, R W Perry, J D McDonald, F R Wombwell, S Hodgkins. The last 2 represented HBC. P 108 E M *

News/Died Jun 30, 1915 at Victoria, BC, Mr Duncan Ross, ex-MP and well known as RR contractor. Having taught school in Victoria in the early days, having later conducted the Boundary Ck times and occupied an aldermanic chair in Greenwood, BC, 4 yrs a rep for Yale-Cariboo constituency in federal parliament and recently having been identified w/construction of Grand Trunk Pacific RR Co, there are few British Columbians who have a wider acquaintance with the W and its people than late Ross. Aged 45, b May 16, 1870, n/o Ashfield, Bruce Co, ON. He was of Highland Scots origin, s/o Mr/Mrs George Ross, early settlers in Bruce Co, ON. Educated in public school of that dist, and Kincardine high school, he married in Sep, 1904, Miss Mary Greenwood. It was not long before he left the E, where he had been teaching school, for BC. Arriving in Victoria abt 27 yrs ago, his 1st vocation was similar to that which he had been following. He took charge of a small school in the Victoria W dist, and many pioneer families have pleasant recollections of the days during which the good-natured but thorough Eastern teacher laid the foundation of their children's education. Leaving this profession Mr Ross entered journalism, and for a time, was a mem/o reportorial staff of Times. He then developed a keen interest in the problems w/which BC was struggling and when, a few yrs later, he moved to Greenwood, where he became editor and prop of Boundary Ck Times, it was not long before his energy and force were recognized. He organized the Liberal party in that dist...

He undertook the construction of a 6-mile stretch of GTP RR, in the course of which was a large tunnel. On the completion of this he took charge of the of 10 miles situated in the vicinity of Pr George. This, also, was completed satisfactorily...

Title/Jul 3, 1915, 7 - Ph/Died Jun 30, 1915 at her home in James Bay, Victoria, BC, Miss Honora Mary Josephine O'Connor, an old and highly respected res/Victoria, aged 70, n/o Ire. Miss O'Connor was a very accomplished lady, speaking English, French and Spanish, as well as her native Gaelic fluently, and reading Greek and Latin. She had a beautiful soprano voice and was an accomplished pianist.

Miss O'Connor was an excellent needlewoman, and received diplomas and prizes for exquisite embroidery not only in Victoria but in Hamilton, ON.

Deceased was a patient sufferer for 7 yrs and was lovingly nursed by her devoted and only surviving sister, Miss Helena O'Connor, the youngest of a family of 8, children of late James/Mary O'Connor.

The family claim descent on the father's side from the O'Connors of Castle of Carrigagoyle, in the Kingdom of Kerry, and on the mother's from the great King Brian Boru. Tradition says that Queen Scotia, wife of one of the Pharaohs of Egypt, from whom the family descended, brought over 'The Stone of Destiny' on which the patriarch Jacob rested his head when he saw the vision of the ladder descending from heaven to earth.

The kings of Ire were crowned on the stone until Fergus, King of the Irish Scots, had permission to move it to Sct. It was hidden in the monastery of Scone, where Scottish kings were crowned, for many yrs. Being taken to Eng by Edward, it was placed in Westminster Abbey, where it is still used in the coronation ceremony.

It will be remembered that when the Duke/Duchess of Connaught came to Victoria in 1912, Miss Honora and Miss Helena visited them at Government House, the Duke sending his carriage to bring the ladies, and he and the Duchess affording them a very gracious and pleasant interview. Pallbearers: Messrs

Charles Hayward, Capt Seward, F J Sehl, M Sweeney, J Silver, P J James. N 055 W 49

Died Jul 6, 1915 at Victoria, BC, John B Lovell, 84, n/o Princes Risbow, Buckinghamshire, England. He resided here nearly 60 years. He left there with his parents, at a very early age, for US, where he resided for some time. The desire to live again under the British flag persuaded his father to remove to Canada, so that in 1842 they settled in Belleville, Ontario, where they lived for 16 years. His parents died shortly after, and being of an adventurous nature, he was attracted by tales of wealth and prosperity which the west offered in late 1850s gold rush. Mr Lovell went to San Francisco via Straits of Magellan and reached CA in 1858.

When he had spent some time in CA, he followed the great immigration to BC, caused by discovery of gold in Cariboo. He spent several months along the shores of Fraser River before he decided to come to Victoria, arriving here on Apr 10, 1859.

After having profited from the prosperity in BC, he went east again via Isthmus of Panama, but returned almost immediately to take charge of an express at Richfield, BC. During the next few years he carried on business at Mosquito Creek, Tatla Lake and at Glenora. The latter place, which at present is quite a community, was practically founded by Mr Lovell, who chose its site for his camp while canoeing the river on which it stands. He pitched his tents and settled there for a few years, and, in time, was followed by others, who cut a passage through the forests to the adjoining neighborhood and linked Glenora with the rest of the world.

He came to Victoria for the 2nd time several years later and became manager of BC Co-op Co's store on Douglas st, between Yates & Johnson streets.

He was always much interested in the welfare of Victoria and public affairs in general. In 1892 he was elected alderman for Yates street ward, and for several years he was a member of the school board. During his residence here he obtained a great deal of property.

He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Margaret Mann, n/o Selkirk, Sct, and 3 daughters: Mrs C Jameson and Misses Bessie and Catherine Lovell. Photo, Jul 10, 7. Pallbearers: Walter Anderson, Andrew Gray, Richard Hall, Thomas Redding, W Humphrey, E H Hiscocks. P 101 E O

He was the 3rd man from me in the charge of Festubert May 20, charging w/Nos 1 and 2 platoons through the gap in the German communication trench. Only 5 or 6 of us returned. Young Cameron did not. I am satisfied there were no prisoners taken by the Germans.

'I am informed by an English regiment that our dead are still lying in the same spot where they fell in between our lines and those of the enemy. Please inform Mr Cameron from Saanich to this effect and give him my sincere sympathy. I can't hold out any hope to him that is son is POW, but everyone who charged through that awful gap died like a hero.'

VL/Oct 6, 1915, 5 - Photo, John Anderson, 28, of Victoria, promoted. Received his commission after service on firing line in northern France with 1st Canadian Contingent for 8 months. Aged 28, his mother and family are residents of Victoria. He was educated here, and for a time, taught school at Pender Island. McGill to study electrical science. He entered 14th Dragoons at Grouard, AB, and went to front as Pte, he has earned his recognition by sheer worth under the most trying conditions. Quotes from a letter to his sister... Nov 20, 5 - photo, John Gibson Anderson, Victoria officer with 5th Bn, CEF, who received Military Cross...; ... s/o Mrs J N Anderson, Macaulay Point... Anderson, who left as Pte, 14th AB Dragoons when war began, was given commission a short time ago, was instructed to make a reconnaissance of German positions before 5th Batt CEF on night of Oct 8. With Sapper Whyte they crept along an old British 'sap' and eventually found themselves in one of the German's making. They now were in enemy territory and moved ahead slowly and noiselessly. Suddenly they sighted 2 Germans, who were sitting with their rifles by their sides and bombs at their feet. The Germans saw them at the same instant... Dec 18, 1 - photo, Lieut John Anderson, Victorian serving with 5th Bn, CEF, on whom King has conferred the Military Cross for gallantry and devotion to duty in the field. His mother and family reside at Victoria, educated here, graduating from McGill.

VX/Oct 2, 1915 - Lt (temp Capt) Montague Vernon Gore-Langton, 1st Bn, Irish Guards awarded Military Cross for conspicuous service at the front, on the night of Aug 10, 1915, at Givenchy, when with an orderly and 1 bomber, he carried out a successful and daring reconnaissance. He crawled out across a crater and discovered another crater reaching to within a few yds of enemy trenches. Here he was seen by a German on patrol, who came within 8 yds, when he was killed by the orderly. He still lay out, and, aided by Very's pistol lights fired from his own trenches, he examined carefully the whole of the enemy's wire entanglements and trenches hidden behind the craters. Gore-Langton was res/Cowichan dist for several yrs, living w/brother Lt G W Gore-Langton, 18th Hussars, now attached to 11th Reserve Reg, nr Cowichan Stn. It will be remembered that Lt G W Gore-Langton was awarded the Military Cross and also decorated by Fr govt w/Cross of Legion of Honor last autumn for distinguished service in the field. Nov 4, 5 - Capt Montague Vernon Gore-Langton, KIA, by bullet in the head Oct 10. Aged 29. His brother 'Jerry,' a Capt in 18th Hussars, was WIA early in the war. He was decorated in Aug, 1914, w/Legion of Honor and again in Jan he received MC for gallantry. Ph/Nov 6, 5.

V/Oct 8, 1915 - Pte B Whitaker, formerly w/30th Bn, WIA at Festubert, WIA and crippled for life. Left Victoria w/30th Overseas Bn, returned yesterday and was accorded a hearty welcome by officials of the patriotic Aid Comm. He arrived in N Fra w/local unit on May 1, then drafted into 13th Batt. Others of the same corps went into 16th and 7th Batts, all of which establishments had been severely cut up at Ypres. After a few days' rest, Pte Whitaker went into the firing line.

The young soldier has nothing much to say about his 1st impressions and experiences, except that he has seen war, and, although he thought before leaving what it meant, he now has a more accurate appreciation of it. Pte Whitaker was affected not so much by the possibilities of the position, as by the constant din of artillery and the noise of musketry firing, which seldom ceased. This sort of work went on for 20 days without anything of an outstanding character happening, and then notice was received that a detachment of abt 100 Cdns occupying the line, to the defence of which Pt Whitaker was contributing, was abt to make an effort to throw the Germans back from a trench so situated as to be a menace and a constant annoyance to the British... PC

V/Oct 16, 1915- J F Tait, s/o Leonard Tait, and Thomas C Murphy, have returned to Victoria after having served Empire... They left here w/30th Overseas Bn, and have been through different actions in the northern part of the continental theatre of war. Two other BC soldiers also have arrived in Vancouver, namely, Robert T Kinney and George Little [Oct 17- photo Pte George Little, 13th Bn, CEF, who has returned suffering from effects of gas and wound received at Ypres... - left Victoria Aug 1914, enlisting w/72nd Seaforth Highlanders, drafted into 13th Batt. He is with friends in Esquimalt, and wears the badge which indicates he has done his part for the Empire.... he also served in Spanish-American campaigns, Boxer uprisings in China, he states, that he never went through anything like that in Fra - PC], of Vancouver.

Pte Murphy was sent to Fra May 1 w/draft sent over as reinforcements. The contingent arrived while the fierce battle of Ypres was raging. The men had been hurried over to help turn the tide. He was 5 wks in the trenches w/15th Bn, into which he was drafted. On account of his skill as a ball thrower - he had distinguished himself as a pitcher w/his regimental baseball team - he

Murphy was attached to 16th Batt for the famous charge on the orchard at Festubert, the engagement in which the Vancouver Kilties distinguished themselves and lost so heavily. The advance had to be made over ground which afforded little cover. The enemy was strongly entrenched and occupied a farmhouse which literally bristled w/machine guns. Murphy was loaded down with bombs and hand grenades, a veritable moving arsenal of deadly explosives. He got a wound through the hand while preparing to throw one of his missiles. A bullet tore into his wrist and travelled down his hand, emerging between his fingers. The 3rd finger was torn to shreds, and a portion of his R hand was badly mutilated. A piece of shrapnel entered his L hip just afterwards, inflicting another nasty wound. He managed to crawl into an abandoned German communication trench and was picked up by a stretcher party a few hrs afterwards. From his shelter he watched the terrible battle in progress, and saw the Cdn Kilties finally drive the enemy back... PC; Oct 22- Pte Thomas C Murphy gives interesting account of Festubert charge...

V/Nov 10, 1915, 5 - 13 men sworn into 88th Bn, Victoria Fusiliers yesterday... including Col E R Stone, a man who does not look more than 28, and yet has seen more fighting than most. He held rank of Col in the army of Gen Villa, the Mexican who is in rebellion against the Carranza govt. His life from age of 16 has been one long series of adventures. He has been through 175 skirmishes and has been wounded only twice.

Things were getting rather slow in the turbulent republic and so he decided that he would come to Canada, enlist, and get to the Continental theatre of war. N/o London, ON. Leaving Villa's forces he crossed the line into TX, and came straight to Victoria from El Paso. Yesterday he walked into the local recruiting centre and in the most casual manner asked whether his services would be acceptable. Nothing would have been known of his exceptional experiences had it not been that the application requires some questions to be answered...

Leaving his home in ON he joined the US army and was all through the Spanish-American war, having fought for some hrs in the trenches at Santiago... He was also in the Philippine campaign and in 1900 took part in the Allied expedition to Peking, China... From 1913 to 1915 he fought under Gen Villa.

Col, now Pte Stone, 88th Bn, is only anxious to complete the preliminary training and get into action.

Conception, [Mary Lane] aged 90, the oldest and best-known nun in Victoria, and last survivor of the courageous band of 4 sisters which established St Ann's Sisterhood in BC. Born nr
Montreal, QC, 1826, nee Miss Mary Lane... Sr Mary was instrumental in founding several schools both on I and mainland... Quamichan, 1864... In 1865, Sr Mary and another nun made the journey to New Westminster, and laid the foundation for another school and chapel. On their return journey, after a long cruise in an Indian canoe, the 2 Srs boarded SS Fideliter, which was making its way from Nanaimo to Victoria. The trip was ill-fated, for as she passed Clover Pnt she was rammed and sunk by SS Alexandra. This accident was one of the 1st of many sea disasters that have occurred in S VI waters. As Fideliter gradually settled in the water a panic occurred, and a terror-stricken mother, in her excitement, left her child on board the sinking vessel. The 2 Srs, w/Capt, were the last to leave the doomed stmr, and Sr Mary, just as they were about to take their seats in a lifeboat, espied the forgotten child. She immediately went back and rescued it, at the risk of her life. Probably her greatest work was at St Mary's Mission, Fraser Rv... She gave up her active work aged 83... Nov 21, 7 - funeral... Died Nov 20, 1915 at Victoria, BC, James Hill Lawson, VP O/R P Rithet & Co, aged 74. He was actively interested in VI business for nearly 50 yrs. N/o Dundee, Sct, b Dec 15, 1840. Educated in Sct and was engaged as acct until attracted to the Pacific Coast through the knowledge of the discovery of gold and the realization that business advancement in other lines would be developed. He sailed from Liverpool to NY and made the trip to BC by way of Isthmus of Panama. He was accompanied by his brother, William, who, after a long residence in the W, became interested in the Bank of BNA, at NY. He arrived in Victoria in 1862 and passed on into the wilds of Alberni, a dist which had hitherto been left practically unexplored except by the Indian. He and his brother became identified there with the 1st lumber mill to be operated in that dist. They worked there for a # of yrs and then removed to Burgoyne Bay, Salt Spring I, where they carried on farming for a few yrs.

In 1865 Mr Lawson returned to Victoria and entered the employ of HBC as a clerk. He remained with that corp until 1889 and for some time acted as asst factor. Later he joined Robert P Rithet in his wholesale grocery enterprise. He became a stockholder and was apptd secretary... He married Miss Jennet Macdonald in 1870, who survives him. Nov 23, 1915, 4 - How short the story of BC is, the death of late Frederick William Foster illustrates in a very notable way. Some time c 1860, a fine, vigorous young man, attracted from Aus by news of gold discoveries in Fraser, arrived in VI, and when the Cariboo rush began, went up over the old Douglas route to Lillooet, where he opened a store... Title/Overlander/Died Nov 27, 1915 at Victoria, BC, Robert Burns McMicking, n/o Queenston, ON, b Jul 7, 1843, s/o William McMicking, JP, was born in 1895, and where he lived and died, engaged in farming land that came into the possession of the family as a land grant for services rendered to the Crown in connection with the war of 1812.

The family represents the old Ayrshire and Wigtownshire MacMickings. The MacMickings of Killantringan held one of the most ancient baronies of Ayrshire, and at various epochs of Scottish hx were more or less distinguished. One of their members in 1427 lost his life through his adherence to the Lord of the Isles, in a rebellion against King James of Sct. At the Reformation the family took a very prominent part in Ayrshire, and during the reign of Charles II, many of them suffered imprisonment and fines in the cause of civil and religious liberty. Ninth in descent from Mahun Rusid was Sir Gilbert MacMichan, who married Angus Macdonald, d/o John, s/o Angus, Lord of the Isles. His son John MacMichan, was grand f/o John, who sold his estates and died in Fra in 1507.

Robert Burns McMicking is believed to be the last but one of that party of adventurous spirits who in 1862 made the trip to BC across the plains and down the waterways of BC, the sole surviving member being John Andrew Mara, of Victoria. In Apr, 1862, when the gold fever ran through the settlements of ON, Mr McMicking was a lad of 18, and at this time had mastered the comparatively new science of telegraphy. The lure of gold and the call of the W prompted him to cast in his lot with a Queenston party of some 24, who made up their minds to commence a trek across the continent to participate in the gold discoveries of Cariboo.

The story of this trip has been often told, and probably none of the men who made it retained in their minds so many of the details as did Mr McMicking. It is not wide of the mark to say that so many of the men who made it left their impress upon the development of BC that the records of the trip have become an integral part of the hx of BC.

Leaving Queenston in Apr, the party made its way to Detroit and across the middle states to St Paul. From this point the direction was N to the upper reaches of the Red Rv. A point then known as Georgetown was reached, where the welcome information was received that the 1st steamer to be constructed for the navigation of the Red Rv was receiving its finishing touches. It was decided to delay the journey to assist the owners of the steamer in making a show of force with the Indians, who resented the introduction of steamers on the river. The days saw the steamer ready for its maiden trip, and it also saw considerable additions made to the # of the party in that by the time Ft Garry was reached the muster showed upwards of 100 persons. Ft Garry was reached without mishap, but the one trip proved to be the only one the steamer was destined to make, as on the return voyage it was attacked by the Indians, the boat destroyed and the members of the crew murdered. News did not travel very fast in those days, and the members of the Queenston party had reached Cariboo, months later, before they learned the fate of the members of the steamboat crew.

Some time was spent at Ft Garry in making the final outfit, and when the fort was left behind on Jun 2, 1862, the transport of the expedition, now swelled to 150, consisted of some 90 Red Rv carts, each drawn by an ox, some 50 saddle horses and a # of mules. The expedition followed the N route between HBC forts, situated some 200 miles apart across the prairie, and the road was such as had been made by passage of the company's carts from fort to fort in the transport of furs and supplies. While on the march the party made about 25 miles a day, but there were frequent stops, and Edmonton was not reached until late in Jul, and Tete Jaune Cache on Aug 28. At this point the party divided, one section deciding to make across the country to the headwaters of N Thompson Rv on rafts to their destination. Mr McMicking was in the party which decided upon the Fraser Rv route, and, although none in the party had any knowledge of the river or the canyons and rapids which mark its course to the sea, so expert were the men who made up the party that they completed their trip with the loss of but 4 men, 3 of whom were drowned in the river and one who died of exposure when the party reached Ft George, where the body was buried. The party made the trip from the Cache to Ft George in 6 days, leaving the Cache on Sep 2 and arriving on Sep 3. The last leg of the journey from Ft George to Quesnel was made in 3 days, all of the rafts successfully negotiating the Ft George and Cottonwood canyons. Quesnel was reached on Sep 11 and here the party disbanded, some going into the mines at Barkerville while others made their way on down to the coast over the Cariboo wagon rd, which at that time was the most travelled hwy in BC. Mr McMicking decided to have a look at the mines he had made such a trip to see, but he found most of them were closing down for the winter, and as prospecting was new to him, he decided to continue on to the coast, eventually arriving in New Westminster, where he remained until 1865. In Nov of this yr he resumed his connection with telegraphy, entering the service of the Collins Overland Telegraph Co, then engaged in constructing a line through N BC with the object of reaching Europe by crossing the Bering Strait. This project was undertaken following the failure of the 1st cable across the Atlantic in 1858. Upwards of 3 millions of dollars were expended by the Collins Co in construction, and its crew of 250 men had reached a point 300 miles N of Quesnel when the 2nd cable was laid and its success was assured on Jul 26, 1866. At this time Mr McMicking was acting as the company's agent at Quesnel, and his hand touched off the message to the men at Ft Stager on the Skeena Rv that their work was useless. The work stopped as if by magic and inside of a few wks the entire line N of Quesnel, with huge quantities of materials and supplies was abandoned, and it was not until the Dominion govt many yrs after undertook the construction of the telegraph line to Dawson, in connection with the Yukon excitement, that the N country secured the means of communication which the enterprise of the Collins Overland sought to give them in the early 1860s. The decision of Mr McMicking to re-enter upon his old calling as a telegrapher had a very important bearing upon his later life and his subsequent investigations and research into electrical matters caused his name to be inseparably associated with many of the utilities which are now of everyday use and essential to Victorians. From Quesnel he was moved to the company's office at Yale, where in the summer he married Maggie B, d/o David Leighton, of Dundee, Sct, and nc/o Thomas R Buie, JP, of Lytton. In the following yr Mr McMicking was transferred to Victoria and assumed charge of the Western Union Telegraph Co's business as well as the business of the Barnard Express Co. In 1871, when the BC govt assumed control of the telegraph lines he was appointed supt, with hdqts 1st at Yale and later at Victoria. This city's connection with the outside at this time was maintained by 6 small cables and the supervision and maintenance of these formed no small part of the supt's duties. So successful, however, was Mr McMicking in this branch of his work that he later was engaged to overhaul all the cables and landlines of the Puget Snd Telephone Co, a commission

BC made its acquaintance with the telephone in 1878, when 2 instruments were consigned to the order of Mr McMicking by reason of his intimacy with the inventor, Dr Bell. These 2 instruments were put in circuit, one being installed in Mr McMicking's residence and the other carried about 1 mile distant. From this humble beginning there was called into being the telephone service of Victoria of today. The 1st company was known as the Victoria & Esquimalt Co, which in time was acquired by the present company, in whose services Mr McMicking continued as mgr until 1 yr ago, when failing health resulted in his superannuation.

The use of electricity for street lighting received a great deal of attention on the part of Mr McMicking, and in 1883, while acting as supt for lighting for the corp he introduced the 1st arc lights for st lighting. Most oldtimers will remember the 1st plan devised. It called for the erection of 3 towers, having a height of 150', from the top of which was suspended a cluster of arc lights which could be distinctly seen many miles from the city.

In 1887 Mr McMicking was the prime mover in the organization of a company for the introduction of incandescent lighting to Victoria in competition with gas. It was quite a fight when it was on, but it reduced the price of gas from $4 to $2 per thousand.

In connection with the 1st dept Mr McMicking has the honor of devising the 1st electric fire alarm in BC. This he introduced in 1881 and it remained in operation until 1890, when the Gamewell system was installed under Mr McMicking's direction.

Mr McMicking took a keen interest in municipal matters. He was elected a mem/School Brd in 1887, and later served from 1896 to 1899. He was elected to the Aldermanic Brd in 1911...

V/Died Nov 25, 1915 at Victoria, BC. Nov 28, 6 - Funeral of Edward Francis Troy Hodder, pallbearers: Col

C F Lawson, Col W H Cunliffe, Messrs F W Wright, C C Pemberton, J M Leigh, W N Lenfesty. Edward F S Hodder, by one who knew him - On Nov 25, 1915, a fine old English sportsman passed away at his home in Oak Bay. Edward Hodder was a man of great personality, very tall, with a most powerful frame, he would have attracted attention in any community. From boyhood, when he 1st took to a seafaring life, he led a most adventurous existence and his experiences under the roughest and most varied circumstances, were very great. He was the last driver of the mail coach on the Sante Fe Trail, previous to the RR being built, and on several occasions was attacked by Indians and received wounds from their arrows.

He was a thorough sportsman all his long life through, even last Sep when over 80, fishing for salmon round Oak Bay, with the keenness and zest of a man ½ his age.

The most genial and cheery of companions, he could spin the most interesting yarns of his varied experiences, in all kinds of sport, and his great sense of humor was ever present...

It was a severe wrench to the old man when his only son volunteered for active service, early in the war, and left Victoria with one of the 1st contingents, but he faced this trial with the greatest courage, and always spoke with pride of his boy being one of those 'doing his bit' at the front, for his country.

It was touching to see the old father's immense delight whenever a letter arrived from

'Teddie' and hardly a single day passed without the father writing to his son.

But, the natural great anxiety felt by the old man for so many months, I fear, told on his health and hastened his end. Happily, it was a peaceful one. The writer will always remember late Edward Hodder as a man for whom he had the greatest respect, and the very warmest feelings of friendly affection. RIP. T 031 E 45

Poem/Nov 28, 1915 - A gentleman residing in Victoria, in turning over some old manuscripts the other day, came across the following poetical effusion, the production of an ex-official of the Colonial govt of about 1867. The incident referred to was the dismissal of 6 govt clerks, a circumstance which is perhaps still remembered by the old residents. Judging from the tone of the last verse, Hon Amor de Cosmos had something to do with cutting off the heads of the supernumeraries. The author is unknown, but the gentleman who resurrected the manuscript believes that he was one of the dismissed clerks. Several of the 'young official swells' are still res/Victoria...

Died Nov 29, 1915 at Victoria, BC, Edward Frederick Robinson, aged 67, n/o London, Eng, res here for past 23 yrs. Deceased leaves a widow, 3 daughters, Mrs Alex Peden, Mrs Frederick J Williams and Mrs W F Crockford, 1 son, E E Robinson. Deceased was one of the best known apiarists in BC, if not in the Dominion. Born Dec 18, 1853, he received his education in Eng, and in 1881 he left for Canada, establishing himself in the jewelry business at London, ON, an occupation which he followed more or less steadily throughout his career. He was attracted to the Pacific coast shortly and was employed in Seattle for a short time. He subsequently came to Victoria, where he made his home ever since.

He first entered business with Messrs Davidson Bros, a jewelry firm which used to occupy offices in the old Five Sisters Bk. In 1885 he became independent, but shortly after he joined Messrs Redfern & Son. Four yrs ago he went into the mfg jewelry business again and he was identified with this trade until recently.

It was as an apiarist, however, that he was best known. While he at 1st undertook the study and culture of the bee as an amusement and a hobby, his expert knowledge of the industry soon found public recognition. He was more or less interested in beekeeping ever since he came to Canada, but in recent yrs he purchased some land nr Shawnigan Lk, where he established an extensive apiary. He was instrumental in laying the foundations for the bee industry in BC by demonstrating through his experiments what could be done with the bee in this latitude.

Two yrs ago he was employed by the govt to give lectures throughout BC, and he continued this work until only a few months ago. Three yrs ago he sent an exhibit of bees and honey to Lethbridge and other towns in the Prairies and it was subsequently bought by the govt and sent on to an exhibition at Chicago as an example of what could be done with bees in BC. This spring Mr Robinson sent another comprehensive exhibit to the San Francisco Panama-Pacific Expo, where it attracted a wide notice. Ph/Dec 1, 7. Pallbearers: S Lehman, C Cooper, T Roberts, Thomas

RNV/Died Dec 4, 1915 at Victoria, BC, John Williams. Victoria loses another of her pioneer residents, and the British Campaigners' Assn loses, in point of service, its oldest member. Deceased had a most adventurous career. He was well known here, and his loss will be keenly regretted. N/o Devonport, Eng, aged 82, when only a boy, went to sea. When what is known as the Crimean War extended to the Baltic, he offered his services and was accepted as a 1st class boy. Previously, he had been employed as a civil servant. During the battle in the Baltic, he served in company w/Dr Rolston, formerly fleet surgeon, who resides here.

He was a powder monkey on the line-of-battleship Nile in the Crimea, and when the party anchored off Revel and men were landed, he was unable to go ashore, being powder monkey for the forward gun. He spent the 1st yr of that campaign on Nile, and 2nd yr w/Duke of Wellington, a 2-decker, carrying 91 guns.

When peace was again declared, he was sent to serve at Cape of Good Hope stn, where he remained for 3 ½ yrs. While he was there, the Indian Mutiny broke out, but, although he offered his services, he was not accepted. He subsequently was sent to the W Indian stn, where he served for a time w/HMS Jason. While the vessel was docked at Tampico, loading 70T of bullion, yellow fever broke out among mem/o crew and the ship was ordered to Bermuda, where the sick were landed. All the doctors fell victims to the disease, and Williams volunteered to act in the capacity of nurse. Owing to the serious condition of the greater part of the crew, he was not allowed to act until other nurses were sent to the scene. Of the crew of Jason, only 70 out of 270 survived.

Mr Williams should have been the holder of the Royal Humane Soc medal, for, while his ship was stn'd at Devonport some yrs later, he saved his captain from drowning... [see 1913]

For 2 yrs, he was on CG ship Falmouth, and later was transferred to line-of-battleship Rodney, on the China stn. He was among the detachment of British soldiers and marines which went up the Yangtse-Kiang during the China War, and he took part in the siege of Swatow, a Chinese walled city.

At the conclusion of 15 yrs service at the China stn, he secured his discharge at his own request, and set out for Aus where he engaged in the pearl-fishing industry. Three

Yrs were spent on a sealing lugger, with a crew of Malays, in the pearl grounds of the S Pacific and Indian oceans. While engaged in this romantic industry, he acted as mate under Capt Cadie.

Tiring of the routine of pearlfisher, he returned to Eng. He shipped on bark Glengowan, bound for UK w/grain. The vessel was to call at Portland, OR, before continuing to Eng, and, while cruising along the Pacific coast, she was beset by heavy seas and foundered off Cape Flattery. The ship was left in a waterlogged condition, and Williams and the remainder of the crew rowed to Barkley Snd, where they spent Xmas day on an island. Upon arriving at Victoria he decided that he could do nothing better than to make this place his home, and he established his residence here. The call of the sea lured him to take a berth on US revenue cutter Oliver Walker, but he soon tired of this, and was subsequently employed by Albion Iron Works.

About 20 yrs ago he was employed by Dominion govt fish hatchery at Lakelse, where he worked for 12 yrs. During the autumn of his life he spent his days at the Old Men's Home.

All mem/o British Campaigners' Assn are requested to attend the ceremony and should wear their medals on the lapel of their outer coat. Funeral - gun carriage draped w/Union Jack adorned w/emblem of valor - a wreath of palms. Included a large body of bluejackets, Bldg/Dec 21, 1915, 1 - photo Thomas John Burnes, died in Victoria, BC, aged 83, n/o Dublin, Ire. He came to Victoria in 1858, when Victoria ceased to exist as merely an HBC outpost and Indian settlement.

Probably there is no pioneer of this city who could claim to have been better known and more universally esteemed than late Burnes. Until the very last, he was active, energetic, and full of that joviality and good nature which helped to make him popular with all classes of Victoria people. He was a familiar character on the streets, and there was hardly a person who did not know him either intimately, or by name. His cheery disposition and the other sterling qualities which went to make up his character endeared the old gentleman to everybody.

B Dec 21, 1832. Although within a day of celebrating his 83rd birthday, he literally died in office, as only 2 days before the end, his indisposition, which he thought to be only temporary, enforced his absence from the Customs Office.

He left Ire in 1847, and arrived at NY, where he resided for 5 yrs. He served as fireman on one of the brigades. At that time, fire-fighting apparatus was of a simple and ineffective nature as compared w/engines used now. Burnes never tired of relating the many humorous and exciting experiences which he underwent in following fire calls there.

In 1854, he was attracted to the W. During those days, CA was swarming with prospectors and miners, and was in the full bloom of one of its most prosperous eras. He found employment in a San Francisco PO, where he remained until the stampede to the new goldfields in the Cariboo began. He was one of the 1st to heed the call, and took boat for BC, in company with many other Californians, anxious to investigate the rumors that had been spread about the new El Dorado. When he got as far as Victoria, he was content to bid farewell to his more adventurous companions and settled down. He never regretted the step he took.

In 1862, after having found satisfactory employment, he went E for his fiancée, and on May 15, 1862 he wed Miss Katherine McCloy, of NY city. Upon coming to the Pacific coast for the 1st time, in 1854, Burnes chose the route over Nicaragua, but on the return, after marriage, the young couple came by way of Isthmus of Panama. They transferred at San Francisco to SS Sierra Nevada, which brought them here.

Burnes chose to enter the hotel business, and was successful. He established the American, Yates st, a little below the crnr of Langley st, which was then considered to be practically the heart of the city. The hotel was a 3-storey, wooden structure, and so great was its popularity that it eventually became one of the landmarks here, and Mr Burnes, as its proprietor, gained repute all along the coast. His business became gradually larger, and he was forced to expand. He built the 1st brick bldg in Victoria, at the crnr Chatham/Store sts, called The Cosmopolitan Bldg, and in 1887 he erected a big 4-storey bldg in Bastion Sq. At the time of its construction, it was one of the finest structures in the city, and although it has since passed to other ownership, the bldg still bears his name.

In 1865, he was elected asst fire chief of Victoria, and among contemporary mem/o the brigade were W H Huxtable, Wriglesworth, William Wilson, and other well-known pioneers who have helped to make the city's hx. He was mem/o the brigade as early as 1863, when the 1st steam fire engine arrived and put in use. So novel was the apparatus that the members of the force longed for a fire to break out, in order that the new engine might be tested.

The many unique features of the firefighters' equipment and duties were narrated with enthusiasm by Burnes, and his discourse was always a source of interest and amusement for his listeners. The service was supported entirely by voluntary subscriptions, but the public was generous in making appropriations for the brigade, although a great deal of expense fell to the lot of the fireman, who, among other things, had to supply himself with a good red shirt, the badge of office, which cost upwards of $16, and was used only once, if the fire was a bad one. The leather helmet was an indispensable part of the equipment and could not be bought for less than $16, and often cost as much as $125. A man had to be employed to clean and polish the engine, and the expense of his hire was borne by the mem/o the fire brigade.

During the early yrs of his residence in Victoria, Burnes found employment in the customs office, and when he left the hotel business, some 18 yrs ago, he rejoined the Customs Office, and continued in its employ until he died.

He was associated with many public organizations and philanthropic societies: BC Benevolent Soc, AOUW and Pioneer Soc. He was sexton and constant attendant of St Andrew's Cathedral.

An ardent baseball follower, he was a familiar figure at the Royal Athletic Park during the season, and he attended practically every notable game played in this city during the past 10 yrs. He was a student of the game and did all that he could to promote the port here.

He is survived by his widow, sons, W J, R E and G A

Burnes, all of Victoria, and T S, at San Francisco. The family originally consisted of 6 sons, 2 daughters. [daughter Katherine m Alfred Cecil Keating 1903]

Dec 22, 9 - With my mind's eye I see him, and also hear him, as he gives sharp, quick orders, 'No, boys, up you go, lively. In just such words, Tom Burnes directed a fire, either as foreman of his co, or as asst engr, in the days of early Victoria, over 50 yrs ago. The men with a willingness, pleasing to behold, were scampering up ladders, climbing up to the roof of the bldg, dragging fire hoses after them. In an instant the water comes; the engines being manned by many helpers pumping away in good shape, with likely yours truly one of the boys.

Friend Tom was elected asst engr, and maybe chief (I forget) but this was the ambition of every good fireman. There are only 3 left of the higher officers of the dept, the VFD of 50 yrs ago, friend Burnes is not the last, for we still have Joseph Wriglesworth, H E Levy, and William Wilson with us. A kind-hearted man he was, as Victoria has produced, and I just remember a little incident to illustrate it. I was one day walking along Store st, and saw my friend Burnes standing on the edge of the sidewalk opposite the warehouse, where he was on duty. He had his hands full of cakes and sweets, and was calling out to encourage a lot of little

Chinese boys and girls who seemed to be used to calling on my friend, but still they wanted encouragement. 'Come along my dears, Come along! This is for you, and you,' as he handed out the good things. There was one little one, an infant carried in a Chinaman's arms, who was just as eager to get its share - it was a pretty sight, and illustrates his disposition and thought at the time. There is not much but good in a man who is kind to and liked by children, ever-ready shake of the hand and his cheerful good nature are too well known to enlarge upon. Such was our late friend - RIP [by Edgar Fawcett] No pallbearers names given. M 048 E 7

WmHx/Died Jan 5, 1916 at Victoria, BC, Ann, wdw/o George Logan, aged 79, n/o Orkney I, res/Victoria for 51 yrs. Survived by 1 son, Fred... Jan 6, 7 - nee Linklater. She spent her girlhood w/parents on the Orkneys and was educated there. In 1864 she and her sister resolved to come W, and made their departure from Eng on the same vessel that carried Rev Jenns, to his destination. The sea journey, which took many wks to accomplish, was made around Cape Horn, and it was only after innumerable accidents had been narrowly avoided that the vessel finally reached VI.

After living in Victoria for a few yrs Miss Linklater married George Logan, than a miner/pro prospector, who had been attracted to BC by the gold excitement in Cariboo. He later became interested in mining in Alberni and other VI dists, and a ck in vicinity of Pt Alberni bears his name. In the early days he carried on trading with the Indians. Shortly after [c 1870] the marriage the young couple went to Britain, and Mrs Logan revisited her old home in the Orkneys. Upon their return they lived quietly in Victoria until Mr Logan passed away some 13 yrs ago. Since that time Mrs Logan spent the latter yrs of her life in retirement, and never was inclined to take an active part in an public organizations.

While she preferred to spend most of her time at home among mem/o her family, Mrs Logan was well known to the pioneer element of Victoria, and was held in high regard by all her acquaintances. Pallbearers: W Lothian, J J Robinson, W Lorimer, K Ferguson, J Finlay, C Moore.

Ph/Died Jan 10, 1916 at Victoria, BC, Michael McTiernan, aged 82, n/o Co Sligo, Ire, res/Victoria for 50 yrs, survived by a widow. Attracted to Pacific Coast by news of wealth of CA mines, which accounted for such a flood of fortune seekers to the W. After spending some time in CA, he followed the trail to BC, and staked out a claim in Cariboo, where he remained prospecting for several yrs. He came to Victoria about 1870 and found a position in HBC warehouses, where he worked until 1883. In that yr, having accumulated sufficient capital, he launched out on his own, bought a team of horses and a dray, and commenced to operate a small transfer and trucking business, his principal patronage being from HBC. He was engaged for the greater part of his time in carrying goods to and from the company wharves. On Sep 20, 1883, he married Miss Ann Beahan, who survives him. Mrs McTiernan came out as housemaid to the Marquis of Lorne and Pr Louise, when they visited this coast in early 1880s. One of the most treasured possessions of the McTiernan household is a handsome clock, given Mrs McTiernan as a wedding present by Pr Louise, whose name is autographed upon the gold face. The marriage was solemnized at the old RC Cathedral, which stood on the site at present occupied by St Joseph's hospital. Mr McTiernan sold out his interests in the trucking business about 20 yrs ago, and since that time lived a retired life. He is survived by, besides his widow, several nephews and nieces, res/Victoria. Pallbearers: Sweeney, T B West, J T Silver, J R Murray, B O'Neill, A E McDonald. U 061 E 47

Died Jan 20, 1916 at Victoria, BC, Mrs Ellen Mathieson Lawrence, 81. She was res/Victoria since 1858, n/o King's Co, Ire. She crossed the Atlantic w/brothers/sisters in 1854, landing in NY and passing over Isthmus of Panama by train on the way to CA, whose goldfields were at that time attracting such attention all over the world. While crossing the Isthmus her train was attacked by rioters, and this incident she never tired of recounting. She married while in CA, and her husband, late George Roper Lawrence, engaged in mining in CA for 4 yrs before deciding to move N to the new mines in BC. They sailed up the coast on the old brig Elenita, taking 2 wks on the journey to Sooke, where the passengers were landed for a short time before the voyage was continued to Victoria. It was in 1858 that they arrived here, and in that yr the place was nothing more than a tented city, flooded with every type of manhood, eager to seek fortune in the new mines. Lawrence left his wife in Victoria and moved on with the rest of the miners for Fraser Rv and Cariboo diggings. After staking out several claims in the interior

he returned to Victoria, where he engaged for many yrs in the water supply business. At that time all the water had to be obtained from wells and delivered to the various houses by cart and barrel. C 1877 Lawrence returned to Cassiar, where some of his interests were situated, and there he died.

Survived by son, George R, daughters, Misses Eleanor and Amelia, Victoria, Mrs John Matthews, Vancouver, Mrs J E Planta, Nanaimo, a grandson, Lawrence Matthews is at the front w/McGill contingent in PPCLI. All children of Mrs Lawrence are n/o Victoria. B 089 E 38

Died Jan 22, 1916 at Victoria, BC, William Dalby, 76, at one time mayor of Victoria and for 50+ years resident of BC, n/o Richmond Hill, Ontario [Jan 29, 1839]. Aged 22 he left home, and in company with John Grant, resident of Victoria and former mayor, went to California goldfields. Part of the journey was by boat, their passage took them by way of Panama and Aspinwall, where the overland route was taken to San Francisco. Having arrived there, they started out for Santa Cruz, walking there and subsisting for the last day of their journey on a loaf of bread and a watermelon. Here, Mr Dalby, who had learned tanning trade, entered a tannery, and soon became foreman; but both he and Grant, hearing of Cariboo gold, left the following year for Victoria, then to Cariboo.

After staying a few months in Cariboo and Cassiar, Dalby returned to Victoria and purchased some land in Metchosin, at the site now occupied by Hon James Dunsmuir's residence at Hatley Park. There he built a small tannery, and subsequently combined it with harness business, and later still shoe mfg, the business then being merged into Belmont Tanning, Boot and Shoe Mfg Co, in which company he remained until it was bought by Ames-Holden Co.

Having left the tannery and shoe business, Mr Dalby entered into partnership with Fred Claxton, and for many years conducted with him one of the best known of Victoria's early real estate firms, Dalby & Claxton. ... mayor 1872-1874. He initiated the scheme which brought Elk Lake water to the city and established a modern water supply. Of the members of his council, only Charles Hayward remains...

VL/Jan 23, 1916, 13 - greetings from trenches - card drawn by Lt S D Ellis, sent to mother Mrs W H Ellis... PC. Mar 21, 5 - Ph/Lt Shirley Duncan Ellis, Royal Engineers, DOW. S/o W H Ellis, Victoria, BC, n/o Victoria, well known, particularly as an athlete. Before joining the army he was making a success as a mining engineer in S America. Born Nov, 1892, educated here. Capt of rugby team, was one of the best 3/4's that ever represented Victoria High... Matriculated at Toronto U, then to Denver school of Mining, Denver. He went then to Rancagua, Chile, engaged in a Guggenheim mine.

In Dec, 1914, he joined London Artists' Rifle Corps and afterwards took a course at a French military school, then gazetted a Lieut in Royal Engineers. Before he left for the firing line he was attached to the Tunnelling Co, with which he served for 6 months at the front. He was 1st sent to Flanders, but was somewhere in France when he was called upon to make the supreme sacrifice. Owing to the fact that his family had received no letters from him for 2 or 3 weeks, it is unknown whether Lieut Ellis had been in particular danger. VL/Apr 21, 5 - photo of late Lt S Duncan Ellis, gallant young Victorian who won Military Cross. S/o Mr & Mrs W H Ellis, Victoria, he did not live long enough to learn that his heroic self-sacrifice had been recognized. ...fortitude he showed to the men under him and the entombed soldiers he was instrumental in rescuing, will send a thrill of pride through his many friends in Victoria. His father has received letters which tell the story of the 1st native-born Victorian to win the Military Cross.

Officer Commanding, 173rd Co, RE writes: Dear Sir... with reference to the death of 2Lt S Duncan Ellis, who was attached to this Co of Royal Engineers... Ellis, who had not been looking very fit for a few days previously, reported 'sick' on 15th instant and was taken to a hospital for officers in Bethune on same day. He was at once operated on for appendicitis, but did not recover from operation, and, gradually sinking, died on 19th instant. Some of his fellow officers saw him daily up to 18th, when he was quite conscious and not in pain.

Mr Ellis was buried on 20th instant with full military honors in Bethune cemetery, the officers, NCO's and men of this Co, under myself, being present. A cross is now being prepared and will be erected by the officers of the company.

...It is hard luck the poor fellow did not live to know that his splendid act of devotion to duty under heavy shell fire Mar 12 had been rewarded. Ellis was a man of splendid qualities - cool and plucky to a degree, and both as an officer and a comrade we all miss him sorely. G A Harrison, Capt, OC, 173rd Co, RE, BEF.

Mar 26 - Hdqts, 1st Div - GOC in C awards Military Cross to 2Lt S D Ellis. Signed E E Calthorp, Lt RE, Adj, 1st Div, RE. His father, Mr Ellis personally received the following letter: 'Dear Mr Ellis - I am writing to express the greatest sympathy with you in the loss of S D Ellis. We all feel that there is an empty chair in mess and that something is missing. He was a great favorite amongst both officers and men and we all miss him very much indeed. There is no doubt that his death was caused by over work and the great strain he underwent during the past fortnight. He was engaged on most difficult and dangerous work in the front line trenches, the success of which was entirely due to his energy and good work. Col Pagan, of Gloucestershire Reg, has recommended him for DSO for his gallant conduct in digging out some of his men under heavy shell fire who were entombed in a dugout. These men all owe their lives to his energy and bravery. I attach a letter from Sgt Gray, of his section, giving an account of his work'. Signed

'Sir - I have the honor to bring to your notice the work of 2Lt Ellis on Mar 12/13. As soon as word reached Mr Ellis that 30 of his men were entombed he at once rushed to the scene. He worked very diligently under a heavy shell fire, which became so intense that we had to cease work till night. We recommenced work at 5:30 pm, and Mr Ellis worked with the men till between 2 and 3am, under probably the heaviest shell fire I have known. During this time we lost one officer KIA and had several men wounded. Mr Ellis worked until almost exhausted, and was ordered for a rest by our section officer. When it became known that the men were being released about 6:30 am, he at once went down the mine, and with the assistance of a non-comm officer, got the whole of the men who were alive to the surface. He also searched the mine and took particulars of the dead who were left behind until night time. On being brought to the surface, Mr Ellis collapsed, and had to be assisted to his dugout under shell and machine gunfire. His diligence, manner and example acted as a great incentive to his men. E Gray, Sgt, 20th Br London Reg, attached 173rd Co RE.'

Ellis, in his last letter, writes to a friend: 'I had a nasty jar yesterday [Mar 9], that has added a year to my youthful numbers.'

In a letter to his mother written Mar 14: 'Just a line to let you know I am still dodging

German shells. I have developed a dive from seeking shell holes and deep parts of trenches that would have made me famous at football. I have had a bit of a rocky time lately, slightly gassed, and anxiety told their tale. Then I ate something that disagreed with me, to add to the pleasant round. However, fine spring days are here at last.' VL/Apr 21, 5 - photo of Lt Shirley Duncan Ellis, Victorian awarded posthumous Military Cross - showed self sacrifice on battlefield. Double/Bird/Feb 1, 1916 - Surviving his wife by only a few hrs, Charles William Ringler Thomson, 55+ yrs res/Victoria died, and during 1860s, 70s a leading figure in the city. Aged 88, n/o Tavistock Pl, London, Eng, b Dec 4, 1827. Educated there he also attended school in Rance, Burgundy, Fra, where he was the only Eng boy among 1,200 Fr boys. He finished his training in Eng and, while still a youth, he took berth on a ship bound for Pacific coast. He arrived c 1859. The ship came around Cape Horn and was driven so far off her course on the way N that it was found necessary to stop at Honolulu. Here he noticed an abundance of mules and when, upon arrival in BC, he found that there was a dearth of both mules and horses, he imported a # from the Hawaiian I and for a short time engaged in 'breaking in' the animals at the old Market Exchange on Fort st. He also shipped a # of mules to Cariboo country, where they were in great demand. When this demand relaxed he sought other means of livelihood and went into the fish business, which he conducted with success for some yrs.

to CA. He married Mrs Matilda Mills Midwinter, Mar 15, 1860, a 50 yr union broken by her death Jan 28, 1916.

They returned to Victoria shortly after their marriage, and soon after he fitted out a barge w/provisions and cattle and made his way up the E coast to N end of Saanich Pen, where he established a small farm, on the site occupied by Mr Downey. He was the pioneer of Saanich farmers, and while he did not stay long in the dist his experience demonstrated that farming could be profitably conducted in that locality.

In 1862 the Victoria Gas Co was incorporated and Mr Thomson was made Sec... interested simultaneously w/BC Loan Co, and upon formation o/Douglas Lk Cattle Co he became 1/3 owner, in partnership w/late Mr J D Graves and Charles Beak.

Title/Died Feb 1, 1916 at Victoria, BC, Helena Mary Agnes O'Connor, n/o Kingdom of Kerry, Ire, aged 60. Last survivor of an historically famous Irish family and only remaining heir to Castle of Carrigafoyle, Co Kerry. Her sister, Miss Honora Mary Josephine Theresa O'Connor, joint heiress to the old estate, died Jun 1915.

N/o Co Kerry, Ire, youngest d/o Hon James and Mary Bouick O'Connor, who claimed to be a lineal descendent on maternal side of Marthus, eldest s/o great King Brian Boru, being d/o High Chief Bouick O'Connor. On father's side, family claims descent from O'Connors of Castle of Carrigafoyle.

Family hx goes back several centuries and is a most interesting one. It is stated that the O'Connors were in possession of the castle for 3,000 yrs by direct descent. According to tradition, the family is descended from Qn of Scotia, wife of one of the Pharaohs of Egypt. [see Jun 1915]

During the reign of Qn Elizabeth [I] the estate was confiscated, but the victors did not hold the land long, and the Qn finally gave back the castle to its ancient holders, HM acknowledging the claims of the O'Connors. It was held by them until James I issued a proclamation abolishing the claim of RC's to large holdings in Ire. Carrigafoyle Castle

Deceased came to Canada at age 5. She resided in Hamilton, ON, until 28 yrs ago [c 1888], when she and her sister set out for W. During the greater portion of her life in Victoria she resided at 231 St James st. She was accomplished in many ways, being skilled in art and handicrafts. Possessor of a rare personality, she won innumerable friends. Brother late John Roderick O'Connor. Survived by niece, Miss Mary Theresa MacGeoghegan, presently in hospital here. Ph/Feb 6, 7. Pallbearers: Charles Hayward, W J Dowler, F C Davie, F J Sehl, H J O'Leary, E Morning. U 055b056 W 49

Feb 13, 15 - On Wed last Helena Mary Agnes O'Connor, last of house of O'Connor, of Castle of Carrifagoyle, was interred in RBC. Her elder sister, Honora Josephine Theresa, predeceased her some 7 mos ago, her remains having been buried on Jul 3, 1914, while those of their brother, late John Roderick O'Connor, were interred there Jun 4, 1903.

It may not have been generally known that for many yrs, in Victoria, there lived in quiet retirement, their niece being their only companion, the 2 elderly ladies whose claim to be the lineal descendants of 1st and greatest King of Ireland was acknowledged by no less a personage than HRH Duke of Connaught when he sent his carriage to convey them to

It is not the purpose of this passing sketch to review in detail or otherwise the historic incidents connected with this illustrious family. The part it played for many centuries in Ire is well known. Rather the writer will dwell upon a few phases of their personality as revealed over the yrs.

No bright familiar Star of Eve ever shone with greater constancy than did the soulful sympathy of the sisters for each other. Honora, the elder, of recent yrs an invalid, it fell to the lot of Helena to minister to her necessities, and later, of the niece to attend the stricken and dying Helena. All subjects interested them, and their judgment of people and events showed a rare intuition and accuracy. Nothing delighted them more than to speak of things of time and sense in their relation to the spiritual and eternal, and their charity exhaled in every look and word.

Feb 25 - Miss Mary Theresa Macgeoghagan moves to Portland, OR home of a cousin Mrs Mary J Johnston. She had resided in Victoria 29 yrs, coming from Hamilton, ON, w/her deceased mother, uncle John R O'Connor and 2 aunts.

Double/Marine/WmHx/Ph/Died Feb 6, 1916 at Victoria, BC, Mrs [Margaret Ann [Murray] Thain, a steadfast friend, and women's benevolent advocate. Aged 77. Through the exercise of her many noble traits of character and her untiring efforts on behalf of Connaught Seamen's Institute, WA to Missions and other institutions. N/o Saint John, NB, she came to BC in 1860 w/uncle, late John Mount Thain. She lived in Victoria for a short time, then to Burrard Inlet for many yrs. Before leaving Victoria she married Capt Murray Thain, who died some yrs ago. When the young couple went to Burrard it was a trackless forest, w/only a sawmill and a few small houses, where they lived until 1907. Upon the death of Capt Thain she came to Victoria to live w/her brother, Capt Oliver G

Harbell.

The late Mrs Thain was popularly and aptly called 'Sailors' Mother.' Ever since the establishment of the Connaught Seamen's Institute 2 ½ yrs ago she took great interest in its progress, and took it upon herself to visit as often as possible any sick sailors who might be quartered in the city's hospitals. Her frequent calls were always welcomed by the sailors, as she invariably took with her some of the cheer and motherly love that immediately commanded affection... Mrs Thain always entertained a strong family affection. Her sister was late Mrs Mary Anderson [see below], and the shock occasioned by her death only a few days ago unquestionably hastened her end. With Capt Harbell is the community's sympathy, as it is also with Mr J R Anderson, on the occasion of their double bereavement. A 071 W 32

V/Died Feb, 1916 at Victoria, BC, James Walton Davis, ex-Sgt-Maj in MP. Aged 62. Not a pioneer of Sidney, but he lived all his life in Canada, and for 27 yrs served w/RNWMP. Born of soldier parents in a barracks where he spent his childhood, he seemed to have grown up with the one idea of being a soldier. As a youth his parents apprenticed him to the carpentering trade, from which he ran away and joined the army as a bugler. He went all through the Riel Rebellion and was one of 1st mem/o the force stn'd in Yukon. He was s/o Crimean vet, who lost his life before seeing his son. His mother married another soldier, and it was from his stepfather that he took the name of Davis, his proper name being James Walton.

A few yrs ago Mr Davis was decorated w/King's medal for long and valued service. Funeral arrangements under direction of deceased's oldtime friend, Guy Walker. Pallbearers: Joseph Brotherton, T B Rigby, P Beecher, J Gordon, A Law, A Kelly, all w/1st Cdn Pioneers, it being the wish of deceased that his bier be borne by men wearing the King's uniform. Among those present was Col J H McIlree, formerly w/RNWMP. L 011 E E

Feb 9, 1916, 7 - Double funeral - Mrs Mary Anderson, wife of James R Anderson, and Mrs Margaret Ann Thain, wife of Capt Murray Thain, took place Feb 8. The caskets were laid side by side and both adorned by a profusion of beautiful floral offerings.

The main aisle of the church was lined by a detachment of sailors, past whom the caskets were borne. Both had been untiring in their efforts on behalf of Seamen's Institute and sick sailors, and for that reason Esquimalt naval forces were represented by a guard of honour, under command of 2 PO's, WO McDonagh and CPO Tribe. Pallbearers for Mrs Thain were: G H Dawson, F J Proctor, E Harvey, J F McIlmoyl, J M Langley, Arthur Langley. For Mrs Anderson: A S Barton, Richard Jones, C C Pemberton, George Gillespie, Gavin H Burns, J O Graham. Attending the funeral: Lieut-Governor Barnard, Honourable W R Ross, A/Premier... Interment took place in RBC at respective family plots. [See individual obits above]

Mar 11, 1916, 5: John and Herbert Hilliers, of Hilliers Crossing, were sworn in yesterday as members of 103rd Bn, VI Timber Wolves, and the narrative of the difficulties they have surmounted and the sacrifices they have made in order to volunteer is of exceptional interest.

Their father came from Devonshire, Eng, 27 years ago, and settled in that section of VI, so that the settlement came to be known after him.
For some years the former has been unable to work and only a short time ago Mrs Hilliers died. Their elder brother joined 72nd Seaforth Highlanders, now in training at Vancouver, for overseas service, and they have been engaged in tilling the soil, raising stock, keeping chickens, etc, for the maintenance of their father, a younger sister and brother, as well as themselves.

This was the situation when

Major Spurgin, 2nd in command of the unit, met them in the course of a recruiting tour some weeks ago. Both John and 'Burt' informed him that they were keen to don the khaki and would do so as soon as they could settle their affairs. In the interval that is what they have been doing. Mr Hilliers and the younger children have been put in good hands, the stock, etc has been sold, and the old homestead is to be rented. With all this business disposed of the 2 young men came to Victoria post haste and yesterday walked in on the recruiting Sgt, Fort st, with the request that they be sworn in without delay.

No time was lost and, when the boys, who are 19 and 18 respectively, came before the medical officer, there was another gratifying surprise. It was found that one of the young men, John, broke the battalion record for chest expansion.

Drummer James has had just as complete an experience and, in one respect, perhaps more thrilling adventures than his brothers. He was lost at Ypres, having got mixed up with the Germans, and it was thought he was POW, but he broke through their lines and, after hiding through the night, rejoined his unit in the morning.

Marine/Died Mar 16, 1916 at Victoria, BC, Capt Thomas Pamphlet, one of the best known pioneer navigators of the Pacific coast. Aged 85, n/o Essex, Eng, b Jan 23, 1836. At age 13 he commenced his long career on the sea. In 1849 he joined Eston Nab as apprentice, and after some yrs of service with this vessel he transferred to a transport ship, which was called into service during Crimean War. The vessel was chartered for the Black Sea, and it was close to the fighting at the time of the bombardment of Odessa, while HMS Tiger, the predecessor of the modern battle-cruiser bearing that name, went down just alongside the ship upon which young Pamphlet was serving. During the fighting at Balaclava, Pamphlet and several of his companions put off in a small boat and paid a visit to the British lines.

Upon his return to Eng, he studied for the Customs service, but being too young to enter, set out on bark Agnes Garland for the Pacific coast. While his 1st intention was simply to spend 18 mos in these waters, he never once returned to Eng, and he never regretted this. He arrived in Victoria in 1856, and in 1857 he obtained a position w/trading schooner Ino. His short career with this vessel served to impress upon his mind the possibilities of trade on this coast, and he purchased schooner Violet, laid down at Pachena by Bamfield & Francis. Soon after he made his purchase, the great excursion to Cariboo goldfields commenced, and Capt Pamphlet turned his vessel to profitable use by engaging in the passenger and freight service from her to the mainland.

In 1859, brig Swiss Boy was captured by Indians and taken to Barkley Snd. HMS Satellite was immediately prepared in Esquimalt hbr to undertake a punitive expedition, and Capt Pamphlet, being well versed in the peculiarities of the coast in Barkley Snd dist, was appointed pilot and interpreter. In this capacity, he performed his duties admirably, and when he returned to Victoria he immediately found a partner in Mr Bolton, in the charter of the famous old vessel Cariboo, which was owned and operated by HBC for many yrs. After a short time he took over schooner Meg Merrilees in partnership with Capt Edward Stamp, pioneer lumber milling industry man in BC. While with that vessel, Capt Pamphlet chose the site for the Alberni saw mills, with which he was connected for many yrs. He was also responsible for naming several bays and inlets along the coast, among them being Dodger Cv, which was called this as a result of his saying to the Capt of HMS Hecate; 'This is a fine place to dodge in.'

A short time later he selected the site for sawmills on Burrard. This establishment gradually developed into Hastings Mills of today. He went to sea again in sch Isabel, 1st vessel to be built by Hastings co, and he remained as her master until 1869, when he was made a pilot for ports of Victoria, Nanaimo and Burrard Inlet, in which he continued until 1876.

Some yrs later he became a partner of late Peter McQuade and James Raymur and worked with them on a contract to transport rock from Nelson I, with which to construct a drydock in Esquimalt hbr. Before he retired from active life, he commanded steamers Sir James Douglas, Beaver and Alexandra, all these vessels being exceptionally well known and closely associated with early hx of BC. His last charge was Amelia, which used to run between Victoria and Nanaimo. He retired in 1902, and since then lived w/son, Frederick.

Capt Pamphlet married Mrs Cotsford, wdw/o late Jonathan Cotsford. Mason...

Died Mar 1, 1916 at Sherringham, Eng, James Hill Lawson, formerly of R P Rithet, who only died a few mos ago.

The 2 brothers arrived in Victoria in early 1860s, and William soon afterwards joined BofBNA as gold convoy between Cariboo and Victoria, which entailed his making regular journeys between these 2 points. He subsequently became teller at the local br of the bank, and he held this position until he was appointed 1st agent in San Francisco. Ten yrs later he transferred to NY to act in a similar capacity, and he remained there until his retirement 7 yrs ago.

He revisited Victoria about 1910, renewing acquaintance of his many old friends.

His 1st wife drowned when SS Pacific met her fate in 1876. He subsequently married again, and is survived by a widow and several children, who reside in Eng.

Died April 15, 1916 at Saanichton, BC, George Fern Harrison, 84, who has been engaged in farming in Saanich since 1858. N/o Staffordshire, England. At 26, he left there to seek his fortune in the West, being attracted by California gold mine stories. When Cariboo and Cassiar mining became profitable and thousands of people came to BC, he was among the 1st to come. He was one of few men on the Peninsula to operate farming on a successful basis... Survived by 6 daughters: Mrs Arthur Ferguson, Saanichton; Mrs (Capt) W D Byers, Sidney; Mrs W H Roberts, N Saanich; Misses Nellie, Edith and Irene Ferguson. Photo, Apr 18, 7. St Stephen's. Pallbearers: R Horth, J T Harrison, P Merriman, E R John, D Thompson, J Brethour. April 20, 6 - gave Victoria its water supply in 1858 by operating a plant at Spring Ridge. N/o Cheshire, Eng. He landed at New Orleans and accompanied by a small party, ascended the Mississippi. At that time, Indians were a serious menace to travelers, but the little party succeeded in reaching Salt Lake City, and were treated well by the Mormon inhabitants. He was accompanied by 2 of his brothers, Eli and William, since deceased, and the 3 brothers took up mining on the American River, which they operated for some time. At one time, the claim had to be defended against an attack, and he was wounded. After experiencing many harrowing adventures, he followed the trail to Cariboo, but got no further than Victoria. After working in the water supply business for some years, he sold his property and returned to his former occupation, which was painting. In 1876 he married Miss Mary Porter, d/o late Robert Porter. His wife predeceased him by 15 years.

SVX/Title/Apr 19, 1916, 5 - photo, Pte Louis Vernon Van Guttenberg Lumley, seriously ill. Left Victoria with 88th Fusiliers. Was engaged here as mining engineer for a number of years. His wife resides here, he is a soldier of long career in active service, and is descended from a distinguished military family. S/o late Capt O V G Lumley, late East India Co service, n/o Bromley, Kent, Eng [1871]. His grandfather was Thomas Hood Louis, judge of East India Civil Service, while his great-grandfather was Admiral Sir John Louis, Bart, RN, who commanded HMS Canopus at Battle of Trafalgar. His uncles, Lieut-Colonel Sir John Louis and Capt Thomas Lumley Louis, served with East Indian forces in India and were through the Indian Mutiny. He is cousin of present General Sir Charles Louis and cousin of Sir John Strachy, KCS. Another cousin is Earl of Scarborough and Lord Saville.

Pte Lumley entered upon his eventful military career as Trooper in Cape Mounted Rifles, serving from 1890 to 1892. He transferred into East India Police service and became inspector in 1892, under Sir Charles Crothwaite. He was Lieut of Sikh Contingent in British Central Africa, under Sir Harry Johnstone, and went through the Matabeleland Rebellion under Capt John Sprechley. In the Boer War he served under Sir Robert Baden Powell, Lord Edward Cecil and Major Godley, and he was through Siege of Mafeking with late Brig-Gen Charles Fitz-Clarence, VC. He was also for some time in S African constabulary. In 1903 he was appointed Supt of Asiatics and JP for Johannesburg, under Sir Godfrey Langden... After the revolt had been suppressed, the attraction of western Canada appealed to him, and he came to Victoria, subsequently joining RCE, stn'd at Work Point Barracks. He joined 88th upon their formation.

Died May 1, 1916 at Victoria, BC, Alexander McArthur, aged 81. Although he spent nrlly 50 yrs in Cariboo country, where his name is remembered by all old-timers of the dist, he usually passed the winter in Victoria, and he had a wide circle of friends here. N/o Auchnagat, Aberdeenshire, Sct, educated there. He left Glasgow for Canada in Mar, 1857, and after a long voyage, he went to settle in Ottawa. He lived there for a few yrs until gold in paying quantities was discovered in Cariboo. He answered the call in 1862 and took his departure from NY on a vessel bound for Panama. He came to Victoria via San Francisco and before being allowed to enter the city his steamer was detained at Esquimalt for 3 wks owing to a case of smallpox on board.

He lingered only a short time on the Island before hastening on to the Interior of BC, and he made his way on foot to Cariboo by the old trail along Fraser Rv. He bought a small claim and operated it for 30 yrs, at the end of which he sold all his property and went to Barkerville, where he engaged

Owing to the intense cold and privations which had to be undergone each winter in the early days, because of inadequate protection from the elements and lack of transportation facilities, he made a practice of coming to Victoria as soon as the cold wx set in.

He retired from active business 18 yrs ago and left Cariboo permanently, deciding to make his home in Lillooet, where he stayed 8 yrs before moving to the Coast. He lived in Vancouver 4 yrs, and finally made Victoria his choice, coming here to live the remainder of his days.

Possessing a cheerful and generally attractive personality, he retained to the very last the friendship of all he came into contact. Survived by 2 brothers, 1 sister: William, James, Victoria and Miss Elizabeth, Edinburgh, Sct. Ph/May 3, 7. Pallbearers: Kelly, W Christie, Sullivan, A Potts, W H Harris, D Grieves. N 054 E S

Died May 7, 1916 at Victoria, BC, Henry Waller, resident of Victoria since 1864, aged 80. N/o Dartford, Kent, Eng, b Dec 19, 1835. He received only scanty education while in Eng, gaining his knowledge by experience and hard work alone. He entered the shell-making service at Woolwich Arsenal at an early age and continued there until aged 16, when he left Eng for Canada. The ship was driven from her course, and he finally disembarked at NY, later working his way to ON, where he was employed in farming for a short time.

He moved to Cincinnati, OH, and in 1861, when the Civil War broke out, efforts were made to enroll him in the army of N. Being a British subject he was not forced to take up arms, and a short time later he was attracted by news of the fabulous wealth of California, and set out for W gold mines on the old N Pacific RR. He remained in CA only a short time, and left there for Cariboo in 1864. When he arrived in Victoria he decided to stay here and entered the employ of Daniel Cleal in his Government st restaurant as

mgr. The fact that he had a married sister, Mrs Jesse Mason, residing here, induced him to abandon the prospect of going to the mines, and he made up his mind to live here permanently.

When Mr Cleal's restaurant was destroyed by fire 50 years ago, Mr Waller went into the confectionery business, and opened up an establishment on Fort st, now Clay's confectionery. He had this for 15 years, then sold to Redgrave & Ella.

He went to Montreal for 7 years, but returned to Victoria, and in 1889 opened up another confectionery in OddFellows Block, spending 9 years there. About 1900 he retired to a Carey rd farm, going to Cumberland in 1901, where he conducted a general store in partnership with Mr Partridge. He returned to Victoria in 1903 to reside with son, Mr E F Waller. He married Miss Jane Harriett Ellis, who died in 1905, niece of late Mrs Thomas Earle. Survived by 3 sons: Charles Henry, Ernest Featherstone, Frederick William, and niece, Mrs Robert Jameson, whose husband is with 88th Bn, Victoria Fusiliers. Pallbearers: Walter Walker, E E Leason, Munro Miller, Beaumont Boggs, A H Porter, Capt Charles Harris. P 105 E G

His 1st year in service was spent with Lancashire Fusiliers, it being a special stipulation that all cavalry officers in Imperial force must serve their 1st year in a line Regt. Mr Boggs, after finishing that year, became attached to 14th Hussars, subsequently to 29th Indian Lancers.

When war broke out, a large detachment of 29th Lancers were sent to front in France with 1st Indian Contingent. Boggs, however, was chosen to remain in India to help in recruiting the Regt to full strength and train new troops. In Dec he was sent to France to command a draft of Indian troops... V/May 14, 1916, 5: photo, Lt Alfred Nelson King, RFA, KIA. Won Rhodes scholarship for BC in 1912, educated at Victoria. He was one of the best known members of the younger element of this city and had a future before him of undoubted promise. His death has occasioned general and profound sorrow.

He left here shortly after being named Rhodes scholar to complete his education at Oxford University. While in England he joined the University Squadron of the King Edward's Horse. When war broke out he was encamped with that unit on the Earl of Clarendon's estate near Watford. The squadron was shortly afterwards called upon to supply a large quota of officers for the overseas battalions, and King offered his services. He obtained a commission as 2Lt, 9th Div, 53rd Brigade, Royal Field Artillery, later promoted to full Lt on the death of one of his chums, Lieut Macrosty, who had been in command of the platoon.

King crossed the Channel on May 10, 1915, and it was by a strange coincidence that he was killed exactly one year after that date. Particulars regarding the conditions under which the young officer met his death are lacking. The cablegram announcing the sad news to his relatives here made the simple statement that he had been killed on May 10, besides conveying Earl Kitchener's sympathy.

Born 1889 at Moodyville, he lived there until 1897. S/o late Alfred N C King, at one time paymaster in Her Majesty's Royal Navy, who came to BC coast on ship Daring. His grandfather was late Capt J N King, whose godfather was Lord Nelson.

He received his early education at the old Moodyville School, at the Dawson School, Vancouver, and when he accompanied his family to Victoria on the death of his father in 1899, at the Central School. He manifested a spirit of manly independence early in his career. At age 12 he became a carrier for Colonist [Spring Ridge] and Times.

His record at the Central and High Schools was noteworthy. In the High School junior grade examinations King stood not only 1st in his own school, but for the entire province. At the McGill matriculation examinations he headed the list of BC students and came 3rd in all Canada. The following year, as a student at McGill, he won a scholarship of $250 for two years as an award in competitive examinations. In his 1st two years he carried away 1st class honours, while in the 3rd and 4th years he took the honours course in classics and graduated in 1911 with 2nd class honours. He likewise captured the Henry Chapman medal, which reflected signal honour upon his native province.

When he returned to Victoria upon the completion of his course at McGill he became a member of the teaching staff at the Central School, where he remained until learning of his nomination as the Rhodes scholar.

He had been at Oxford University for two years when he joined the forces. Had it not been for the war he would be returning to Victoria this year. To his family the heartfelt sympathy of the community will be extended.

He took a keen interest in all outdoor sports, devoting his energies mainly to running, his affiliations in this respect being with the YMCA, of which he was a member. He was also a member the the 5th Regiment, CGA.

studying nursing, while another, Sibyl, is at Normal school. His brother, Cecil Nelson King, is engaged at Terry's Drug store. [Jessie enlisted April 28, 1917, Victoria]

May 27, 1916 - Funeral of Giovanni Baptist Ordano will take place tomorrow at St Peter's, Quamichan. May 28, 7 - was early settler at Cowichan bay. N/o Genoa, Ita, aged 78. He came to this continent in early 1850s. He made the overland journey across to CA in 1856, taking passage on a pack train. He did not remain long there, but started for VI almost as soon as he reached Pacific coast. He reached Victoria, and despite the wildness which was before him he struck out towards the N, and finally reached Cowichan Bay, where he constructed a rude shack. Attracted by its fertile soil, a # of settlers began to assemble around the Bay, and he undertook to supply the little settlement with provisions. He started a small store... He soon est a branch at San Juan I, which he operated until recent yrs. While engaged in bldg up his business there he spent some time on the I, and during the historical dispute was taken prisoner by American garrison, and imprisoned for several wks, being released after the final settlement had been brought about. Survived by 8 daughters, 7 sons. He owned hundreds of acres in Cowichan, and considerable property in Victoria, both in downtown and in vicinity of Ross Bay. Died May 12, John Baily, then his wife, May 15, 1916 at Glastonbury, Somerset, Eng. Late Mr Baily came to Victoria, via Isthmus of Panama, in 1862 and subsequently took up land at Comox, engaging there in farming for some time. This land he held til the day of his death. He returned to Eng some yrs ago and married, there being 1 son, 2 daughters, one of latter being Mrs S S Gardiner, Everett, WA. He was well known to all BC pioneers, and when visited in 1911 by Mr J R Anderson, of Victoria, he was urged to return to BC to see his property. He said, however, that a higher power willed otherwise, and he remained in Eng until his death. During Mr Anderson's visit, Mr Baily recounted to him many of his experiences in BC as it was 50 or more yrs ago, how he shovelled coal at Esquimalt, and how he travelled to Comox by canoe with some other early settlers who were in fear and trembling of the natives.

Died June 17, 1916 at Oak Bay, BC, William Humphrey, 81. First came to Victoria in 1858. N/o Orkney Islands [1835], came to Canada with one of his brothers at age 12. After living in Simcoe, Ontario for some time he was attracted to the west by news of gold discoveries in BC. He heeded the call in 1858 and it was in that year that he passed through Victoria. He was engaged in mining along Fraser River until 1860, making his headquarters 1st at Hope, then at Yale. When the Cariboo country became the centre of goldmining activity he went there and became associated with Mr Barnard, father of Lieut-Governor Barnard's BX Co, which, at that time, was a firmly established institution and handled most of the transportation business between the Coast and interior. He remained with the company for several years and occupied positions of great trust while in that employment, and supervised the shipment of many millions in gold.

After leaving the Cariboo he joined a prospecting party which made an expedition into country lying E of Hazelton. It was this party which discovered the Omineca or Peace River mines, and such profitable returns did they give that he decided to mine there for some yrs. In 1872 he was engaged by BC govt to head a party into the densely forested lands between Hazelton and Cassiar where gold had been discovered and build a trail, over which beef cattle and pack trains could be driven. When he had finished the road he staked out a mine in the new territory and prospected for some 5 or more yrs. Going to McDame Ck, he entered into partnership w/ex-Alderman Grant, of Vancouver, in a general merchandise business, under name of Humphrey & Grant. In 1882 he went to Wrangel where he operated a store in partnership w/Mr Taylor. For many yrs it was a success, sold out to Reid & Sylvester, and Mr Humphrey returned to Victoria to live, where he took a keen interest in public life of Victoria. He served as alderman under Mayors Redfern and Teague.... His widow resides at Oak Bay, and brothers at ON and SK. Pallbearers: William Marchant, I U Conyers, Walter Walker, W H Dempster, Walter Anderson, J G Brown. P 098 W Q

JwHx/Jul 1, 1916 - In conversation the other day some inference was made to Fred Landsberg of Empire Realty Co, Victoria, and I was asked if he was of German origin. This question surprised me, and I have since thought it possible that many people may have had the same idea, and that it may be working an injury to Mr Landsberg. The fact is that he is a Russian by birth. His parents were Russian people of the Hebrew faith, living at Berditchew, in Kiev, Russia. I was friendly with his family and visited at their home very often. They were people of the most estimable character, and all the children, of whom only 2 others are res/America, are absolutely loyal to the cause of Russia and their Allies. The Russian family name, which is of great difficulty in translating into English, would be spelt like Leschak, but no doubt out here is for convenience called Landsberg. Signed Mrs B Albhouse.

N/o Yale, BC [Jul 20, 1886] Jul 29, 6 - Being privileged often to visit Pte Irwin, CMR at Jubilee hosp, one would like to voice an appreciation of that splendid young fellow. We all feel he has given his life for his country just as truly as our men at the front. His disappointment at being left behind, his keenness to re-enlist, expressed even the day before his death, coupled with his patriotism and eagerness to fight for our Empire, even when suffering from his most distressing illness, show the metal of which he was made. May his death induce us all to do something more for our soldiers who, afflicted as he was, are deprived of the chance of going overseas. Aug 5, 1916, 1 - died Aug 4, 1916 at Victoria, BC, William James Roper, a pioneer of Upper Country. N/o Sherborne, Dorsetshire, Eng, b 1840, educated there, subsequently accepting an office in Royal E India Co service. This he left when the gold rush commenced in the Cariboo, and he made his way to this coast around the Horn, in company with a large # of people who became res/Victoria. He landed here in 1862. He did not linger long in Victoria, however, but continued on his way to the Interior, where the gold discoveries were attracting such wide attention. He set out from Ft Yale to Cariboo in a mule pack train, with 8 mules abreast. After many yrs spent in Cariboo mining community, he decided to go into stock raising, and, with a 150# pack on his back, he walked 100's of miles in search of a suitable location. He eventually cast his lot at Cherry Ck, Thompson Valley, before the CPR, and continued to acquire land and stock until he became known as 'The Cattle King', and the largest private rancher in BC. He carried on cattle-raising to such an extent that at one time he possessed lands, either leased or freehold, extending over 40 or 50,000 ac, with 5 or 6,000 head of cattle grazing on it. The main hdqts were situated at Cherry Ck, on S side of Thompson, c 13 mi W of Kamloops, while others were at Mappercombe, nr Tranquille. Before the Thompson Rv was crossed by bridges, he often had to ford the water on horseback... PC. Died Aug 11, 1916 at San Diego, CA, Rev James Turner, pioneer BC missionary. N/o Ire, he came to Canada in late 1860's for Methodist ministry. A yr or so after he came to Pacific coast and was ordained in 1873 at New Westminster. He was for some time in charge of missionary work on Burrard Inlet. It was in the Cariboo goldfield regions that Turner became best known and his work among the miners gained for him a wide reputation. To all familiar with early days of Kootenay camps his death will stir many memories. With hdqts in Nicola Valley he made trips to Cariboo...Was in Kootenay at time of silver boom, and passed through depression of 1893, he spent some time in Victoria and then returned to the upper country, being later summoned to Klondike. He tramped the trail, and in 1898 took his sled with his own provisions over the ice and snow, 100's of miles. The hardship of that journey seemed to have proved his undoing and he never totally recovered. He went to Vancouver, where he lived at the Chinese Mission until forced to go to CA for his health.

Bldg/Died Aug 24, 1916 at Victoria, BC, Mrs Theresa Jane Despard Pemberton, rlct/o late Mr J D Pemberton, aged 74, b Dec 25, 1842, nee Grautoff. She married Mr Pemberton on Jan 2, 1864, aged 22. He was at that time Surveyor-General of Vancouver Island [VI], and was on a short leave of absence in Eng. They left immediately for VI, coming via Panama. The last part of the long voyage was accomplished on a side-wheel steamer, and while examining the paddle-wheel Pemberton almost lost his life. The sea through which the vessel laboured up the Coast was exceptionally rough, so that the trip could hardly be designated as uneventful. It gave Mrs Pemberton her 1st experience of the difficulties that would be experienced in the new world where she had elected to make her home. Mr Pemberton had been in BC some years before his return to Eng, having 1st left his home to accept the surveyor-generalship in 1851. He was sent to VI by HBC. One of the 1st surveying expeditions he was sent upon was one to Saanich, where coal was supposed to have been discovered. The journey was made in an Indian canoe in company with 5 French-Canadians who acted as guides. The mine was found to contain only lignite. While in office Mr Pemberton designed the Race Rocks and Fisguard lighthouses. In 1887, with his son, F B Pemberton, he founded Pemberton & Son, which has ever since been recognized as one of the leading real estate and insurance concerns in BC... he built the 1st schoolhouse in Victoria.... photo. Aug 25, 1916 - Late Hon Edgar Dewdney was 1st Civil Engineer to enter and actively participate in development of Cariboo country. James Cumming, an old Cariboo miner, who was 'Cariboo' Cameron's foreman on the old Cameron and Wattie claims in early days, writes to Colonist: 'The 1st 3 yrs in Cariboo, Dewdney was a very busy man, working day and night, making surveys by day and arranging his plans regarding claims and leases by night. We had to be very careful those days about the boundaries. Ground on Williams Ck was worth $1,000/ft, and some more.

'Dewdney was 1 of 15 miners that located the 'Minnie' on Mosquito Ck. It has been a wonderful claim. A great deal of gold has come out of it, and they have been working the lease every yr since it was located in 1867. John Hopp owns the ground now.

'About that time Dewdney located a ranch nr Soda Ck and put up a house, making some improvements on the property before he left, which was not long after. Farming in BC was far too slow for him in those days.'

Died Sep 24, 1916 at Victoria, BC, Isaac Walsh, aged 85, n/o Adare, Limerick, Ire, res/Victoria for 54 yrs. Was for some time employed in Co Tipperary before he left for W. While there he married Mary, s/o Isaac Sandwith, who now resides at Friday Hbr, San Juan I. Learning of the wealth of BC gold mines and realizing the opportunities that the colony offered young, enterprising men, he set out for BC on Jun 12, 1862. It was a long and tedious voyage to Victoria and the vessel reached here finally Dec 10, the passengers were by no means sorry.

When he arrived here it boasted of only a few unpretentious houses and its population was transient, chiefly made up of miners on their way to and from interior mines. Mr Walsh, however, was content to cast his lot with Victoria, and, after waiting until the erection of a house for his occupation, he settled down and lived here ever since, never regretting his choice of res. He was employed for some time in Albion Iron Works foundry, and when he left there he purchased a team and dray and started a draying business which was ultimately successful. He had been interested in the business for 45 yrs.

He was active in lodge and church circles... Deceased leaves 3 sons, 5 daughters, all res/Victoria, except 1 son, W H Walsh, Vancouver. Ph/Sep 27, 7 - Pallbearers: G J Grimason, W J Clark, H Donald [Orangemen], F E Wescott, J H Baker, A Lee. G 059b060 E 17

VX/Sep 28, 1916, 5 - Posthumous award of Victoria Cross made to ? Wilkinson... Came to Victoria 1912. PC. VL/Sep 29, 5 - photo letters from officers of high rank - I am proud to say he has been recommended for VC and enclose you a copy of the report I received about him... 'Later on in the same day he left his trench to try and bring in a wounded man who was lying some 40 yds away. Just as he reached the wounded man he was shot in the heart, and a Co Sgt-Maj who was with him and just behind carried him to a shell hole close by, but found death had been instantaneous. He was buried that evening close by where he had fallen and where earlier that day he had done so well... The Co Sgt-Maj who was with him has since been killed... Wilkinson was w/N Lancashires nr La Boisselle... On the advance being checked

Wilkinson forced his way to the front and found men of 4 or 5 different units held up by a solid block of earth over which the enemy was throwing bombs. The trench was narrow and deep, and the situation critical. He, with great courage and presence of mind, got a Lewis machine gun into position on the top of the parapet and dispersed the enemy bombers. He also rendered most valuable service in assisting to cover the retreat of a # of wounded men and of others carrying bombs, stores, etc. He carried out his part with the utmost coolness and fortitude. It was only a few hrs later that he was KIA in the attempt to rescue a wounded man. Lt Wilkinson has a brother on active service, although not overseas yet... Ph/Oct 6, 10...
